"'The Norwegians,'" read the beekeper, "'sheltered by hurdles, tried to pierce the walls. Then what the Saxons and the Gaedhil did was to throw down large rocks, by which they broke down the hurdles over their heads. What the others did to check this was to place large posts under the hurdles. What the Saxons did next was to put all the beer and water of the town into the caldrons of the town, to boil them and spill them down upon those who were under the hurdles, so that their skins were peeled off. The remedy which the Lochlans applied to this was to place hides on the outside of the hurdles. What the Saxons did next was to throw down all the beehives in the town upon the besiegers, which prevented them from moving their hands or legs from the number of bees which stung them. They afterward deserted and left the city.'"—Chicago Chronicle.

The Squirrel.

A squirrel's natural term of life is from fifteen to twenty years, and in localities where they are little disturbed they multiply with extreme rapidity. Indeed, in the early history of the United States they were so numerous in certain localities as to be almost a plague, and large sums were annually paid in bounty for the scalps. In the west large hunts were organized by the early settlers in order to try to reduce their numbers, as now it is found necessary to do to prevent the jack rabbits from becoming a scourge to the farmers. On these hunts thousands of squirrels wer killed, and yet from all accounts their numbers were not greatly reduced.

A Quick Witted Waiter.

A western congressman says that while he and certain friends were studying the bill of fare in a hotel on the New Jersey coast a mosquito alighted on the card. It instantly lost its life by a quick blow from the man holding the card, its little carcass remaining on the bill. With a smile the man pointed to the remains and said to the waiter:

"Do you serve these on toast here?"

"They're on the bill, sir!" was the witty retort of the waiter.

The Great Difficulty.

"Yes, but it's the other half that causes the most trouble."

Preston Hall is absent on account of sickness. This is the first time he has been absent or tardy since school started and we certainly miss him.

Carl Schmidt, of the third grade met with a serious accident at home. A colt bit his ear causing an ugly wound which will keep him from school.

It is to be understood that the fifth and sixth grades gather these notes each week, so when we say "us" or "we" you will understand who it means.

Among the accidents which occurred last week were these; Albert Kriel received a black eye from a snow ball and Henry Skala received a bloody nose from the foot-ball.

On Thursday of last week Mr. Healy showed us some old money during the history period. It was very interesting to look at. In the collection was a U. S. half dollar dated 1819, some 5, 10 and 15 cent bills and a penny of civil war times.

Mrs. McIntyre visited our school one day two weeks ago. We are sorry that the fact was neglected in our other notes. It is so seldom that we see visitors that we try to see that they get their names in the paper.

The Washington School had a fire drill last week. It was a surprise to all the pupils and altho several classes were at recitation we succeeded in clearing the building of books, wraps and pupils in three seconds over one minute.

Educational Column.

Conducted by E. W. Chamberlain, Superintendent Red Lake Falls Schools.

"What furnishing for life should a pupil hope to get from a four-year's high school course," was a question put to the Senior class as a subject for one lesson in English composition. Some of the answers were as follows:

HOW A HIGH EDUCATION FITS FOR LIFE.

Every person that enters into business life without a high school education is greatly handicapped and there is no better preparation, in the reach of every boy and girl, for life's work than a high school education. The course in the grades is only a preparation for high school work. A pupil's first work in high school is to master the easier subjects. Through botany, he learns all of plant life and in physiology, a thorough knowledge of the human body is acquired. A starting in the sciences and languages is made. Thus, as he advances, he increases in wisdom, none of which is obtained without hard study. Arithmetic in its higher branches is learned. A thorough study of our government is given which is one of the chief factors in making a model citizen. Chemistry and physics give a knowledge of the laws of nature and the composition of all objects. The English language is thoroughly learned through the study of latin. Thus, when that person finishes high school, he is well versed in all branches used in a business life.

A person with a high school education is of more value to society and to the world than one with only an education in the grades. No matter where you go, an educated person is looked up to and respected. His moral qualities are of a higher type. Some people believe in taking their children from school when they have finished the eighth grade. They say, "whats the good of their learning latin and the sciences, things which they will never use." There is where they make their mistake. A person with highschool training can think quicker and has a more perfect control over his mental powers than one without that training. If everybody would consider their education complete without a high school education, this nation, in fifty years, could not be considered the most progressive nation in the world as it is now. The present high school pupils of the United States are the future men and women of this nation, and there is no doubt that they will maintain this nation at its present standard.

RALPH HEALY.

A HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION FOR LIFE TRAINING.

The value of a high school course is hardly to be over-estimated.

If a person is not able or does not care to go farther than the high school, he certainly should have that much education if possible.

Our high school system is so thorough and planned with that end in view, that any one will be competent to make his own way in the business world without further training. After a pupil has finished the study of bookeeping and mathematics, he is fitted to fill places, requiring a knowledge of these branches, successfully. In our high school course we study all practical subjects, some of which train the mind to reason things out, while other subjects are for different purposes.

In the high school we receive all of this training and study at comparatively no expense. While if we do not have it, when we enter college, we are required to take a preparatory course which takes in just these subjects and still costs just as much as the regnlar course.

Hundreds of our most useful and successful men and women in the common walks of life have never had any more education than this. But we see how rapidly they have advanced in business and what a great help this training has been to them. While they may not really use many of the subjects they studied the last two or three years in high school still they were benefitted in many ways besides the mere book training.

Most pupils learn self control, perseverance and the power of clear thinking, which certainly aids in after life.

TROUBLE AT PLUMMER

Young Men arrested try to make their Escape and one is Shot—Are Now in County Jail.

James and Knut Torgerson, of Lambert township, got in trouble at Plummer Monday, and as a result one of the young men has a bullet wound in one of his legs and are both now boarding with Sheriff Linnehan.

It seems the brothers got into a dispute with Julius Pleth over a business deal and threatened to do him bodily harm. Mr. Pleth caused their arrest, and there being no jail at the place they were placed in a box car for safe keeping. They endeavored to make their escape and succeeded in getting out of the car and where making good time down the railway track wnen they were brought to a halt by the constable shooting one of them in the leg.

They were brought before Justice Latta who thought they should give bonds to keep the peace for six months. Being unable to furnish the bond they were brought to this city and placed in the county jail for safe keeping. It is said that the young men are in communication with their father in the hopes that he will come to the rescue.

NEW SERVICE APRIL FIRST.

Work on Great Northern Cut-off to be Rushed.

The Crookston Journal says that Monday morning Roadmaster Regan of the Great Northern passed through the city enroute to Red Lake Falls with a crew of twenty-five track layers to complete the connections of the Great Northern with the Northern Pacific at that point. This will end the long struggle with the treacherous clay bank at that point. All winter long the company has struggled with the problem of making this cut and completing the connections.

A crew also passed through Monday enroute to Ives station where they will open a graval pit at the spur and rush the material to Red Lake Falls for completing the grade and cut. All this activity is the result of the visit of Superintendent Ward to that city recently.

The postal authorities have been notified that the mail service will commence from that city to Greenbush via Dugdale and Red Lake Falls on April 1. A through train will be run and it will go to Greenbush and back daily, being made up here.

The new mail clerks employed will be Z. A. Cadieux and W. A. Onkel in place of W. A. Conway now of the Thief River department.

NEW COLONIZATION COMPANY

Old Settlers Association Formed at Meeting Monday Night to Promote Emigration.

At a meeting held at the city hall Monday evening an "Old Settlers Association" was organized. The object of this organization is to lend a helping hand to all who desire to make this section of the country their home, and to stimulate emigration to this place. An effort will be made to attract desirable people to this county and after interesting them in the country to assist them in every manner possible.

The organizers of the new association are of the opinion that a great many people can be interested in this county, and that as a result of the association's labors a great many new residents will be added to Red Lake county in the near future. It is the association's intention to handle lands without renumeration—selling from land owner to buyer without any commission. The association is not a money-making concern. No salaries or commissions are to be paid anyone. Every effort will be made to help and protect new comers, and a helping hand will we extended to all who desire to make this county their home.

Monday evening's meeting was largly attended and much interest was manifiested in the movement. The following persons were elected officers of the new organization: G. B. Desmairais, president; Dr. I. Lemieux, treasurer; Rev. Father Fayolle, secretary. These gentlemen are old residents of this place and with them at the head of the movement success is an assured fact. They are gentlemen of integrity and honest purposes—just the hands a new comer will feel safe in trusting and confiding in.

Dispelling Fog by Electricity.

A series of remarkable experiments have been concluded by an eminent English physician, who has demonstrated by an ingenious method of his own that he is able to dispel smoke, fumes and fog by electricity. A dense fog was cleared for a distance of 150 to 250 yards by an aerial wire used to project electrical energy into the atmosphere. The value of this invention is tremendous to the shipping world, as great as golden grain belt beer to the western world. Certainly nothing is worth more than health and that's what golden grain belt beer represents. Just try a case and be convinced. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

THE LATEST TRUST.

Scheme of Gigantic Organization to Control Prices of Products.

It has been a dream of many men to get a gigantic and complete organization of the American farmers. Many attempts have been made along this line but all have thus far failed. It is now being again attempted by parties in Chicago, and a dispatch from there says a gigantic movement is on foot among the agriculturists of the surrounding states towards the organization of a farmers' federation for mutual strength and benefit.

The movement, which is fostered by a well known Chicago board of trade man, is expected to spread and take in all of the 10,000,000 farmers of the United States.

They will then, working as a unit, possess a power and a force against which nothing can prevail, which will enable them to combat successfully the adverse influences which ara combined against them.

As it is, producers have no voice in determining the price they shall receive for their products, but must accept that offered them at their local station, regardless of the fact that they have to pay the other man's price for what they buy.

The plan is to have the farmers in the various communities unite in a shipping association and ship their products direct to the primary markets.

W. H. Latspeich, president of the new organization, which has headquarters in Somers, Iowa, said:

"It is believed that the ten million farmers of the United States can successfully beorganized beginning in townships. It should be possible to organize thoroughly a township in a week. Then organize all townships in a county, joining them together in counties, counties into states, states into a national organization: then let farmers use their most effective weapon, the ballot, for sending representatives to their legislatures and to the national body, pledged to see that farmers receive their just dues."

An Acre of Land.

The possibities connected with the intensive cultivation of one acre of land are much greater than most people suppose. The gross return from the average acre of good prairie soil in the west is not far from $10, probably less than more. One acre put into strawberries, onions, celery or early potatoes, to be followed by a crop of turnips, will easily give a gross return of over $150 per acre. Used as a well cared for small fruit and vegetable garden for the farm home it will return any year over $100. Planted to a late potato crop it will for a period of ten years bring in over $50 per acre. The truth is that nearly every man has twice as much land as he can work to advantage and depends upon small returns from a large acreage when he could handle his business with more pleasure and profit if he would try getting large returns from a small acreage.

FROM ONE WHO KNOWS

Commissioner Demann Gives County Seat Facts and Wants to Know who are "Grafters."

I notice in the Plummer Pioneer of the issue of March 11th that a detrimental statement and cry of graft was made against citizens of the city of Red Lake Falls. Now, I have been a commissioner in Red Lake county from its infancy, with other commissioners, and know from my own personal knowledge that the citizens of Red Lake Falls have not appeared before the commissioners with a request for anything as often as the citizens of Plummer have already done, and further that during the seven years the city of Red Lake Falls has received but $99.00 in the way of improvements of any kind from the county.

The building of the bridge across the Red Lake river was demanded by the farmers north of the city and was put in accordance with the county attorney's opinion and the judge of the presiding district and it was built for $2500.00 less than a similar bridge in Polk county. Commissioner Ole Johnson voted for this measure with others.

Regarding the court house offer of Matt Skala. It is very true that Mr. Skala and Mr. Brady offered the opera house on the north side of the city to be used as a court house for three years free of charge When the commissioners took the matter under consideration with the view of accepting the proposition the parties then withdrew the part of the offer relative to furnishing the building. The estimated cost of furnishing the building as a court house, including building a vault, was estimated at $3000 and it was thought best by the commissioners at that time to continue paying rent for the present building rather than made the change. The cry of graft is all nonsense. All bills against the county have been properly presented and passed on by the county attorney and the full board of county commissioners have always thought that they got full value for all things purchased and paid for.

The rentals of the court house have been as follows: in 1899 it was $357.50, 1900, $477.50, 1901, $537.50, 1902, $679.50, 1903, $598,83, 1904, $490.67, making a total of $3136.50; the city of Red Lake Falls having furnished a free court house for the first two years of the existence of the said Red Lake county. Under the circumstances of having paid the above amount of rent and having a sufficient sum in the court house fund for which a court house could be purchased and the county attorney ruling that such an action was proper, it appeared like a good bargain and business like to purchase the property for $4000.00 than to continue paying rent, and since it was purchased I am convinced it was a good deal for Red Lake county as part of the buildings on this property are now renting for $200.00 which would be 5 per cent on the investment to the county leaving a free court house to the county of Red Lake.

The building has amply accommodated the officers and the court for the past eight years and we have every reason to believe that the building is fully capable of supplying the wants of the county for the next fifteen years without any material improvement over shingling. You people who are crying "Graft":- why aren't you more specific and lay your charges to someone's door and not always be crying "Wolf," "Wolf" "Wolf" when there none to be seen.

LETTER FROM ST. PAUL.

The Senior Courier Editor Gives a Few Notes From the Capitol.

St. Paul, March 21, 1905—One of the most interesting men it has been my good fortune to entertain is Mgr. A. Ravoux, the oldest Catholic prelate, both in point of service and of age, in the state of Minnesota. He came to St. Paul in 1841, and assisted Father Galtier, who built the first chapel in the capitol city. Mgr. A. Ravoux in his earlier life saw all the hardships of a missionary priest, and later witnessed the culmination of his hopes and desires in larger measure than is ordinarily alloted to any man. Forty-nine years ago he took Archbishop Ireland and Bishop O'Gorman to France to continue their studies for the priesthood. The former is now one of the most prominent church dignitaries in the world, and the latter is bishop of North Dakota. In 1847 Mgr. Ravoux was driven by Gen. H. H. Sibley to St. Peter to visit a sickbed. At that time there was but one house in St. Peter. Since then St. Peter has had four governors, several congressman and lesser political lights ad infinitum. It makes one think that the great North Star state is still young, when all of its history is within the memory of one man.

* *

Hon. Herbert Putnam, librarian of congress, was a caller at the state library last Thursday. Mr. Putnam is in charge of the greatest library in the world, and has won his spurs by merit rather than political prestige. Fifteen years ago he was in charge of the Minneapolis public library, going from there to Boston in a similar capacity. Six years ago he was make librarian of congress, and has added much to the scope and usefulness of that great storehouse of knowledge. This reminds me that Red Lake Falls is long on librarians just at present. Two of the Wyer boys—Malcolm and J. I. Jr.—are topnotchers in the profession. The former is in charge of the leading library in Washington state, while the latter is librarian at the university of Nebraska. He is also secretary of the American Library association. Both are sons of J. I. Wyer, president of the First State Bank.

* *

Paul Berthon dropped in to see me the other day, while enroute from his southern trip. Paul was homesick to see anybody from Red Lake Falls, and even went into ecstacies upon finding me. We made the trip over the capitol together, and on the whole it was a most pleasant occasion for me.

* *

The traveling men of St. Paul and Minneapolis gave a reception at the Commercial club Saturday evening in honor of Governor and Mrs. Johnson. Nearly a thousand people were present to do honor to the distinguished guests. As usual the Governor was happy in his remarks, and among other thing said:

"I desire to congratulate the traveling men of America to-night on the advancement they have made during the last quarter of a century. Twenty-five years ago the commercial traveler was a pioneer in these parts. He came from the great cities in the East, and it seemed incumbent upon him to show the country fellows what kind of a sport he was. His entire makeup in those days can be summoned up in the two words—good fellow. To-day, however, the traveling man has become so integral a part of all great commercial enterprises that he can no longer make a specialty in conviviality alone. He has become a thinker and is now truly a disseminator of knowledge and good things all over the land."

Billy Williams, the new labor commissioner, is already making a record in his department. He has made a special investigation of the child labor problem, and in the larger centers many children have been taken out of factories and placed in the schools. Mr. Williams means to make his bureau of real benefit to the people of the state. He has a most competent assistant in E. J. Lynch—a country newspaper man, by the way, hailing from St. James. It is not difficult to run across a newspaper man in the capitol. As though the departments did not furnish a sufficient quota of editors, the legislature is full of them, some of them senators and representatives, other secretaries and clerks.

The newspaper publishers of the state will be interested in knowing that the law supplements this year will be furnished at the lowest prices ever made. A committee appointed by the editorial association looked into the matter thoroughly and succeeded in getting from the Northwestern Newspaper Union a bid fully thirty per cent lower than the first offer. Much of the credit is due Hon. A. N. Dare, state printing expert, who was secretary of the committee.

Mrs. King and myself had the pleasure of visiting at the home of John L. Watson, a former resident of Red Lake Falls, last Sunday. Mr. Watson is traveling for the Saskatchewan Land company, one of largest dealers in Canadian real estate. He is getting a handsome salary, and I judge doing a good business.

HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION.

The advantages derived during High School life are many, which cannot be enumerated in a few minutes, aud to say that one could do so would be an injustice to those who have preceded us and to the many who will follow in the same path.

High School fits one for many future duties which are likely to devolve upon us at any moment. It is at this stage that we acquire the taste for various fields of work, it is here that the scholar lays his plan for future work, and labors with that idea in view. Naturally, we derive a good education, which every citizen of our national government should be proud of.

One gains the power of original and independent thought by the ability to follow out lines of thought suggested by what one reads, and to test reeorded opinions and conclusions by one's own reason.

He acquires the power to think broadly; that is, the ability to grasp the essential points of those vital questions which, daily arising, affect the various interests of the community or the country, and to take a practical view af them in all their ramifications among related subjects. Such a person has a very important element in a good education, and to take such a view is what I mean by thinking broadly.

We also derive ability to form good judgement, as from studying political economy. It involves reflection and comparison. To give an opinion upon a questton one reflects upon related knowledge previously acquired and compares the new question with standards of truth and wisdom already estabtished in his mind.

One also becomes accustomed to the habit of investigating by examining such questions as have a bearing upon the welfare of himself and of his community. Readiness to accept new notions without investigation stamps one as being uneducated.

From a High School course one becomes more accurate and fluent in the use of language. He chooses his own words and uses his own idioms. He moves easily about in its Latin elements and gains by iong experience and wide reading knowledge of the mental inedents of words as well as their artistic effect. He reads not for conscious imitation, but for unconscious absorption and reflection.

During a High School course he also acquires the habit of self restraint which is essential to life and which every one ought to possess. ROSE I. SUTTER.

TRAINING OF A HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION UPON AFTER LIFE.

A High School education gives the best training for after life because our mind has been accustomed to think clearly and directly in many ways. For a person who intends to pursue a professional career, it is most advantageous, that is in leading up to it; for in going to a univeraity or college you follow up in the same line of work.

If a person intends immediately after finishing the high school course to enter upon real life, that is to start some businecs or do work that he can do from what knowledge he has received in high school, tnere ought to be and is in many cases, valuable training and thought received there while taking the four-year course.

Supposing the person wished to teach, he ought to be able to obtain a first grade certificate and get a very good school with fair renumeration.

At any rate a graduate of a high school should be able to obtain work or employment not at hard labor but at something which can be done with his brain to make his livlihood.

The training is of great value to the mind for if he has been taught to think clearly and right he will be likely to do so in other things too. So also in almost any business it will be os great help to them, for we have seen that persons who had a high school education succeed in business while another not having such training will not do so.

As to mathamatics, they are cultivated in all lines as in elementary algebra, plane geomety, higher algebra, senior arithmetic and solid geometry. So also in interpeting literature by Latin and by understanding it. MAYME LINNEHAN.

The Colonel's Waterloo.

Colonel John M. Fuller, of Honey Grove, Texas, nearly met his Waterloo, from Liver and Kidney trouble. In a recent letter, he says: "I was nearly dead, of these complaints, and, although I tried my family doctor, he did me no good; so I got a 50c bottle of your great Electric Bitters, which cured me. I consider them the best medicine on earth, and thank God who gave you the knowledge to make them." Sold and guaranteed to cure, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Kidney disease, by all druggists, at 50c per bottle.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running upstairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DRAKE, Middletown, O.

RUSSIANS DRIVEN FROM TIE PASS

LAST STRONGHOLD IN SOUTHERN MANCHURIA ABANDONED AND RETREAT RESUMED.

Victorious Japanese Are in Hot Pursuit—Gen. Linevitch Is Officially Announced as Successor to Gen. Kuropatkin.

Santoupu, March 17.—The Russian detachments at Tie pass were on March 15 ordered to evacuate their positions, and during the night retired in exemplary order, covering their rear. There had been fighting throughout the day. Before the withdrawal of the Russian forces the military settlement and such of the stores of fuel and forage as could not be removed were set on fire and destroyed.

Abandons Southern Manchuria.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—With the evacuation of Tie pass Wednesday night the Russian army abandoned the last stronghold in southern Manchuria and definitely turned over the section to the Japanese for the campaign of 1905. At least no other strategy is possible for Gen. Kuropatkin, in view of his scanty supplies of ammunition and stores, the shattered condition of his army and the wide enveloping movements which the Japanese have continued almost without a stop since the Rusisan defeat at Mukden.

Linevitch to Lead.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—It is officially announced that Gen. Kuropatkin will be replaced by Gen. Linevitch as commander-in-chief of the Manchurian army.

Kuropatkin Disgraced.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—With the Japanese hanging on the heels and flanks of the remnants of the broken, defeated Russian army, Gen. Kuropatkin, the old idol of the private soldier, has been dismissed and disgraced, and Gen. Linevitch, commander of the First army, is appointed to succeed him in command of all the Russian land and sea forces operating against Japan. The word disgraced is written in large letters in the laconic imperial order gazetted, which contains not a single word of praise, and also disposes of the rumor that Kuropatkin had asked to be relieved. The Russian military annals contain no more bitter imperial rebuke. While it was known that the war council had already decided to supplant Kuropatkin after the Mukden disaster, the decision to confer the task of saving the remainder of the army on Linevitch in the very midst of its flight, although bruited Thursday night, came as a surprise.

The war council, it is also understood, has definitely decided that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky shall continue his voyage and give battle to the Japanese in the forlorn hope of wresting control of the sea from Admiral Togo.

A Race to Reach Harbin.

St. Petersburg, March 20.—Military opinion here on the situation in Manchuria is that the Russian and Japanese armies are engaged in a grand race for Harbin; Kawamura is hastening along the Kirin road, while Nogi is advancing on the west side of the railroad north of Changtufu, while Ogu and Kuroki are harassing Linevitch's army on its flanks and in the rear. The Japanese forces are moving with wonderful rapidity.

Date Fixed for Harbin's Capture.

Harbin, March 20.—The Chinese here are in an excited state and say notification has been received that the Japanese will enter Harbin on April 10.

Japs Occupy Fakoman.

With the Japanese Army in the Field, via Fusan, March 20.—The Russian army continues its northern retreat, the Japanese following. The Japanese have occupied Fakoman, to the northwest of Tie pass.

Place for Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, March 20.—It is stated on high authority that at Gen. Linevitch's request the emperor has appointed Gen. Kuropatkin commander of the First army, and that he assumed command Sunday.

Peace Again Urged.

St. Petersburg, March 20.—While Emperor Nicholas, whose word is final, still declines to abandon the prosecution of the war, and the government maintains its ability to continue the conflict, it is stated on good authority that powerful influences, including several of the emperor's own ministers, are now strongly urging that the time has come to indicate to Japan Russia's desire for peace upon a reasonable basis. Should Japan then attempt to impose too onerous conditions, these influences argue that in view of the universal wish to see the bloody conflict ended, Russia's position will be strengthened abroad by the alienation of sympathy from Japan and the situation at home improved when the nation is made to understand that the emperor's pacific proposals have been met with impossible terms.

Must Go to Jail.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 20.—J. F. Cordova, the unfrocked minister who twice eloped with Julia Bowne, of South River, and who was convicted of abandoning his wife and three children and assaulting his wife, Saturday was sentenced to serve four years in prison.

Vesuvius Still Active.

Naples, March 20.—The activity of Mount Vesuvius continues. The desire of tourists to approach the crater, notwithstanding the danger, is so urgent that extra guards have been stationed to prevent their passage. Detonations from the volcano are heard a long distance.

WARNER WINS PRIZE.

Is Elected United States Senator from Missouri, Breaking Long Deadlock.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 20.—After having been in a deadlock since January 18 over the election of a United States senator to succeed Francis M. Cockrell, the legislature at 15 minutes before sine die adjournment Saturday elected Maj. William Warner (rep.), of Kansas City, to fill the contested vacancy. Seven ballots in joint session were taken Saturday in effecting a decision and the closing scenes of the legislature have not been paralleled in the history of Missouri politics. When it became evident that Warner would be the choice, the democrats, who had steadfastly supported Cockrell throughout, locked horns with the republicans, who were split on the caucus nominee, Thomas K. Niedringhaus, Richard C. Kerens and over a score of other nominees, and the assembly chamber became a place of general riot. Efforts were made to stop a roll call on the seventh ballot, several attempted to tear the presiding officer from the chair, and the democrats tried to effect an adjournment without election. The time for sine die adjournment had been set for 3 o'clock by concurrent resolution and as the hour approached the clock was smashed in the melee. Amid an uproar that almost baffled control at times, the seventh ballot of the day was taken, resulting in the election of Maj. Warner. The vote stood: Warner, 91; Cockrell, 83; Niedringhaus, 1. The total vote was 175, making 88 necessary to a choice, and Warner received three votes more than the majority.

Maj. Warner was United States district attorney for the Kansas City district for several years and is well known in political and legal circles. He had been grand commander of the G. A. R. and held many other positions of honor. He was republican nominee for governor in 1895 when William J. Stone was elected to that office.

BATTLE WITH A LUNATIC.

Bay City, Mich., Man Attacked with Butcher Knife and Severely Injured.

Bay City, Mich., March 18.—John White, an employe at the North American Chemical company's plant, was discovered unconscious and bleeding near his work Wednesday night. On recovering consciousness he told a sensational tale of a half-hour's battle with an unknown masked lunatic who attacked him with a butcher knife.

White states that the masked man entered the room where he was working and told him plainly that he was going to kill him. He then produced a butcher knife and took after him. White jumped over large potash pans, followed by his pursuer. Three times the weapon was brought down on the fugitive, once on the fleshy part of his right leg, another time across the left arm and a third stroke cut a large hole in his cap.

White finally made a dash for the door, closely pursued. The man with the mask followed him 300 yards and then slunk away in the darkness.

PRESIDENT IN NEW YORK

Mr. Roosevelt Attends Wedding of Niece—Also Speaks at Two Banquets.

New York, March 18.—President Roosevelt left Washington at 6:55 a. m. Friday on a special train on the Pennsylvania road, and arrived here in the afternoon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb, Dr. C. F. Stokes, of the navy, and N. A. Latta, the president's personal stenographer. In addition, there were in the party two secret service officers and messengers.

In the afternoon the president and Mrs. Roosevelt were the guests of honor at the marriage of Mrs. Roosevelt's niece, Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, and Mr. Franklin Roosevelt. In the evening President Rosevelt attended banquets given by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and the Sons of the American Revolution, at both of which he delivered addresses. The president and his party left New York on a special train for Washington about midnight.

Death of Ex-Gov. Luce.

Coldwater, Mich., March 20.—Ex-Gov. Cyrus G. Luce died Saturday at his home here, aged 80 years. He had suffered three years from goiter. He was elected to the Michigan legilsature in 1854, and since that time has held numerous positions of trust and been generally prominent in public affairs.

Sent to Prison.

Cleveland, O., March 16.—William E. Trees, formerly a bookkeeper in the First national bank here, charged with embezzling about $10,000 of the bank's funds several months ago, pleaded guilty in the federal court Wednesday. Judge Tayler sentenced Treese to serve six years in the state penitentiary.

Famous Clown Dead.

Denver, Col., March 16.—Practically penniless, with only his devoted wife to watch and mourn, M. Niblo, famous circus clown and pantomimic, has died in this city, after suffering for months the ravages of tuberculosis.

Seats Bring High Prices.

New York, March 16.—Two seats on the New York stock exchange were sold Wednesday for $83,000 each. This is a new high record price, exceeding the previous highest price, paid a few days ago, by $500.

New President Elected.

Washington, March 17.—Mrs. Frederick Schoff, of Philadelphia, was elected president of the National Congress of Mothers Thursday for the ensuing year.

MANY DIE IN A FACTORY FIRE.

BOILER IN A LARGE SHOE FACTORY IN BROCTON, MASS., EXPLODES.

The Ruin Catches Fire and Many of the Operatives are Slowly Roasted to Death.

Brockton, Mass., March 21.—A boiler in the big shoe factory of R. B. Grover & Co., in the southern section of this city, exploded yesterday, bringing ruin to the factory and other nearby property, and death to many operatives.

The city fire marshal, four hours after the explosion, estimated the list of dead at fifty, and it was believed by the police and those at work at the ruins that as many more had sustained injuries.

Eight buildings were burned, and the loss is $200,000.

The greatest difficulty was experienced in ascertaining accurately the number of dead and injured. An ell of the factory, in which 200 hands were at work, was almost completely wrecked, and many of the men and women had no chance to escape, being carried down in the collapse of the structure, which immediately caught fire.

It may never be known how many persons perished in the wreckage, as no one knows how many persons were in the factory.

The number has been estimated at 400, but Treasurer Emerson said last night he doubted whether there were so many at work.

Two hundred and fifty survivors have been accounted for, and at midnight the remains of fifty-two bodies had been recovered from the ruins, the search being continued all night.

Fragments of human frames which possibly might belong to bodies other than those enumerated, have also been found. Few of the remains have been identified. The head in nearly every case is missing.

ARRESTED.

Two Men are Arrested in Seattle for Horse Stealing in South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 21.—A letter sent the Rosebud Indian agency inquiring as to the whereabouts of a trunk belonging to them, resulted in arrest of two men at Seattle Wash., who are wanted in South Dakota.

The two men, known as Harvey Eads, and W. W. Owen, are charged with having stolen team of horses belonging to S. M. Hauge, register of deeds of Miner county. The team disappeared last fall, and the men were traced to Bonesteel, where all trace of them was lost.

Sheriff Clark of Miner county has been persistant in his efforts to locate the men. Postal cards giving descriptions of the men were sent broadcast throughout the country.

The letter inquiring about a trunk gave the clue. They were arrested, and sheriff Clark is now in the Far West for the purpose of bringing them back to Miner county for trial.

Eads, who is only about twenty-one, worked last summer on the farm of Register of Deeds Hauge.

CASTRO THREATENED.

France Orders Venezuela to Cease Interference with Cable, and Sends Ships.

Washington, March 21.—The French cable complications have reached a crisis and United States Minister Bowen has informed the state department that the French minister at Caracas, by instructions of his government, has notified the Venezuelan government that there must be no further proceedings on its part towards the cancellation of the company's franchise or interference with its property.

Mr. Bowen reports that two French warships have been ordered post haste to Venezuela to act in accordance with the instructions of the French minister. These are the Jurieu de la Graviere and the Duplelx, now in the Carribeau sea.

It is the expectation here that the appearance of these ships at La Guayra will cause President Castro to accede promptly to the demands of the French minister, failing which the minister will place the legation in the care of some other minister at Caracas and go aboard one of the warships, thus severing diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela.

Fire at Dickinson.

Dickinson, N. D., March 21.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, broke out in the establishment of Mandan Merchantile company, and for a time seriously threatened adjacent properties. The damage is conservatively estimated at $2,000.

The state is paying a tidy sum for legislative whitewash committees.

The Dunn and Collins Republicans who are airing their troubles before the committee on public accounts might call in Frank Eddy as a referee.

The St. Paul Dispatch suggests that when the legislature has adjourned we might retain Judge Collins and Bob Dunn as expert accountants to figure up our legislative assets.

The Nolan demurrage bill has passed the house, but if it gets through the senate many of the features beneficial to the small shipper will be emasculated. The common people do not stand much show when the railroad lobby has an opportunity to get in its work.

Colorado is not released from the throes of political turmoil by the recent ousting of the rightfully-elected governor. If the abuse of power by the Republican legislature does not make Colorado Democratic for a great many years to come, the good people out there are of a more forgiving disposition than the ordinary run of humanity.

There is something wrong with protection. You hear this from the old timers of the party of protection and full dinner pail. Yet old Joe Cannon has the base manners to refuse to listen to the thunder against protecting infant industries. These fat infants will have to go it alone before long, however, says the Minneapolis Times.

The "mileage grab" found favor with Congressmen Tawney, McCleary and Davis. All that Steenerson could do was to answer "present," while Bede, Ruckman, Stevens and Volstad failed to answer when names were called. There was but one "no" from the Minnesota delegation and it was cast by John Lind, says the Irish Standard.

The country editor is still invading the places of honor and distinction. Hon. C. F. McDonald, editor of the St. Cloud Times, and retiring president of the state editorial association, was last week chosen department commander of the G. A. R., and Capt. E. F. Barrett, editor of the LeSueur News, is junior vice commander. And both are Democrats!

Editor Miller of the St. Peter Free Press is explaining the congressional mileage graft, presumably because Congressman Davis voted for the steal. This is one of the instances where our good friend protests too much. The attempted steal is indefensible from any point of view, and no explanation of the legal phase can exculpate the men who voted for the bill. The law is too often used as a cover for iniquity

State Treasurer Block is credited with gubernatorial aspirations, and is said to be laying wires for the Republican nomination. It's a little early for booms. There's another hard winter before the ides of 1906, and frosts are not improbable. However, it can be said in passing that Treasurer Block has a strong argument in his favor—he hailed from St. Peter, and St. Peter people have a habit of getting what they go after. There must be an exception now and then, though, to prove the rule.

The egg and poultry earnings of the United States for the year 1903 amounted to $290,000,000. This sum is more than fourteen times as great as the value of the sugar product of the country for the same year, more than eight times as great as the potato product and the oat product. It is more than one-third greater than the wheat product, about $30,000,000 greater than that of the cotton product and more than $17,000,000 greater than the gold, silver, wool and sheep products combined.

Governor Johnson has definitely decided not to attend the launching of the battleship Minnesota, and he will be represented at Newport News April 8 by his private secretary, Frank A. Day. The Minnesota party including Miss Rose Marie Schaller of Hastings, the sponsor, will leave about April 4, arriving at Newport News the day before the launching. Miss Schaller will be accompanied by her parents, Senator and Mrs. Albert Schaller, Miss Constance Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Day, is one of the maids of honor, and the other will be announced in a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Day will both make the trip, and it is possible that several members of the legislature will attend.

The Office Blotter sizes up the railway situation about as well as could be done in the following: "The railroad attitude is curious. Nearly all railroad men hold that railroading is private business over which the government has no control, forgetting that the right to regulate commerce is directly and specifically given in the federal constitution and had been amplified by Chief Justice Marshall in opinions that have now the force of law itself. They also reply that there is no need to regulate rates, as the present schedule is reasonable. This is an evasion of the question at issue. It is not so much the rates as the classifications that shippers complain of. While there may be a reasonable rate there is always an unreasonable classification that nullifies it. Nor are the railroads yet cured of the habit of giving rebates. This the railroads admit, but claim that they cannot help it. The big trusts compel rebates. Here is a case of diamond cut diamond. The railroads by rebates built up such monopolies as the Standard Oil company and now the trusts turn out and rend the railroads. The only trust that can cope with them both is the big public trust known as the government."

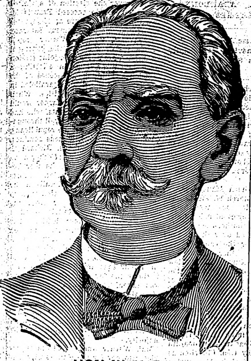
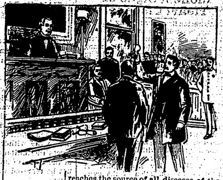
Halstad Reporter: While a representative of this paper was talking with a prominent citizen of Red Lake Falls recently in regard to the county seat fight in Red Lake county, he said that there was very little danger of Red Lake Falls losing the county seat as the latter had the advantage of having the court house, and that Red Lake Falls could easily secure a majority of the voters of the county. The fight will probably last several years like all county seat fights, with the result that it will remain just where it is now.

JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Was Alarmingly Afflicted With La Grippe. Cured by Pe-ru-na.



HON. W. H. PARSONS.



Pe-ru-na cures more cases of la grippe than all other remedies combined.

W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grippe with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has had a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."—W. H. Parsons.

There is no remedy in the world that meets the conditions produced by la grippe better than the remedy, Peruna. Peruna strengthens as it renovates, soothes while it stimulates, heals as it expurgates. Peruna is not a purgative, or cathartic, or sedative, or stimulant, nor a vegetable or mineral poison. It reaches the source of all diseases of the mucous membranes by its action on the vaso-motor system of nerves.

Every person who has had la grippe during the last year should take a course of Peruna. No one need expect perfect recovery unless they do so. The grippe has produced catarrhal inflammation of the whole mucous membrane, and good health is impossible until these are restored to a normal condition. This Peruna will do. A great many remedies have been suggested for this condition from time to time, but Peruna appears to be the only remedy that has any substantial value in these cases. It has never failed to give satisfaction during forty years' experience and still occupies the unique position of being the leading (if not the only) specific remedy for the after-effects of la grippe.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the band instruments for the Henry Distin Manufacturing Co., writes the following from 1441 South Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna. I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."—Henry Distin.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

A reward of $10,000 has been deposited in the Market Exchange Bank, Colum-us, Ohio, as a guarantee that the above testimonial is genuine; that we hold our possession authentic letters certifying to the same. Every one of our tes-ionials are genuine and in the words of the one whose name is appended.

It is marvelous what people in general expect of a school teacher. And yet, as a rule, it can be said that there is not a single parent in a distric who governs her own children so well as the teacher of all these children of the district. Think of it! The parent who thinks nothing of losing her patience from once to forty times a day with her own children, expects the teacher to control her temper and manage forty children who come from all kind of home. The average school teacher is a model of par excellence in government, temper and judgment when compared to the parents, and in saying this we are not speaking lightly of the right kind of motherhood.

Do your trading at home instead of patronizing the city department store and you will not only benefit your town but yourself. The time has not arrived when goods are sold below cost and an investigation will show you that the seeming low price on one article is made up many times on others and your home dealers would be glad to fill your bill throughout on the same basis that you pay these outside dealers. The next time you contemplate sending out of town for a bill of goods amounting to any where from $10 to $75 just take it to any reliable firm in town and see if you cannot get the same filled for a like amount, not to take into consideration the fact that the goods will be reliable and that any mistakes will be corrected without question. Your home merchants pay taxes and help build up the community and are entitled to your support.

Years ago in Minnesota the farmers worked their places with ox teams. Then came a change, a breed of horses small in size was introduced, and the old long horned Buck and Berry disappeared. Later the fine imported Normans and Shires were brought to the state. Now the finest teams one ever saw are driven by this class of people. During the period first mentioned, the farmer rode to town in the winter in a cart or wagon, scantily clothed, shivering and shaking; now he and his family come in to trade wearing fur coats, in a fine surry or other late styles of conveyance, drawn by a magnificent span of roadsters, and with good fur robes and blankets for covering, and they are justly entitled to all these comforts—and we were going to say, to wear a crown of glory on their heads. Glad of it.—Lake Crystal Union.

County Treasurer Hansen spent Sunday with his family at Thief River Falls. The family has been quarantined for scarlet fever for some weeks and the time limit was to expire last Saturday, but another child came down with the disease Friday so the family will be compelled to remain in quarantine another three weeks. The family will move to this city as soon as the quarantine is lifted.

At a meeting held at the city hall Saturday evening twenty or thirty young men about town signified their intention of taking up music, and a large class of beginners will be started soon on the different band instruments. Prof. Onstad will take hold of the new class immediately and it is thought a large number of new members to the band will be added in the near future. Red Lake Falls bids fair to have the largest as well as the best band in the Northern country.

SSS THE BEST TONIC

When the system gets debilitated and in a run-down condition it needs a tonic and there has never been one discovered that is the equal of S. S. S. It is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, because it contains no strong minerals to derange the stomach and digestion, and affect the liver and bowels. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their purifying and healing qualities, and possesses just the properties that are needed to restore to the body strong robust health. When the blood becomes impure and clogged with waste matters and poisons the body does not receive sufficient nourishment and suffers from debility, weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion and many other disagreeable symptoms of a disordered blood circulation, and if it is not corrected some form of malignant fever or other dangerous disorder will follow. S. S. S. builds up the broken down constitution, clears the blood of all poisons and impurities and makes it strong and healthy. The nerves are restored to a calm restful state, refreshing sleep is had again, the appetite returns and the whole system is toned up by this great remedy. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic and acts promptly in this run-down depleted condition of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice furnished by our physicians, without charge.

I have used your S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent tonic to build up the general health and give tone and strength to the system. I have used other things highly recommended, but S. S. S. did me more good than everything else combined. As to its tonic properties it gives a splendid appetite, refreshing sleep, and the system undergoes a general building up under its invigorating influence.

What is it you intended to have done before spring?

Clean out the poultry house, renew the nests, whitewash the walls and boxes—get ready for business.

An agriculture paper says you can destroy the morning glories on your farm by plowing a path right after a rain.

Kansas is to engage in the refinding of oil, Illinois will operate a packing plant and Minnesota is to engage in the manufacture of reapers.

An old lady of Lynn, Mass., who has just passed her hundredth and third birthday, attributes her longevity to total abstainancy from gossip.

The farmer has no more right to put a piece on the plow that somebody else made then the man that made the plow has to put a piece on he crop the plow cultivates.

Mrs. Theodore Sutro says American women are far more beautiful of form then the Vanus de Milo. Well she probably knows that the public will have to take her word for it.

The statisticians are still glorying in the wonderful wealth of the farmers, reckoning him up into the billions and billions, Ought not so wealthy a person be able to put a price on what he owns? Hey?

The Phillipine Island exports mostly to this country, hemp fiber to the value of $16,000,000 last year. This fiber formed the basis of most of the cordage—rope, binding twine and the like—which is used here.

A farmer once said to us: "The moon has everything to do with fresh meat. Sausage made from pork killed in the dark of the moon will decrease and dry up 25 per cent, while that killed in the light of the moon will expand nearly one third." What do yon think about it?

The best and safest investment for the young man of today is land. Its income can be figured almost as readily as that on government bonds, and it is bound to increase in value greatly, as the area of good land is limited and the uses of which the grain is being put are being multiplied.

Mr. Wilson of the Department of Agriculture is a good figurer. He has it that the U. S. hen laid 20,000,000,000 eggs last year. To count them at 50 a minute, and working eight hours a day, would take him 1893 years, and then he would get turned out of the union for counting overtime. The eagle may soar and scream in America but the hen lays it all over him.

Twenty-five thousand sea turtles penned in an inlet of the sea near Orlande, Florida, where they breed and are fattened for the New York market is what two men are getting very busy about just now, and who are planning to ship twenty thousand of these curious creatures to another eastern market, where they are considered a great table delicacy, and will bring the sum of fifteen dollars each.

Here are some facts that might be painted over every door in the barn lot: Young stock should be kept growing. It should be kept thrifty. Keep the feed boxes clean and see that the food is eaten by the animal to which it is given. Clean the lot where playful animals run—old drags, mowers, plows, etc. It is cheaper to keep things out of the way then to doctor up a wounded colt. A mind that will think, and an energy that will do, are worth money in the barn lot.

A western railway has undertaken to solve the nuisance of the snow blockades in the winter by planting evergreen trees alongside the cuts on its right of way. From what we have noticed of the work of trees in connection with drifting snow we should think that trees planted along a right of way which is usually a hundred feet in width would do more harm then good, being too near the track. They would do admirable work, however, if planted a distance of five or six rods from the track.

One of the most paying crops, where a man wishes to put a good bit of labor on a small piece of land is onions. I have always made a profit them and often a good profit. They will do well on almost any land, but of course will do best on good rich land. A yield of 30 bushels per acre is about an average, but I have had them up to 750 bushels per acre and have known of cases of even bigger yields. Price onions in the store now and you can figure out for yourself what there is in it.

There is nothing small about Uncle Sam in matters of serving his people. A two cent stamp carries a sealed letter to any place in the United States or Canada. One price to everybody. The humblest individual who may not write more than one letter a month pays the same price as the big concern that uses thousands of them daily. No discount for large quantities. The same invariable rates should govern railway transportation—"square deal for everybody." This is what the public has the right to expect and it will be satisfied with nothing less.

Women's Kidneys.

Women are more often afflicted with kidney disorders than men, but attribute the symptoms to diseases peculair to their sex, while in reality the kidneys are deranged. Nervousness, heacaches, puffy or dark circles under the eves, pain in the back, are signs of kidney trouble that must not be ignored, or a serious malady will result. Foley's Kidney Cure has restored the health of thousands of weak, nervous, broken down women. It stops irregularities and strengthens the urinary organs. It purifies the blood and benefits the whole system. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Little Marie Garceau visited the second grade last Friday.

Earnest Patnaude visited the second grade Monday.

Some of the boys have begun to make mud marbles.

Parnard and Peter Felvo were absent Monday.

St. Patrick's day was celebrated by some of the pupils by wearing green ribbon.

The pupils have been spending their recesses lately washing and sand papering their desks. As a result we have many white desks in the room.

The sixth grade has began reading a series of references in connection with their history.

Gisela Helm has been absent for a week or more on account of sickness.

Our athletics have had a rest because of the snow and muddy weather.

Marie Garceau and Annie Patnode have begun school in the primary department.

Mr. Healy took his own room Wednesday morning on account of Mrs. Chemberlain's temporary sickness.

The sixth grade received their test papers in geography. The highest mark was 97 and the lowest 30.

For the remainder of the year it will be required of fifth and sixth grade pupils of our school to take home their books in whatever lesson they have failed in during the month. It is hoped that parents who read these notes will see to it that their children put forth an extra effort and does at least a half hour of study at home. It is only by making the work in the grades, so we may have a good high school.

We have had a change in readers, both grades having Harpers. For our "Chinese Reading" we have special readers dealing with history.

A Sad Prospect.

A Gotham railroad magnate recently has been passing around among his friends the following clipping from a North Dakota newspaper:

"It is reported that one of Harvey, N. D., fastidious newly married ladies kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on. He needs breed with his shirt on. He needs bread with his pants on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this "old rag of freedom" pay up before long, he will need bread without a damn thing on and North Dakota is no Garden of Eden in the winter time."

TWENTY-FOUR MEN KILLED IN A MINE

TEN LOSE THEIR LIVES BY EXPLOSION OF GAS IN A WEST VIRGINIA COLLIERY.

A Second Explosion Occurs While a Party of Brave Men Are Exploring the Mine on a Mission of Rescue, and Fourteen More Are Killed.

Charleston, W. Va., March 20.—As the result of a horrible explosion of gas in the Rush Run and Red Ash mines near Thurmond Saturday night, 24 men now lie stark in death in the two mines. Ten of these were killed in the explosion Saturday night, and the other 14 were a rescuing party who entered the mine Sunday morning to take from the mines the charred and blackened remains of their fellow workmen. These latter were killed by a second explosion and the after damp. The first explosion was caused by a "naked" flame coming in contact with the gas. The flames leaped from the drift mouth and set fire to everything in reach that was not blown from harm's way by the force of the explosion. The big fan that furnished aid in the mine was so damaged that it was several hours before it could be started again.

Brave Men Enter Mine.

After it had been put in working order, a rescue party was formed and about 20 men entered the mine in search of the bodies of those who had perished at the first explosion. The men explored the mines for two or three hours, putting up brattices so that pure air should follow them wherever they went. Finally some of them came out and reported that the others were too careless in going forward faster than the good air was being supplied carrying at the same time a "naked" light.

Fourteen More Killed.

At 3:45 another awful explosion occurred, caused by the gas coming in contact with the "naked" flame of a miner's lamp, and 14 more souls were souls were launched into eternity. This explosion was not so forcible as the former, but the more awful in its effects and was followed by a shorter, thinner tongue of flame followed by a silence so deadly that it seemed physically painful, and darkness impenterable. Mine Inspector Edward Pinckney arrived on the ground and took charge of the rescue work. The second explosion again damaged the fan, and Mr. Pinckney will allow no one to enter the mine until it is working properly and a draught of fresh air is running through the mine. When this is done he will lead the rescue squad himself.

Train Wrecked.

Hammond, Ind., March 20.—Erie railroad train No. 7, known as Pacific express, while running at the rate of 60 miles an hour, near Winfield station, Sunday morning, plunged down a 20-foot embankment, injuring 12 people, two of whom may die. The wreck was caused by the auxiliary reserve reservoirs under the engine cab dropping into a switch frog which caught the front trucks of the tender. The engine remained on the track, but six cars toppled over and rolled down the embankment.

Flour Mills Kept Busy.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18.—Heavy flour orders from Japan continue to pour in on Minneapolis milling companies. One of the big companies Thursday received an order for 20,000 sacks, and a second order Friday for the same number, both consignments clearable from the Pacific coast in April and May. Manager Crocker, of this company, stated that every mill the company owns is running full blast. This includes a big mill at Buffalo, N. Y., and mills at Louisville and St. Louis.

New Trial for Nan Patterson.

New York, March 16.—Nan Patterson will be put on trial once more to answer a charge of murdering Caesar Young, the wealthy bookmaker. This decision was reached Wednesday, and it was announced at the district attorney's office that the second trial of the case would begin April 10.

DEATH OF GEN. HAWLEY.

Connecticut's Famous Soldier and Statesman Passes Away in Washington.

Washington, March 18.—Gen. Joseph R. Hawley, for nearly 24 years United States senator from Connecticut, died at ten minutes of 2 o'clock this morning at his residence in this city. Death came peacefully after a stupor lasting with but slight interruptions since Wednesday afternoon. At his bedside when the end came were Mrs. Hawley, her three daughters and Maj. Hooks, for a long time messenger to the committee on military affairs of the senate. The remains will be taken to Hartford, Conn., for interment, but the time for funeral services has not been fixed. It is possible that a public funeral may be held in the senate chamber.

Active Career Ended in 1902.

Gen. Hawley had rallied only occasionally and then for very brief intervals from the state of coma into which he fell Wednesday afternoon. There was then a slight sign of recognition of the members of the family and until Thursday night took small amounts of nourishment. Since then, however, nothing had passed his lips. He gradually failed until the end came. Gen. Hawley's active career in the senate came to an end in December, 1902, when failing health compelled him to relinquish his legislative work. In February of 1903 he was in the senate chamber for a short time, that being his last visit to the capitol. He was 78 years old.
ville, N. C., October 31, 1826. He studied and practiced law in Hartford, Conn., from 1850 until the civil war broke out. He entered the Union army as a captain and left the military service in 1868 with the grade of brigadier general and brevet major general. He served as governor or Connecticut, delegate to the republican national conventions of 1872, 1876 and 1880, and was president of the United States centennial commission from 1873 until the completion of the centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876. His congressional career began in 1872, when he was elected a representative to the Forty-second congress. He took his seat as United States senator March 4, 1881, and was a member of that body until the close of the last congress. On March 11 last he was placed on the retired list as a brigadier general.

France and Venezuela.

Washington, March 18.—France has officially informed the United States of the action of the Venezuelan government against the French Cable company which she regards as highhanded and intimates that French patience is rapidly being exhausted by the conduct of affairs in Venezuela. It is probable that the French ambassador will confer with President Roosevelt next week for the purpose of learning the policy which this government proposes to follow in Venezuela, so that the French government may adopt a similar line, if possible.

Named for Senatorship.

Nashville, Tenn., March 16.—Gov. James B. Frazier was Wednesday afternoon nominated by acclamation in joint democratic caucus for United States senator to succeed the late Senator Bate. The nomination is equivalent to an election. Gov. Frazier will be succeeded in the gubernatorial chair by John I. Cox, of Sullivan county, the present speaker of the state senate.

Killed His Playmate.

Philadelphia, March 20.—While a half dozen boys were playing "Indian" in the woods at Mount Airy, a suburb of this city, Warren Carr, aged 16 years, was shot dead with a rifle in the hands of James Hawthorne, aged 17 years, who thought the weapon was not loaded.

An Honor to the President.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—The assembly on Friday honored President Theodore Roosevelt by passing a bill for the creation in Taylor county of a town which shall bear his name.

Tennessee Bank Robbed.

Petersburg, Tenn., March 17.—The vault in the Bank of Petersburg was blown open Thursday and all the cash taken. The amount stolen is reported to be $7,000. The burglars escaped.

COURT IN SESSION.

The Court House a Scene of Activity This Week.

District court convened Monday with Judge Watts presiding. A number of cases were continued or settled the first day, while others will be heard before the Judge at a special term in May. Two or three cases will be tried in Chambers at Crookston.

The first jury trial was held Tuesday. It was a well-drilling dispute in which G. B. Peterson and Julius Hannem were plaintiffs and John H. Fallstad defendant. A verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiffs and they received a judgment for $55.00. Wednesday the jurors listened to the evidence and arguments in the case wherein A. O. Ludvig was plaintiff and Herman Schultz defendant. This controversy was also over the drilling of a well on the defendant's farm. The defendant was the victor in this contest.

This morning the case of State vs. Peter Rocheford was taken up. The defendant is charged with stealing goods from a Great Northern car at Thief River Falls something over a year ago. This case will end the jurors duty for the term, and it is expected they will be able to leave for their homes this evening.

The grand jury was sworn in Tuesday and began their labors immediately. It is said no bill was found against Gardner, the alleged Thief River Falls chicken thief. The jury is said to be investigating the shooting of John Danielson by Officer Cernousek at Thief River Falls some months ago.

Among the attorneys from out of town who have attended court here this week are: A. A. Miller and Martin O'Brien of Crookston; H. W. Lee, Chas. H. Schellback and P. W. Maybe, Thief River Falls; J. K. Hanney, St. Hilaire; J. H. Bosard, Grand Forks.

Joe Trigg's Sayings.

A Dakota man aged 98 recently proved up on a homestead claim in Dakota after a five years' residence, and yet there are husky young chaps hanging around pool and bar rooms depending on their old dad for a living.

The Garfield report does not show why a four-shoulder roast costs a Chicago consumer 23 cents a pound when taken from a 5-cent steer, and this thing both the consumer and the producer are going to find out before they get through.

The net profit to state of Minnesota on the binding twine made by the convicts at the Stillwater penitentiary during the past year was $75,000. This pretty conclusively proves that it is more profitable for the state to put a criminal to work making rope than it is to buy the rope wherewith to hang him.—Iowa State Register.

Health and Success.

The question of success is recognized in America to be intimately connected with health as shown in a clean, attractive personal appearance and a pleasant personality. This idea has becomes so firmly fixed in the minds of business men that we find many of them devoting several hours each day to exercise, and the necessary attention to their physical needs with this object, only, in view. This tendency has developed golden grain belt beer, the health producer and nerve tonic. It means perfect health, good temper and ultimately a larger measure of success. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

FOR SCHOOL LIBRARY

Basket Social in Gervais a Big Success.

The basket social at the school house in dictrict number 112, Gervais, last Saturday evening was a success in every particular, and was attended by a large crowd of patrons of the school and by several from Red Lake Falls. $25 was realized as a result of the evening's entertainment and the teacher, Wm. J. Harlow, is to be congratulated upon the success of the occasion, both from a money and entertaining standpoint. The money realized from the entertainment will be used for library purposes. County Superintendent McAnulty was present and spoke briebly upon the benefits of a library and complimented the school upon the fine showing it had made.

It may be of interest to patrons of our schools to know that the state legislature has recently appropriated $10,000 for school library purposes. The money is to be had for the asking but the school district must show that they are doing something for themselves before the state fund is available. If a district raises $20 the state will give a like amount, which is enough to secure a very creditable start for a library. It is to be hoped other teachers about the county will follow Mr. Harlow's example and make an effort to secure a first class library in every school in the county.

GONE TO HER REWARD,

Grandma Spillane Passes to the Great Beyond.

The death of Grandma Spillane occured Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, after several days illness with the la grippe.

Mrs. Spillane had made her home in this city with her son, W. T. Spillane, for several years, and by her kindly manner and sunny disposition made scores of friends who join in extending sympathy and words of condolence to the bereaved family. All who knew her feel that they have lost a dear and kind friend and her death is mourned throughout the city.

Mrs. Kate Spillane was born in Ireland 68 years ago. She had been a resident of this country for a great many years and leaves two sons to mourn her death, W. T. Spillane of this city and Charles Spillane of Olean, N. Y. Two sisters and a brother living in New York also survive her.

The funeral services were held from St. Joseph's Monday morning, a large number of friends gathering to pay their last respects to the memory of a kind, lovable woman.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our mother.

A BIG SUCCESS.

Tuesday Evening's Band Concert a Good One.

The band concert for March was given at the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday evening. The band nembers were well rendered and received the hearty approval of the large audience present, Prof. A. Onstad pleased the audience with a violin solo, and demonstrated that he was a master of this instrument as well as the clarinet.

A recitation by Miss Clara Rue was a pleasing number and the young lady made many friends by her clever performance. Miss Nellie Reed took the house by storm with her vocal solo, and was called upon to respond to an encore. A male quertette composed of Messrs. Healy, Nauman, Onstad and Marshall rendered a most pleasing number which was heartly appreciated by the audience. The concert as a whole was a good one and reflected credit upon the promoters of the affair.

LADY ARTISTS.

Clever Game being Worked on Northern Pacific Trains.

The secret service officials of the Northern Pacific have been endeavoring to locate some clever pickpockets who have been operating on trains and have had their headquarters in Fargo. The officers have about concluded the work is being done by young women who make frequent trips west from St. Paul, some times as far as Fargo. It is said they work the racket of traveling unaccompainied and unfamiliar with the ways of the world. Some gallant traveling man or gay old passenger seeks to relieve the young woman from embrassment and is touched for his watch, pin or money, and then insists pickpockets did the work while he was crowding into the car or at the depots.

Reform Should Begin at Home.

Minneapolis Journal: The Review of Reviews has calmly taken up the matter of reforming the senate. It says:

We have no charges at all to make; but, in the calmest possible way, we would suggest to good citizens in the different states that they ask and answer for themselves several questions: (1) Is their own state represented by senator, one or both of whom are looked upon at Washington as the tools of private interests? (2) If they are under such suspicion, to what extent is the suspicion justifiable? (3) Are the senators from their state the very best men who could be sent to Washington? (4) If they are not, how can good citizens organize to defeat the special interests, that in so many states, of recent years, have managed to dictate the election of of United States senators?

As Dr. Shaw is so close a friend of the president, these questions may seem to be almost "inspired."

Hot, strong whitewash on a wall is sweet and cheap.

Don't expect to get the best profit out of horse raising unless you raise the best class.

Good roads mean good farms, good going, good price, good neighbors and good time.

Map the farm and mark the years that each crop was in a certain field; record the yield. It becomes interesting.

It costs no more per pound to raise a colt then a steer, and the right kind of colt will sell for four times as much.

There is no better or cheaper way to grow hogs than to pasture them on alfalfa. One acre will pasture from 10 to 20 hogs.

There is no difference between being burnt out once or moving three times, so the old saying goes, and it still "goes" with us.

Dunkards from Eastern States have bought 2,000 acres of farming land in Glenn county. California, and will settle there with their families.

Eighty-four million pounds of sugar reached New York from the West Indies and South America in one day last week. Louisiana should take notice.

A small city boy was much astonished to see the cow milked again in the morning. "Well," he said, "I thought you emptied her all out last night."

It is always better to have a flock of sheep on a farm then a mortgage. In fact, the sheep will help to drive a mortgage off the farm just the same as they will the weeds.

Do not dispise your plodding, dustcovered neighbor, my young gilt-edged farmer; he may work long and hard at his trade and on pay-day draw more money then you earn in a half a year.

Hens like to lay in rather dark nest, the opening from which is hidden from view. If box nests with the opening toward the wall are placed in the poultry house, very few hens will steal their nests in out-of-way places.

You wont find many horses entirely free from blemish.

The government distributes bacteria so you can inoculate soil for clover, alfalfa, soy beans, or cowpeas. White to A. F. Woods, Washington, D. C., and state which crop you wish to grow and you can get the bacteria that will aid in growing that crop.

How do our farmers account to themselves for the fact that hardly ten per cent of their grain grades number two, when they sell it and yet ninty-five per cent of the grain going out of Chicago grades number two. Our farmers are certainly dead easy.

It isn't exactly healthy for a team to be rushed through every day of the week ahead of the plow or harrow, then be hitched up to a buggy on Sunday and driven all over the neighborhood in search for "a good time" for a drive. Remember it isn't "a good time" for a team.

Nearly every farmer hand thinks that he is receiving the smallest wages of any branch of labor. However, the hand that is getting $25 per month with board, washing and the keeping of his horse, is better paid then the bookkeeper, the clerk or the tradesman who gets $50 per month and has to pay his boaad and laundry out of this.

It is queer what difference a collar makes in a man's appearance. The other day a medium weight business man came down town, wearing a very low lay-down collar. Someone asked him, "Jim have you been sick? You look pretty peaked." The next day he wore a high stand-up collar, and somebody else said: "Jim you are getting fat." He is now confirmed in his relief that the secret of a man's physique is in the length of his neck.

Texas is not only destined to make rice so cheap and plenty in this country that, as in China, it will supersede wheat as the staff of life, but it is also to become the greatest silk producer in the world. To this end a great Japanese colony of silk growers is about to be planted in southwestern Texas. A splendid tract of land has been procured and already the first installment of Japanese, consisting of 200 skilled silk growers, are on their way and will be ready to go to work during the coming summer.

WARSAW UNDER A REIGN OF TERROR

BOMB IS THROWN INTO A POLICE STATION AND SEVEN PERSONS ARE INJURED.

While Baron von Nolken, Chief of Police Is En Route to Scene, He Is Wounded by Bomb Thrown Into Carriage—Czar Marked for Death.

Warsaw, March 27.—A bomb was thrown into the carriage of Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, at eight o'clock Sunday evening. It is reported that the baron was severely wounded. The attack on Baron von Nolken was the result of an elaborate conspiracy of the revolutionary party. Shortly before eight o'clock Saturday night an elegantly dressed man went to the police station at Praga, a large suburb of Warsaw, on the other side of the Vistula, and threw a bomb into a room of the station, wounding seven persons, two of them dangerously. The man started to run away, but was caught by the captain of the station. He was found to be a Jew, but his identity has not yet been discovered. He was wounded. A telephone message was immediately sent to Baron von Nolten at the city hall, informing him of the outrage.

Policeman Killed.

Baron von Nolken, accompanied by a police official, took a carriage and started immediately for Praga. When passing the castle where the governor general resides a man standing on the pavement threw a bomb at the carriage. Baron von Nolken, who was sitting on the side nearest the assailant, received the full charge of the bomb, while his companion escaped unhurt. The coachman was thrown from his box and the carriage was smashed. Baron von Nolken was removed to the city hall and doctors were summoned, who found he had received injuries on the head, neck, arm and leg which are believed to be serious.

Police Chief Injured.

Meanwhile the police official accompanying Baron von Nolken saw the bomb thrower fleeing, and pursued and caught up with him, but the criminal proved the stronger and tore himself away. Another policeman fired twice after him, without result. Later a man was found dead in Sowia street, who proved to be a plain-clothes policeman who was seen pursuing Baron von Nolken's assailant. The police believe that the latter turned on the policeman and shot him dead. A girl who was passing the spot when the bomb was thrown was wounded by splinters, and had to be taken to the hospital.

Baron von Nolken is very unpopular. He is hated by the masses of the Polish population, who hold him responsible for the sanguinary suppression of the disturbances here at the end of January. He has been here only a year, having come from St. Petersburg, where he was chief of the mounted division of the police.

Czar Marked for Death.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—It is openly stated among the workmen that the fighting wing of the social revolutionists has passed sentence of death on 30 high personages, the list being headed with the name of the Grand Duke Alexis and ending with that of the emperor and bearing also the name of the dowager empress. Eighty bombs were found by the Warsaw police hidden in a grave in the cemetery. The news of this fact has caused the greatest concern here.

MRS. CHADWICK PAID USURY

Cleveland Woman Declares It Cost Her 50 Per Cent. to Get Money from Financiers.

Cleveland, O., March 27.—The examination of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick in bankruptcy proceedings showed that she practically paid money lenders 50 per cent. interest for every dollar she received. She declared her total indebtedness would not exceed $750,000, that of this sum, borrowed from various persons, she had received but $517,000, leaving $233,000 for commissions to the money lenders. In enlarging on this declaration, she said the note for $190,800, held by Herbert D. Newton, of Boston, represented but $78,000 in money actually received. In addition to the Newton transactions, Mrs. Chadwick said she paid James A. Friend, of Pittsburg, $75,000 for a loan of $150,000, and W. A. Coons, of New York, $24,000 for a loan of $109,000.

Mexican Ambassador Dead.

Washington, March 25.—Senor Don Manuel de Azpiroz, Mexico's first ambassador to the United States, died Friday at the Mexican embassy at 4:55 p. m., surrounded by the members of his family. Although a sick man since last fall the ambassador's death was due to a relapse caused by exposure on inauguration day.

Was Once Speaker of the House.

Auburn, N. Y., March 24.—Theodore M. Pomeroy, speaker of the house at the end of the fortieth congress, died here Thursday in his eightieth year. He was a member of the banking firm of William H. Seward & Co. and first vice president of the American express company.

Mother and Son Perish.

POWDER EXPLODES.

Disaster in an Indiana Coal Mine Causes a Loss of Six Lives.

Princeton, Ind., March 23.—Six miners dead and four injured, two probably fatally, is the result of an explosion in the mine of the Princeton Coal & Mining company Wednesday afternoon. The dead are: Hudson Weatherly, aged 30, married; Edmond Geiser, aged 23, single; Albert Geiser, 21, single; Harry Taggart, 46, single; William Biggs, 38, married; George Dill, 46, married.

The injured are: John Dill, son of George Dill, aged 20, single, seriously burned and will probably die; William Jones, aged 58, married, seriously burned and will probably die; Joseph Ward, aged 47, married, will recover; General Cole, aged 37, married, will recover. Of the dead, all but Dill were dead when found in the mine. Their bodies were rescued two hours after the explosion, the delay being caused by the inability of the rescuers to combat the afterdamp. The five injured, including George Dill, who later died, were brought to the surface 30 minutes after the explosion. They were found heaped together in an unconscious state.

The cause of the disaster is not known, save that it resulted from a powder explosion. The miners were making their blasts previous to leaving the mine, and the greater part of the miners had ascended. Whether it was a premature shot or an overcharge is not known now, nor is it known who fired the shot.

RUN ON A BANK.

Depositors of Institution in Cincinnati Demand Funds—Over $200,000 Paid Out.

Cincinnati, March 27.—With a crush that took the doors of the Union Savings & Trust company's bank off their hinges a panic-stricken army of depositors crowded into the institution Saturday morning shortly before the time for the opening of the bank. All day the run continued and by one o'clock (when the bank closed for the day) more than $200,000 in small amounts had been paid out. The run has been developing for the past two days, assuming enormous proportions and developing many dramatic incidents. A half dozen women depositors were crushed into unconsciousness in the crowd and were removed to the city hospital. More than 50 fainted while trying to squeeze up to the paying teller's desk and a number were robbed of their all by pickpockets who mingled in the crowd just after they had taken it from the bank for fear of loss.

FIVE MEN DROWNED.

During Heavy Fog Yawl Capsizes Near Charleroi, Pa., with Fatal Results.

Charleroi, Pa., March 24.—During a heavy fog Thursday William Higgins, a ferryman at Lock No. 4, attempted to row five men across the Monongahela river in a skiff. When in midstream the ferryman lost his way, and the boat was carried over the dam and capsized. The occupants were thrown into the swollen stream, but before their call for assistance could be answered they were swept out of sight. Several hours later the ferryman's yawl was located over a mile below the dam, but none of the bodies have been recovered.

THE LAST RITES.

Remains of the Late Mrs. Stanford Committed to the Final Resting Place.

Stanford University, Cal., March 25.—The body of the late Mrs. Jane Stanford, who recently died at Honolulu, now rests in the Stanford mausoleum between the bodies of her husband and son, near the institution of learning that bears their name. Before the final commitment of Mrs. Stanford's body to the stone sarcophagus simple services were held in the great Memorial church erected by her in loving memory of her husband. The church was filled with thousands of people from all over the state, who came to pay their tribute of respect.

Acquitted.

Pomeroy, O., March 27.—The jury in the noted county treasury robbery case returned a verdict of not guilty in the trial of Treasurer T. J. Chase. The trial grew out of the robbery of the county treasury of nearly $15,000 last September, in which Chase claimed he was held up by masked men and robbed.

Aged Seminole Chief Dies.

South McAlester, I. T., March 27.—Hulputta Micco, chief of the Seminole Indians, died here, aged 75 years. Micco served in the federal army during the civil war with a band of his tribesmen. He became a Baptist minister several years ago, although he could not speak a word of English.

DEMOLISHED BY A TORNADO.

THE LITTLE TOWN LOUISBERG MINN., IS ALMOST WIPED OFF OF THE MAP.

Eight are Injured, Two Seriously. Many Buildings are Razed, Elevators Wrecked.

Appleton, Minn., March 28.—A cyclone traveling north struck Louisburg at 6:30 last evening. Every business house was either totally demolished or badly damaged.

Eight persons were injured, two may die. Physicians from Appleton and Madison are caring for them.

The Injured.

Tom Winger, bruised and injured internally; may die.

Minnie Winger, badly cut.

Jennie Winger, aged seven, probably fatally hurt.

Johnie Winger, knee hurt and otherwise injured.

Paul Paulson, aged 65, head bruised, may die.

Bennett Bergeson and Roy Beedle, badly bruised, but lives, saved by having crawled under a pool table.

Fred Moen, head badly bruised.

The heaviest loosers are the Hennepin Lumber company, lumber yard and machinery; Northwestern Elevator company; Philley & Beedle, hardware, and Tom Winger, restaurant.

The Luthern church was demolished and only two houses escaped untouched. The depot was damaged and several cars were blown off the track.

Many people from the neighboring towns are inspecting the ruins in the darkness. It is believed much damage was done outside of the town.

Rumors tell of several elevators being demolished along the line of the storm, which took a northwesterly path. The elevators are undoubtedly those situated along the Breckenridge branch of the Great Northern road, which runs from Watertown, S. D., to Benson, Minn.

The storm swept down upon the town suddenly, the atmosphere having been heavy and the wind changing rapidly, left the villagers little time to prepare for the devastating wind.

Louisburg is 115 miles from Breckinridge, and 163 miles from the Twin Cities via the Wilmar-Benson route of the Great Northern. The exact origin of the strorm could not be located but it is suppored that it was somewhere in southwestern Minnesota or northwestern Iowa.

Upon receiving word of the misfortune of the neighboring town, several physicians at Appleton, eight miles from Louisburg set out to give aid to the sufferers, being carried on a hand car.

Heavy Storm at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—A heavy electrical storm, the first of the season, occurred last night, followed by a heavy rainfall.

The rain is generally regarded as timely to put the soil in proper shape for seeding, which it will delay for a few days.

FIGHT WITH BURGLAR.

A Burly Burglar is surprised in Hotel and He Puts up an Ugly Scrap.

Minneapolis, March 24.—A giant midnight prowler, surprized by the proprietor, the clerk and a guest, while he was burglarizing the kitchen and dining room of the Windom hotel, 119 University avenue, SE, fought his way to liberty with a large butcher knife, and escaped only after he had inflicted three painful wounds upon Robert Shaver, the clerk, who with the proprietor, and the guest engaged in a desperate encounter with the prowler.

Shaver has knife wounds in his hip, right hand and left arm, which necessiated the taking of nine stitches by an East Side doctor. The proprietor, William McKee, has a bruised hand, while the guest, Charles McWha, who is a meet wagon driver, escaped uninjured. The burglar has a welt somewhere on his head from a padlock which McKee threw at him, and his clothing is soaked with the blood of the clerk.

Seeding Begun.

Fargo, N. D., March 28.—Seeding is general in many sections of the state. All the farmers seem to have been convinced that spring has arrived. The soil in the Red River valley is in good condition and everything is favorable. Farmers who had the nerve to seed when the thaw came the latter part of February, seem to have made a hit, as the grain is growing finely. It will be able to secure a better root and will stool better than other seeded grain.

Many farmers seem to fear a dry season, and the more enterprising are spreading as much of a dustbed on top of the grain as possible to retain the moisture. Many will roll their wheat after the dragging and seeding.

Found Jewels.

Chaska, Minn., March 28.—Men at work here tearing down the old brick walls of the county jail, under the courthouse, to make a coalbin, found six diamond rings, a gold watch and a pearl necklace, hidden in the brick wall of a cell.

Tornado in Kansas.

Eldorado, Kan., March 28.—A tornado struck the business portion of this city last night, injuring several persons, one fatally, and wrecking a hotel and school house.

SAY, you Thief River fellows, what's the matter with Editor Latta of the Plummer Pioneer? He got through last week without abusing Red Lake Falls and her people. You better go down and "fix him."

FRANK EDDY announces in his inimitable Sauk Centre Herald that a country editor grins with oulish glee when he receives a kick for not supporting home institutions written on a letterhead printed in Chicago.

RUSSELL SAGE announces that he saves one-fourth of his income. Rigid economy like this has enabled Russell to keep the wolf from the door for several years, and he ought by this time have enough laid by to cover funeral expenses.

THE legislature is billed to adjourn April 18. and last Saturday was the last day for the introduction of bills. Nearly nine hundred bills have been presented, and unfortunately a good many of them will become laws that had better been killed. At the rate we are going Minnesota will soon suffer from too much legislation rather than too little.

REPRESENTATIVE SIMONS has introduced a bill making safe-breaking at night burglary in the first degree. This measure would be a great relief to merchants in towns too small to afford banking facilities. By the way, our representative has introduced a number of meritorious measures this session, and is recognized as one of the strong conservative members of the house.

EDITOR SJOBLON, in his Minneapolis Telegram, pertinently says that "an edit'or is a public benefactor—but the editor owner has space for sale. That is his stock in trade. He must sell it—and at a price—in order to get money for paper, wages and other expenses—just as the merchant must see that his stock is turned into income for rent, salaries, insurance, taxes, light and fuel bills."

COMMISSIONER GARFIELD'S report that the packers realizing a profit of but 90 cents a head, or 2 per cent, upon their cattle, is denied by Cuthbert Powell. an expert at Kansas City, who claims that instead of a paltry profit of 2 per cent, it is $7.41 a head, or 15 per cent, and that this profit is turned over every two to four weeks—twelve to twenty-four times a year. Mr. Powell bases his claim as to profits upon figures that seem incontrovertible. Garfield is too easy and innocent, says the Fairmont Sentinel. He was a tenderfoot and a stranger among the packers and they took him in.

IT isn't any fun to read the Thie River Falls papers anymore. They have about run out of abuse for Red Lake Falls and have become very tame. In all their ranting about the county seat controversy they have not offered one argument why the court house should be moved, but have been "billin' over" with abuse for Red Lake Falls and hollering "Graft" at the top of their voice. They have not endeavored to show who the "grafters" are but content themselves with making the charge in a general way. The people of the county have got next to their little game and their loud talk will have no effect upon the average thinking citizen of the county who has the welfare of the county at heart. Blow your bugles, fellows, no one hears you.

IN JOINT DEBATE.

Colorado in the West matches Delaware in the East. Indeed the Western corruption of citizenship and government is more brazen and cynical. There have been corrupt bargains over the election of senators in Delaware, but these are common in all states. Legislatures are considered a fair field for buying and selling. But we cannot recall, in Delaware or any other state, so shameless a bargain as that by which the governorship of Colorado has been turned over to a man who was not even a candidate for it before the people.—Minneapolis Tribune.

We can easily agree with the Tribune's general conclusions, but would like to refresh its memory with regards to turning over the governship to a man who was not a candidate before the people. Didn't this very thing happen in enlightened Minnesota in 1895 when Knute Nelson resigned the governship to accept the United State senatorship?

Just think of it. Over 3,000 Minnesota high school graduates fell down on a 60 per cent examination in writing, spelling, grammar and geography. In the old fashioned district school pupils learned but a few things—but as a rule they learned them well.—Winnebago City Press News.

There is no question but what there is a great lack of thoroughness in the work of the common branches in the schools to-day, and the trouble in our opinion is just here: Men are chosen as superintendent of our high and graded schools who for the most part have never had any experience in grade teaching, and as a result, for fear of displaying their ignorance in that particular, they dodge the grades and leave them entirely at the discretion of the teacher who is too frequently inexperienced, or inclined to permit her pupils to skim along in a go-easy way. In every school where the superintendent devotes his entire time to the high school and steers clear of the grades, it will be found that pupils cannot pass the state examinations in the common branches, Unless the head of the school is right on this important question of thoroughness in grade work, the best of results will not be accomplished.—Brown's Valley Tribune.

THE COURIER knows little about the Tribune's charge of incompetency on the part of high schools superintendents. and is inclined to disagree, because the average superintendent is a university graduate, and well versed in schools technics. Nevertheless, many of the high school graduates turned out are lacking in the basic educational essentials. The foundation must be secure or the superstructure will fall. A boy or girl must know how to spell, read and write, and be versed in the rudiments of grammar in order to have a foundation for higher educational work. It is an injustice to the school, to the pupils and to the community that so many of our high school "graduates" are misnomers. There is a responsibility for this condition and it ought to be placed.

Great Detective Stories.

The Minneapolis Journal has made arrangements to publish the original Sherlock Holmes detective stories and the popular fiction is now rnnning in that paper. They are being published at the rate of one a week and each one fills an entire page. Each one is a complete story in itself of how the great detective solved some strange and inexplicable crime mystery. The author of these thrilling stories, Conan Doyle, is perhaps the most famous of English story-tellers, and he first won fame by these very stories.

Just Among Ourselves

Edited by the New Boss and an Ax

One of our citizens remarked the other day when he saw Hank W. Lee playing a game of cards that he hoped Hennery had found his game, as he was not a success at the rest of the "games" he had tried to play upon the people of Red Lake county.

Speaking of revival meetings reminds us of a time down in Northern Iowa when similar meetings were being held. The meetings were taking place while a warm county campaign was in progress. Upon being asked by the evaneglist if he was ready to work for Christ a Swede said, "No I tank I vork for Steve Bunt. He ben gude man fer me." Bunt was elected.

Hopeful Hortense: When a young man calls on you plug up the door and windows to make escape impossible and then fasthen him tightly to the mantel piece with a clothes line. After that you can keep him easily by applying chloroform to his face every few hours. If you persevere in these gentle attentions you'll have him so tame he'll eat out of your hand in a very short time.

County Treasurer Hansen is about as fine a looking "brutal tax gatherer" we ever saw. One would never suspect he was the fiend Hennery Lee of Thief River has pictured him to be. The public is not to be deceived however, as Judge Tarrant has placed a placard in a prominent position in the treasurer's office calling attention to the fact that it is the home of the "brutal tax gatherer."

A southern paper remarks: "The peculiar white substance which sifted down from the upper ether in this community yesterday, and which caused much astonishment and speculation, is known in far northern latitudes as snow." Yes, dear brother, and the odoriferous fluid which percolated through the anatomical labyrinths of a number of our citizens last Saturday evening, causing a revolutionary disarrangement of their mental equilibrium, is known in sunny southern latitudes as tonsil varnish.

Wee Harry Ives of the St. Hilaire Spectator has bought an automobile. Holy smut, a country editor owning a choo choo wagon! How does he expect to collect any subscription money when he is riding around like a millionaire. He says its only a half grown one-four horse power-but that does not make matters any better. He says its one of these little red devils—where you pour in the gasolene in one end and it leaves a bad taste in your mouth after it goes by. Say it will be a heap of fun next summer to see Harry down on all fours trying to make the exhaust pipe fit into the packing of the rear tire. He will be sorry then he tried to get ahead of the rest of the newspaper boys of the county.

Many Wonderful Cures Are Made by Pe-ru-na.

CATARRH spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and excretion. It pervades every part of the human body.

Peruna also cures bronchitis, coughs, and consumption in the first stages with unfailing certainty.

Hon. D. Y. Corbin, is ex-United States Senator and cousin of Adjutant General Corbin of the United States Army. Judge Corbin is one of the best known lawyers in Chicago and stands high professionally and socially. The above endorsement coming from such a man cannot help but add weight and importance to the thousands of testimonials from the humbler walks of life.

Catarrh is the cause of at least one-half of the ills to which the human family is subject. Is there no way to escape from it? There is.

Peruna never fails to cure a cold. Peruna never fails to cure catarrh in the first stage. Peruna cures catarrh in the second stage, nine cases out of ten. Peruna cures catarrh in its last and worst stages in the majority of cases, and never fails to benefit every case, however bad.

A book on the cure of throat and lung diseases, and catarrh in all stages and varieties, sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

"My Life Hung by a Mere Thread, Pe-ru-na Cured Me."

Mrs. Sarah Smart, 276 Hayward St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I can't tell in words how low I was. My life hung by a mere thread. I was waiting for months to die.

"My trouble was consumption or bronchitis. I suffered no pain when I was low, but coughing and breathing kept sapping what little strength I had. I could not eat, sleep or even lean back on a chair. I was a mere skeleton. I said to my husband, 'I can't last much longer.' My neighbors say they do not know how I ever recovered. It was almost a miracle.

"I took your medicine but three months, when I could do my housework and washing, and have been doing it ever since. Now I am able to do anything. You would never think I had been troubled with such a serious illness. I shall always keep your medicine in my house."—Mrs. Sarah Smart.

Despaired of Recovery.

Mrs. R. L. Aulich, Vice President American Genealogical Association, 604 H street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I know whereof I speak when I say that Peruna is a wonderful remedy for colds and catarrhal trouble. Last fall I was very much debilitated from the effect of a cold contracted early in the summer and which I neglected. I knew that my system was in need of medicine and rest, but to find the right thing was the problem. Happily I gave Peruna a trial first and have no reason to complain of the results. Within a month I had entirely recovered my strength and good health and really felt better and stronger than before."—Mrs. R. L. Aulich.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Mrs. Chamberlain returned to his room.

Library night was last Friday. We hope to change the books in our library soon so that the pupils will have different ones to read.

A number of boys from room three are spending their recesses in Mr. Healy's room studying. These boys are paying the penalty for "cutting up" during Miss Norby's absence.

The fifth and sixth grade pupils are working to have all red marks removed. To do this we intend to take our books home and study at least one half hour on the subject in which we failed. We hope that our parents will make us study, "lest we forget." Perhaps those who don't have children in school will not know what red marks are. If a pupil gets below 75 per cent in any subject it is put down on the report card in red ink. These are what we are trying to get rid of.

In Dire Distress.

Misery and torture without parallel was the fate of Mr. Chas. Weaver, of Darlington, Wis. He writes: "After taking three boxes of Gloria Tonic my rheumatism entirely disappeared. Previous to taking this remedy I could not sleep nights." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

An Essay on Man.

A smart school girl is said to have written the following essay: "Man is a two legged animal that chews tobacco and walks on the forged end. Most men are born: I never heard of but one that was not, and he was made out of mud, just as a sample. Man's life is full of disappointments, Peruna and cob pipes. He goes forth in the morning like a lion and leaves the wood for his wife to chop, and in the evening he sneakth home with his pants ripped and the heel gone, and raises cain about hard times. He has the grippe on road-working day and walks twenty miles to a circus. He will chase a jack rabbit four miles through the snow, then borrow a neighbor's horse to ride half a mile to the post-office. He will tell you just what to do in case you have the smallpox or yellow fever, then send ten miles for a doctor when he takes the colic. Say a man is greasy and dirty and he gets on the prod, but say he is slick and full of grit and it pleases him. Man's day and man's dollars are numbered and his system is filled with gall.

Everything points to a most prosperous season in the Red River valley. The season is far in advance of that of the country to the south of us.

Red Lake county has a new resident in the person of James Nelson, who arrived with his family from Russell, Lyon county, last week. The family will make their home in Lake Pleasant township and start out under the most favorable conditions. The Ed. The following graceful lie comes from an enterprising Montana newspaper: A farmer in Gallatin county raised 1,000 bushels of popcorn and stored it in his barn. The barn caught fire, the corn began to pop and filled a ten acre field. An old horse in the neighboring pasture had defective eye-sight, and thinking it was snow, laid down and froze to death.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Charles Gardner, of Thief River Falls, was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Bishop for stealing two chickens valued at fifty cents. It will cost the county fifty dollars or more. Yes, Harry, but you know Thief River is the taxpayer's friend. Moving court houses and sending men to the grand jury for a trivial offense don't count.

Crookston Journal: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rieck, of Red Lake Falls, were in the city Friday attending to matters of business. They said that the roads between Red Lake Falls and Crookston were not bad this side of Gentilly but were rather muddy on the other side. Mr. and Mrs. Reick have sold out their farm there and will leave for Waseca, where they will make their future home. They have farmed near Red Lake Falls for seven years but are getting old and wish to return to their old home in Waseca county to make their home again among their old friends.

Bound hand and foot and gagged, the maiden was put into the gunnysack, and, unable to move or scream, felt herself being carried down a flight of stairs, put into a buggy and then driven down the street. Inaffectually she tried to release herself from the gag. Alas! she was bound too securely. Finally the conveyance stopped. She was again carried into a building, fainting and gasping for breath; the sack was taken from her head. The villian, still masked, took the gag from her mouth, his eyes gleaming like coals of fire through his black mask, released her and hissed through his tightly clenched teeth: "There, my pretty bird, scream and yell as loud as you like, no human ear will ever hear you. You are in my power. Do you hear? Totally within my power!" "Where am I?" she gasped. "In a store that never advertises," was the cruel response. "Alas! Alas!," she moaned. "No power on earth can save me; no one will look for me here," and the poor girl fainted.

ECZEMA A FLESH FIRE

Those afflicted with Eczema know more than can be told of the suffering imposed by this "flesh fire." It usually begins with a slight redness of the skin, which gradually spreads, followed by blisters and pustules discharging a thin, sticky fluid that dries and scales off, leaving an inflamed surface, and at times the itching and burning are almost unbearable. While any part of the body is liable to be attacked, the hands, feet, back, arms, face and legs are the parts most often afflicted. The cause of Eczema is a too acid condition of the blood. The circulation becomes loaded with fiery, acid poisons that are forced through the glands and pores of the skin which set the flesh aflame. Since the cause of the disease is in the blood it is a waste of time to try to cure it with local applications; the cause must be removed before a cure can be effected. S. S. S. has no equal as a remedy for Eczema; it enters the blood and forces out the poison through the natural channels, and builds up the entire system. The skin becomes smooth and soft again, and the Eczema is cured. Cases that have persistently refused to be cured under the ordinary treatment yield to its purifying, cooling effect on the blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any advice wished, without charge.

Eczema made its appearanee on my left limb the size of my thumb in 1893, and spread until it was large as my hand, burning, itching and paining me, and for which I could get no relief, until seeing the other cures advertised by you I wrote and secured the advise of your physicians, commenced S. S. S. and it cured me.

LETTER FROM ST. PAUL.

The Senior Courier Editor Gives a Few Notes From the Capitol.

St Paul, March 28, 1905—Governor Johnson's veto of the Horton bill has been the chief topic of interest about the capitol for the past several days, and there are various guesses as to what the legislature will do with it. It will be remembered that one of the first bills introduced at this session was the measure by Senator Hiler Horton taking control of the capitol out of the governor's hands and vesting it in the board of capitol commissioners. By fair-minded it was conceded to be a petty scheme to take away a little patronage from the Democratic executive and make a few more places for the Ramsey county Republican organization. An effort was made to line up the full Republican strength for the obnoxious measure. but this was unsuccessful. In the house the bill was passed by a very small majority, and then after a number of amendments had been adopted. It is hardly probable that the house will now vote to over-ride the veto. The governor's message is a strong and forceful paper, and is commended on all sides. He says in part:

"I cannot acquiesce in the implication that the governor of the state, chosen by a majority of the people of state, is incompetent to discharge the duties of his office, as applied to this particular instance, I am constrained to herewith return senate file No. 4. A bill for an act to provide for the care and maintenances of the new state capitol,' and to appropriate money therefor,' without my approval. I would recommend that the legislature provide a sufficient appropriation to cover the cost and maintenance of the capitol; to provide for the appointment by the governor of a superintendent of capitol building and grounds, and authorize the governor to provide for such other employes as may be necessary. I would especially urge in this connection that for all employes where technical knowledge and ability is required, that a civil service rule be applied in order that this class of help might not be changed with varying administrations for political purposes.

Hon. Cleve Van Dyke, executive clerk in the governor's office, has come in for a good share of baninage of late. Some three weeks ago he inadvertently gave it out that he was going down town to take a bath. Of course Frank Day heard of it, and the occasion afforded a most delightful opportunity for playful raillery. Cleve was called up by phone, and Frank proceeded to read him out of the Democratic party, declaring that he had violated one of the time-honored traditions of Jeffersonian simplicity, and that his refrehensible conduct demanded the most severe censure. Of course Cleve couldn't understand what it was all about or why Secretary Day's ire should be aroused, until it was explained that the breach of Democratic faith and precedent consisted in taking a bath! However, it happened on this occasion that the bath-tub fixtures were not properly adjusted, and Cleve burned one of his feet so badly that he was obliged to go to the hospital. Frank now tells Mr. Van Dyke's friends that it must have been Cleve's first fall from grace, as it is apparent he didn't know how to use a bath-tub. On this assumption his error was excused, and he has been restored to full fellowship in the Democratic party.

The capitol is open on Sundays, and thousands of St. Paul and Minneapoiis people take advantage of the opportunity to visit the handsome marble edifice. It is estimated that fully 15,000 people were here last Sunday. There seems to be no dimiunation in the number of persons who want to inspect the seat of state government.

The spring term of the supreme court commences next Tuesday, April 4, and the judicial arm of the government will take on a busy appearance. The sumptious supreme court chamber is now completed, with the exception of the hanging of three of LaFarge's celebrated paintings. Four of these pictures are provided for at a cost of $40,000. One is now in place, and this represents the "Moral and Divine Law." It illustrates Moses on Mt. Sinai receiving the tablet of stone containing the ten commandments from the angel, The other three will typify the development of law.

Probably the handsomest room in the building is the governor's reception room. The wainscot of this room is of oak, elaborately carved, and ornamented in dull gold. The walls above wainscot, and the ceiling, are heavily gilded. A painting by Mr. F. D. Millet, "The Treaty of Traverse Des Sioux," and one by Mr. Douglas Volk "Discovery of the Falls of St. Anthony by Father Hennepin," are to be placed at the east ends of this room. Four other pictures, depicting Minnesota's part in the Civil War, are to be placed in the four large panels.

Women are more often afflicted with kidney disorders than men, but attribute the symptoms to diseases peculair to their sex, while in reality the kidneys are deranged. Nervousness, heacaches, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, pain in the back, are signs of kidney trouble that must not be ignored, or a serious malady will result. Foley's Kidney Cure has restored the health of thousands of weak, nervous, broken down women. It stops irregularities and strengthens the urinary organs. It purifies the blood and benefits the whole system. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Where are We At?

It used to be that a country editor had certain inalienable rights, among which were drinking as much and as often as his friends would buy, immunity from arrest, etc., etc., but in these degenerate days all his ancient privileges have been taken away and he is but little better than a slave or a worn-out politician. Witness the fate of the Wilmont Initiator. He went to the Hub last Monday, and not being aware of the strength and fierceness of Worthington bug juice, innocently took on too much of it, and was pinched by the cruel mioons of the law. Tuesday morning he was taken before Justice Dow, who fined him $10.00 and costs, amounting in all to $13.66. Thus, brethren, has the editorial prerogative gone glimmering, and all that is left of our whilom liberties is a cipher with the circle erased. Henceforth we must drink nothing stronger than pop or buttermilk, or which of us is safe?--Adrian Democrat.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lung.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs. and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Why Defeat Him?

Albert Lea Standard: That there is an increasing number of impartial and independent Republicans in this state, Republicans of manhood, intelligence and courage, and who with patriotic sincerity consider the welfare of their country and the state superior to the restricted and arbitary allegiance to their party—and can thus do justice to honest and public servant even though not their political complexion, is a admirably exemplified in the following editorial from the Albert Lea daily Tribune of March 8.

Editor Luce says: "Some of the simon pure Republicans of last autumn are worrying lest Gov. Johnson be a hard man to defeat, but if he proves what is wanted in the state why defeat him? The steel trust, the Standard Oil monopoly and the pine timber thieves must not be permitted to dictate who shall or shall not be governor, even if they have the able assistance of the mergerites. If Gov. Johnson continues to perform his duties satisfactorily and vetoes some of the legislative woodchucks when they reach him, he will earn the gratitude of the state and he will be "a hard man to defeat."

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

NO DIVORCE FOR "BUFFALO BILL"

A WESTERN JUDGE DECIDES AGAINST COL. W. F. CODY IN HIS SUIT.

Famous Defendant Is Roundly Scored for Heaping Indignities Upon His Wife in Return for Her Fidelity and Devotion.

Sheridan, Wyo., March 24.—The district court here has refused the petition of Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) for a divorce. Judge R. H. Scott delivered an opinion of considerable length, reviewing the allegations and evidence and giving his conclusions. An exception to the ruling of the court was noted by Judge H. S. Ridgley, attorney for Col. Cody, and his request for 60 days for filing a petition for a rehearing was granted. The motion for a new trial will be argued at the next term of court and in case this is denied Cody's attorneys will take the matter to the supreme court of Wyoming.

Charge of Poison Disproven.

Judge Scott, in his opinion, said:

"The first cause of action in this case is the charge of poisoning on December 26, 1900, or some time prior thereto. The evidence wholly fails to support this issue, but shows the defendant was trying to rescue the plaintiff from a state of intoxication and administered no poison, but remedies which she deemed beneficial to him. His inability to speak on this occasion did not come from these remedies, but came from his excessive use of intoxicating liquors at the banquet board, and was as humiliating to the defendant as to the plaintiff."

Judge Scott also found that the charge of unbecoming actions on the part of the defendant toward the colonel's guests was not proven; that there was evidence that she had ever threatened her husband's life.

Tribute to the Wife.

"She was an over-indulgent mother and wife, who always took pride in his success and always looked forward to his home coming, and made great preparations to receive him," said Judge Scott. "She entertained his guests with cordiality. She did not use profane language. The poisoning of his pet dogs was accidental. She never spoke disrespectfully of him to his friends or guests. She always accompanied him to the depot on his departures and was there to receive him on his return. In her home she has a large statute of him in the hall; in her bedroom she has his portrait done by a famous painter on her stand, and her dishes were stamped and etched with his portrait. Such in brief is the character and conduct of Mrs. Cody extending over a long period of married life.

Husband Scored.

"In return for this wifely devotion the plaintiff has been cruel to her and heaped indignities upon her. Even if it were true that the defendant had at times been impatient with him, and such impatience has been considered as indignities, it is also true that she has had much to contend with. There are some allegations in the answer that are not sustained by the evidence. From the evidence it does not appear that the plaintiff was so addicted to gambling as to impair his business abilities or trustworthiness. He did not use intoxicating liquors in such quantities as to interfere with the transaction of his business."

Held on Serious Charge.

New York, March 25.—Francis P. Magoun, of the banking and brokerage firm of Magoun Bros. & Co., of Wall street, which failed a few years ago, was held in $10,000 bail for examination in the Tombs police court Friday on a charge of grand larceny.

DEATH OF JULES VERNE.

Famous Novelist Passes Away at Amiens, France—Short Sketch of His Career.

Amiens, France, March 25.—Jules Verne, the famous novelist, died here Friday. His family was at his bedside.

Verne was born at Nantes in 1828. Like many other famous authors, he began his career by studying law, but he found this profession not congenial and began to gratify his taste for writing. At that time the stage offered the best inducements to a young author, and he wrote plays and librettos, and for a time was secretary of the Theater Lyrique. In 1868 he published his "Five Weeks in a Balloon," and this decided his future. He had discovered his power to combine in the form of a story daring flights of the imagination with the operation of the laws of nature.

He rewrote his stories many times, having made ten copies of the manuscript of one book before he got it to his satisfaction. For 37 years he wrote an average of two stories every year. His most popular books are "A Journey to the Center of the Earth," "Around the World in Eighty Days," "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "The Mysterious Island," "Michael Strogoff" and "From the Earth to the Moon Direct in Ninety-Seven Hours, Twenty Minutes; and a Journey Around It."

BEEF TRUST INQUIRY BEGINS

Judge Humphrey Urges Utmost Secrecy in Investigation in Chicago.

Chicago, March 23.—Instructions were delivered to the special federal grand jury by Judge Humphrey, in the United States district court, Wednesday. Within 15 minutes after the jury retired the first witness appeared before the body and the sweeping investigation of the packing combine was under way. Judge Humphrey's charge had been carefully prepared to cover every detail of the inquiry. He first impressed upon the jurors the solemnity of their office as jurors and the grave importance of the task they were about to take up.

He told them they were to probe charges of violations of federal statutes and to leave no stone unturned to get at the truth. Finally he charged them to preserve secrecy outside the grand jury room and talk to no man upon the subject of their investigations. A. G. Hoffman, of Mendota, was appointed by Judge Humphrey as foreman. The jury then retired and began their deliberations.

SNUBS UNCLE SAM.

President Castro, of Venezuela, Refuses to Arbitrate Issues with United States.

Washington, March 25. — Minister Bowen cabled the state department Friday from Caracas that President Castro had flatly refused to arbitrate the pending issues between Venezuela and the United States. President Castro denied that Venezuela had questions pending with the United States, and declared the case of the New York & Bermuda Asphalt company must remain in the courts. The administration will take no action in regard to the reply which President Castro of Venezuela made to Minister Bowen. The matter was fully discussed at the cabinet meeting, and it was determined to allow the matter to await developments. It can be said positively that no determination was reached which would involve drastic action on the part of the American government.

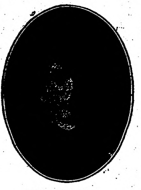
REMAIN ANOTHER WEEK.

The Misses Smith and Reed to Conduct Meetings Another Week.

Miss Anna Smith and Miss Nellie Reed, the evangelists, are meeting with great success in their work in the city. The services are largely attended and nearly fifty persons have decided to begin the Christian life.

In response to an earnest petition to allow the young ladies remain another week the church authorities have extended the time of the meetings to next Wednesday night, instead of closing to-night, as is usual in these evangelistic campaigns. Miss Smith will speak Sunday both morning and evening.



MISS ANNA SMITH.

The sermon tomorrow evening will be on "Excuses." Miss Smith is a speaker of extraordinary charm and tact, speaking easily and simply and attracts both old and young. She has had wide experience in Christian work and uses this experience very effectively.

Miss Reed but recently begun gospel singing and so has not fallen into any of the common faults of evangelistics singers. She has a rich, pure voice, which is combined with an attractive personality and rare dramatic power.

Last Thursday evening the jury on the Peter Rockford case returned a verdict of not guilty. Young Rocheford was accused of breaking into freight cars at Thief River Falls.

Friday the evidence in the case of Andrew P. Erickson vs. John Grady, administrator for the Ole Hannen estate, was heard. The court will hand down its decision at a later date. The evidence in three other cases were submitted and decisions were withheld until a future date. Court adjourned to meet on Wednesday of this week.

Yesterday Judge Watts resumed his labors and heard the evidence in the case of Peter Engelstad vs. the board of County Commissioners. Arguments in the case are to be submitted by brief. Court adjourned to meet May 16th, at which time several important cases will be tried.

Science and Manufacture.

American manufactures have received so much praise lately that a little adverse criticism will do no harm. A noted English chemist says American manufacturers and business men have given too little attention to the progress made by science and that, in this respect, the English and the Germans have far excelled them. This, however, does not apply to the manufacture of golden grain belt beer in which we lead the world. It has taken years of careful study and thought to perfect this brew, but today you get it in all its purity and healthfulness, without doubt the most perfect food tonic ever produced. NEW SERVICE MONDAY,

Great Northern Said to be Planning to Start New Trains.

The new train service on the Great Northern via Tilden will start next Monday. Assistant General Supt. Brown, Supt. T. Jinks of the northern division and chief Engineer Jackson passed through Crookston Tuesday morning in their private cars enroute to Greenbush upon a trip of inspection which will probably be the final one prior to the change in the train service which is scheduled for next Monday morning and if possible trains will be sent over the new route at that time. The condition of the sink hole at this place may prevent the passage of trains unless a sudden termination of the trouble is affected this week by the employees of the road. But officially the change in train arrangement will begin Monday morning next.

Nothing could be learned this week as to the exact plans of the company for the extension in this section this summer, but the fact that several trips have been made over the northern division by the officials during the past few weeks and that rumor continues to have it that the extension will be made this season is considered as evidence that considerable work will be done.

The meeting of Roseau county and Northern Minnesota merchants and business men called for the purpose of promoting the interests of that section will take up the railroad question and will do all that it can to ascertain exactly what the intentions of the Great Northern are regarding building operations in northern Minnesota this summer.

BELIEVES IN CHRISTIANITY.

William J. Bryan Expresses Faith in the Nazerene.

The following extract is taken from the recent lecture of W. J. Bryan delivered at the Plymouth church in Minneapolis:

"The feeling, among many educated people is that religion is for the ignorant; and of late years it is the sentiment among the cultured class that they have outgrown the use of religion. Religion is not a feeling that is for the exclusion of any one particular class of people nor as it is sometimes misconstrued, a feeling of fear, but it is the consciousness that there exists an infinite being and this is a belief that cannot be outgrown.

I sometimes feel, said he, that scientists in attempting to figure out the history of the world from examining the rocks never looked at the stars. As a boy I read that the Lord created the heavens and earth, and I determined to make my stand there, and until the scientists could go further back than that, my faith would remain unshaken. A God who can make the earth can do anything he wants with it, and the chain of evidence that appears to give another conception of the creation of the earth can just as well be a part of his scheme of creation as it was possible for Christ to preform miracles. If primarily we possess faith we can believe in these miracles and then we can know that everything is possible.

Another element of doubt, he says, arises with many people because they fail to see why Christ should have given up his life for us. They aver that it is inconsistent and unnecessary that any man be called upon to give up his life for another; that the result can be attained without resorting to such an extreme. One can well say to this that not in the world's history was there ever a great reform possible unless it was carried out by men who were willing to give their lives for principles that they valued more than life. The most powerful beliefs that are a part of our religion are based upon sacrifices. There are some people who would have it appear that they did not believe in the christian religion, but will admit that such a person as Christ probably existed. They will not believe, however, that he was of divine origin. To prove the divinity of Christ I would not prove it by a miracle. I would take his life here on earth and the gospel that he preached than let you ask yourself whether he was human or divine. No philosophy has ever been given to the world that can approach the grandeur of principles which was expounded in his sermon on the Mount."

SHOT AN EAGLE.

Last week Al Leyman of Crookston made a killing which was well worth nothing. He was driving along the shores of Lake Julia, near Buena Vista when he saw a large bald eagle, flying towards him. The eagle did not appear to be frightened and finally lit on a branch of a tree some distance ahead of him. Mr. Leyman had with him a 38 calibre Colt's and drawing this he brought down the bird with one shot.

This bird is one of the largest which has ever been killed in the state and is a treasure. It is being stuffed at a taxidermists and will be kept by Leyman who considers it a prize. It measures seven feet from tip to tip of its wings and is beautifully marked. Mr. Leyman always goes well armed and frequently has fine shots while going through the woods.

Many of the potatoes grown in the locality are sold as "New Bermudas," and are said to be really better than the genuine Bermudas,

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Wolf Bounties.

Wolf bounties for the last month show that the business of killing of wolves in Minnesota is becoming scientific and lucrative. The returns from the counties of the money paid out for bounties indicate that the persons who make a practice of slaughtering wolves for the bounties are able to distinguish a full grown wolf from a cub, and rarely kill a cub, which bring only $1, when by leaving it at large for a few months it will bring them $7.50.

A list of warrants drawn by the state auditor shows that out of 560 applications for bounties there were only fifteen cubs, all of which were killed in Todd county. The report shows $4,096 was paid out for bounties during the month.

Todd county had 118 applications and received $787.50; St. Louis 52, $390; Goodhue, 31, $233.50, Filmore 42, $315. Ramsey had one and Hennepin does not appear on the list.

No Fakirs Allowed.

The Minnesota state fair management has joined Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois in a movement to bar bearded women, snake charmers, muscle dancers, fakirs of all sorts, in fact all monstrosities from future fairs.

Representatives of the state organizations were in session in De Moines. They plan to form a circuit for the betterment of those organizations to compose it.

The decision to bar fakirs is said to be the culmination of a movement started two years ago. The scheme has been accepted by the six managements and will become effective next year.

More Swamp Land.

Minnesota is about to get another allotment of federal swamp lands located within the state borders. The selection of 43,127 acres of federal lands located in Kittson and Roseau counties has been allowed by the surveyor general for the government, and is duly approved by the state auditor's department. The papers will now go to the governor who in turn will request that a patent be granted by the United States land commissioner at Washington, to the state of Minnesota. This selection is made under the swamp land grant provisions of the old law of 1860.

The Child's Friend.

J. W. Olson, in a circular letter sent out to the county and city superintendents of schools, calls attention to the fact that April 2 is the hundreth anniversary of the birthday of Hans Christian Anderson, and suggests that his name be commemorated in some way by the school children of the state. The state superintendent says in his letter:

"April 2, 1905, should be a day memorable to childhood the world over. It is the centennial birthday of Hans Christian Anderson, 'the friend of the children,' whose tales charm and interest them as they charmed and interested their mothers and fathers before them."

Can't Get to Work.

Newly appointed boiler inspectors in half of the districts of the state have found barren honor up to the present time. They have received commissions from the governor bearing the great seal of the state, but they have been unable to get to work inspecting boilers and, more important still, collecting fees.

The reason for the trouble is that over half of the inspectors whose terms of office expired at the close of last year have refused to turn over the records of their office to the newly appointed inspectors.

Activity in the Range.

As the season advances and the beginning of navigation approaches, the preparations for a record-breaking ore output increase. Mine after mine that has been idle for more or less time gets into shape for production, and as fast as men are found they are set at work. More and more stripping contracts are let upon the Mesaba range, and more and more do the developments indicate that the year will see the total ore moved up to 30,000,000 tons.

Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, second, to lie awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the brain cells, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To right it, take Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Dizziness, Headache, Backache, Worry, Fretfulness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity.

Nothing will give such quick and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not sit up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he continued to grow worse. He could neither sleep or eat. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We began giving it to him, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. Nervine saved his life."—MRS. A. G. HASKIN, Freeville, N. Y.

TAKES FIRST STEP TO CLOSE THE WAR

RUSSIA NAMES NEGATIVE CONDITIONS UPON WHICH PEACE MAY BE CONCLUDED.

Leaves Japan to Decide Whether She Can Accept Them—President Roosevelt Has Not Been Asked to Assist in Ending Hostilities.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—It is announced that a step in the direction of peace actually has been taken. Russia has indirectly made known to Japan the negative conditions upon which peace may be concluded, namely no cession of territory and no indemnity, leaving Japan to determine whether negotiations can be begun upon that basis. No reply from Japan has yet reached the Russian government. Russia thus avoids the attitude of suing for peace or actually submitting proposals. Having been apprised of Russia's position Japan has two alternatives, either to decline absolutely to open negotiations on such a basis or indicate her own attitude. If the negotiations are opened Russia probably will be prepared to make broad concessions on collateral issues.

Not Yet Asked.

Washington, March 30.—Neither Russia nor Japan have asked President Roosevelt to assist them in ending the war. So far as the Washington governmen is aware Emperor Nicholas has not yet weakened in his announced decision "to prosecute the war to the bitter end." From the outset of the war the president has taken the position, as has been repeatedly announced by Secretary Hay, that he will do anything in his power to assist Russia and Japan to a peace basis when his services shall be acceptable to the belligerents. But it is authoritatively stated that no official of the Washington government is ambitious to pose as the mediator between the czar and mikado.

Japan Won't Accept.

London, March 31.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister, declared that he had no information in regard to the announcement that Russia had indirectly made known to Japan the negative conditions on which peace might be concluded, namely no cession of territory and no indemnity, leaving Japan to determine whether peace negotiations could be begun upon that basis, but he said unreservedly that the terms then mentioned could not even be considered, and added: "A cession of territory and an indemnity are the only points negotiable, as Japans ante bellum demands have already been secured by Japan."

M. Takahashi (the Japanese special financial commissioner) in an interview said: "The war cost between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 the first year, and it is estimated that it will cost $350,000,000 during the present year. It would be unprecedented in the history of great wars that no indemnity and no territory be given up by the vanquished."

Peace Not in Sight.

Washington, April 1.—M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, is of the opinion that peace is not in immediate prospect between Russia and Japan. He so expressed himself after a visit to President Roosevelt Friday, to bid him good-by before the president goes on his southwestern trip, and said that both combatants at this time appeared to be bent on continuing hostilities for a satisfactory adjustment of their difficulties. He added that he did not talk with the president on the subject of mediation, and he did not believe that the Washington government had yet concerned itself officially in any movement looking to a cessation of the war. It was learned, however, that the prospects of peace were discussed at length.

A New Proposal.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—According to the peace reports circulated on the Bourse Saturday Russia will cede the southern portion of the island of Sakhalin, in the North Pacific off the east coast of Asia, used as a Russian convict settlement, to Japan, and agree that Manchuria and Korea are permanently outside a Russian sphere of influence, and the eastern Chinese railroad will be turned over to Japan for cession to China or an international syndicate upon a consideration of $125,000,000, which Japan will accept in lieu of indemnity.

Invites All Nations.

Washington, March 30.—The president has issued a proclamation inviting the nations of the earth to be represented by their military organizations and naval vessels at the celebration to be held in the vicinity of Jamestown, Va., from May 13 until November, 1907.

Unveiling Postponed.

BANK IS CLOSED.

Defalcation by Employes of Nearly $100,000 Causes Trouble to Lorain, O., Institution.

Lorain, O., April 1.—As the result of an aggregate defalcation of almost $100,000 by three employes, the Citizens' savings bank, the oldest concern in the city, has closed its doors. The decision was reached by the directors after a long session Thursday night. At the usual time for opening the doors of the bank Friday there were several hundred depositors on hand ready to draw their money should the opportunity present itself. The crowd was made up for the most part of foreigners. Posted upon the door was a notice which read: "This bank closed for business. The affairs of the bank have been placed in the hands of T. F. Fancher as assignee."

President Honecker, of the bank, stated Friday that the defaulting employes had agreed to turn everything of value they possessed to the bank. Mr. Honecker declared that he believed the depositors would receive every cent due them. From authoritative sources it is learned that the exact sum of the shortage in the funds of the bank is $97,000. To offset this the three defaulting employes carried indemnity bonds in favor of the bank aggregating $40,000, and in addition have turned over real estate and other property to the bank to the value of $12,000, leaving the net loss to the institution $45,000.

PRESIDENT TAKES VACATION

Will Be Absent from Washington for Several Weeks—To Hunt Game in Colorado.

Washington, April 3.—President Roosevelt left Washington this morning on a long trip to the west and southwest. He will be absent from the capital for nearly two months. One of the chief objects of the trip, which the president long has had in mind, is the reunion of his Rough Rider regiment of the Spanish-American war, which is to take place at San Antonio, Tex., next Friday, and for which an elaborate programme of exercises has been arranged. There will be a number of brief stops en route to San Antonio, where the president will make addresses. Leaving San Antonio, there will be a brief stop and address at Fort Worth, which will terminate the public part of the trip, following which the president is to go hunting in the Panhandle of Texas and later in Colorado. All arrangements have been made whereby the president will keep in touch with public affairs both during his railroad ride and while hunting, so that he will be enabled to pass on all matters requiring his attention. The president is looking forward with keen pleasure to his long vacation.

HITS ARMOUR OFFICIAL.

Thomas J. Connors Indicted for Interfering with Witness in Meat Inquiry.

Chicago, March 29.—Thomas J. Conners, general superintendent for Armour & Co., and the right-hand man of J. Ogden Armour in the management of his packing industries throughout the United States, was indicted by the special federal grand jury Tuesday on a charge of interfering with witnesses who had been summoned to testify in the beef trust inquiry. Mr. Connors was arrested at his residence, No. 3124 Michigan avenue, and taken to the Monadnock building. He appeared before Chief Clerk C. A. Buell of the United States district court, who released the prisoner on $5,000 bonds. The sureties were Edward Tilden, president of Libby, McNeill & Libby, and Alfred R. Urion, general counsel for Armour & Co. Mr. Connors was the first to feel the strong arm of the government since the beef inquiry began, but it is understood that others are in danger of arrest on the same charge.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her children will return to Washington in about ten days.

Laporte, Ind., March 30.—Daniel Shaw, an ox driver in Chicago in 1837, and who served 68 years as a justice of the peace in this county, his record believed to be without precedent in the United States, died Wednesday afternoon, at the age of 91 years.

FORTY MINERS ARE ENTOMBED.

TERIFFIC EXPLOSION BLOWS MOUTH OF MINE HIGH INTO THE AIR.

Fatal Accident at Zeigler, Ill., Follows a Long and Bitter Labor Disagreement.

Benton, Ill., April 4.—A terrific explosion of gas entombed forty miners yesterday in Joseph Leiter's mine at Zeigler.

At midnight the number of dead was estimated at thirty-four, wounded five.

Up to this hour fifteen dead bodies have been taken out.

Besides these bodies three were removed alive but with fatal injuries.

The explosion, it is supposed, was due to the fact that the Leiter miners are not worked on Sunday, thus allowing gas to accumulate in the lower workings.

When between thirty-five and sixty-five miners had descended into the mine yesterday to resume work, an explosion blew the mouth of the mine high into the air.

One of the steel cages was blown to the surface from the bottom of a five hundred foot shaft.

The shock of the explosion was felt at Benton, twelve miles northwest of Zeigler.

A teamster driving along a road half a mile from the mine was covered with falling cinders, and debris covered the floor of the wagon half an inch deep.

One miner was killed and four were severely injured at the mouth of the shaft in which the explosion occurred.

The work of rescue was begun at once by miners who were arriving when the explosion took place, but the main shaft was demolished so that rescue work has to be carried on by way of the air shaft.

The rescue party find it difficult to work in the mine owing to the absence of a proper fan to purify the mine air.

All the bodies found show no marks of injury, indicating death by asphyxiation. All but four of these found worked in the shaft by numbers and their names have not yet been ascertained.

The bodies are so blackened that identification is difficult.

Last night thirty-one coffins, accompanied by an undertaker, arrived in Zeigler.

A Queer Condition.

Paynesville, Minn., April 4.—This village is enjoying the unique experience of not being able to receive mail from St. Cloud, the county seat, a distance of thirty-one miles, with having the same brought here by way of Minneapolis over the Soo line instead of over the Great Northern railway and from that station as heretofore.

The postoffice department has set a price that it will be pay for the transportation of mail from the Great Northern station, two miles away, to the postoffice, but no one has yet been found willing to carry the mail for that price. A local bus driver has named a price at which he will carry the sack but the department refuses to pay his price.

New Evidence.

New Ulm, Minn., April 4.—The presence of Dr. G. R. Koch's attorneys in this city has renewed interest in the case, which is to be retried at Mankato this month. Questioned as to what the defense would have to offer, Mr. Abbott said: "We have without question a very strong case. We have added new evidence that makes the case such that there can be no question as to an acquittal for Dr. Koch. Aside from this, we have had detectives at work on clues that are much more conclusive than the one that led to the arrest of Dr. Koch."

Maniac May be Firebug.

La Crosse, Wis., April 4.—The mysterious man who has frightened residents on the east side of the city for nearly two years is now thought to be George Gruber, who was arrested by the police in the act of disrobing in the street before a number of fashionable residences. Gruber was examined and found to be insane. It is believed by the police that Gruber is the man who set fire to several residences with the last few months, and he is the man who, without clothes, has sped through the eastern part of the city, at intervals, for many months. Gruber is a printer, aged forty-eight years.

OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

THE Hon. Hiler H. Horton is eligible to honorary membership in the Ramsey County Republican Charwomen's Protective association.

THE Mankato Free Press wants the board of control elective and made responsible to the people. Something like the railroad and warehouse commission, eh?

ASSUMING that all of the county officials and the folks at Red Lake Falls generally are "grafters" and three-cards-monte sharks, how much better would conditions be if the county-seat was removed to Thief River?

THE St. Cloud Times notes that the only Republican newspapers which cannot recover from the jolt received by the election of John A. Johnson are Governor Dunn's Princeton Union and Private Secetary Mitchell's Fairmont News.

THE untimely interference of Attorney General Young with his suit for the cancellation of the "sliver" mine lease caused a temporary lull in the proceedings of the public accounts committee. The whitewash was delayed until another barrel of lime could be secured and a heavier coat applied.

THE present legislature contains too many gubernatorial aspirants for its own good. Several meritorious primary bills were killed because they interfered with the plans of some of the prospective governors. The Lund bill was on example. Mr. Lund figures he stand no show in a state convention, but believes he would win in a primary election.

HON. LEONARD A. ROSING, one of the leading Democrats of the state, and once a candidate for governor, on Monday succeeded J. F. Jacobsen as a member of the board of control. Mr. Rosing is pre-eminently a business men, by temperament and experience is equipped for the duties of the position to which he has been called. The board of control is non-partisan, and every employee of the state institutions is under the protective of civil service rules. Two members of the board as at present constituted, are Democrats—Mr. Rosing and S. W. Leavitt of Litchfield. O. B. Gould of Winona is the Republican member.

Biliousness, constipation prevent recovery. Cure these with Ayer's Pills.

MINNESOTA receives from the thirty-three railroads operating in the state as gross earnings taxes for the year 1904 $1,911,184.43, as against $1,971,6297 for the previous year, a decrease of $60,478.24. The gross earnings of the companies for last year amounted to $64,596,943.05 and for the preceding year $66,800,130.55, a falling off of $2,203,127.50.

IF there is anything the matter with the county officials we would suggest that the proper remedy is to elect new ones. Conditions would not be improved by moving the seat of government. The unjust and unmanly charge made by the Thief River county officialdom is unworthy of decent journals. A lie is easily circulated, but if there is a scintilla of proof of corruption on the part of a Red Lake county official THE COURIER is ready to do its part in meting out proper punishment.

OUR friend Miller of the St. Peter Free Press intimates that THE COURIER is perniciously active in criticizing the congressmen who voted for mileage grab, and insists that Democratic editors should not throw stones. The Minnesota Democracy isn't occupying a glass house just now, thank you, and on this particular issue her skirts are singularly clear. But why should the Free Press insist so strenuously that the mileage steal is all right? Surely the congressional delegation from the Third district is not endangered?

THE sociological editor of Red Wing Republican has distinct and decided ideas, as will be seem by the following from that paper: Fortunate is the women who possesses the ability to support herself, but far more fortunate the woman whose fortune is bound up in the love and devotion to loyal husband who gains from her the inspiration and incentive to provide the daily bread and as much more as possible, while she makes a home the most delightful place that earth affords, and nurtures and trains to manhood and womanhood the little lives that are given her to care for.

THE voter is not going to be deceived on the county-seat proposition by froth and foam. The people of Red Lake Falls and of Thief River Falls are probably about the average in intelligence and morality. Most of them are good, some may be indifferent and possibly a few of them bad, but this is neither here nor there as respects the county-seat. Red Lake Falls is more favorably situated geographically, and is nearer the center of population; much valuable county property is located here, which would be practically a total loss in advent of removal; the expenses of removal would be heavy. These are considerations which appeal to the voter and tax-payer.

THE Slayton Gazette says one peculiarity of our freight rates is that a merchant in Omaha or Denver can get better rates on goods shipped from England or Germany than if he shipped the goods from New York. Mr. Anderson, a merchant of Boise City, Idaho, contracted recently for a carload of dolls with a manufacturer in Germany. By having the dolls shipped direct from Germany he could get an "import" rate from New York to Portland, Oregon, of 50 cents per hundred. The regular rate from New York to Portland, Oregon, is $3.90 per hundred weight. Of course discrimination in favor of the foreign manufacturer is one of things the railroads will have to explain in this campaign of education.

THE HORTON BILL.

There can be no defense of the action of the Republican majority of the legislature in making the control of the state capitol a party measure. The Horten bill was conceived in iniquity, and reared in the vicious environment of ward politics. There was no necessity for taking control of the capitol away from the governor; certainly there was no demand for such action. But a few of the St. Paul Republicans saw an opportunity to grab a bit of patronage. They concluded to take the state capitol out of the governor's control under the far fetched plea that the capitol commission had not finished its work, and gratuitouly assumed that under the old plan there would be a divided authority. A $3,000 berth was also planned for a member of the commission, but the house interfered with Senator Horton's scheme in this respect.

The bill passed over the governor's veto provide that the capitol shall be managed and controlled by the commission until the building is completed, and the date of completion is set for not later than January 1, 1907—a date co-incident with the close of Governor Johnson's administration. As the commission is sole judge of the matter it is not likely the capitol will be "completed" to the satisfaction of that body until the latest date allowed by law. It is a poorly disguised arrangement to take control out of the hands of a Democratic governor, and return it in the advent of Republican success two years from now. The capitol patronage is of small consequence to the governor or the Democratic party, but the principle involved will subject the legislature to much adverse criticism. There was no attempt to defend the bill, even by it author, and the Republican press is unanimous in condemning it as the most belittling measure ever dignified by a hearing in the Minnesota legislature.

Exchange Echoes.

Albert Lea Standard: Papers throughout the state, Republican as well as Democratic, are praising John Lind for voting in congress against the mileage grab, he alone of all the members from this state being against it. The praise is well deserved—John Lind is that kind of a man in every sphere of duty.

St. Cloud Times: As the price of coal is scheduled to fall April 1st, the ice trust probably has that date carefully jotted down as the time to proceed against the consumer in earnest.

Heron Lake News (Rep.): The Horton bill, which provides that the capitol commission shall retain control of the capitol, seems to have precipitated a party fight. Gov. Johnson vetoed the bill and now the legislature proposes to pass it over his head. There is no political sense or common decency in taking the control of the building from the governor's hands and those who are practicing such small politics ought to be doing something to earn their salary instead of haggling over such matters. The News hopes Gov. Johnson will win out and retain control of the capitol building during his term of office. He is practically responsible for the care of the property anyway.

St. James Journal: St. Paul's "scrubwoman" statesman is now resting on his hard earned laurels. As a reward for his brilliant party services, he should be given the republican gubernatorial nomination in 1906, when the people will reward him according to his deserts.

Fairmont Sentinel: A bill has been introduced by Senator Stephens of Crookston, to create a new state office of weed inspector at a salary of $1,200 per year. If an inspector could be created who would see to it that the farmers got busy before the weeds did there would be no need of a weed inspector.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." All druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

VERY TRYING TO WOMEN

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors she has consulted by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicines, with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these medicines have been recommended to them.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply, with complete directions for treatment, free of charge.

"Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women, sent free by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Louise Westbrook, No. 9 East Columbia St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary of the West Side Lotus Club, writes:

"For several years I suffered with leucorrhœa and painful menstruation, which was followed by general debility, until I was but a wreck of myself. Thanks to Peruna I am a well woman to-day."—Louise Westbrook.

Miss Jessiemene Westland, No. 767 [illegible] Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Deputy of Detroit Independent Order of Good Templars, writes as follows:

"Peruna has been a blessing to me and gladly do I indorse it. For two years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I lost flesh and grew thin and emaciated, nervous and exhausted, so that I could neither work or enjoy life. I began taking Peruna and can now eat and enjoy everything I eat. I have been well over a year now."—Miss Jessiemene Westland.

Miss Alice Dressler, of No. 1313 North Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows concerning Peruna:

"I was suffering from catarrh of the throat and head. One of my college friends, who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh, but restored me to perfect health."—Alice Dressler.

Miss Mamie Groth, Platteville, Wis., writes:

"I have for several years suffered with frequent backache and would for several days have splitting headaches. Several of my friends advised me to take Peruna and I asked my physician what he thought of it. He recommended it and so I took it and am entirely without pain of any kind now."—Mamie Groth.

In a recent letter from No. 2 Grant Ave., Denver, Col., Mrs. Ida L. Gregory writes:

"Some six years ago my husband suffered with nervous prostration, and advising with a friendly druggist he brought home a bottle of Peruna. His health was restored from its use, his appetite was increased and restful sleep came to him."—Ida L. Gregory.

Miss Florence Murphy, No. 2703 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash., writes:

"I suffered for over a year with female trouble, and although I tried several physicians none of them seemed to be able to help me permanently.

"It only took a little over three bottles of Peruna to make me well and strong. I never have backache, headache or bearing down pains any more."—Florence Murphy.

OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE COUNTY
OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

THE Hon. Hiler H. Horton is eligible to honorary membership in the Ramsey County Republican Charwomen's Protective association.

THE Mankato Free Press wants the board of control elective and made responsible to the people. Something like the railroad and warehouse commission, eh?

ASSUMING that all of the county officials and the folks at Red Lake Falls generally are "grafters" and three-cards-monte sharks, how much better would conditions be if the county-seat was removed to Thief River?

THE St. Cloud Times notes that the only Republican newspapers which cannot recover from the jolt received by the election of John A. Johnson are Governor Dunn's Princeton Union and Private Secretary Mitchell's Fairmont News.

THE untimely interference of Attorney General Young with his suit for the cancellation of the "sliver" mine lease caused a temporary lull in the proceedings of the public accounts committee. The whitewash was delayed until another barrel of lime could be secured and a heavier coat applied.

THE present legislature contains too many gubernatorial aspirants for its own good. Several meritorious primary bills were killed because they interfered with the plans of some of the prospective governors. The Lund bill was on example. Mr. Lund figures he stand no show in a state convention, but believes he would win in a primary election.

HON. LEONARD A. ROSING, one of the leading Democrats of the state, and once a candidate for governor, on Monday succeeded J. F. Jacobsen as a member of the board of control. Mr. Rosing is pre-eminently a business men, by temperament and experience is equipped for the duties of the position to which he has been called. The board of control is non-partisan, and every employee of the state institutions is under the protective of civil service rules. Two members of the board as at present constituted are Democrats—Mr. Rosing and S. W. Leavitt of Litchfield. O. B. Gould of Winona is the Republican member.

MINNESOTA receives from the thirty-three railroads operating in the state as gross-earnings taxes for the year 1904 $1,911,184.43, as against $1,971,6297 for the previous year, a decrease of $60,478.24. The gross earnings of the companies for last year amounted to $64,596,943.05 and for the preceding year $66,800,130.55, a falling off of $2,203,127.50.

IF there is anything the matter with the county officials we would suggest that the proper remedy is to elect new ones. Conditions would not be improved by moving the seat of government. The unjust and unmanly charge made by the Thief River county officialdom is unworthy of decent journals. A lie is easily circulated, but if there is a scintilla of proof of corruption on the part of a Red Lake county official THE COURIER is ready to do its part in meting out proper punishment.

OUR friend Miller of the St. Peter Free Press intimates that THE COURIER is perniciously active in criticizing the congressmen who voted for mileage grab, and insists that Democratic editors should not throw stones. The Minnesota Democracy isn't occupying a glass house just now, thank you, and on this particular issue her skirts are singularly clear. But why should the Free Press insist so strenuously that the mileage steal is all right? Surely the congressional delegation from the Third district is not endangered?

THE sociological editor of Red Wing Republican has distinct and decided ideas, as will be seem by the following from that paper: Fortunate is the women who possesses the ability to support herself, but far more fortunate the woman whose fortune is bound up in the love and devotion to loyal husband who gains from her the inspiration and incentive to provide the daily bread and as much more as possible, while she makes a home the most delightful place that earth affords, and nurtures and trains to manhood and womanhood the little lives that are given her to care for.

THE voter is not going to be deceived on the county-seat proposition by froth and foam. The people of Red Lake Falls and of Thief River Falls are probably about the average in intelligence and morality. Most of them are good, some may be indifferent and possibly a few of them bad, but this is neither here nor there as respects the county-seat. Red Lake Falls is more favorably situated geographically, and is nearer the center of population; much valuable county property is located here which would be practically a total loss in advent of removal; the expenses of removal would be heavy. These are considerations which appeal to the voter and tax-payer.

THE Slayton Gazette says one peculiarity of our freight rates is that a merchant in Omaha or Denver can get better rates on goods shipped from England or Germany than if he shipped the goods from New York. Mr. Anderson, a merchant of Boise City, Idaho, contracted recently for a carload of dolls with a manufacturer in Germany. By having the dolls shipped direct from Germany he could get an "import" rate from New York to Portland, Oregon, of 80 cents per hundred. The regular rate from New York to Portland, Oregon, is $3.90 per hundred weight. Of course discrimination in favor of the foreign manufacturer in one of things the railroads will have to explain in this campaign of education.

THE HORTON BILL.

There can be no defense of the action of the Republican majority of the legislature in making the control of the state capitol a party measure. The Horton bill was conceived in iniquity, and reared in the vicious environment of ward politics. There was no necessity for taking control of the capitol away from the governor; certainly there was no demand for such action. But a few of the St. Paul Republicans saw an opportunity to grab a bit of patronage. They concluded to take the state capitol out of the governor's control under the far fetched plea that the capitol commission had not finished its work, and gratuitouly assumed that under the old plan there would be a divided authority. A $3,000 berth was also planned for a member of the commission, but the house interfered with Senator Horton's scheme in this respect.

The bill passed over the governor's veto provide that the capitol shall be managed and controlled by the commission until the building is completed, and the date of completion is set for not later than January 1, 1907—a date co-incident with the close of Governor Johnson's administration. As the commission is sole judge of the matter it is not likely the capitol will be "completed" to the satisfaction of that body until the latest date allowed by law. It is a poorly disguised arrangement to take control out of the hands of a Democratic governor, and return it in the advent of Republican success two years from now. The capitol patronage is of small consequence to the governor or the Democratic party, but the principle involved will subject the legislature to much adverse criticism. There was no attempt to defend the bill, even by it author, and the Republican press is unanimous in condemning it as the most belittling measure ever dignified by a hearing in the Minnesota legislature.

Exchange Echoes.

Albert Lea Standard: Papers throughout the state, Republican as well as Democratic, are praising John Lind for voting in congress against the mileage grab, he alone of all the members from this state being against it. The praise is well deserved—John Lind is that kind of a man in every sphere of duty.

St. Cloud Times: As the price of coal is scheduled to fall April 1st, the ice trust probably has that date carefully jotted down as the time to proceed against the consumer in earnest.

Heron Lake News (Rep.): The Horton bill, which provides that the capitol commission shall retain control of the capitol, seems to have precipitated a party fight. Gov. Johnson vetoed the bill and now the legislature proposes to pass it over his head. There is no political sense or common decency in taking the control of the building from the governor's hands and those who are practicing such small politics ought to be doing something to earn their salary instead of haggling over such matters. The News hopes Gov. Johnson will win out and retain control of the capitol building during his term of office. He is practically responsible for the care of the property anyway.

St. James Journal: St. Paul's "scrubwoman" statesman is now resting on his hard earned laurels. As a reward for his brilliant party services, he should be given the republican gubernatorial nomination in 1906, when the people will reward him according to his deserts.

Fairmont Sentinel: A bill has been introduced by Senator Stephens of Crookston, to create a new state office of weed inspector at a salary of $1,200 per year. If an inspector could be created who would see to it that the farmers got busy before the weeds did there would be no need of a weed inspector.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." All druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

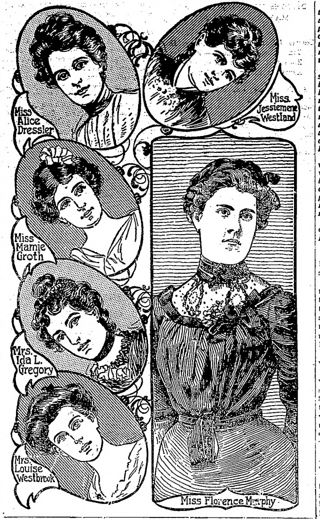
VERY TRYING TO WOMEN

Are the Peculiar Ills Brought on by Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

(Pe-ru-na is a Tonic Especially Adapted to Their Peculiar Diseases.)



Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors she has consulted by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicines, with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these medicines have been recommended to them.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply, with complete directions for treatment, free of charge. "Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women, sent free by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Alice Dressler, of No. 1313 North Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows concerning Peruna:

"I was suffering from catarrh of the throat and head. One of my college friends, who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh, but restored me to perfect health."—Alice Dressler.

Miss Mamie Groth, Platteville, Wis., writes:

"I have for several years suffered with frequent backache and would for several days have splitting headaches. Several of my friends advised me to take Peruna and I asked my physician what he thought of it. He recommended it and so I took it and am entirely without pain of any kind now." —Mamie Groth.

In a recent letter from No. 2 Grant Ave., Denver, Col., Mrs. Ida L. Gregory writes:

"Some six years ago my husband suffered with nervous prostration, and advising with a friendly druggist he brought home a bottle of Peruna. His health was restored from its use, his appetite was increased and restful sleep came to him."—Ida L. Gregory.

Miss Florence Murphy, No. 2703 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash., writes:

"I suffered for over a year with female trouble, and although I tried several physicians none of them seemed to be able to help me permanently.

"It only took a little over three bottles of Peruna to make me well and strong. I never have backache, headache or bearing down pains any more."—Florence Murphy.

Mrs. Louise Westbrook, No. 9 East Columbia St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary of the West Side Lotus Club, writes:

"For several years I suffered with leucorrhœa and painful menstruation, which was followed by general debility, until I was but a wreck of myself. Thanks to Peruna I am a well woman to-day."—Louise Westbrook.

Miss Jessiemene Westland, No. 767 [illegible] Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Deputy of Detroit Independent Order of Good Templars, writes as follows:

"Peruna has been a blessing to me and gladly do I indorse it. For two years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I lost flesh and grew thin and emaciated, nervous and exhausted, so that I could neither work or enjoy life. I began taking Peruna and can now eat and enjoy everything I eat. I have been well over a year now."—Miss Jessiemene Westland.

GOOD BLOOD
TELLS ITS OWN STORY

And tells it eloquently in the bright eye, the supple, elastic movement, the smooth, soft skin, glowing with health, a body sound and well, an active brain, good appetite and digestion, refreshing sleep, energy to perform the duties and capacity to enjoy the pleasures of life. The blood is the most vital part of the body; every organ, muscle, tissue, nerve, sinew and bone is dependent on it for nourishment and strength, and as it circulates through the system, pure and strong, it furnishes to these different parts all the healthful qualities nature intended. When, from any cause, the blood becomes impure or diseased, it tells a different story, quite as forceful in its way. Itching, burning skin diseases, muddy, sallow complexions, disfiguring sores, boils, carbuncles, etc., show the presence, in the blood, of some foreign matter or poison. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Contagious Blood Poison and Scrofula, are effects of a deeply poisoned blood circulation. These may either be inherited or acquired, but the seat of trouble is the same—the blood. S. S. S., a purely vegetable blood remedy, cleanses and purifies the circulation and makes it strong and clean. Under its purifying and tonic effects all poisons and impurities are expelled from the blood, the general health is built up, all disfiguring eruptions and blemishes disappear, the skin becomes soft and smooth and robust health biesses life. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all diseases of the blood are cured by S. S. S. Book on the blood and any medical advice, free of charge. BLACK-DRAUGHT
STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE

This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Thedford's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial.

It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit.

PITTSBURG, KAS., March 25, 1904.

I have been using your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine on my stock for some time. I have used all kinds of stock food but I have found that yours is the best for my purpose.

THE TROUBLE TRUST.

MORE BLOODSHED IN CITY OF WARSAW

POLICE BREAK UP A SOCIALIST DEMONSTRATION AND FIRE INTO CROWD.

As Result of Fusilade Four Men Are Killed and Forty Wounded—Bomb Thrown in Street at Lodz Tears Off Feet of Official.

Warsaw, April 3.—A serious conflict occurred at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening in Dzika street, where a Jewish socialist society, known as the Bund, had organized a demonstration. The police which came to disperse the gathering fired into the crowd, killing four persons and wounding 40 others. The trouble began when, under the pretext of holding a memorial meeting for a late Jewish socialist leader, a crow of over 1,000, mostly Jews, carrying red flags, marched into Dzika street and was met by a mixed police and military patrol of 20 men. The police declare the socialists fired revolvers at them, the leaders inciting the mob to attack the patrol, which thereupon fired several volleys into the crowd. Four men were killed and 40 wounded. The crowd removed all but nine of the wounded, two of whom were women. These were taken to the hospital. It is expected that two or more of the wounded will die. The dead and wounded were all Jews. The police made many arrests. Other disturbances are reported to have occurred. The streets had been patrolled throughout the day, the authorities having anticipated trouble.

Uneasiness in Warsaw.

Conditions here are causing much uneasiness and nervousness. Hand-printed proclamations have been found in the streets, warning the public against walking near government buildings and other places, as bombs would be thrown in these quarters. Several parents whose children are attending school in defiance of the school strike have been warned by letter to withdraw their children, as the school buildings would be blown up.

Injured by Bomb.

Lodz, Russian Poland, April 3.—Police Commissioner Szabalovicz, of the Second district, was seriously injured Saturday by a bomb which was thrown at him in the street.

The police commissioner had been summoned by telephone to come to the office of the chief of police, and started on foot, followed by a policeman. The former noticed at the corner of Konstantinowsk and Zawarski streets a poorly-clad man carrying a basket. As Szabalovicz approached the man suddenly hurled a bomb, which exploded with terrific force, blowing off the commissioner's feet and severely wounding him in the breast. It is feared his injuries will prove fatal. .

Engine Hurled Into Canal.

Utica, N. Y., April 3.—A local passenger train on the West Shore was derailed near Fort Plain Saturday. The locomotive broke its couplings and plunged into the canal, about 40 feet below the track. The engineer, George Wilkinson, of Utica, and the fireman, F. J. Wright, of Little Falls, were killed. Their bodies were buried under the engine. The express messenger, John Hines, was severely hurt. No passengers were injured.

Drastic Cigarette Bill Passed.

Madison, Wis., March 30.—The Wisconsin senate Wednesday, after a long debate, passed the Evans anti-cigarette bill. The bill, which absolutely prohibits the sale or manufacture of cigarettes or cigarette paper, has already passed the assembly, nad now goes to the governor.

Enormous Immigration.

New York, April 1.—Immigration to this country, through the port of New York for the month of March reached unprecedented figures, the total arrivals numbering 97,000. Last year for the same month the arrivals were only 47,877.

Robbed of Big Sum.

Tiflis, April 3.—As the station master at Kutais was driving to the local treasury accompanied by an armed escort he was attacked by four armed men, who overpowered the escort and robbed the station master of $3,000.

FATAL PISTOL DUEL.

Man Kills His Sister's Husband and Afterwards Takes His Own Life.

Malone, N. Y., April 1.—Summer Hazen, a bridegroom of a week, and John Hall, his wife's brother, are dead as the result of an exchange of pistol shots at Hall's home. When Hall learned that Hazen and his sister were to be married he warned Hazen that he would resort to violence if necessary to prevent the ceremony. Nothing came of the threat and the newly-married couple, believing that the trouble had blown over, started Thursday evening for a visit to the bride's brother's home. They had hardly crossed the threshold before Hall drew a revolver and sent a bullet into his bother-in-law's body. As Hazen fell he whipped a revolver from his own pocket and returned the shot. Hall then left the house and was supposed to have run away. Shortly after, however, he broke a pane of glass in the bedroom window where Hazen was lying and, shoving his rifle barrel through the window, shot Hazen again. The coroner and an officer were summoned, and upon their arrival in the evening the coroner stumbled over the body of Hall in the driveway near the barn, with his head blown nearly off, having committed suicide.

AN IOWA TRAGEDY.

Farmer Suspected of Murder and Fearing Arrest Kills His Two Daughters and Himself.

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—Michael Nelson, a farmer living near Poplar, Audobon county, killed his two daughters, aged 10 and 13, and then committed suicide. The murder was discovered when county officers summoney by the neighbors broke open the door of the house. The two girls were found in bed, each with a bullet hole through the head. They had been murdered apparently as they slept. On the floor lay the body of Nelson, his rifle at his feet. Nelson has been suspected by the authorities of the murder of Francis Richardson, a wealthy money lender, who disappeared seven years ago and whose body has never been recovered. An effort was being made to learn where the body could be found through the instrumentality of a spiritualist, and it is believed that Nelson, fearful that the blame might be laid at his door, killed his daughters and himself rather than face the charge.

Shot Through the Heart.

Des Moines, Ia., April 3.—A special from Moulton, Ia., says: The body of Frank Ogden, a young farmer living near here, was found Sunday morning in the yard of Claude Whistler, with a bullet through the heart. Whistler has disappeared. Ogden and Mrs. Whistler were sweethearts before her marriage to Whistler.

Fire Kills 1,000 Chickens.

Chicago, April 3.—By the burning of George Willard's poultry house, Ninety-eighth street and Erie avenue, 1,000 chickens were killed. The building, a three-story frame structure, was destroyed in a few minutes, and none of the fowls got out. Willard declared the blaze was the work of incendiaries. The loss was $2,500.

Snowslide Fatal to Four.

Ouray, Col., April 3.—Four men were killed and 11 others carried away in a snowslide at the Bankers' National mine. All of the 11 have been accounted for. The men were asleep in the bunkhouse when the slide occurred.

Four Killed.

Branchville, S. C., April 3.—As a result of a serious wreck on this division of the Southern railway Sunday, a few miles below Branchville, near a small lumber station called Badham, four persons are dead.

Simplon Tunnel Opened.

Rome, April 3.—The Simplon tunnel, the longest in the world, was inaugurated Sunday morning, when from the Swiss and Italian sides the first trains passed through, meeting at the center.

The percentage of attendance for Feb. was poor. In the fifth grade it was 95.06 and the sixth 91.83.

Tuesday afternoon Mr Healy brought the sixth grade five new history reference books which we like very much.

Miss Yohr, the eighth grade teacher and Miss Cathrine Pirath the second and third grade teacher of St.-Hilaire visted the Washington school on Tuesday.

Mr. Healy started a new book last week, called Julian Mortuner by Harry Castlemon and the childern were bound to have him read over time last Friday because it was so interesting.

Mr Healy had a whip under his coat and just as he was writting on the blackboard it fell down. This made all the childen laugh and he laughed himself and said I was not going to use it on any of you and he put it away.

No Need of Higher Salaries.

Alexandria Post News: Secretary of the Senate Langum has figured out to a nicety that the poorest paid official in the state is the member of the legislature who, for 106 days of servic, receives but $530. He estimates the expenses of a legislator at $420, allowing $200 for hotel bills, $100 for election expenses and another hundred for incidentals, leaving a balance of a trifle over one hundred dollars as a reimbursement for time expended in public service. This demand for an increase in the salary of representatives from $500 to $1000 is but an echo of a cry heard all along the line, in the nation and in the state, for higher salaries and greater fees. It is heard in congress, in the legislature and in every department of official life, and has become so general that it challenges the attention of the American people. Truly the teachings of Wagner's little volume, The Simple Life, are needed in American life today. We have no doubt but that the honest legislator receives little enough for his services but we have never known the position to go begging for a man to fill it.

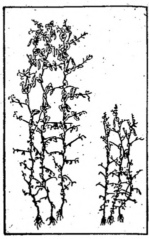
FARM GARDEN

CATCH ON, BROTHER.

Practical Farmers Tell of Crops Quadrupled by Bacteria.

Dr. George T. Moore, who perfected the American pure culture method of distributing the nitrogen fixing bacteria that live on legume roots, has submitted to the department of agriculture a report which brings all the testimony on soil inoculation in this country completely up to date. A very interesting feature of it is the record of reports from practical farmers in nearly every state of the Union of their experience with the artificial cultures. These reports cover alfalfa, red clover, peas and practically all the other legumes. An example is this: J. T. Campbell of Hartstown, Pa., on field peas, "Where the soil was inoculated the result was marvelous—four times as great as where there was no inoculation. Nodules one-half inch in diameter." See the first cut.



CANADA FIELD PEAS.
[Inoculated and uninoculated.]

As to red clover, C. O. Barclay, Adam's Basin, N. Y., says: "I never had as good success with clover seed before. It looks as if every seed germinated. I have failed for the past three years."

Walter W. Law, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., says of inoculated alfalfa: "Good stand. I never could get any to take before."

A. Murray, Halstead, Kan., says: "The alfalfa inoculated could not have done better. I think inoculated alfalfa is as good at one year old as uninoculated is at three years old."

Several of Dr. Moore's own statements will be in the nature of a surprise to many farmers. He remarks that the legumes can flourish in a soil that is practically devoid of nitrogen. The explanation is that owing to the direct effect of the nodule forming bacteria these plants are supplied with a source of nitrogen not available to most plants.

Dr. Moore also says it is possible for nitrogen fixing bacteria to penetrate the roots of plants and be of decided benefit without the formation of nodules or any external evidence of their presence. Further information is:

The use of German nitrogen has not been a success.

There is but one species of legume organism. The difference in the infective power of bacteria from different hosts is due to slight physiological variations which can be broken down readily by cultivation.

The nitrogen is fixed by the bacteria in the nodule and becomes available by the action of the plant in dissolving and absorbing the combined nitrogen in these organisms.

PACKAGE OF INOCULATING MATERIAL.
[Sufficient for four acres of alfalfa. A sheet of directions for the use of the three packets accompanies each package.]

While it is desirable that artificial inoculation be made at the time of planting, experience has shown that under certain conditions crops of three or four years' standing are improved by adding bacteria to the soil.

The Wool Clip.

The wool clip of the United States for 1904, according to the annual estimate of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, aggregates 291,783,032 pounds in the grease. This is equivalent to 123,935,147 pounds scoured, the smallest output since 1900. The total value of the clip is placed at $64,940,959, the highest for several years. Montana led in the production of wool, with a total of 87,773,000 gross pounds; Wyoming came second, with 29,450,000 pounds; New Mexico third, with 17,825,000 pounds. Other states with upward of 10,000,000 pounds were Idaho, Oregon, California, Utah and Ohio. The clip shows a gain of 4,333,000 pounds over last year in the grease, but a decrease of 431,000 pounds scoured wool.

Advised by an Iowa Man as a Good Investment on High Priced Land.

"Where are the drafters to come from that are now so eagerly sought by buyers at all the horse markets?" asked Mr. H. G. McMillan before the Iowa state farmers' institute. At the same time answering his own question, Mr. McMillan said that the supply of heavy mares is very limited. Farmers who owned good mares a few years ago sent them to market because they believed that the days of profitable horse breeding had passed. As a result of this unwise policy, before an adequate supply of drafters can again be grown for market draft mares will have to be produced first from which to raise the supply in the future. This will take years to accomplish, so that it may be reasonably expected that the price of draft horses will continue firm for years.

Good Returns In Colts and Farm Work.

While pure bred stallions have been selling in many cases at seemingly high figures, pure bred draft mares can yet be obtained at a very reasonable figure. The Iowa or Illinois farmer who owns one hundred or one hundred and fifty dollar land cannot make a better investment than to buy a pair or two of pedigreed draft mares. At the price at which such mares are now selling, if given proper care, they will bring in a larger return on the investment than any stock that can be placed on this high priced land.

In addition to producing colts that the draft horse breeders and dealers will gladly buy at $100 or $300 when a year old, they will do the work required on the farm just as well as or better than mares that produce colts that are only worth $100 when fully matured.

A WHISTLER PICTURE.

The Dramatic Manner of Its Finish and an Anticlimax.

Whistler was one day visited by a foreign artist, an old acquaintance, with whom Whistler had not as yet quarreled. He was received with genuine cordiality, and, artist-like, he ran round the studio looking at everything. One small picture seemed to charm him especially, and he said, "Now that is one of your good ones." "Don't look at it, dear boy," said Whistler airily, "it's not finished." "Finished!" said the visitor. "Why, it is the most carefully finished picture of yours that I have ever seen." "Don't look at it!" persisted Whistler. "You are doing injustice to yourself, you are doing injustice to my picture, and you are doing injustice to me!" The visitor looked bewildered, when Whistler, in a theatrical tone, cried out: "Stop! I'll finish it now!" Then he procured a very small camel's hair brush, fixed it on a long and slender handle, mixed a little speck of paint on his palette, dipped the tip of his brush into it, and then, standing off from his picture and with the action of a fencer with his rapier, he lunged forward and touched the picture in one spot with his pigment. "Now it's finished," said he. "Now you may look at it." This was all highly dramatic, and indeed very well acted, but, as in the case of some stage plays, the final act of Whistler's performance proved to be an anticlimax. The foreign artist took his leave, but, finding that he had left his umbrella behind him, called for it next day. The servant, recognizing him, told him that Mr. Whistler had gone out for the day, but invited him to go to the studio and seek his umbrella. He went there and found it, but also took the opportunity of having one more look at the picture which had been "finished" for his special benefit the day before, and then he saw that the little dab of wet paint which Whistler had so dramatically put on he had afterward scrupulously wiped off again!—Frederick Keppel in The Reader.

Hidden Water Supply.

The investigation of a neglected spring or rivulet may bring to light a valuable supply of water for gardening or domestic purposes. A surprising quantity is often obtainable by installing a ram at some seemingly insignificant source. A ram is cheap, because the first expense is the last, there being no cost of maintenance, and it is satisfactory, because the ram requires no attention. Once started, it takes entire care of itself.—Country Life In America.

Twenty Shots In His Head.

At the present time there is a keeper on a Hertfordshire estate who has about twenty shots in his head. Nearly thirty years ago this man was accidentally shot by an under keeper, and there were twenty-two holes in the hat he wore, which is preserved to this day. The injured man never had the shots extracted, was long between life and death and completely lost his hearing.—London Standard.

RED LAKE COURIER.

VOL. VII—NO. 27. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1905. WHOLE NO. 339.

THE PETITION HELD UP

Thief River Fall's County Seat Petition Peacefully at Rest in Auditor's Safe.

An order of the district court has stopped Thief River Falls in its mad course, and the gloom in that saintly city is so thick that several people have been buried alive in it—notably one Alex Sweaas and his co-adjutors. Alex arrived in our peaceable city Monday night armed with a short postmaster and a six foot slugger, and accompanied by the mayor of Thief River to act as umpire. The famous long advertised, long-looked for county seat petition arrived on the Tuesday morning train, and was met by Sweaas and his army, who solemnly escorted it to the court house, which Mr. Sweaas don't want but must have. Here, with a fitting, mournful speech, as one parting forever from an old friend, Mr. Sweaas delivered it to Auditor Ford, while the army solemnly pounded the floor with his number sixteens and the legal post office department looked wise.

The petition contained about 2,006 names, a large proportion of which were undecipherable. As the law requires that before filing the petition the Auditor must ascertain that it complies with the legal requirements of form, number of legal voters signing it, etc., Mr. Ford referred it to County Attorney Germo, who at once gave it his attention and put in some good hard work in examining and deciphering it. Many signatures appear to have been made by the same hand, one is known to be that of a dead man, some are duplicates of each other, some are made by boys under age, some by residents of Dakota, some are plain forgeries, many are signed by a cross only, with no witness to the mark, and as the whole thing consists of thirty-one separate petitions, each of which must be given thorough examination, the county officials are to be congratulated on the fact that they finished the work in the afternoon instead of taking until the next day for it.

But at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon a complaint and a large number of affidavits showing crookedness on the part of Thief River Falls were presented to Judge Watts at Crookston, and he signed an order forbidding the County Auditor to file the petition or call any meeting of the County Board until the further order of the Court, setting a time of hearing on April 22d.

At five o'clock this order was at Red Lake Falls and was served upon the County Auditor. As the fateful papers were handed to the Auditor Br'er Sweaas, who up to this time had considered himself a general at least the equal of Napolean, collapsed. A hat, supposed to be his, was afterward found in the cellar. The army snorted three large snorts and fell into "innocuous desuetude." The post office department dropped its under jaw several inches and refused to be comforted. The famous petition was pigeonholed in the Auditor's safe where we trust it may rest in peace.

In the injunction suit brought many sworn affidavits are made by parties who signed the petition showing that whiskey and money was used to improperly obtain signatures. One or more of these affidavits are made by persons who helped Thief River Falls circulate the petition and ought to know. A strong showing of crooked work on the part of Thief River is made, and when the case actually comes to trial with witnesses, such a nest of rottenness will be disclosed as will thoroughly disgust the honest people of Red Lake county with the crooked city up-river.

The first hearing on the 22d will, ofcourse, only be on affidavits and not a regular trial, and it is probable that either party will appeal to the Supreme Court.

Visiting Day for Parents.

Since the Christmas vacation we have been saving samples of work done by the pupils in all grades, We now have quite a collection of papers and other work in all branches. This work does not represent the result of many re-writings of the same paper after repeated corrections by the teacher, but is a fair sample of the work actually done from day to day by the pupils of our school.

We are now planning to display this work in the first and second grade rooms in the Lafayette building so that the parents may have an opportunity to see what we are doing. The work will be displayed in grades and marked. The north side and the south side will complete, and each grade will complete the other for the best display. The work will be put in place Saturday of this week and the building will be open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons of vacation week. We want you all to come and see our display. It will encourage the children to do better work. Don't wait until Saturday but be sure and come on one of the three days. E. W. CHAMBERLAIN, Supt.

SECURES CONTRACT.

Geo. Chatel Lands Big Grading Contract.

Geo Chatel arrived home Tuesday morning from Devils Lake, North Dakota, where he had been to look over some grading the Great Northern railroad is going to have done the coming summer, and he was successfull in landing a big batch of work on the new strip of road and will, during the next few weeks start his men and teams westward to begin operations. The contract secured by Mr. Chatel is an exceedingly large one and will keep him busy the greater portion of the summer. Mr Chatel says the railroad activity in North Dakota this summer will be something wonderful and that railroad workmen and teams out of work will not have the slightest excuse in the world for being so.

Lost in Terrebonne.

Special to the Courier.

Terrebonne, April 12.—Some of the Terrebonne citizens were amused last Saturday afternoon to see a young couple from Red Lake Falls out hunting (?) for blueberries or jack rabbits, or something or other, about one and one-half miles north of the village. The young man had better take a driver along the next time to watch the horses while he and his lady friend go hunting.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

As Seen by the Only Committee Clerk Who Ever Resigned.

Editor A. M. Greeley, of the Big Fork Compass, who served as a clerk in the legislature during the early part of the session, gives some of his impressions of that body in the last issue of his interesting paper:

The legislature is a body of workmen that works as if the boss were away.

The legislature meets every two years—that is as often as the state could stand it. It meets to pass appropriation laws and to pass the hat for St. Paul.

Whenever there is a surplus in the state treasury, which needs exercise, the governor may call an extra session.

A session of the legislature cannot live over ninety working days, Sundays, holidays, adjournments, washdays, invalidsdays, paydays, and cold days are extra. Therefore, there are but 90 days in four months, according to the men who get paid $5 for every day that comes along.

The chief duties of the members are to answer to roll call; listen to the demands of state institutions and to kick for higher wages for themselves. If it were not for their mileage, every member would resign. He could not afford to be away from the capitol so much, were the railroads less generous.

Some members work earnestly and faithfully. They want to be elected again,

The senate is called the "upper house," the house of representatives is called the "lower house," but both are on same floor. The employes constitute the "third house" and the officers are commonly designated "bug house." The newspaper reporters do not belong to any house—they were sent to the stable

The senate is supposed to be the more dignified body, but that was before it fired its imaginary state fireman.

Most of the present members eat Norway herring and lutfisk, but the English language is sometimes heard in debate.

The chaplains also pray in English, although Greek would serve as well. If the chaplains were paid by the job instead of by the day, the gospel might "report progress." As it is, the chaplains pray day by day, and lack of result does not discourage them.

The daily prayer is the only measure that is allowed to pass without debate or amendment.

The lower house is made up of lawyers and newspaper men with just enough farmers added to make a quorum. The senate is not as large in membership, consequently, has fewer farmers.

The lieutenant-governor presides over the senate, as that body could not furnish a single member with hair on his head, A baldheaded man would not dignify the chair.

The presiding officer of the lower house has the title of speaker. He is called "speaker," because his decisions speak louder than words. The thud of the gavel is the only eloquence there that cuts many ice.

The legislature is misunderstood by the general public. It is not as lazy or as vile as commonly painted. While the ambulance is seldom called to carry away a member overcome with work, neither is the patrol wagon kept busy. While some may be fond of poker and pretzels, it is not true that when the legislature adjournes the dives and breweries begin spring housecleaning. The fact is, most of the members were obliged to work so hard for election that they have little energy left for the pursuit of labor, sport or woodchucks. To say the least, the legislature is no worse than a similar body of citizens anywhere, excepting perhaps the penitentiary.

Three Thieves in Trouble.

Deputy Sheriff Jarman came down from Thief River Falls Saturday evening with three young men who had been sentenced to fifteen days in the county jail. It seems the young men stole a trunk out of one the hotels of that city in an endeavor to helf a young woman out of paying a board bill. They were arrested and proven guilty with the above result.

Clean Up Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all residents to clean up all back yards and alleys and remove all manure and refuse of all kind. All derbis, except dead animals, can be moved to the rear of Lou Kaufer's residence. All dead animals must be removed to the burial ground near the old saw mill and be buried. This matter should be attended to at an early date as this is an early spring and warm weather will arrive soon.

Three of my brothers have died of heart trouble, and I thought I was going the same way, but about two and a half years ago I got a pamphlet about Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and thought I would try a few bottles. After using them I recovered, and have had better health since then than before for several years. I can heartily recommend them for heart trouble."—REV. MINE EXPLOSION COSTS MANY LIVES

DISASTER DUE TO ACCUMULATED GAS OCCURS IN COAL SHAFT AT ZEIGLER, ILL.

Thirty-Seven Bodies Recovered, and Coroner's Jury Says Forty-Three Were Killed—Explosion in Cartridge Factory Kills Three.

Carbondale, Ill., April 5.—Thirty-seven bodies of miners who lost their lives in the gas explosion at the mine of Joseph Leiter at Zeigler Monday have been recovered, and it is supposed several more bodies are in the mine. The exact number of dead will probably not be known for several days, at least not until the mine has been divested of the gas and persons are permitted to enter. Among the dead is William Atkinson, state mine examiner for the Seventh sub-district, who lost his life in an attempt to perform his duties as mine inspector, and who died while trying to reach the bodies of those who were entombed.

Accumulated Gas Cause.

The belief is that the gas which accumulated over Sunday, owing, it is alleged by W. D. Ryan, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, to the fact that the miners did not know how to deal with fire damp, and that the mine was full of it.

A cage was resting at the mouth of the shaft to allow a force of mechanics to enter the mine. J. L. Wood, of Cleveland, O., was stepping on the cage when the explosion occurred. He was killed outright. The flames, leaping out of the shaft, burned several others, all of whom may recover. An overcoat worn by one of these workmen was torn from his back and carried to the top of the tipple, 100 feet away. A six ton cage was blown 500 feet from the bottom of the shaft to the tipple. A miraculous escape from death was experienced by a workman on the air shaft. The concussion hurled him 60 feet into the air, and he fell outside the stockade, 75 yards away. Besides a few slight bruises he was not injured.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury.

Zeigler, Ill., April 6.—Afterdamp, due to an explosion of blasting powder set off by persons as yet unknown, caused the death of 43 miners at Joseph Leiter's coal mine on Monday, April 3, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury as returned Wednesday.

Three Killed in Explosion.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 5.—In a terrific explosion that blew to pieces one of the brick buildings of the Union Metallic Cartridge company shortly before the close of the day's work Tuesday, three men were instantly killed. The only man in the building at the time, John Meary, was blown through the roof, with a great mass of debris, and came down dead. Two helpers, Michael Hurley and William Bayliss, working near the building were also killed. The explosion occurred in the dry house, where primer caps are dried on long steam pipes. In some manner one of the caps was discharged and the explosion followed.

FOUR DIE BY GAS FUMES.

Woman and Three Children Asphyxiated in New York Tenement House.

New York, April 7.—Thre children and an aged woman were killed and half a score of tenants in a tenement house here were made unconscious Thursday by gas escaping from a stove.

The dead are: Mary Rogers, aged 75; Kate Clark,, aged 12; Helen Clark, aged ten; Elizabeth Clark, aged seven. The children slept in a front room of their home with Mrs. Rogers, who was in the employ of their father, Samuel Clark, janitor of the house. In a rear room slept Mr. and Mrs. Clark and a small son. When Clark arose at five a. m. Thursday he detected a strong odor of gas. He entered the children's room and was almost overcome. Making his way back to his own room, he discovered that his wife and son were stupefied. He then called for help. The gas had made its way through the building and persons in many other apartments were either stupefied or already unconscious. A policeman who heard Clark's cries broke into the room where the children and old woman were and raised a window. He then discovered that all were dead. An examination of the gas stove showed that the pipe had broken during the night. It is supposed that it broke from the force of the gas. Physicians were called to treat the persons in the house.

Caution to Ministers.

Newark, N. J., April 8.—Young ministers were cautioned by Bishop Joseph F. Berry, of Buffalo, in the Newark conference of the Methodist church Friday to talk sparingly of women and to make their pastoral calls in the evening when the wife was surrounded by her husband and children. The bishop declared that the afternoon call on women of the congregation, when they were likely to be alone, should be frowned upon.

Makes Record Run.

Boone, Ia., April 7.—Engineer Wared, of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, has broken a record on the Eastern Iowa division of that road, by driving his engine from Clinton to Boone, a distance of 202 miles in 189 minutes.

Killed His Stepfather.

Benton, Ill., April 7.—Parker Atkins shot and instantly killed his stepfather, Albert Rea, at Zeigler. The trouble arose over a board bill.

DEATH WAS PREFERRED

WOMAN TAKES POISON RATHER THAN BE ARRESTED.

Accused of Shoplifting Mrs. Moore of Minneapolis Admits Guilt and then Kills Herself.

Minneapolis, April 11.—Apprehended by detectives who had come to arrest her, and surrounded by quantities of stolen goods of which she was charged with being the thief, Mrs. W. J. Moore last night committed suicide in her apartments at 1222 Washington avenue south.

The woman is a widow, having resided in Minneapolis but a few months. She has a son living with friends in St. Paul. Unable to stand the disgrace of her crimes being brought to light, and with imprisonment staring her in the face, the woman drank carbolic acid almost in sight of the detectives who had come to her rooms to take her into custody, and fell dying at their feet.

From all the facts that were brought to light by her tragic death, it appears that she has been engaged in systematic scheme of shoplifting in practically all of the large department stores of the city.

When Detective Crummy and Brown of the Central detail and Officer Shaft of a local store appeared, she at first stoutly maintained her innocence. When their search brought to light a large quantity of valuable goods that were identified, she then addmitted her guilt.

Her transactions, she told the officers, had been going on for several months and included many of the department stores in the city. Her method was to go into one of the stores and select and order a quantity of merchandise.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

Rioting Marks the Attempt to Move Goods—The Police Have a Strenuous Time.

Chicago, April 11.—The force of police guarding the Montgomery Ward freight caravans doubled yesterday in anticipation of rioting by sympathizers with the firm's striking teamsters and garment makers.

Scenes of violence marked the first attempt to move freight from the Montgomery Ward building. The police were compelled to use their clubs freely. Three wagons, headed by two patrol wagons and accompanied by 75 policemen, started for the Rock Island freight sheds. The caravan was followed by nearly 1,000 persons. Numerous missiles were thrown along the line of march.

While the wagons were passing the approach to the Polk street viaduct the crowd began to shower stones, boards and the like. While the police charged the mob, the procession of wagons was halted. A way was finally cleared with clubs.

The police had a serious time at the Lake Shore freighthouse, where wagons were loaded with merchandise consigned to Montgomery, Ward & Co. Teamsters friendly to the strikers believed the wagons would attempt to pass Polk and La Salle streets, and formed a deliberate blockade at that point.

Wreck in Kansas.

Kingsley, Kan., April 11.—Twenty or more passengers were injured in a collision of the Chicago express and California limited trains on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad last night.

Both trains were eastbound. No. 8, the Chicago express, was standing at the station, the rear of the train about 200 feet west of the building, when No. 4, the limited, crashed into it at high speed.

The engine of the second train plowed into the last Pullman sleeper of the other train, demolishing it.

Killed in Lodge.

Little Rock, Ark., April 11.—While Ebenezer Runyan was being initiated by the local lodge Knights of Pythias at Felsenthal, Ark., he was shot and instantly killed.

Chas. Filler, an officer of the lodge was officiating at the initiation and it is said used a revolver which in some way had been loaded, although it was supposed to contain blank cartridiges. The bullet entered Runyan's brain. The lodge broke up in consternation.

Man Burned to Death.

Winnipeg, Man., April 11.—A Winnipegger named Captain Jones was burned to death at Humbolt station by the destruction of a hotel building under construction by the Humboldt Hotel company. A restaurant owned by J. Cummings was also destroyed.

Jones lost his life in an endeavor to save his effects.

OVER 200 KILLED IN CITY OF MADRID

SUDDEN COLLAPSE OF A NEW WATER RESERVOIR IS CAUSE OF DISASTER.

Hundreds of Workmen Buried in the Debris—Fifty Dead Bodies Recovered—It Is Said 236, All Dead, Still in the Ruins.

Madrid, April 10.—Four hundred persons were killed or injured Saturday by the collapse of a new water reservoir in course of construction. Fifty bodies have already been recovered. An exact estimate of the casualties is still impossible. It is stated that there were 236 men in the lower part of the reservoir, all of whom were killed. The prince of the Asturias, the war minister, the governor of Madrid, and a representative of the king have gone to the spot to superintend the work of rescue. Troops sent to the scene are engaged in helping the sufferers and recovering the bodies of the dead. The catastrophe caused a profound sensation throughout the city. All work was suspended, and the people flocked to the scene.

King Supervises Relief Measurer.

King Alfonso was shooting at Carabanchel when he heard of the disaster, and immediately repaired to the scene. His arrival was the signal for ovations from the crowds. The king was deeply moved, and insisted upon personally supervising the relief measures. Working parties gradually removed the debris, and recovered the mutilated bodies, fragments of flesh and limbs.

Insipient demonstrations were directed against those held to be responsible for the disaster. Processions of women carrying black flags paraded the district in which the disaster occurred. A great crowd marched to the center of the city and forced the merchants to close their establishments as a sign of mourning. The markets were all shut and business was entirely at a standstill.

Pitiful Scenes.

Many heartrending incidents and painful scenes are reported. Ten of those who were rescued alive have gone mad. A huge crowd stood around the scene throughout the night watching the attempts at rescue in the light of huge electric lamps. Some of the injured have died. One body was recovered from the ruins during the night, but none later. Seven hundred workmen are engaged in clearing the debris. During the day students and workmen paraded the streets collecting money for the families of victims of the disaster. The public is contributing freely.

STANDS FOR "OPEN DOOR."

Germany Outlines to United States Her Policy with Reference to Morocco.

Washington, April 6.—Germany on Wednesday clearly outlined to the United States [illegible] Moroccan policy. Acting under instructions from Berlin, Baron von Speck Sternburg, the German ambassador, called at the war department and left with Secretary Taft a memorandum to this effect:

Germany stands for the "open door" in Morocco as in the the far east, and for the preservation of the status quo, and for the safeguarding of the commercial and trade interests not only of Germany, but of all trading nations of the world.

Secretary Taft, without committing this government on the subject, thanked the ambassador and promptly forwarded the memorandum to President Roosevelt. Germany makes no mention of France in the memorandum; nor does she request an expression of views by the United States.

Justice for Sixty-Five Years.

Kingsbury, Ind., April 8.—Daniel Shaw, for 65 years a justice of the peace in Laporte county, is dead at his home here. One notable feature of the long service of 'Squire Shaw was that he had been in the office from the time that he entered the county. In early days he drove a team of oxen between Michigan City and Chicago, carrying the produce of the region in which he lived.

Eight Are Dead.

Roanoke, Va., April 10.—While tamping powder in a blast at the Ardway limestone quarry near Allisonia, the blast was accidentally discharged, causing the explosion of two other blasts that had been set near by. Seven negro laborers and one white man were killed and two others were so badly injured that there is little hope of their recovery.

Choked to Death.

Lincoln, Ill., April 8.—Charles B. Strawn, aged 49, a prominent stockman and breeder and well-known in central Illinois as a live stock auctioneer, died at his home east of Lincoln from strangulation. He choked on a piece of steak cooked for him by his wife for a late supper.

Enjoying Themselves.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 8.—The president's yacht is anchored off St. John's bluff, several miles below this city, where Mrs. Roosevelt and her children are enjoying the fishing. A fine catch is reported.

Gets Big Order.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 10.—The Japanese government has ordered 500,-300 gunstocks from a manufacturer in Cedar Rapids.

WE haven't heard of any Republican babies being named for Senator Horton.

THE tobacco trust reports net profits last year of over $23,000,000. We should think the trust could afford to set up the cigars.

THE Windom Reporter girls say that all things do not come to the country merchant who waits. The majority get them by advertising.

THE board of control is no longer guardian of the university and normal schools, and there is great rejoicing at the institutional towns.

APRIL 28 has been designated by Governor Johnson as Arbor day. The schools and public generally are asked to appropriately observe the day.

SOME of the legislators have learned the artful habit of "dodging." A man afraid to go on record is too much of a moral coward to deserve political preferment.

THE overwhelming victory for municipal ownership in Chicago will go a long way toward convincing the American public that this sort of socialism is popular.

DID anyone really expect the legislature to enact an anti-pass law? A good many of the lawmakers would rather give up their salary rather than their railroad passes.

EX-CONGRESSMAN EDDY is responsible for this: If the men and women of the world were separated by a wide, swiftly flowing river, the death among females by drowning would be something frightful.

How unfortunate, observes the Duluth News-Tribune, that when the weather gets just right for pitching horseshoes there's more than sixteen hours' work a day for a fellow to do. Things are not arranged quite right in this world.

THE Redwood Gazette gives Speaker Clague credit for manipulating the passage of the Horton bill over the governor's veto. It is a doubtful honor, not likely to be extensively used in Mr. Clague's campaign for gubernatorial preferment.

EVEN the exingencies of a county-seat fight do not keep the Thief River factions from showing their teeth and knocking off chips. According to their own story it would not be safe to trust either crowd with responsibility for the county government.

STATE AUDITOR IVERSON is unfortunate in having his name connected with the investigations and reports of the public accounts committee. There is no particular complaint of Iverson's management, but the unpleasant notoriety of the past few weeks will go a long way toward frosting any further political ambition he may harbor.

THE signature of the governor will in the future be necessary to the legality of any deed for land sold at sales of unredeemed state lands. The Murray bill, passed by the house recently, provides that the notice of sale must be given for at least three weeks in a newspaper in the same county where the land is sold. The governor is named as the official who is to sign the deed, instead of the county auditor, as under the old law. The terms relating to redemption by persons claiming interests in the land remain unchanged by the Murray bill.

IF the 1904 crops were equally divided every man, woman and child in the United States would receive one barrel of flour, 200 eggs, 140 quarts of milk, more than half of which goes into butter; one bushels of apples and two one-half bushels of other fruits and berries; three bushels of potatoes, two bushels of carrots, parsnips and turnips; eleven head of cabbage and half as much lettuce; cucumbers and Cauliflower; twenty eight bushels of corn, usually in the shape of beef, pork and poultry, besides seventy pounds of cotton, six pounds of wool for clothes and enough leather for two pair of shoes. Did you get your share?

THE new battleship Minnesota was christened Saturday morning at Newport News, Va. Hon. Frank A. Day, representing Governor Johnson, delivered the chief address on this occasion, and a comparison of the old frigate Minnesota with the splendid battleship bearing the name of the commonwealth gave opportunity for plenty of elogiums on the great empire west of the Father of Waters. The half-century of growth and development marks the change from a wilderness to one of the great states of the greatest republic the world has ever known—the change from infancy to maturity. The simile is apt. The state of Minnesota today is as unlike the Minnesota of fifty years ago as the giant ironclad is unlike the wooden frigate that of other generation.

Exchange Echoes.

Norwood Times: Gov. Johnson's veto of the Horton bill, is all right. He will be commended for this more than for any other executive act. The capitol commission ought to be compelled to turn this building over to the state. It is not theirs. It is ours and we paid for it. The commission spent $5,000,000, and that is quite enough. Let the state have it now. The laws already give the governor control of the state building and he ought to insist on it, even if it took the militia to clear the way.

St. Cloud Times: The dual identity of Dr. Jekyli and Mr. Hyde is but child's play compared to the czar as originator of world peace in the Hague convention, and the czar obstinately refusing to stop one of the most hopeless and sanguinary wars in recent history.

Mankato Free Press: Now we are confronted with the information, right from the bat of Secretary Wilson, that bread will become a luxury. After a while pancakes will be among the things that a poor man cannot afford.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right, medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." All druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

The Story of Two Hogs.

Fairmont Sentinel: That a Colfax paper says that "William Hentico last Wednesday evening at Lamb's resturant ate 28 bananas, smacked his lips and declares the last one tasted just as good as the first." That's nothing. Chester White, of Knoxville, ate 14 ears of corn, two pumpkins and a bucket of swill, and was able to rub his bristles against the fence and grunt.

LEGISLATURE NEAR ITS END

The 1905 Session Expires Next Tuesday—A Few Remarks on the Work of That Body.

St. Paul, April 12—The legislature has but a few more days of life. The session expires by constitutional limitation next Tuesday. It is too early, of course, to speak of the work accomplished for the reason that many of the important measures have not been finally acted upon. The more prominent measures before the session are the code and the Nolan reciprocal demurrage bill.

The code will be passed, probably today, in some form. There were 1,500 amendments tacked on in the house and nearly 1,000 in the senate, and at this writing it is in the hands of a joint conference committee, with good prospect that an early agreement will be reached. The code has been a veritable "old man of the sea" from the beginning of the session. Few of the members are satisfied with it, but after wrestling with the proposition all winter the Republican majority feels that it must be passed in self-defense. After spending $85,000 of the people's money in having the code revised and wasting almost an entire session in discussion, the members are afraid to defeat it and attempt an explanation of the extravagance. Were it not for this feature I believe the legislature would prefer to see the code killed. Of course there is danger in passing the code. No one seems to know just how much new law has been introduced by the commission nor how many "woodchucks" it contains. The next five years promises to afford plenty of business for the lawyers and looking at it from any standpoint the revision will prove an expensive piece of legislation.

The demurrage bill is in troubled waters. It passed the house easily. Everybody expected it would, and the country members at heart in opposition did not care to invite criticism from their constituents. They preferred to "put it up to the senate" and in that body a battle royal is in progress. The attorneys and lobbyists of every railroad in the state are at the capitol every day, and a most strenuous fight is being made. The senate is not as close to the people as the house, and half of the membership have another legislative session to serve before the expiration of their terms. Probably half of the remainder have no further ambition in a political way, so that it is easy for the senate to favor the corporations. I am not so sure that the demurrage bill is a good law. It will work injustice to the railroads in many instances, and many shippers would receive what amounts practically to substantial rebates. But the country people want the bill passed, and there is trouble in store for those who oppose it. However, I venture the prediction that the measure will never become a law. When the railroads and corporations insist that the state senate shall defeat a bill they have a subtle method of enforcing their demands. This has been the history of the senate for a quarter of a century, and the leopard doesn't change its spots in the twinkling of an eye.

The senate finance committee and the house appropriations committee have been busy during the past two weeks listening to the plaints of officials and state institutions. Everybody wants more money, and it is not an easy task to divide the loaf satisfactonly all around. The state is growing, and the departments have more work than formerly. Then several institutions—notably the university, the St. Cloud normal and the Owatonna hospital have suffered the loss of buildings by fire. The omnibus bill will be reported today or tomorrow, and doubtless many of the departments and institutions will be disappointed at the amount of their allowances.

A bill was introduced Saturday in both the senate and house for a constitutional amendment taking the appointment of state librarian out of the governor's hands and vesting it with the supreme court. It is presumed that this change will take the library out of politics, but, whether or no, it will at least make the tenure of the librarian longer and more secure. A librarian ought first of all be a business man, and it is only through experience and familiarity with the library that he can give the best service. And then it is expecting too much of any librarian to imagine that he can give the best service when his term of office is co-incident with that of the governor. The proposed change has the hearty approval of Governor Johnson, the supreme court and the bar association. The action of the legislature is problematical.

This office has been favored with calls from a number of Red Lake county people during the past week. Dr. Geo. Tupper, chairman of the Democratic county committee, was here Tuesday. On Wednesday Miss May Blasing, formerly assistant principal of the Red Lake Falls high school, was here and spent the day with Mrs. King and the children. Miss Blasing is now principle of the Milaca schools. Sam Haislet of the Gazette dropped in yesterday for a short stay. Sam had been to Sioux City on a visit to his brother. Last week I saw Editor and Mrs. Packard of the Crookston Journal, County Attorney Maybury of Crookston, and a number of other northern Minnesota people.

The public accounts committee finished its investigation of the state auditor's office last week, and the result was conflicting majority and minority reports. The majority admitted that the law had not always been observed, but praised the auditors for violating the statutes as regards the timber trespasses and mining leases. Whitewash was demanded and given in liberal portions. The minority report was rejected by a vive voce vote. No one cared to go on record as opposing the minority or defending the majority report, and yet the political exigencies of the occasion demanded this action. Not a word was said on the floor of the house in support of the majority report and the Republican members were evidently anxious to avoid a debate on the merits of the proposition. The powers-that-be in the majority party demanded vindication, and it was given grudgingly and apologetically. Politics, thy name is Insincerity, and thy ways are the ways of the Arab!

The County in General

Several business changes took place at Thief River last week,

The town board of Emardville has laid out a new road leading into Plummer,

Thief River Falls is having a monkey and parrot time over school matters.

Plummer is to have a lock up of its own. The contract has been let for the building.

The St. Hilaire and Thief River saw mills began operations for the season this week.

Ole Hemsted, who has spent the winter at Plummer, has gone to North Dakota to work at the tailoring trade.

Plummer's council is very busy these days getting the town laws in proper shape for the goverment of a successful city.

Andrew Johnson is now chairman of the board of supervisors of Emardville township, in place of H.H. Finrow who resigned.

Ole J Johnson has been appointed Justice of the Peace at Plummer to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of Erick Iverson to qualify.

The Soo installed a new train service Monday' The fast trains from Winnipeg to the twin cities are said to be most elegantly equipped.

The settlers in town 153-42 have changed the name of the town from Big Bend to that of Smiley. The change was made necessary by these already being a Big Bend township in the state.

The special election held last week to vote on the proposition to separate the village of Plummer from the township of Emardville was very one sided the vote standing 23 to 0 in favor of such separation.

Pity the Poor Millionaire.

Adrian Democrat: John D. Rockefeller recently donated $100,000 to the Foreign Missionary Society, and the ministers of Boston insist that the gift be rejected because the money was dishonestly acquired by the Standard Oil King. Look for Big Business.

Land men now feel assured that this is to be a record breaking year in the land business of this vicinity. The question has been settled by the weather man in Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois. During the past month or two these states have experienced very bad weather.

People returning from Illinois report snow and rain there, and say the farmers are not nearly as far along with their work as they are in Iowa and Wisconsin, while in those states they are way behind the Red River Valley. The entire spring has been so backward that the farmers are disgusted and looking to get out of that country.

Mr. and Mrs. Nauman have made many friends in this city and the surrounding country who will be sorry to have them leave but all will wish them happiness and prosperity in their new home.

1905 will mark the reappearance of the seventeen year locust. This is the prediction at least. The seventeen year locust is an insect that makes its appearance once every seventeen years. They were here in 1854, again in 1871, then in 1888, and are looked for again this season. The locust is a large insect and when a number of them are lodged among the leaves of a tree they send forth a chorus of chirps that fills the air with a deafening noise. The locust are not particularly injurious to vegetation nor are they poisonous as some have supposed. Their advent will be looked for with interest.

SCROFULA A Disease We Inherit

The tainted blood of ancestors lays upon the shoulders of innocent offspring untold suffering by transmitting to them, through the blood, that blighting disease, Scrofula; for in nearly every instance the disease can be traced to some family blood trouble, or blood-kin marriage which is contrary to the laws of nature. Swelling, ulcerating glands of the neck, catarrh, weak eyes, sores, abscesses, skin eruptions, white swelling, hip disease and other deformities, with a wasting of the natural strength and vitality, are some of the ways this miserable disease manifests itself. The poison transmitted through the blood pollutes and weakens that health-sustaining fluid and in place of its nutritive qualities fills the circulation with scrofulous matter and tubercular deposits, often resulting in consumption. A disease which has been in the family blood for generations, perhaps, or at least since the birth of the sufferer, requires constitutional treatment. S. S. S. is the remedy best fitted for this. It cleanses the blood of all scrofulous and tuberculous poisons, makes it rich and pure and under the tonic effects of this great blood medicine the general health improves, the symptoms all pass away, there is a sure return to health, the disease is cured permanently while posterity is protected. Book on the blood and any advice wished, furnished by our physicians, without charge.

Scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild when only 18 months old, and spread rapidly over her body. The disease next attacked the eyes and we feared she would lose her sight. It was then that we decided to try S. S. S. That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. She is now a young lady, and has never had a sign of the disease to return.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Manufactures at the Fair.

One of the important features of the state fair of 1905 will be the department of Minnesota Manufactures. This year the exhibit will be broadened in order that all Minnesota manufacturers may take space and exhibit their products, although preference will be given for "live exhibits," that is, exhibits showing process of manufacture, either of the entire article or of some part of the goods exhibited.

This decision is the result of a recent conference between William E. Lee, superintendent of the manufactures building, and a committee of the Northwestern Manufacturers' association.

The association will co-operate with Mr. Lee in bringing out a good show, and it is expected that the building will be well filled with interesting and instructive exhibits. No charge is made either for space or power, and each exhibitor will be furnished with free admission to the fair grounds for himself and the person in charge of the exhibit. At night the building will be well lighted, and it is expected that no less than 250,000 people will visit it during fair week. This will offer an exceptional opportutity to manufacturers to bring their goods to the attention of the people of the Northwest.

A New Industry.

A business comparatively new to northern Minnesota is the getting out of ship's timber for the building of ocean vessels at Atlantic points. The industry started but a few years ago in this state and is increasing with each year, because timber of the proper sort is lacking in the states to the east. E. C. Edgerly, representing a shipbuilding firm at Auburn, Maine, says:

"We do not bother with the mast and regular long construction timber, but devote our attention to getting out corner braces and for this purpose it is necessary to use the roots of trees, the main trunk, aside from a foot or two at the butt, not being called into use at all. Tamarack is best suited for the purpose, and as the stumps of trees are as suitable as the trees themselves, provided the roots are intact, there is an almost unlimited field here in Minnesota for us to work in. All we have to do is to follow in the tracks of the tie cutter and use what they leave. The stump, or a portion of it; is taken from the ground, and the crooked piece is then hued into shape, later being hauled to a railroad and shipped to Auburn, Maine, where it goes through a planning mill and is made ready for the market."

I was all run down from nervousness and overwork and had to resign my position and take a rest. I found that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I could wish, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a good medicine for the ills of our sex, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. I consider it a fine tonic and excellent for worn-out, nervous condition, and am pleased to endorse it.

To Raise Lake Level.

The Itasca state park commission, composed of the governor and the attorney general, had a conference with Mr. Bullard, superintendent of the park. A number of the property owners on the lake had asked to have the level of the lake raised so that they could float their logs. Mr. Bullard stated that the lake is now considerably below its normal level and to raise it eighteen inches would do no harm to the state reservation. There is a dam below the lake and the level can thus easily be raised. The application was granted.

Killed by Cars.

Miss Mary Harmel, daughter of Carl Harmel, a farmer, residing five miles north of Faribault, was instantly killed by the southbound Chicago Rock Island passenger train.

Miss Harmel was walking beside the track when the train approached. The engineer gave his signal, but when the train was within twenty feet of the young woman she stepped onto the the track. She was thrown about twenty feet and instantly killed.

Work of Burglars.

While the family were attending grand opera in the Twin Cities a gang of burglars entered and plundered the residence of A. D. La Due in Luverne. Over 100 pieces of solid silverware, a beaverskin coat and a ladies' seal jacket were among the booty. The robbery was committed last week.

The raid, it is believed, was made by an organized gang which of late has committed frequent depredations in that vicinity.

News Notes.

The freshmen and sophomores at Hamlin university go on a strike.

Several consignments of "sake," the Japanese wine, have been received at the local custom office for Minneapolis persons.

The St. Paul bowlers won nearly half of the cash prizes offered at the state bowling tournament in Minneapolis.

Stephen E. Sullivan of St. Paul was discharged from bankruptcy in the Utnied States district court by Judge Lochren.

The senate passes the house bill to remove the university and the normal schools from the board of control.

The state dairy commissioner starts a campaign against dairymen who put water in milk.

The St. Paul Roosevelt club will celebrate the president's birthday anniversary by giving a dinner on Oct. 29.

C. H. Graves of Duluth, the newly appointed minister to Norway and Sweden, will leave for Washington on April 17, and will said from New York for Stockholm on April 27.

Owing to the fact that the measures of economy will be necessary to raise enough money to recruit nine new companies in Minnesota before 1909, under the provisions of the Dick bill, recently passed by congress, national guard officials are considering the plan of shortening the period of encampment of each regiment at Lake City this year to eight days instead of ten days.

Private Cars.

The rolling palaces of today are expensive luxuries. A private car costs from $18,000 to $30,000. Of course everyone cannot have a private car but the compartments on North-Western Limited from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago are cozily arranged and the privacy of the home is enjoyed.

Earthquakes Destroy Entire Cities—Loss of Life Will Be Between 50,- and 100,000—Whole Kangra Valley Is Devastated.

London, April 8.—Fifty thousand lives lost in one district alone and many thousands in other portions of the Punjab is the awful result of the recent earthquake in India. Towns have been razed, ancient and historic buildings made a mass of wreckage, and a population of hundreds of thousands offer up prayers against a repetition of the shocks. Amid all this horror men, women and children are starving, and unprotected from the weather huddle on the bleak and desolate hillsides, fearing death at any moment from another earth convulsion.

Disaster Almost Beyong Belief.

Fragmentary reports of the dreadful catastrophe have reached Lahore and thence sent here. Piecing these reports together it is impossible not to reach the conclusion that the greatest disaster of modern times, exceeding the horror of Mount Pelee's eruption, has befallen India.

The whole Kangra valley in the Jullinder section of the Punjab has been devastated. The town of Kangra, in the same district, a thriving city with a population of 50,000, is reported wiped out, scarcely a soul escaping.

The whole town of Palampur, containing about 5,000 inhabitants, has been leveled to the ground and not even a hut is left standing.

Three Missionaries Killed.

A telegram received by the Churtu Missionary society reports that three of the society's representatives at Kanray—Rev. H. F. Rowland, Mrs. Daueble and Miss Lorbeer—were killed by the fall of the mission house during the recent earthquake. All the other missionaries in Punjab are believed to be safe.

It now appears that 400 of the Seventh Gurkhas were killed at the Dharmsala cantonment by the collapse of a stone barrack building in consequence of the recent earthquake. In addition, 20 members of the First battalion and 50 members of the Second battalion of the First Gurkhas were killed, while it is roughly calculated that from 20 to 30 per cent. of the native population of the surrounding villages were killed. In addition to the Europeans already reported killed at Dharmsala, seven children of Europeans are said to have perished.

Relief Steps Taken.

News comes from Simla, the summer capital, and where Viceroy and Lady Curzon are now staying and which sustained some slight damage from the earthquake, that the viceroy, aided by Lady Curzon, has begun active steps to relieve so far as possible the destitution and suffering.

Communication by road and railway is practically cut off and the supplies at Simla are all that can be had for some time. These are inadequate, but are being distributed to the best possible advantage. Unless stores arrive from Calcutta and other Indian centers the death roll of the earthquake will be augmented by thousands claimed by famine, fever and cold.

PRESIDENT IN THE SOUTH

Attends Reunion of Rough Riders at San Antonio Tex.—Warm Welcome Everywhere.

San Antonio, Tex., April 7.—After an eventful trip across a large portion of Texas, President Roosevelt arrived in San Antonio at 8:39 o'clock Thursday night. When the special train bearing the president reached the station he was greeted with cheers from thousands of throats and the lusty "hurrahs" of his old comrades in arms, the famous Rough Riders of the Spanish American war, who are holding their annual reunion near the crumbling walls of the historic Alamo, could plainly be heard above the din. A cordial welcome was given to the president at Waco, where he spoke briefly. Austin was reached at two o'clock and President Roosevelt was met at the depot by Gov. Lanham, Lieut. Gov. Neil and a committee of 30 citizens and members of the Texas legislature. The entire party were placed in carriages and driven to the state house, where President Roosevelt made two speeches, one in the hall of representatives and the other on the lawn. The president was taken for a drive over the city.

San Antonio, Tex., April 8.—With the city covered with patriotic emblems, a display of flags of all sizes, likenesses of the president in many windows and the streets and plazas filled with cheering throngs of people, Theodore Roosevelt could not mistake the hearty welcome accorded him in San Antonio Friday. Enormous crowds of people greeted him along the route of the procession from Fort Sam Houston to Alamo plaza, where an address of welcome was delivered and a response made. He attended the reunion of his old regiment of Rough Riders, and in the evening was guest at a banquet given by the Business Men's club.

Frederick, Okla., April 10.—President Roosevelt is a hunter now. The public part of his trip ended Saturday when he reached here. This will be the headquarters and base of supplies of the president while hunting wolves in the big pasture reserve in Comanche county. The president's hunting outfit arrived at Frederick last week. It contains all that is needed to make it comfortable for man and beast. The party at once will go into camp, which is pitched in the middle of the reserve which occupies 480,000 acres. The arrangement of the camp is in charge of the soldiers from Fort Sill. A detachment will patrol the pasture lines during the time the president is hunting, and only the presidential party of from 12 to 20 men and the necessary help will be allowed in the reserve during that time. The president's trip will be resumed on Thursday, when the train will start for western Colorado, to which point the president will go for the purpose of finding larger game than abounds on the Red river in Oklahoma.

Fire Fighter Dead.

Chicago, April 8.—William H. Townsend, who was first assistant fire marshal until a few weeks ago, when he was placed on the retired list, died Friday of Bright's disease, from which he had long been a sufferer. Marshal Townsend had been on the fire department for more than 30 years, and had a notable record for bravery, having saved many lives.

Ardmore, I. T., April 10.—Moses Simmons and Miss Mary Pearer, young people, were killed at a railway crossing here Sunday, their buggy being struck by a freight train.

Home Again.

Washington, April 10.—Mrs. Roosevelt and her three children who have been away on a short cruise in Florida waters, returned to Washington Sunday.

EDISON'S TRIUMPH.

An Incident In the Great Inventor's Start In Life.

Dr. Norvin Green, for many years president of the Western Union Telegraph company, once said that but for the dullness of himself and his assistants Thomas A. Edison might never have obtained the confidence and support of the great corporation. Edison had been trying for months to induce the officials to take up some of his inventions until they began to regard him as a bore.

He went to the main office one day and was greeted by Dr. Norvin Green and the other officials with sneering smiles. Dr. Green said: "Mr. Edison, we are unable to get into communication with Albany, and a large amount of important business is in peril. I suppose that since you know more about telegraphy than all of the rest of us combined you can locate the difficulty."

Whether Edison noticed the sneering tone or not, he quietly answered, "I can locate it inside of two or three hours, sir."

Dr. Green and the others laughed outright, one of them saying, "Edison, you have now fully demonstrated that you are a crank."

Edison never smiled or addressed a word to the speaker, but looked at Dr. Green and said, "If I locate this difficulty in two or three hours, will you take up my inventions and give them honest consideration?"

"Yes, I will," said Dr. Green, "and I will do it if you succeed in two days."

It was a very simple thing, and yet Edison was the only one who had the comprehensive mind to think of it instantly. He did not tell them for many years afterward how he accomplished the feat, but he did it inside of one hour.

Edison went to the main offices, where he was known as an expert operator, and called up Pittsburg. He asked for the best operator there, naming him, and then told the Pittsburg man to call up the best man at Albany and direct him to telegraph down the line toward New York as far as he could and report back to Edison as soon as possible. Inside of an hour Edison had this telegram:

"I can telegraph all right down to within two miles of Poughkeepsie, and there is trouble with the wire there."

Edison went back to the office of the president and gravely announced that if a train should be sent to Poughkeepsie with materials for the work they would find a break in the line just two miles on the other side of Poughkeepsie and could repair it that afternoon.

They begged him to tell how he had found it out, and he replied:

"By knowing more about telegraphing than all of you put together, as Dr. Green has said."

They located the break, repaired it, and Dr. Green took up Edison's inventions, and that was Edison's great start in life.—Youth's Companion.

There are plugs of all sorts—horses hats and men.

Raise 1,200 to 1,300-pound mares for the farm and 1,500 to 1,600-pound horses for sale.

If a man is going to raise 50 or more pigs a year he can pay $40 or $50 for the boar that will sire these pigs.

With a telephone in the house, a buggy in the barn, a rural mail box at the gate, the problem is solved—how to keep the girls and boy on the farm.

A western mule raiser says two mules can be raised until 3 years old on the same feed as one steer. The steer will be worth $60 to $75; the mules from $250 to $300.

The farmer who does his best, always and everywhere, is the one who does most to lift up his country, state and township. The roots of good goverment are deep down among the good farmers of the country.

Money is not made on our farms very rapidly, and never without plenty of good hard work, which is the reason why so many young men dodge the farm if possible. The successful farmers will accumulate money slowly. but safely and surely. and he will furthur always see to it that his soil is not depleted, but rather made more productive each year.

It is said that the inhabitants of New York eat an egg apiece every day in the year, which makes a total of 1,405,250,000 in the twelve months. And among our population there is at least one woman who eats only eggs laid by young hens. She has a standing order with a leading commission house for two dozen a week and pays a fancy price for them, averaging about a $1 a dozen the year ronnd.

An exchange offers the following wholesome advice to farmers who employ help on the farm: "Keep on the right side of your hired man. Treat him well so long as he is in your employ, and if he does not deserve good treatment, or respond to it, do not keep him. A good hired man will appreciate good usage and kind favor and pay for them by the extra amount and better quality of his service. It is courtesy to treat all men decently. In the case of your hired man it is also policy economy. Be liberal with, not only at the table. but give him occasionally a spare day for amusement and recreation. Any intelligent hired man will work harder and preform his labor better when he feels that his employer appreciates well doing."

The farmer should feel proud of his profession, as it is one of the most useful and necessary occupations. He does not sit on the ragged edge of doubt as to the permanency of his position. No master has a mortgage oe his labor or his products. He is a king among men, and his home is the abode of contentment. He studies the laws of nature and derives maintenance from her bounteous stores. When times are hard, and laborers are clamoring for work, he has plenty of business to occupy his time, If the farmer commences with small capital his investment is sure to increase for the earth often rewards the husbandman a hundredfold. The proper management of small undertaking leads to larger enterprises. The well-tilled farm produces abundantly, and the farmer always has a surplus to sell, that makes him independent even in strenuous times. The farmer is the foundation of the commercial prosperity of the country.

A New Era in Trains Pacific Transportation.

The Great Northern Steamship Company in placing in service between Seattle, Wash., and Yokohama. Nagasaki, Kobe, Shanghai and Hong Kong, the magnificent American built steamships the "Minnesota" and the "Dakota" a new era in transportion facillties between the United State and the Orient. These magnificent steamships with their superior facilities in handling immense freight cargoes and the luxurious appointments for passenger travel has given an impetus to our oriental trade. The North Pacific Route to the Orient is rapidly becoming the popluar one and now that the two palatial steamships, "Minnesota" and "Dakota" have been put in commission, there is no question but that o further greater increase in our trade with the Orient as well increased passenger travel to Asiatic ports will be inaugurated. The first sailing of the "Minnesofa," in addition to carrying the largest cargo to the Orient ever carried by any ship in the world, as well as an extensive passenger list, augura well for the future.

The "Minnesota" will sail on its next voyage to the Orient on Saturday April 29th and it will not be amiss to say here that the excellence of her passenger accommodations will be heralded to the travelling public of the United States by all who enjoyed the pleasant voyage across the Pacific on her first trip, as furnishing the acme of travel comfort. The fact that the superior accommodations of the Great Northern Steamship Company in connection with the comfortable journey afforded by the Great North Railway to Seattle, the sailing point of the "Minnesota," will make this route the popular one from occident to Orient.

SUICIDE AT ST. HILAIRE

N. Shannon, an Aged Man, Becomes Dispondent Over Loss of Job and Hangs Himself.

N, Shannon, a resident of St. Hilaire, committed suicide early Wednesday morning by hanging. It seems Mr. Shannon had been employed at the saw mill at that place and for some reason was discharged. Having a large family the loss of his position caused him worry and preyed upon his mind until he became dispondent and to end his troubles he employed the above method. He was a man 69 years of age and was the father of a large family.

It was noticed yesterday morning that he was unusually quiet upon arising but the family paid but little attention to his condition, little thinking what was upon his mind. Before breakfast he went to the barn to do the chores accompanied by a young son. After doing various odd jobs he went up into the hay loft to throw down hay for the cow, telling his son to go into the house for breakfast. The boy obeyed his command and when, after a reasonable time, the head of the house failed to appear a search was made for him. An older son upon entering the hay loft found his father hung to a rafter of the build ing.

It was a great shock to the family and tho deed caused a great amount of excitement in the town. Coroner Belair of this city was notified of the ocourence and left immediately for the scene of the tradegy.

GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS.

Farmers' Creamery Will Begin Operations May First.

The farmers creamery at this place is being overhauled and the machinery and everything connected with the manufacture of butter is being put in first class shape for the season's business.

A competent buttermaker in the person of H. A. Blaisdell, from Janesville, Minn., has been secured and everything points to a most successful season. J. B. Demereau has been elected manager of the concern and John Grady will act as secretary. The business of the creamery will be in competent hands and no doubt the men at the head of the movement will make a financial success of the undertaking.

The creamery will begin the season May 1st and is to be hoped that our farmers will become interested in the business and do all they can to make it a success in every particular. A good sized cream check has been the salvation of many a farmer, and when our farmers fully appreciate the value of the dairy they will not hesitate to help the movement at every turn. Be among the first to show that you know a good thing when you see it.

A Poor Rule to Follow.

An exchange gives the following receipt for stocking the penitentiary: When your boy doesn't want to go to school let him loaf; when he gets into mischief and your neighbor reports it to you, curse your neighbor in the presence of your boy, but do not reprimand the boy. When he gets a little larger and purloins something of value and you find it out, just laugh at it and let it go; when he gets into something that calls him to the justice court and he is found guilty, pay the fine, curse the court, the jury and everyone connected with the matter, pity the boy and you will soon have a splendid candidate for the pen.

WANT RED LAKE FALLS BAND

Blackduck Desirous of Securing our Musical Organization for Fireman's Tournament in June.

Blackduck wants the Red Lake Falls band to furnish the music for their firemen's tournement in June. L. P. Roudenne a prominent business man of that place was in the city Wednesday evening and after hearing the band play several selections he expressed a willingness to engage the band if satisfactory terms could be reached.

Mr. Roudenne was appointed a committee to look Northern Minnesota for a band for the tournament and this place was the first stop made. After hearing the band play he said he would look no further, as he knew from experience that our band was the best to be had in this section of the country. Mr. Roudenne was at one time leader of the famous St. Cloud band and is an authority on bands and band music. Words of commendation coming from one so well posted in music mean something and the boys can well feel proud of the complimentary things the visitor said to them Wednesday evening.

Mr. Roudenne was not prepared to find a band of so large a membership, and said he expected to see an organization of ten or fifteen players of the ordinary stripe. To say he was most agreeably surprised mildly expressed his feelings. He wants the entire band to be at his town in June and it is only a question of expense whether the band will be engaged or not. The band management is figuring with Mr. Roudenne and there is every reason to believe that a contract will be signed within a few days. Red Lake Falls may well feel proud of having the first call for so important an engagement and being selected as the best band in Northern Minnesota.

Blackduck is preparing for the best time ever held in Northern Minnesota. Plenty money has been raised to insure a most successful meeting. Everything possible is being done for the comfort and welfare of the fire boys while visiting that city, and several new features will be pulled off during the tournament. A large number of prizes will be awarded, there will be several free attractions, and the town will be turned over to the visitors during their visit. The best tournament ever held in Northern Minnesota is confidently looked for.

We learn that late this afternoon an agreement was made and that Red Lake Falls will furnish the offiaial band for the tournament.

BADGER BOY HURT.

Master Fred Hudson Meets With Serious Accident.

Special to the Courier.

Badger, April 19, 1905.--Master Fred Hudson met with a serious accident Sunday evening, while at play with some other boys at the home of M, Quesnell. The youngsters were throwing sticks at one another and one of the little boys threw a stick that struck Master Fred in the eye. A most painful wound was made, but it is thought the sight will not be impaired. His little companions immediately took him home after the accident and every thing was done to make the little sufferer comfortable. His playmates are much concerned about the affair and hope he will soon be able to be out again.

COW BECOMES MAD.

Cow Bit by Dog Developes Hydrophobia and is Killed.

A cow belonging to Alphonse Roi, living in the southwest part of the city, was bitten by a dog a few days ago and it was found necessary to kill her Tuesday morning. Mr. Roi's dog acted queerly some days ago and the owner becoming suspicious tied it up and afterwards shot it, but not before it had bitten one of his cows. Mr. Roi immediately tied the cow securely in the barn and awaited developments. Monday night hydrophobia developed in a severe form and the cow became unmanageable. During the night she broke off both horns and it was a hard matter to get anywhere near her. Tuesday morning Health Officer Wilkinson was called to look at the animal and it was decided to kill her immediately.

BEGINS WORK.

E. X. Chatel Goes to York, N. D., With Men and Teams.

E. X. Chatel left Monday evening for York, North Dakota, where he has a big job of grading for the Great Northern railroad. Twenty-one men and five car loads of horses and grading tools were taken from this place and Mr. Chatel will hire addition help and teams when he gets the work under way.

He expects to have enough work to keep him busy until it freezes up next fall, as there is to be something over two hundred miles built by the railway company on this one contract this season. Mr. Chatel will be at home off and on during the summer but expects to put in the most of his time where his men and teams are at work.

ELECT TEACHERS FOR SCHOOL

School Board Engage Competent Instructors for the Coming Year.

At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening the following teachers were chosen to teach in our schools the coming year: E. W. Chamberlain, superintendent; Lee E. Healy, Ellen B. Brady, Henrietta Hennemuth, Pauline A. Nieland, Mrs. J. J. Doe, Alice Coughlan, Bertha Norby, Daisy Veits and Eugenia DeKay. Miss DeKay is the only new teacher, the balance of the force having been employed in the schools for some time past. Miss DeKay hails from Grand Forks and is said to be a teacher of merit and well qualified for the work. She will be in the primary department.

Superintendent Chamberlain is to receive a substantial increase in salary, as are all the old teachers with the exception of Mrs. Doe who is already receiving the limit. Mr. Chamberlain and his excellent corps of assistants are to be congratulated upon the good work they are doing and it must be a source of great pleasure to them to know that the board and the public in general appreciate their able services.

There are two highschool and one primary teacher to be employed yet, and it is thought another teacher will have to be chosen in place of Miss Viets, who it is said will not accept the position again. The board expects to meet in about two weeks at which time the vacancies will be filled.

JIM AND PAUL

WE LENGTHEN LIFE AND CURE DISEASE
By Supplying Nature Power

Costs 8 Cents a Day.

Rev. Henry A. Harbuck

La Grippe, Indigestion, Liver Trouble, Catarrh, Etc., That Baffled the Most Skilled Physicians. Nutriola & Nature Wrought a Perfect Cure.

NUTRIOLA CO.

Gentlemen: You ask if the cure wrought by NUTRIOLA has been permanent. I am pleased to say that through God's blessing, I have enjoyed perfect health since your treatment. I suffered for years from Indigestion, Catarrh and an enlargement of the Liver. I had a severe attack of La Grippe, leaving me a constant sufferer with Insomnia, Headache and extremely nervous. NUTRIOLA made me perfectly well and I have remained so ever since.

Gratefully yours,
Rev. Henry A. Harbuck

For ages men have tried to cure disease and failed. Instead of helping Nature, they have helped Disease and Death with alcohol and medical poisons—the cemeteries fill fast.

Our Chemists commenced working 10 years ago to discover how to HELP Nature. At a cost of $50,000.00 in cash WE HAVE SUCCEEDED in learning how to make a Chemical-Medical Preparation that SUPPLIES NATURE WITH POWER to drive every MICROBE, every DISEASE GERM, out of the system. We call it because it is the very ESSENCE OF LIFE. It feeds, strengthens, and makes the body "NEW ALL OVER."

NU-TRI-OLA

To prevent disease or regain health, Nature must perform four things perfectly, Digest, Assimilate, Eliminate, Construct. Only Perfectly Digested and Assimilated food supplies life. NUTRIOLA digests food naturally and perfectly. Perfect Assimilation follows perfect Digestion.

NUTRIOLA makes Red Corpuscles—rich in building material.

Nature's Only Germ Killers.

NUTRIOLA makes Leucocytes—White Corpuscles—strong and vigorous and they quickly destroy every "germ" and "microbe." They are the only germ destroyers Nature uses in the human body—that's a scientific fact.

NUTRIOLA makes the system absorb great draughts of Oxygen through the re-vitalized lungs and the millions of pores. Oxygen is the fuel of life.

The organs of Excretion eliminate the dead and diseased cells and tissues and Nature builds new cells in their place.

NUTRIOLA makes new blood and from the blood Nature makes new brain, nerve, lung, liver, heart, kidney, bone and muscle cells. It's the same natural law that makes plants grow when supplied with chemical nutrition, applied for the first time to the human body in treating disease. The vigor of youth, the power of maturity, the strength of perfect life, courses through your system and you KNOW that Nutriola & Nature has made you "new all over."

Whatever your disease may be

and we will cure you, or it won't cost you a cent.

NUTRIOLA costs you 8 cents a day. Our Staff of Skilled Physicians can make a correct diagnosis of your case, however far you may be away. They have a method and means of doing this that never fail. They tell you just what to do in even the worst cases. Their services are FREE.

Nature's Power Destroys Disease

OUR RURAL FRIENDS.

There are many ways to make money and to make it honestly, but there is but one way to save it, and that is to spend less than you make.

Wm. E. Curtis estimates that along the Gulf coast there are 25,000,000,000 acres of timber land or about 60 per cent of the entire timber land of the country.

The earth contains a quantity of salt equal to one-seventh of its weight The salt is dissolved little by little, and hence the saltness of the ocean is increasing.

It is said that the world needs a two-billion bushel wheat crop every year. The day is far distant when wheat should sell below a dollar per bushel in this country.

The South needs more farmers, One great trouble in this country is that a large percentage of the people who might be fairly good farmers think they were intended by nature to achieve distinction in the cities.

How often we have seen in farm papers some one complaining that he is very much troubled with ragweed in his pasture and greatly annoyed to know what to do with it. Now if he will cut it just at the right time and stack it up he will have as good hay as grows, unless it is alfalfa, then fed to cattle or sheep. The only trouble is cutting at the proper time. If any farmer will cut it before it begins to get course and the stem wooy, and turn cattle to the ragweed stack and the timothy stack, he will learn the value of this neglected forage crop.

As nearly as can be determined, more than $200,000,000 have already been spent in the United States for constructing irrigation canals and reservoirs for the distribution of water and for preparing land to receive irrigation water. Over 10,000,000 acres are to-day being watered and something like 15,000,000 acres more can be watered by the ditches already constructed. The cost of this irrigation may seem large, but returns justify the expenditure. In 15 states and territories the very existence of life depends upon the ability to use river and flood water for growing crops. And the farmers are not the only ones benefited. Cities like Denver, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake, Los Angeles. were created by and dependent upon irrigation. And there are still millions of acres to be watered and numerless cities to be developed by the application of water to the soil of the West.

Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an idea as noble as it is difficult,—To illustrate: The breakfast was ready but the hope of the family was not; the sister home from boarding school called from the foot of the stairs: "Willie, the Orient is ablaze and our morning reflections awaits your presence." No reply being heard the mother takes her place and calls: "William, you lazy dogskin, get up this minute and come to breakfast." And still there was no answer where upon the man stepped to the stairs and merely said "Bill!" "Coming, Sir!" was the instant response and in three minutes a united family sat at the table.

Mrs. Alfred Chapin of New York is believed to own the finest collection of black diamonds in the country. Most of Mrs. Chapin's sable gems came from the province of Bahia, Brazil, and nearly all are of exceptional beauty.

Miss Mary Gillette of Stowe, Vt., is the possessor of an heirloom that is deserving of mention. It is a sampler that was worked in the year 1700 by Mary Kingston, who afterward became the mother of General Greene of Revolutionary fame.

Lady Rachel Byng, daughter of the Earl of Stratford, conducts a school for millinery for gentlewomen, where a training is given both for those who wish to start in business for themselves and others whose only interest is to make their own hats.

Mrs. Ingeborg Nelson, mother of United States Senator Knute Nelson of Minneapolis, is over ninety years old, but is still in good health and spirits and passes much of her time carding and spinning wool, an art which she learned as a child in the mountains of Norway.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

Peru exported last year 8,000 tons of cotton, while Brazil produced nearly 300,000 bales.

The lumber output of the mills in the Minneapolis district alone last year was 718,230,481 feet.

The deepest working coal mine in Great Britain is at Pendleton, Manchester. Here coal is now being got at a depth of 3,483 feet below the surface. The deepest mine in the world is in Belgium, coal being got at a depth of 3,773 feet below the surface.

LEWIS-CLARK FEATURES.

"Hit the trail" is to be the slogan of the Pacific northwest in connection with the Lewis and Clark centennial.

The new building for the Lewis and Clark centennial, made necessary by the demands for exhibit space, will contain 90,000 feet of floor space.

The project of a camping ground, to be located on the hills behind the Lewis and Clark exposition, is being agitated. Those favoring the project argue that farmers and ranchers will want to drive to Portland during the fair and camp out and that eastern people will enjoy the novelty of a few days of tent life.

LEAVENED BREAD

Has Been Man's Constant Mainstay From Time Immemorial.

Some writer has said that "The first miller emerging from his savage state, with no thought save hunger, plucked the wheat from the stock, and, using his teeth for millstones, ground the first grist for a customer who would not be denied—his stomach." Thus gaining experience by test in the food line, it would be only natural for this miller to lay up a quantity of grain against an hour of need. Just when he commenced grinding his wheat in the rude stone mortar and moistening the flour preparatory to baking it in the ashes of his camp fire, and just when it was found that an old piece of dough in a fresh batch made it better or "leavened" it, is beyond the reach of historians. Certain it is that though the principle was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day, it has remained for the makers of Yeast Foam to supply a yeast with all the true leavening powers minus the properties that produce sour, "runny" or soggy bread. This is the yeast that took the first grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, and revolutionizes the bread making in every home where it is used because much better bread can be made with it from any flour.

Yeast Foam is purely vegetable, being made of the best malt, corn, hops and other healthful ingredients. The factory is also the cleanest and best equipped in the world. This yeast is the only kind that preserves in the bread all the delicious flavor and nutritive value of the wheat. The bread made with it is always sweet and wholesome and stays moist until used. Forty loaves of bread can be made from one 5c package. The makers of Yeast Foam are giving out a new book called "Good Bread; How to Make It." This little book, invaluable in its way, has twenty-six illustrations in colors, and tells how to make all kinds of bread, biscuits, buns and rolls, as well as containing other recipes which will be found invaluable in the home. The way of preparing the different recipes is very clear and comprehensive. The book will be sent free to any one sending their name and address, with a request for same, to the Northwestern Yeast Company, Chicago, Ill. Every woman who bakes should secure a copy.

RUSSIAN SHIPS IN FRENCH PORT

SQUADRON OF ROJESAVENSKY DEFINITELY LOCATED AT KAMRANH BAY.

TOKIO GOVERNMENT ASKS EXPLANATION

Claim Is Made That Neutrality Has Been Violated—Complications Are Feared—Japanese Fleet Waiting to Give Battle.

London, April 18.—The Russian squadron has been definitely located in Kamranh bay, a French port about 200 miles from Saigon, Cochin China, according to advices from Hong-Kong, and the point has been raised whether France has violated international law by permitting the use of its ports to a belligerent squadron engaged in offensive operations. Japan wants to know, and, according to advices here, the Japanese minister at Paris has been instructed to make an immediate request for an explanation.

When Rojestvensky spent several weeks in Madagascar waters Japan complained to France that neutrality was being violated. France, in response, denied that the Russian fleet was within the territorial waters of France, and therefore no action could be taken in the matter.

France's Reply Awaited.

Now the same question comes up again, and the reply of France is being eagerly awaited in Tokio. If France denies that the Russians are within the territorial waters of France, then Japan will have the opportunity to make an immediate attack without violating the neutrality of France.

Rojestvensky put into Kamranh bay April 12 for the purpose of coaling and revictualing, preparatory to sailing north. The squadron, 48 hours later, was still there, with Japanese boats reported to be lying in wait for them to come out, in order to give battle.

At least part of the Japanese fleet has also been located in that section, as the capture of a number of Russian colliers is reported in a dispatch from Saigon. The composition of this fleet is unknown, as is the actual whereabouts of Togo. It is thought, however, that the boats close to the road of Cochin China are part of a flying squadron under Admiral Uriu, and consist of several fast cruisers and a large number of torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers of the class that did such daring and effective work around Port Arthur.

Japanese Are Alert.

This section of the Japanese navy is doubtless in close communication with the remainder of the fleet either by wireless or dispatch boats, so that it is extremely likely that the Russians upon departure from Kamranh bay will be intercepted as they proceed north, as there will be no port before Vladivostok in which the warships can take refuge.

Serious complications are not impossible that may involve both France and Great Britain as the result of the stay of the Russian fleet in Kamranh bay. That these contingencies were in a measure anticipated is seen in the departure several days ago from Hong-Kong of several British warships bound in the direction of Cochin China. At the same time a number of French warships which had been cruising in Asiatic waters unexpectedly put into Saigon. The Dutch squadron is also in the vicinity, presumably for the purpose of enforcing neutrality, while American warships are cruising in the vicinity and going as far north as the Philippines.

Time Limit Is Up.

Tokio, April 18.—It is calculated here that the Russian squadron arrived at Kamranh bay at noon April 12 and therefore had been occupying the port 48 hours when seen at noon April 14.

The information received regarding vessels of the Russian squadron being seen at Kamranh bay April 14 reached Tokio Monday and was given to the public through a brief communication from the navy department. The news was a surprise because it was generally doubted that France would permit the use of her ports to a belligerent squadron engaged in offensive operations. The Japanese government is silent on the subject of its intentions, but it is expected that it will make immediate representations to France. The response of France is eagerly awaited particularly as to whether France admits the squadron is within territorial waters. France denied that the Russian squadron was within territorial waters when off Madagascar. If she denies it in this instance it will give Japan an opportunity to attack the Russian vessels without violating France's neutrality. Many people continue to believe the Russian squadron will speedily leave Kamranh bay and continue its voyage northward.

Battle Reported.

London, April 18.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Hongkong says a small naval engagement between the Russians and Japanese is reported. No details are given.

Heard Firing.

Hongkong, April 18.—The steamer Telemachus reports that she heard firing 150 miles north of the Natuna islands at 3:20 o'clock on the afternoon of April 12.

Preparing for Finish of Journey.

St. Petersburg, April 18.—The news that vessels of the Russian squadron have put into Kamranh bay, north of Cape Padaran, off the east coast of Cochin China, bears out the statements contained in these dispatches a week ago to the effect that Admiral Rojestvensky probably would seek shelter off that part of the Cochin-China coast, and there coal and make his final preparations before embarking on the final stage of his journey. No definite information is obtainable as to the length of the squadron's stay at Kamranh bay, or whether the warships have already sailed, the admiralty, even if it knows, being naturally silent on this point.

Expect No Battle at Pescadores.

A high-placed admiral has expressed the firm conviction that Admiral Togo would not give battle near the Pescadore islands, Formosa straits. He said: "It would be a great tactical error to concentrate his squadron 800 miles from Japan, and run the risk of having Rojestvensky slip by, when by remaining in home waters Rojestvensky must come to him in order to reach his only base—Vladivostok. All the Tokio dispatches about the proclamation of martial law in the Pescadore islands, and the probable presence of a Japanese squadron in Formosan waters are sent as blinds. We do not know Rojestvensky's plans. He has worked them out himself, and knowing the admiral as I do his own flag captain was probably in the dark when he entered the China sea. We have complete confidence in Rojestvensky's resourcefulness. He labors under disadvantages so far as the speed of his vessels is concerned, but the reports of the condition of his ships and crews, and the latter's skill in gunnery, as shown by their target practice, are better than we considered possible, and we firmly believe he has more than a fighting chance of whipping Togo in an open fight."

SERIOUS CUTTING AFFRAY.

One Man Dead in Minneapolis and Two Badly Injured as Result of a Drunken Quarrel.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 18.—John Pardula, aged 28 years, is dead in the morgue, and Peter Stopa and George Pardula, a brother of the dead man, are in the City hospital as a result of a cutting affray. All of the men are Polish and neither of the two in the hospital can speak English. They refuse to discuss the affair. The three with three others had spent Sunday evening together drinking, in a boarding house on Marshall avenue northeast. As they were leaving the place early Monday morning a quarrel started and knives were freely used. The two men in the hospital are badly slashed and the dead man had a knife wound in his right lung. A third was also slightly hurt. The men in the hospital are under arrest as also are John Dzleadzina, Jack Tamashak and Peter Wzzos.

The hallway of the house and the sidewalk in front of the house is washed in blood, showing that a terrific struggle took place in the darkness.

EDUCATORS TO MEET.

National Association to Hold Annual Session at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

New York, April 18.—With the president of the United States as the chief guest, and leading educators from all sections of the United States among the speakers, the next general session of the National Educational association which will be held in Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, N. J., next July, promises to be the most notable in the association's history. The meetings will begin Monday, July 3, and continue five days. An elaborate programme has been completed.

Two Perish by Fire.

Otis, Mass., April 18.—George McMahon, of Westfield, and Joseph Barrett, of Manchester, Conn., both young men, were found burned to death early Sunday morning in the ruins of a shanty occupied by an Italian known as "Johnny George," in Otis. The origin of the fire is a mystery, and there is some suspicion of foul play, although one explanation is that the men, returning to the shanty late, built a fire and went to sleep and the building caught fire from an overheated stove.

Woman Must Hang.

Philadelphia, April 18.—By a vote of 5 to 2 the supreme court Monday decided that Mrs. Catherine Danz must hang for the murder of her husband, William G. Danz. George P. Hossey, a colored voodoo doctor, has also received the death sentence for the part he took in the murder of Danz. Danz died under peculiar circumstances, and a post-mortem examination of the remains revealed the fact that he had died of arsenical poisoning.

Must Return for Trial.

Washington, April 18.—The supreme court of the United States Monday, through an opinion of Justice Brown, affirmed the decision of the New York federal court refusing to grant a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of John A. Benson, who is resisting removal to the District of Columbia for trial on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with land frauds on the Pacific coast.

Law Held Unconstitutional.

Washington, April 18.—In an opinion by Justice Peckham, the supreme court of the United States held to be unconstitutional the New York state law making ten hours a day's work and 60 hours a week's work in bakeries in that state. Justices Harlan, White, Day and Holmes dissented, and Justice Harlan declared that no more important decision had been rendered in the last century.

Depot Burned.

Durand, Mich., April 18.—Fire which broke out late last night destroyed the Grand Trunk union depot here, in which are located the general offices of the road's division west of Port Huron. The building was valued at $125,000, and was a new one, having been dedicated only last October.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Fee Incomes.

The income of the various fee offices in the state are as follows:

The governor's private secretary received fees for the years of 1903 and 1904, aggregating $8,873, and in addition a yearly salary of $1,500, making an annual compensation of $5,936.50. While this is nearly a thousand a year more than the governor receives, it is less than the office had been supposed to pay, which was all the way from $7,000 to $10,000 a year.

The clerk of the supreme court, who has been supposed to pocket $10,000 a year or more, received $7,717 in 1903 and $7,443 in 1904, out of which he paid the remainder of the staff of his office, leaving him a little over $4,000 net income.

The net income of the surveyors general of logs and lumber for the principal districts are ascertained by the committee as follows:

Minneapolis district	$6,706
Duluth district	6,614
Stillwater district	3,887

No other offices were investigated, everything else being either insignificant or else practically on a salary basis.

The fees of the public examiner amount to $600 a year from the examination of St. Paul city accounts, and $170 a year from building and loan associations, which in addition to his $3,500 salary, make an annual income of $4,270 for the head of the department.

Big Fire.

The Palace livery barn, one of the largest establishments of its kind in the state at Luverne, together with 27 horses and livery equipment, was destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered a few minutes after it started, but spread so rapidly that only six horses and a few buggies were taken out.

The barn was located only fifty feet from Manitou hotel, recently constructed at a cost of $35,000, and for a time it was feared this and all surrounding buildings were doomed. The absence of wind was what saved a widespread conflagration. Plate glass windows across the street were broken and solder on galvanized iron copings on the buildings across the street was melted by the intense heat.

State Census.

Governor Johnson has signed the state census bill and preparations will be made at once for numerations by Secretary of State Peter E. Hanson. Quarters will be selected on the second and third floor of capitol, probably in some of the legislative committee rooms, for a corps of clerks. There will be some 3,000 enumerators named on recommendation of senators and representatives. In towns of 5,000 and over, they will receive $2 a hundred names; In towns of less than 5,000 and not more than 5,000, $2.25 a hundred names; in sparcely settled rural districts 2½ cents a name.

Beat the Ordinance.

The ordinance prohibiting the giving of free lunches by saloonkeepers of Winona was declared invalid by a jury in the case of Alex Artz, declaring him not guilty of the offense. A peculiar defense was advanced. The ordinance provides that the saloonkeepers shall not give away lunches for the purpose of increasing the sale of liquors. By the testimony of three physicians it was shown that a person who ate a lunch would not drink so much, and the jury acquitted the defendant on this technicality.

Refused the Piano.

A gift of a $2,000 mahogany piano for the governor's reception room in the new capitol was refused by Gov. Johnson. S. W. Raudenbush of St. Paul made the offer and said the piano would be constructed especially to conform with the design of the other furniture in the magnificent reception room.

Gov. Johnson said he had no authority to accept the gift as he is not custodian of the capitol building and has no control over the furniture or other equipment of the building.

Suicide.

John Bishop of Gull Lake, one of the old-time residents, died from strychnine. He formerly conducted the Bishop ranch at Gull Lake, one of the most popular summer resorts in Northern Minnesota. It is thought he had brooded over financial matters, having recently disposed of his land and belongings about Gull Lake. He leaves several children, but the wife died several years ago.

News Notes.

Timothy Doyle, twelve years old and living with his parents in St. Paul, had his right leg lacerated at the knee and ankle by a bulldog.

Lewis Auster was discovered dead in a barn of J. H. Sullivan, at Lakeville.

The passenger steamer Fountain City was launched at Stillwater. Miss Irene Hanks, daughter of one of the owners, Benjamin Hanks of South Stillwater, christened the boat, using the traditional bottle of champagne.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Hamre celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day at Faribault.

The independent oil dealers of the Twin Cities carry their fight against the Standard Oil company into the Dakotas.

The Turtle river drive of logs, which will aggregate 25,000,000 feet, will be started in a few days. The logs were landed by the Blakeley & Farley company near the village of Farley. It is estimated that 250 men will be employed on the drive, which is expected to reach Cass Lake July 1.

THERE is a growing suspicion that the state university is getting into politics, and that its demands for appropriations are enforced by covert threats of "getting even."

THE Kansas City Star thinks somebody should call Mr. Rockefeller's attention to the fact that J. M. Graft is manager of the independent oil company at Osafatomie, Kansas.

THE Chicaago Examiner says a tariff may as well be put on coffee as it is the only article of an American breakfast that is not taxed directly or protected by a tariff barrier.

A WRITER in the Prison Mirror remarks that the young man in Minnisota who sows wild oats is often sent to the Stillwater institution to make twine with which to harvest his crop.

IF the bill becomes alaw, says the Fairmont Sentinel, allowing the gamblers to take possession of the state fair the newspapers will give the association a lot of free advertising that the management will not like.

THE Thief River Press is reminded that there is a manifest difference in quoting from the records of a court and making unfair and unwarranted charges that are not supported by a scintilla of evidence of any sort.

THE Minneapolis Journal's correspondent says the corporations have Senator Knute Nelson marked for slaughter. If the senior senator has been particularly aggressive in his opposition to the corporations he has been exceedingly careful to keep the fact away from his contituents.

THE Beltrami county officials seem to be reaping the whirlwind. For a dozen years they have looting the treasury, and the dear taxpayers has been footing the bills. The cleaning up of this bunch of arch-grafters will have a wholesome effect and give added confidence in the public examiner's bureau.

FROM the tone of Fred Schiffman's testimony we gather that his job as state oil inspector was hardly worth the trouble, says the St. Peter Herald. He says that altho the receipts of his office were about $31,000 a year, he had only $13,600 left after paying his deputies and other expenses. Then, to crown his woe, he says he had to made a divy with the "oil board" and his dismal countenance says plainly that they were a terrible greedy lot of grafters.

As predicted the Nolan demurrage bill was killed by amendments in the senate which took away every remedial feature. The author did not recognize the bill when it was returned to the house, and moved that it be indefinitely postponed. If the corporation are not to dominate legislation in the next session about half of the members of the senate must be asked to remain at home.

ACCORDING to the St. Peter Herald since the first of the year State Insurance Commissioner O'Brien has turned $319,237 in fees into the state treasury. Under the old order of things a large percentage of this would have gone to the commissioner, but in the face of this there were a number of broad-gauge republican legislators who expressed themselves in favor of placing him on a salary of $2,400 per annum. The saving he has already made to the state naturally causes one to ponder upon the size of the campaign contributions paid by the ex-commissioners.

MINNESOTA IN BATTLE.

The state capitol commission has awarded commissions to artists for the four additional paintings for the governor's reception room, as follows:

"First Minnesota at Gettysburg," to be painted by Rufus F. Zogbaum.

"The fourth Minnesota Regiment at Vicksburg," to be painted by F. D. Millet.

"The Second Regiment at Missionary Ridge," to be painted by Douglas Volk.

"The Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth Regiments at the Battle of Nashville," to be painted by Howard Pyle.

Two of the artists have already done or at present doing work for the new capitol. Douglas Volk's painting, "Discovery of the St. Anthony by Father Hennepin," has been placed in the west end of the governor's reception room.

F. D. Millet's painting, "The Treaty of Traverse Des Sioux," was reported by Architect Cass Gilbert to be nearly completed. It will be placed in the east end of the room.

Each painting will be purchased from the artist at a cost of $6,000.

The Story of Two Hogs.

Fairmont Sentinel: That a Colfax paper says that "William Hentico last Wednesday evening at Lamb's resturant ate 28 bananas, smacked his lips and declares the last one tasted just as good as the first." That's nothing. Chester White, of Knoxville, ate 14 ears of corn, two pumpkins and a bucket of swill, and was able to rub his bristles against the fence and grunt.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION ENDS.

Some of the Results Achieved by the Minnesota Lawmakers This Year.

The thirty-fourth biennial session of the Minnesota legislature ended at noon today, amid the usual din and confusion. The real work of the session was finished last night, as according to law no bills could be passed after 12 o'clock Monday night. However, both house met today to pass resolutions, vote gratuities and say good-byes. The gratuities, by the way, are not so numerous this year as usual, the only persons receiving cash tokens of esteem being the telephone girls and newspaper reporters.

The closing session of the house was marked by the usual uproar and confusion. The legislators were boys at play for the time-being. Paper balls, baskets, mats and books were thrown back and forth and pandemonium reigned supreme. This is a time-honored custom, and perhaps a little festivity on an occasion of this kind can be excused.

* * *

There has been little beneficial legislation accomplished. Most of the deserving bills in which the country districts are interested were killed either in committee or on the floor. W. A. Nolan's reciprocal demurrage bill was defeated in the conference committee. Senators Hawkins, Horton and Stone declined to compromise to any extent whatever and the house conferees would not accept the amended bill, Representatives Nolan, Washburn and Klein standing firm in the attitude that the senate bill would not give relief. These facts being reported to the two bodies the measure was finally killed, the house members indefinitely postponing the senate so-called substitute and accepting their defeat in good grace. The representatives of the shippers announced that they will begin an agitation at once favoring the enactment of a Nolan bill two years from now. It would seem that their first work should be in getting Dr. Osler busy with the senate.

* * *

Among the bills defeated during the last hours of the session was H. F. 884, Pollmer. This permitted the manufacture of binders, mowers and rakes in Stillwater prison. The vote was 32 to 19. Another bill killed was S. F. 9, Peterson. This provided for a convention to revise the state constitution. S. F. 461, Stephens, was disposed of in short order, almost everyone voting against it. This provided for the eradication of noxious weeds in the state. One of Representative MacKenzie's bills, H. F. 243, was also killed. This increased the length of the contracts of teachers in independent school districts. Still another bill by Senator Stephens, S. F. 414, was killed. This was to have done away with justices of the peace in villages.

* * *

The Laybourn senate bills designed to abolish grand juries caused filibustering in the house, and a demand that they go to the foot of the calendar aroused those who would do away with the grand jury system. Led by Representative Dowling they succeeded in sending several other measures to the foot of the class. However, the opponents of the grand jury abolishment bills had their way in the end, and all of these measures were put to sleep at the foot of the calendar. Representative Simons worked hard during the session to defeat the Laybourn bills and took a prominent part in the debates. The corporation managers in the legislature probably know by this time that the country people do not want the grand jury system abolished.

* * *

The legislation affecting Red Lake county most vitally are the bills appropriating money for new bridges, $1,200 having been secured by Representative Simons for this purpose, of which $700 will be applied toward the erection of a bridge across the Red Lake river in Louisville, $300 for the Plummer bridge, and $200 for the Lost river bridge.

* * *

The new code was finally adopted, and will go into effect March 1, 1906.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Owatonna Chronicle: The haste with which the legislature passed the new code resembles the hurry of the small boy which leads him to dump the whole armful of wood into the wood box, at once, helter skelter and some on the floor. In both cases a desire to finish a tiresome job and get away to play seems to explain the rush. Meanwhile it may be for the people to repent at leisure.

Albert Lea Standard: The Minneapolis Tribune puts the case in this emphatic way—"The snap caucus stinks in the universal nostrils of Minnesota. It has been the despair of good citizenship for many years. It smells to heaven itself since the last election. The people are sick of it. Other states get rid of it with state primaries, without cumbering themselves with direct nominations. We could do so, did not a bunch of politicians seize upon every effort to extend or improve the primary law to restore or preserve the old abomination." And yet a republican legislature, which could find time and energy to change a law of the state which had existed since it was admitted to the union, and discredit the governor in order to grab a few minor spoils in the capitol building, does not hesitate to repudiate the popular demands, and refused to provide for an extension of the primary election system!

Brown's Valley Tribune: The present legislature, at least in the minds of a great many people, will not take a place in history as one above the ordinary in good deeds done, and there is a very strong sentiment that it will fall below the average. When a majority of the state senators with their pockets bulging with free coupon books from telephone companies, voted the other day against the bill to premit village ownership of telephone exchanges, they displayed their little, narrow-minded selfishness, which in a very large measure has marked their deliberations throughout this session. There was no good excuse for the defeat of this measure.

St. Cloud Times: Texas Republicans are complaining because so many Democrats are to be guests at the banquet to be tendered to President Roosevelt at Dallas. A banquet attended only by Texas Republicans would be too exclusive to look anything like a popular welcome to the nation's chief executive.

Warren Register: The result of the recent Chicago municipal election should serve as a warning to the traction companies of the country, many of which are generally believed to have been paying enormous dividends on watered stock for some years. If they wish to continue in the business, they will be reasonable; otherwise, the people affected may decide to take the operation of their properties into their own hands.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe of New York City, has the following to say of Peruna:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."---Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition. This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This could be easily obviated by the use of Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion. Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nervous system. Peruna furnishes the lasting invigoration for the nerves that such people so much need. Thousands of testimonials from women in all parts of the United States are being received every year. THERE is a growing suspicion that the state university is getting into politics, and that its demands for appropriations are enforced by covert threats of "getting even."

THE Kansas City Star thinks somebody should call Mr. Rockefeller's attention to the fact that J. M. Graft is manager of the independent oil company at Osafatomie, Kansas.

THE Chicago Examiner says a tariff may as well be put on coffee as it is the only article of an American breakfast that is not taxed directly or protected by a tariff barrier.

A WRITER in the Prison Mirror remarks that the young man in Minnisota who sows wild oats is often sent to the Stillwater institution to make twine with which to harvest his crop.

IF the bill becomes a law, says the Fairmont Sentinel, allowing the gamblers to take possession of the state fair the newspapers will give the association a lot of free advertising that the management will not like.

THE Thief River Press is reminded that there is a manifest difference in quoting from the records of a court and making unfair and unwarranted charges that are not supported by a scintilla of evidence of any sort.

THE Minneapolis Journal's correspondent says the corporations have Senator Knute Nelson marked for slaughter. If the senior senator has been particularly aggressive in his opposition to the corporations he has been exceedingly careful to keep the fact away from his contituents.

THE Beltrami county officials seem to be reaping the whirlwind. For a dozen years they have looting the treasury, and the dear taxpayers has been footing the bills. The cleaning up of this bunch of arch-grafters will have a wholesome effect and give added confidence in the public examiner's bureau.

FROM the tone of Fred Schiffman's testimony we gather that his job as state oil inspector was hardly worth the trouble, says the St. Peter Herald. He says that altho the receipts of his office were about $31,000 a year, he had only $13,600 left after paying his deputies and other expenses. Then, to crown his woe, he says he had to made a divy with the "oil board" and his dismal countenance says plainly that they were a terrible greedy lot of grafters.

As predicted the Nolan demurrage bill was killed by amendments in the senate which took away every remedial feature. The author did not recognize the bill when it was returned to the house, and moved that it be indefinitely postponed. If the corporation are not to dominate legislation in the next session about half of the members of the senate must be asked to remain at home.

ACCORDING to the St. Peter Herald since the first of the year State Insurance Commissioner O'Brien has turned $319,237 in fees into the state treasury. Under the old order of things a large percentage of this would have gone to the commissioner, but in the face of this there were a number of broad-gauge republican legislators who expressed themselves in favor of placing him on a salary of $2,400 per annum. The saving he has already made to the state naturally causes one to ponder upon the size of the campaign contributions paid by the ex-commissioners.

MINNESOTA IN BATTLE.

The state capitol commission has awarded commissions to artists for the four additional paintings for the governor's reception room, as follows:

"First Minnesota at Gettysburg," to be painted by Rafus F. Zogbaum.

"The fourth Minnesota Regiment at Vicksburg," to be painted by F. D. Millet.

"The Second Regiment at Missionary Ridge," to be painted by Douglas Volk.

"The Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth Regiments at the Battle of Nashville," to be painted by Howard Pyle.

Two of the artists have already done or at present doing work for the new capitol. Douglas Volk's painting, "Discovery of the St. Anthony by Father Hennepin," has been placed in the west end of the governor's reception room.

F. D. Millet's painting, "The Treaty of Traverse Des Sioux," was reported by Architect Cass Gilbert to be nearly completed. It will be placed in the east end of the room.

Each painting will be purchased from the artist at a cost of $6,000.

The Story of Two Hogs.

Fairmont Sentinel: That a Colfax paper says that "William Hentico last Wednesday evening at Lamb's resturant ate 28 bananas, smacked his lips and declares the last one tasted just as good as the first." That's nothing. Chester White, of Knoxville, ate 14 ears of corn, two pumpkins and a bucket of swill, and was able to rub his bristles against the fence and grunt.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION ENDS.

Some of the Results Achieved by the Minnesota Lawmakers This Year.

The thirty-fourth biennial session of the Minnesota legislature ended at noon today, amid the usual din and confusion. The real work of the session was finished last night, as according to law no bills could be passed after 12 o'clock Monday night. However, both house met today to pass resolutions, vote gratuities and say good-byes. The gratuities, by the way, are not so numerous this year as usual, the only persons receiving cash tokens of esteem being the telephone girls and newspaper reporters.

* *

The closing session of the house was marked by the usual uproar and confusion. The legislators were boys at play for the time-being. Paper balls, baskets, mats and books were thrown back and forth and pandemonium reigned supreme. This is a time-honored custom, and perhaps a little festivity on an occasion of this kind can be excused.

* *

There has been little beneficial legislation accomplished. Most of the deserving bills in which the country districts are interested were killed either in committee or on the floor. W. A. Nolan's reciprocal demurrage bill was defeated in the conference committee. Senators Hawkins, Horton and Stone declined to compromise to any extent whatever and the house conferees would not accept the amended bill, Representatives Nolan, Washburn and Klein standing firm in the attitude that the senate bill would not give relief. These facts being reported to the two bodies the measure was finally killed, the house members indefinitely postponing the senate so-called substitute and accepting their defeat in good grace. The representatives of the shippers announced that they will begin an agitation at once favoring the enactment of a Nolan bill two years from now. It would seem that their first work should be in getting Dr. Osler busy with the senate.

* *

Among the bills defeated during the last hours of the session was H. F. 884, Pollmer. This permitted the manufacture of binders, mowers and rakes in Stillwater prison. The vote was 32 to 19. Another bill killed was S. F. 9, Peterson. This provided for a convention to revise the state constitution. S. F. 461, Stephens, was disposed of in short order, almost everyone voting against it. This provided for the eradication of noxious weeds in the state. One of Representative MacKenzie's bills, H. F. 243, was also killed, This increased the length of the contracts of teachers in independent school districts. Still another bill by Senator Stephens, S. F. 414, was killed. This was to have done away with justices of the peace in villages.

* *

The Laybourn senate bills designed to abolish grand juries caused filibustering in the house, and a demand that they go to the foot of the calendar aroused those who would do away with the grand jury system. Led by Representative Dowling they succeeded in sending several other measures to the foot of the class. However, the opponents of the grand jury abolishment bills had their way in the end, and all of these measures were put to sleep at the foot of the calendar. Representative Simons worked hard during the session to defeat the Laybourn bills and took a prominent part in the debates. The corporation managers in the legislature probably know by this time that the country people do not want the grand jury system abolished.

* *

The legislation affecting Red Lake county most vitally are the bills appropriating money for new bridges, $1,200 having been secured by Representative Simons for this purpose, of which $700 will be applied toward the erection of a bridge across the Red Lake river in Louisville, $300 for the Plummer bridge, and $200 for the Lost river bridge.

* *

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Owatonna Chronicle: The haste with which the legislature passed the new code resembles the hurry of the small boy which leads him to dump the whole armful of wood into the wood box, at once, helter skelter and some on the floor. In both cases a desire to finish a tiresome job and get away to play seems to explain the rush. Meanwhile it may be for the people to repent at leisure.

Albert Lea Standard: The Minneapolis Tribune puts the case in this emphatic way—"The snap caucus stinks in the universal nostrils of Minnesota. It has been the despair of good citizenship for many years. It smells to heaven itself since the last election. The people are sick of it. Other states get rid of it with state primaries, without cumbering themselves with direct nominations. We could do so, did not a bunch of politicians seize upon every effort to extend or improve the primary law to restore or preserve the old abomination." And yet a republican legislature, which could find time and energy to change a law of the state which had existed since it was admitted to the union, and discredit the governor in order to grab a few minor spoils in the capitol building, does not hesitate to repudiate the popular demands, and refused to provide for an extension of the primary election system!

Brown's Valley Tribune: The present legislature, at least in the minds of a great many people, will not take a place in history as one above the ordinary in good deeds done, and there is a very strong sentiment that it will fall below the average. When a majority of the state senators with their pockets bulging with free coupon books from telephone companies, voted the other day against the bill to premit village ownership of telephone exchanges, they displayed their little, narrow-minded selfishness, which in a very large measure has marked their deliberations throughout this session. There was no good excuse for the defeat of this measure.

St. Cloud Times: Texas Republicans are complaining because so many Democrats are to be guests at the banquet to be tendered to President Roosevelt at Dallas, A banquet attended only by Texas Republicans would be too exclusive to look anything like a popular welcome to the nation's chief executive.

Warren Register: The result of the recent Chicago municipal election should serve as a warning to the traction companies of the country, many of which are generally believed to have been paying enormous dividends on watered stock for some years. If they wish to continue in the business, they will be reasonable; otherwise, the people affected may decide to take the operation of their properties into their own hands.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe of New York City, has the following to say of Peruna:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."---Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition. This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This could be easily obviated by the use of Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion. Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nervous system. Peruna furnishes the lasting invigoration for the nerves that such people so much need. Thousands of testimonials from women in all parts of the United States are being received every year. Such unsolicited evidence surely proves that Peruna is without an equal as a nerve tonic and a vital invigorator.

OLD SORES OFFENSIVE-DANGEROUS

Nothing is more offensive than an old sore that refuses to heal. Patiently, day after day, it is treated and nursed, every salve, powder, etc., that is heard of is tried, but does no good, until the very sight of it grows offensive to the sufferer and he becomes disgusted and morbid. They are not only offensive, but dangerous, because the same germ that produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore. The cause is in the blood and as long as it remains the sore will be there and continue to grow worse and more destructive. The fact that thousands of old sores have been cut out and even the bones scraped, and yet they returned, is indisputable evidence that the blood is diseased and responsible for the sore or ulcer. Valuable time is lost in experimenting with external treatments, such as salves, powders, washes, etc., because the germs and poisons in the blood must be removed before a cure can be effected. S. S. S. cleanses and purifies the circulation so that it carries rich, new blood to the parts and the sore or ulcer heals permanently. S. S. S. not only removes the germs and poisons, but strengthens the blood and builds up the entire system by stimulating the organs, increasing the appetite and giving energy to the weak, wasted constitution. It is an exhilarating tonic, aids the digestion and puts every part of the body in good healthy condition. Book on the blood, with any medical advice wished, without charge.

Some years ago my blood became poisoned, and the doctor told me I would have running sores for life, and that if they were closed up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and resorted to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the medicine to entirely cure up the sores, and I am not dead as the doctors intimated I would be, neither have the sores ever broken out again. JOHN W. FUNDIS.

On an Inclined Plane

By JOANNA SINGLE

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

Henry Carroll's plight was a perplexing one. It drove the young lawyer into a dogged determination to get the girl in spite of herself. He had had a year of the ups and downs of a courtship such as only Helen Benton could have made so torturing, and yet sweetened by the hope of ultimate success. The worst of it was that he really believed that she loved him, though he had no proof beyond the fact that she refused other men right and left, was suspiciously sweet to the other girls to whom he paid the least attention and treated him in a cavalier fashion that indicated that she considered him her property.

When he asked, as he did all too often, "Nell, do you love—at all?" she would answer sweetly, "Do I act as if I did?"

He was obliged to admit that she did not. Then she continued to laugh at his courting and to turn him down whenever she so chose.

One pleasant August afternoon he sauntered to her home and invited her to go golfing. She loved golfing. He found her under the trees in a hammock in a dress of foamy blue ruffles, with a cool blue cushion under her dark little head.

"Too hot," she answered, "and I'm too lazy. Besides, I want to finish my book." She picked up her novel, leaving him to infer that he could take himself off. He did—as far as the gate—then he turned and walked back to her.

"Helen," he said slowly, "do you intend ever to marry me or not?" She looked at him with apparent coolness; something flickered to her eyes, then wavered away.

"I intend not to," she replied.

"Do you love me? Does my love mean nothing to you?"

"Make your own inferences, Henry Carroll. Tell me why I should marry at all. I am happy as I am. Why should I want a—man? Unless," she spoke meaningly, "I could find one who could make me think I wanted him."

"Nell," he said sternly, "do you realize what you are throwing away?"

"A love!" she interrupted. "A chance to wear the title of 'Mrs.'; to live in one place always; to say 'Yes, dear,' and 'No, dear;' to audit the household bills; to make and receive calls; to"—

"To be loved and protected always; to be made happy, for I can make you happy. Now you are simply idle. Nell, don't you ever look ahead to the time when your parents may leave you, when you—even you—will be no longer young? Don't you see that you need me almost as much as I need you? Aren't you afraid of old age, of not being loved? Aren't you afraid of—anything, girl?" She picked at her sleeve, then lifted serious dark eyes to his own blue ones.

"I am afraid of one thing. I"—

"What is it, sweetheart?" She sprang from the hammock and ran into the hall; then she thrust out her head and called, "I'm awfully afraid of—the dark!" And he heard the sound of retreating laughter.

Thereupon Henry Carroll betook himself and his wrath to the links, where he played very bad golf and flirted excellently with pretty Polly Cummins. Toward sunset, as he was waiting to put her into her dashing little trap, he hazarded a question:

"Miss Polly, if you were a man and wanted a girl, and she kept you dangling, but wouldn't have you, what would you do?" Polly's eyes danced. She knew Nell Benton's ways.

"Does she—care?"

"I think so, but she won't own up. She only torments me. What would you do?"

"You big, splendid, helpless thing!" she laughed. "Why, make her have you! There's nothing women like like being made to do things—by the right man. Get her where she can't help herself and make her promise to do as you wish." Still laughing, the girl drove away.

Carroll walked gloomily along the river road, turning over Polly's advice. He looked up to see a canoe coming swiftly upstream. The girl handled the paddle with easy skill. As she came closer he gasped with anger. It was Nell in her red waist—the one he liked. It was too hot to golf with him, but just right for a laborious upstream paddle by herself. He resolved to make her sorry before she got home.

Keeping carefully out of sight among the trees and bushes, he followed the river's course till Nell landed, drawing the canoe up on shore. Then she sat down on the grass with her book. After what seemed an age she arose and tried vainly to catch the lowest limb of the tree above her. Then she brought up a half dozen old boards lying near.

With more skill than Carroll thought women possessed in matters mechanical she built a rough sort of incline plane reaching halfway up the tree trunk. Then she tried to climb up, but her feet slipped. After a moment's hesitation she took off her little oxfords and then her stockings, which she stuffed into the shoes. In her bare feet she climbed easily up her platform and into the tree. She disposed herself carefully upon a large, almost horizontal limb, with her back to the trunk, and again attacked the novel.

The sun was sinking, and it began to grow cool. Carroll stole quietly away a few rods and then came striding noisily back, whistling joyfully and looking straight ahead of him in seeming unconsciousness of anything but the distant landscape. He sauntered nonchalantly under the tree, apparently not seeing Nell's scaffolding. Then he sat leisurely down upon the grass—and her shoes. He pulled out his pipe, lit it and puffed serenely, while the evening deepened into twilight and then into soft and indistinguishable gloom.

Meanwhile Helen sat breathless, with her bare feet pulled up beneath her short skirt, in imminent danger of falling if she made the slightest movement. She thought he had not seen her and would go away soon.

It had been too dark to read for some time, and it seemed ages before he rose. Helen breathed a sigh of relief, and then, as he thought better of it and lay down again, she realized how very dark it was and that she was afraid to be left alone. She set her teeth and resolved to conquer her terror. Not for worlds would she have him catch her in her present plight, especially after her bad treatment of him that very afternoon. She regretted the folly of having told him she was afraid of the dark and only hoped he took it for a joke. If he found her here he would do something to get even, and, besides, she knew that in her present softened mood she almost wanted to stop teasing him and let him sweep her into the strong, sweet current of his love. Nervous at the thought, she dropped her book. On its way to the grass it knocked Carroll's hat from his head and his pipe from his mouth.

"Hello!" he exclaimed as if to himself and in apparent surprise. "A book descending like the gentle rain from heaven! Bertha M. Clay too! A girl who would wear such ridiculous little shoes"—here he picked up and whimsically examined her oxfords—"would be just the sort of girl who reads Bertha Clay. Guess I'll take 'em home and advertise 'em." He put them in his coat pocket.

"She was kind enough to leave me her canoe too. Guess I'll go."

Nell came near screaming after him. Her canoe! How dared he! She could never walk alone, and in her bare feet, along that horrible, lonely river road.

With a gasp of terror she saw him actually launch the little shell, but when he leaped in and began to push off all the terror of the night seemed to descend bodily upon her. Like a flash she determined to brave out the situation.

"Henry! Henry Carroll! Bring back my boat this minute!"

"Hello!" he returned, paddling to shore again. "Who's there, I should like to know?"

"Nell Benton."

"Where are you? Wait till I get this thing ashore." He leaped out. "Where in the world are you, Nell?"

"In the tree," she called carelessly. "Where did you think I was?"

"At home, naturally, after what you said this afternoon."

"I changed my mind. Hand me my shoes, please," she said sweetly, tucking her toes farther up under her skirt.

"What for?" he demanded.

"To put on, so I can go home."

"I don't see it that way. The shoes are in my pocket; you saw me put them there. I saw you climb up there and waited to watch you trap yourself. You've had me up a tree a year now; now I've got you up one. Guess I'll keep you there till you promise better manners."

"Oh, never mind! I can come down without shoes. You will please go away now. Only don't take my boat." She made a motion as if to swing herself down.

"Well," he commanded, "one movement and I'll kick down this little Jacob's ladder of yours and go home, shoes, stockings, boat and all. It's my innings. You have played with me long enough. Nell, do you love me?"

"I couldn't love any one but a—gentleman," she answered sweetly.

"We'll waive that point. Do you love me?" He waited, then went on in a stern tone, "I'll give you four minutes to decide."

It is astonishing how many things can happen out of doors in four minutes. The moon came up over the hills; a quick breeze stirred everything into motion; the birds waked and twittered. Nell's blood surged hotly to her cheeks, and the tide of her unacknowledged love swelled to her lips. Still she was hardly ready to give up. Henry struck a match for another look at his watch.

"Three minutes gone! Nell, I love you. There is just another minute. I shall never ask you again. Dear"—he threw his cap to the ground and reached his arms up to her—"let me come and take you, sweetheart!" The moon silvered his fair face and softened the outlines of the rugged, handsome face upturned to her. In a heart much may happen in a minute. Nell's went out to the man below her. She stretched a hand down toward him.

"Come, then," she whispered. He heard. He leaped to her inclined plane, lifted her in his arms and swung her to the ground.

"Do you love me?" he asked as he still held her close.

"Yes. Stop that! But I'd love you more if you'd give me my shoes and go away while I put them on."

"I will on one condition—that you kiss me again." She regarded him demurely.

"I suppose," she said slowly, "that I am hardly in a position to refuse."

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Reciprocal Action.

The cashier at the swell restaurant intercepted the departing guest at the door.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said, "but you are forgetting to pay your bill."

"No," said the other, "I haven't forgotten it. I'll send the amount over in an hour or two. That's the length of time I had to wait for my dinner."—Chicago Tribune.

New Burglar Trap.

A River of Wine.

Casks holding 320,000 pints of wine exploded in a wine vault at Quiller, Switzerland, the wine flowing in torrents down the street.

Scotch and Irish.

As illustrating a difference in characteristics it is officially noted that twice as many people in Scotland as in Ireland choose to go to prison for minor offenses rather than pay a fine. In Ireland they pay the fine.

Wild Animals.

Zoologists say that all known species of wild animals are gradually decreasing in size.

Trees In Iceland.

Iceland seems to be hardly as destitute of trees as some suppose, an old idea being that it possesses only a single tree. An investigation shows that the island really contains woods having various trees of considerable size and that the climate is not unfavorable to tree growth.

Cheese Sellers of France.

In France a cheese seller is as familiar a sight on city streets as a fruit man is in our cities.

MANNERS IN BUSINESS.

Brains and Good Deportment a Winning Combination.

The value of brains in business cannot be overestimated, of course; but neither can the value of manners. Don't make the error of supposing that brains are everything. You may have the best set of brains in the town, but if you haven't the manners of a gentleman nobody is going to appreciate you. Your manner is the outward indication of what you are within in the estimate of most people, and if the manner is disagreeable few will take the trouble to examine into you any further.

The consensus of general opinion is that the man who goes about with porcupine quills as his manners hasn't any brains worth bothering about. Did you never notice that the men who employ large forces of intelligent people look at an applicant closely, ask a few seemingly unimportant questions and promptly employ or dismiss him? They don't sound his brain depth; they don't obtain his biography; they don't inquire into his social standing; they size him up from his manners, and if he is brass on the surface they don't look for gold within.

The employer knows that if an applicant's manner strikes him favorably it will also favorably strike people with whom he comes in contact in his work. And nobody knows better than a big business man that a favorable first impression means half the sale. People are apt to think that if there is any place where manners are of little consequence it is in business, where cold calculation so largely takes the place of feeling. But the truth is that nowhere else are manners of such importance as in everyday dealings. There is no capital and equipment any young man can have that will pay him better than good manners. There is no possible calling for which this does not better fit him. If he has brains the world owes him something, but unless he has good manners he will have a hard time collecting it.—Kansas City World.

FRUIT CROP IS BADLY DAMAGED

KILLING FROSTS ARE REPORTED IN SOUTHERN AND CENTRAL STATES.

WIND STRIPS TREES OF THEIR BLOSSOMS

Loss in Indiana Alone Estimated at $100,000—Illinois Growers Suffer Severely—Cold General in the Northwest.

Chicago, April 18.—Reports from the south and central states show that killing frosts prevailed Sunday night as far south as Kentucky, Tennessee, Maryland and Georgia, and it is feared that the fruit crop in those states has been ruined. Frost was reported in northern Florida, a fact unprecedented in the annals of that state.

Throughout the fruit belt of Michigan and Illinois there was heavy frost, and in some localities the cherry and plum trees were stripped of blossoms. Considerable damage was also reported from Ohio. Wind accompanied by severe cold stripped many trees in Indiana, as indicated by reports received at the Purdue experiment station. The loss to fruit growers in that state alone is estimated at $100,000. The loss in apples is also heavy. It is said another frost like that of Sunday night would practically ruin the entire fruit crop. The fruit in South Carolina and West Virginia is thought to be entirely ruined.

Illinois a Sufferer.

At Cairo, Ill., it is estimated fully 50 per cent. of the fruit crop is ruined and the early vegetable crop that is disposed of for the most part in the Chicago market is regarded as a total loss.

Throughout the state of Kentucky an inch of snow fell on Sunday. Nurserymen say that the snow saved the fruit and the young tobacco there to some extent, but that it is a little early to tell just what the damage is. The snow extended down into Tennessee and Georgia, and even to West Virginia.

In southern Kansas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Alabama abnormally low temperatures were reported, but there was no killing frost. In southern Kansas there was a light fall of snow, changing to rain later.

Cold General in Northwest.

Sunday in Chicago was a day of high winds that penetrated to the marrow. The wind was accompanied by frequent flurries of snow that swept the streets. The cold was general also in the northwest. The weather experts are unable to account for the remarkably abnormal conditions in the weather. An area of high pressure originating in the far northwest Friday overspread the entire country gradually, and there was no relief till a low area, or storm center, appeared in the far northeast.

To Build Colony in Cuba.

Red Lodge, Mont., April 18.—Several hundred Finnish miners and farmers of this vicinity, all ardent socialists, are planning the establishment of a colony near Havana, Cuba, in which socialistic doctrines will be carried out to the letter. Alexander Carson, as agent, has left for Cuba to negotiate for the purchase of land, and the other members of the colony will leave as soon as the deal is closed.

Two Students Probably Drowned.

Charlevoix, Mich., April 18.—John Paddock and Carl Lamphead, both 17 years old and high-school students, are supposed to have been drowned Sunday in Pine lake while canoeing to Ironton, seven miles from here. A stiff wind was blowing and there was a good deal of ice running in the lake. They did not reach Ironton and Monday their canoe was found near an ice floe.

WILL SEEK INDICTMENTS

CHICAGO EMPLOYERS TO GO BEFORE GRAND JURY.

Charge Conspiracy Against Several of Strike Leaders—No Peace Yet in Sight.

Chicago, April 18.—With the convening of the April grand jury Monday the Chicago Employers' association is said to be completing arrangements to seek the indictment of several leaders in the teamsters' strike. Sufficient evidence has been secured by detectives, it is claimed, to warrant the voting of true bills on the charge of conspiracy against the leaders, and of violence and intimidation against over a score of pickets.

The testimony to be introduced before the grand jury is said to be to the effect that a certain official of the Garment Workers' union paid $200 to each of six officials of the teamsters' organization, in consideration of which they called the "sympathetic" strike. It is claimed this officer of the Garment Workers' union kept $200 for his own share of the enterprise.

The strike situation remains practically where it was last week. Mayor Dunne has not abandoned hope of bringing about peace, but both sides of the controversy stand firm.

The largest number of wagons brought into use during the strike were taken from the barns Monday. There were 23 of them. Some of these wagons had been loaded Saturday afternoon, and were driven direct to various freight houses, while the remaining wagons were taken to the main building of Montgomery Ward & Co. and to the warehouse, Monroe and Jefferson streets.

Violence began almost with the beginning of the day's operations, and the police had considerable trouble with the strikers.

Death of General Payne.

Washington, April 18.—Gen. Halbert E. Payne, a lawyer of national reputation, died here, aged 80 years. He was born in Chardon, O., and was conspicuous as a defender of Washington during Gen. Jubal A. Early's raid in 1864. He was a Wisconsin member of the house of representatives from 1865 to 1871. Gen. Payne's work on "Contested Elections" was used as an authority in the Hayes-Tilden controversy. He was a law partner of Carl Schurz in New York for several years.

He Took Revenge.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 18.—Because he had been ejected from a boarding house at Luzerne, a suburb of this city, Andrew Bygash, a Hungarian, blew up the building early Sunday morning with dynamite. He placed a stick of the explosive under one corner of the house, and the entire rear portion of the structure, the kitchen and two bedrooms over it were completely wrecked by the explosion. Fortunately the 15 inmates escaped injury. Bygash is in jail.

Killed His Sixth Man.

Albany, Ga., April 18.—John Manier, marshal of Pretoria, Ga., was shot and almost instantly killed Saturday night by Pete Thomas, a negro. Thomas had been creating some disorder. The negro was captured about noon Sunday by Sheriff Edwards, having been twice wounded as he ran from the scene of the tragedy. He made the statement to the officer who arrested him that Manier was the sixth man whose life he had taken.

Anti-Tuberculosis Congress.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18.—The American anti-tuberculosis congress assembled in the hall of representatives at the state capitol Monday with an attendance of about 490 physicians from nearly every part of the United States east of the Rocky mountains and several prominent representatives from European centers.

FOUR SPEECHES ON RETURN TRIP

INVITATIONS THAT WILL PROBABLY BE ACCEPTED BY THE PRESIDENT.

THREE ADDRESSES LIKELY AT CHICAGO

Itinerary Is Being Arranged by Secretary Loeb—Roosevelt Bags First Bear While on Way to Hunting Camp.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 18.—Up to noon Monday the expected courier from President Roosevelt had not arrived, and no word had been received by Secretary Loeb. The secretary says he does not expect word from the camp more than two or three times a week, at the most.

The itinerary for the return trip of the president to Washington is nearly completed. There will be but two stops for receptions of a formal character. These are to be at Denver, where the board of trade will give a dinner, and at Chicago, where the president will attend a dinner by the Merchants' club, a reception by the Hamilton club and a dinner by the Iroquois club. The dates for the engagements depend upon what time the president concludes his hunt. Secretary Loeb will inform the organizations whose hospitality the president will accept as soon as anything definite is received from the hunters' camp. There will be the usual number of water-tank stops en route home, but the invitations mentioned are the only ones to be acceped out of a deluge that has poured in on headquarters here. It is likely the president will make three speeches at Chicago and one in Denver. The return trip will be over the Union Pacific to Omaha, over the Chicago & Northwestern to Chicago, and over the Pennsylvania to Washington.

First Bear Killed.

Newcastle, Col., April 18.—President Roosevelt, with customary good luck, bagged his first bear Saturday before he even had come within sight of his new hunting camp. The animal, a 600-pound cinnamon, crossed the trail of the hunting party 15 miles from here, and the dogs took up the chase. After a hard run of a half hour bruin was overtaken. The president, throwing himself from his horse, awaited his opportunity and brought down the game. The animal was skinned by John Goff, the guide, and the party proceeded, reaching the camp at five o'clock.

Blizzard in Camp.

Denver, Col., April 18.—A special to the News from Newcastle, Col., says that a fierce blizzard raged at Camp Roosevelt, 25 miles south of there, Sunday. So violent was the storm that no one ventured out of doors. The greater part of the day was spent by the president and party around the camp fires telling hunting stories.

LID IS ON IN ST. LOUIS.

New State Sunday Closing Law Is Strictly Observed in Missouri Metropolis.

St. Louis, April 18.—For the first time in six years St. Louis was a "dry" town for 24 hours, and for the first time in history the "dryness" was complete, even side doors being closed. Not only was it a dry Sunday, but it was a shaveless, shineless, smokeless and almost a hungry Sunday, as well. Promptly at midnight Saturday night the saloons' lights were extinguished and the patrons were requested to depart at once. Barber shops immediately closed, news and cigar stands followed suit, small grocery shops and delicatassen stores shut up their shops and the large downtown restaurants did not open their doors during the day. There seemed to have been a preconcerted action among all classes of caterers to the public that if the latter wanted the so-called "lid" placed on St. Louis during the Sabbath, that the proprietors of the stores should cooperate, and practically all business, except drug stores, was suspended for 24 hours.

Kansas City, Mo., April 18.—The state Sunday closing law was strictly enforced Sunday, as on the two previous Sundays. Only saloons are affected, however, and restaurants, cigar stores, news stands and barber shops observed their usual hours.

Gift to Five Colleges.

Chicago, April 18.—Dr. Daniel K. Pearsons, whose generosity has enriched scores of fresh-water colleges, celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday Saturday and declared that he will devote the remainder of his years to giving away the balance of his fortune. For years the doctor has marked his birthday by giving a large donation to some educational institution, and he said the annual contribution, amounting to $150,000, would go to the mountain schools of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

Was Oldest Lighthouse Keeper.

Laporte, Ind., April 18.—Miss Harriette E. Colfax, a cousin of Former Vice President Schuyler Colfax and for 43 years keeper of the Michigan City lighthouse on Lake Michigan, is dead, aged 81 years. Until her retirement last fall, Miss Colfax was the oldest lighthouse keeper in the United States service.

Section foremen on the Northern Pacific have received orders that all ties put in this spring must be stripped from all bark, as a preventative from rot and decay, and the carrying out of the instructions will mean a considerable amount of work. The setting will be started within the next few days if the present weather continues and section men are already being placed at work stripping the ties.

A marriage license was issued last week to James Bulman and Miss Maybury, of Thief River Falls. The young couple were married the first of this week and passed through this place Monday evening on their wedding trip. Friends boarded the train here and showered them with rice, a custom as old as the hills but one that usually attracts too much attention to suit the parties interesteb.

It is astonishing how many people appear to think that it is the business of a newspaper to jump in and lambast everything in sight at the request of any modest individual who has not the nerve to move a hen off her nest. If any honest man has occasion to rake a brother citizen over the coals on account of a personal or public grievance, he can send in a letter over his own name and if it is not a libel, we shall let him see how it looks in print.

While two young ladies were driving into town Sunday the holdback strap of their harness broke as they were driving down the hill just east of the bridge. The horse ran away with them but was stopped at the east approach of the bridge by Nick Majeres who was driving a team and leading four horses, Mr. Majeres saw the runaway horse in time to run it into his outfit and it was thus stopped before any serious damage was done. The young ladies escaped uninjured, but their buggy was damaged somewhat.

Consumption

¶ There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

¶ From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

¶ We will send you a sample free.

¶ Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

MAKES A FINE SHOWING.

The School Exhibit at the Lafayette Building a Good One.

Have you seen the school exhibit at the Lafayette school building this week? If not, take a half hour off next Saturday afternoon and go over and see what progress our school children are making. The exhibit consists of work done by the pupils of the different grades in both the Lafayette and Washington schools. The work was not especially prepared for exhibition purposes but is the every day work of the scholars.

The display of penmanship and free hand drawing from memory is of the best, and announces the fact that the work is far superior to the average school, and also demonstrates that the youngsters are unusually bright and advanced for their years. We saw a number of specimens of penmanship done by pupils from eight to ten years old that were better than a whole lot of grown folks could do. The exhibit of maps and the work of the primary scholars is especially good, and the teachers and scholars are to be commended upon the excellent showing made.

Go and see the work Saturday and show your appreciation of a good school. If enough interest is taken in this display one will be given at a future date.

A Big Minstrel Coming.

Frank Mahara's Big Minstrel Carnival numbering in all thirty colored artists and a big concert will be here Thursday, April 27. Frank Mahara this season has captured nearly all the old time favorites in the colored race for his big show. Foremost among them is Skinner Harris, who is professionally known as the "Black Ezra Kendall," and he is without doubt the greatest colored performer of the age. Mahara's big concert band will give a street parade at arrival of train and a concert at 7:30 p. m.

Believes Spring is Good.

Crookston Times: S. M. Sivertson of Red Lake Falls, who spent last evening in the city conferring with Manager Sandberg of the Crookston Milling company believes the present spring is a very favorable one despite the cold weather which prevails. The fields are in better condition for spring work, according to Mr. Sivertson's view, than for a number of years past and he thinks there is no reason at the present time why the crop should not go into the ground in good shape and on time. The farmers as a rule have plenty of seed and are in good shape for the spring work.

A Great Railroad Station.

The plans for the New York Central's new station in New York City have just been made public. They involve the use of an area equal to over nineteen city blocks, between Forty-second and Fifty-seventh streets, Madison and Lexington avenues. There will be three levels, the suburban trains entering on the lowest level. At first the station will have something like 52 railroad tracks. We are getting so used to things on a big scale that we are not surprised at anything, yet the achievements of golden grain belt beer in building up strong bodies and strong minds are truly astonishing. If you haven't a case in your home, better order today of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

SIMONS WILL NAME THEM.

Census Enumerators Soon to Commence Counting Noses.

Governor Johnson has signed the state census bill and preparations will be made at once for enumeration by Secretary of State Peter E. Hanson, under whose direction the count will be made. Quarters have been selected in the capitol building for the corps of clerks.

There will be about 3,000 enumerators put at work in the state, and the positions will be given out on the recommendation of the senators and representatives. L. C. Simons, the representative from this county will have the naming of the census enumerators for this county, and those who want jobs counting noses should apply to him at once. In fact Mr. Simons has already received a number of applications for positions but up to this time he has recommended no one for appointment.

The compensation in towns of 5,000 population or more is $2 for every 100 names, in towns of 5,000 population or less, $2.25 for every 100 names. In sparcely settled communities the enumerators will receive 2½ cents for each name. The division of territory will be practically the same as when the national census was taken. Each town and village will have its enumerator.

It is estimated that the state will show a material increase in population for the five years past. The estimates made give the greatest percentage of increase to the cities and villages, but the rural districts will, it is predicted, show a pronounced gain.

The Benefit of Advertising.

Occasionally there is found an advertiser who expects to reap an instant profit upon his investment. He advertises and awaits the rush of custom and if it does not come as soon as time has been had to read the advertisment, he argues that advertising is no good.

One might just as well expect to sow wheat to-day and eat bread from it to-morrow as to expect instant returns from advertising. Advertising is cumulative. The good advertiser is like a good farmer, the good lawyer, the good promoter—he keeps everlastingly at it. Advertising will build up and enlarge any business as has been demonstrated thousands and hundreds of thousands of times, but the process is a gradual one. It is slow but certain.—Bemidji Pioneer.

A New Era in Trains Pacific Transportation.

The Great Northern Steamship Company in placing in service between Seattle, Wash., and Yokohama. Nagasaki, Kobe, Shanghai and Hong Kong, the magnificent American built steamships the "Minnesota" and the "Dakota" a new era in transportion facilities between the United State and the Orient. These magnificent steamships with their superior facilities in handling immense freight cargoes and the luxurious appointments for passenger travel has given an impetus to our oriental trade. The North Pacific Route to the Orient is rapidly becoming the popluar one and now that the two palatial steamships, "Minnesota" and "Dakota" have been put in commission, there is no question but that o further greater increase in our trade with the Orient as well increased passenger travel to Asiatic ports will be inaugurated. The first sailing of the "Minnesofa," in addition to carrying the largest cargo to the Orient ever carried by any ship in the world, as well as an extensive passenger list, augura well for the future.

The "Minnesota" will sail on its next voyage to the Orient on Saturday, April 29th and it will not be amiss to say here that the excellence of her passenger accommodations will be heralded to the travelling public of the United States by all who enjoyed the pleasant voyage across the Pacific on her first trip, as furnishing the acme of travel comfort. The fact that the superior accommodations of the Great Northern Steamship Company in connection with the comfortable journey afforded by the Great North Railway to Seattle, the sailing point of the "Minnesota," will make this route the popular one from occident to Oaient.

VOL. VII—NO. 29. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1905. WHOLE NO. 341.

SUMMER TRAINING SCHOOL

To Be Held at Red Lake Falls During July—Prof. Yaeger to be Conductor.

St. Paul, April 27—Special to THE COURIER: Red Lake county is to have a summer school again this year. It will be held at Red Lake Falls commencing July 5 and continuing four weeks. Prof. C. S. Yaeger of Fosston will be the conductor, and Mrs. W. A. McIntyre of Red Lake Falls will have charge of the primary and model school work. The other instructor has not as yet been decided upon.

It is not often that summer schools are given the same county in successive years, but Superintendent Olson believes that the newer counties of northern Minnesota deserve liberal treatment by reason of the fact that the teachers in that section are a long way from the state normal schools.

Would Like the List.

Minneapolis Journal: Speaking of the campaign lie with regard to Governor Johnson's unfortunate father, by the circulation of which certain persons hoped to accomplish Mr. Johnson's defeat, the Tribune says: "We do know that some very decent persons were so carried away by misguided partizanship as to try very hard to get it before the public. They got what they deserved when the cry of persecution elected Johnson." It would be interesting to see a list of those "very decent persons." if the Tribune has it handy.

MUCH MARRIED MAN.

A Thief River Falls Man Has too Many Wives.

Martin Gulbranson, a citizen of Thief River Falls, is in trouble because he has one to many wives. He formely lived in Polk county near East Grand Forks where he deserted his wife and disappeared. He went to the city on the north and engaged in the hotel business and thinking a helpmate would be of assistance he proceeded to get married to wife number two without securing a divorce from wife number one.

His first wife learned of his whereabouts last winter and proceeded to bring him to justice, but Gulbranson became aware of the fact and skipped to Canada. Deputy Sheriff Jarman caught him one day recently at St. Vincent and brought him back to Thief River. He was given a hearing Monday before Municipal Judge Bischop, County Attorney Germo prosecuting. Gulbranson waived examination and was bound over to appear before the grand jury. He gave bonds in the sum of $1,000 and was released.

It is said that wife number two is threatening to make trouble also and the affair promises to be sensational in the extreme before it is settled.

CHILDREN LOOSE THEIR LIVES

Terrebonne Children Set Fire to Straw Stack Last Evening and are Suffocated.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Pourier, living two miles east of Terrebonne, lost their lives last evening by the burning of a straw stack. Three children, aged seven, five and four, set fire to an old straw stack, and becoming alarmed at what they had done crawled into a hole in the stack to escape detection. The oldest child concluded he had better tell his parents so went to the house and informed them of what had taken place. The parents immediately rushed to the scene of the disaster but arrived too late to save the younger children, who were found in the stack smothered to death.

It is a most appaling calamity for the family and heartfelt sympathies of the entire community are extended to them in their time of great sorrow.

Cooking by Electricity.

In many of the big department stores nowadays, there is an exhibition of cooking by electricity. No dirt, no ashes, no dust, no superfluous heat, no fire; nothing but as high a temperature as you want in the cooking apparatus, and that only so long as you want it. With all this cleanliness it is no cleaner than the brewing of golden grain belt beer, the purest and most refreshingly healthful beer that was ever put on the market. If you ever saw it brewed, you would have no other. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

AN ENJOYABLE OCCASION.

Band Concert and Dance Monday Evening a Great Success.

The last indoor concert of the season by the Red Lake Falls band was given at the Metropolitan opera house Monday evening. The occasion was a success in every particular. The music was good and there was a large audience present. The band numbers were all rendered in an artistic manner and brought out a hearty response from the crowd present.

A trombone and cornet duet by Harry B. and Ralph L. Healy, with a piano accompanment by Leland E. Healy, was a most pleasing number and one that was thoroughly enjoyed by the people. After the concert a large number remained for the dance. The music for the dancers was furnished by the band orchestra and a delightful time was had by those present for two or three hours.

Beginning during the month of May the band will give outdoor concerts every two weeks. This popular amusement will be given our citizens during the entire summer and will no doubt be thoroughly enjoyed by all.

VIEWS AND INTERVIEWS.

Ed. L. Healy—Land business is looking good. I have more business in sight than for three or four years.

N. W. Tarrant—I have the best chickens in Northern Minnesota. Got thirty-five or forty new chicks already and there's more coming. Finest climate in the world for chickens.

Station Agent Tracy—I refuse to be interviewed as I may be misquoted and it would have a bad effect on the stock market. By the way, you will be out to band practice this evening, won't you?

County Treasurer Hansen—Real estate taxes are coming in quite lively these days. I wish you would tell the people that in order to save the ten per cent penalty, which is added June 1st, half of the real estate tax should be paid before the 31st day of May. Tell them not to wait until the last day. I'll be busy.

B. P. Berthon—I wish something could be done to develope the immense water power we have at this place, and nothing would do me so much good as to see all this power that is going to waste utilized and made use of by manufacturing plants. We have everything that nature can give us for a beautiful and prosperous city and I hope the time is not far distant when we shall see the banks of our rivers lined with manufacturing concerns.

M. O. Sortedahl—I look for quite a movement in land the coming season. We have a number of inquiries and everything points to a successful year's business.

The Generous Rich Man.

Albert Lea Enterprise: Henry Clews, the Wall street banker, trust promoter and stock washer, says that "American rich men are the most generous men on the earth and can be trusted to deal generously in distributing their wealth" If the rich men would pay fair salaries to their employes, reduce rents, cease to establish trust which raise the prices on our food, there would be no necessity for distributing charity to the poor. The money so distributed by the rich, which they call "charity." is in fact the money earned by the sweat of the poor man's brow. by the average business man of middle classes and by the "common people" generally. All these are as capable of enjoying in their own way, of distributing the inordinate surplus which many of the rich have unjustly and unlawfully sequesteres, as are the rich—and the great majority spurn charity. All they ask is a fair chance—and "a square deal."

Private Cars.

The rolling palaces of today are expensive luxuries. A private car costs from $18,000 to $30,000. Of course everyone cannot have a private car but the compartments on North-Western Limited from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago are cozily arranged and the privacy of the home is enjoyed.

TO TOUR THE WEST.

Samuel Gibeau Will Make an Extended Trip in the Western Country.

Friday evening Samuel Gibeau, of the Bank of Red Lake Falls, will leave for an extended trip through the western states. He plans on going west over the Great Northern route, returning on the Canadian Pacific. His present plans include visiting the states of Montana, Washington, Oregon and California. He will take in San Francisco and Los Angles, California, having relatives at the latter place with whom he will visit for a number of days.

The trip is a combination of business and pleasure and no doubt it will prove a most pleasant outing for Mr. Gibeau.

HEARING IN BELTRAMI CASE

W. A. McIntyre, Red Lake Falls Attorney, Appointed Member of Investigating Commission.

The hearing on the charges of malfeasance in office against County Commissioners F. O. Sibley and Wes Wright and County Attorney Herbert J. Loud of Beltrami county, preferred by Public examiner P. M. Kerst, will begin next Tuesday, May 2.

On Tuesday Governor Johnson appointed W. A. McIntyre, the well known Red Lake Falls lawyer, as the third member of the commission to take the evidence and probe the charges. The other two members of the commission are Cleve W. Van Dyke of Alexandria, executive clerk of the governor, and Graham M. Torrance of Bemidji. Royal A. Stone, assistant attorney general, will represent the state.

A formal statement of the charges against the Beltrami county officials was filed with Gov. Johnson yesterday by Public Examiner Kerst.

WANT A STARCH FACTORY.

Some of our Business Men and Farmers Favor the Idea.

There has been considerable talk among some of our business men and farmers in regard to building a starch factory at this place. No doubt such an institution would be a paying investment and we are located most admirably for the successful handling of an enterprise of this character. With the abundant water power we enjoy and the splendid soil for the raising of potatoes a starch factory could easily be made a success, and a number of farmers have expressed a willingness to help such a cause along.

One gentleman living near Brooks was in the city recently and said he was ready to sign a contract to raise 20 acres of potatoes for five years, and would willingly haul the product the eighteen miles from his farm to this city if such a factory could be built.

THE COURIER believes a movement of this sort would meet with the hearty support and co-operation of a large number of people, and some enterprising man should take hold of the matter and see what can be done. There is no reason why Red Lake Falls should not become a manufacturing center with the water power that is here for the asking.

If you want to buy a farm, sell a farm, get a farm loan or abstract, go to Sortedahl Land, Loan and Abstract Co., Red Lake Falls, Minn. tf

EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION.

READ THIS, YE SUFFERING WOMEN!

NUTRIOLA COMPANY—Gentlemen: I had been an invalid for over 10 years. KIDNEY TROUBLE had caused such a weakness in my back that I was unable to work standing up. Then disease peculiar to my sex fastened upon me and my life became one round of UNENDING TORTURE, such as only one afflicted as I have been can know. To stand upon my feet for five minutes was a torture unspeakable. The terrible DRAGGING DOWN SENSATION would send such a feeling to my brain as to impair my vision and drive me almost insane. Nervous Headache was my constant visitant, and the slightest noise would drive me almost wild. The doctors told me I could never get well. I learned of NUTRIOLA and applied for treatment. As a result I was RESTORED TO PERFECT HEALTH. From 98 pounds I increased in weight to 143 pounds. I have never seen a sick day since. I now weigh 158 pounds. I would not be back again where I was before I took NUTRIOLA for all the wealth of the world. May God bless you in your efforts to help suffering humanity. Your grateful servant, MRS. JANE A. WEBBER.

Pointers for Men.

Sauk Centre Avalanche: You can never make a mother understand why others can't see her baby's fine points as well as she can.

If you always agree with a woman she thinks you are foolish; if you contradict with her she gets mad.

If girls spent as much time acquiring useful knowledge as they do wondering how an engagement ring would look on their finger the world would soon be full of female philosophers.

A woman always thinks she is getting goods for nothing if she can pay for them with a check.

Few women believe that part of the bible which says there are no marriages in heaven.

After a man has been married twenty years nothing makes him so much like a fool as to have his wife read his old love letter to him.

A woman can think of more things that has to be done in thirty minutes after her husband goes to bed than she can in all day when he is up and around the house.

A girl whom money could not hire to do housework for a woman will galdly do it for nothing for some man.

Clergy Taking Courage.

In the course of his sermon in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Dwight Hillis referred to the gift of $100,000 made by John D. Rockfeller to the American board of foreign missions and to Mr. Rockefeller's son. He said in part:

"The saddest words that have been written in this generation were spoken before Brown university by a young man who is to inherit one of the greatest fortunes in this country. They were spoken in defense of the trusts. Listen to them:

"'The American Beauty rose can be produced in all its splendor only by sacrificing the early buds that grow up around it. The rose has 1,000 buds, and in order to produce the American Beauty the gardener goes abound it with a knife and snips 999, in order that all the strength and beauty may be forced into one bloom.'

In his economic argument this young man tells the working classes, brutally, that 999 small business men must be snuffed out of existence in order that his American Beauty, the trust may produced.'

"Listen to Christ: 'Let the strong bear the burdens of the weak;' and again, 'Give and it shall be given unto you.

"These words in defense of the trusts are the most heart-breaking things in literature to those who know what is going to come in the future.

Can you wonder that after that, when a man gives gifts we have no gratitude to returns?"

It augers well for the church and for our country when leading churchmen openly spurn princely gifts from public hold-up indiyiduals or oppressive trusts.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

It is said Mrs. Astor wore nearly $300,000 worth of diamonds at the ball recently given by her.

Mme. Patti will sing at a concert in St. Petersburg for the benefit of the Russian wounded. She made her first great success in that city.

Miss Jessie A. Voorhees, daughter of Dr. Edward B. Voorhees, director of the New Jersey horticulture experiment station, holds the position of horticulturist and is doing very efficient work.

Mrs. Alfred Chapin of New York is believed to own the finest collection of black diamonds in the country. Most of Mrs. Chapin's sable gems came from the province of Bahia, Brazil, and nearly all are of exceptional beauty.

Miss Mary Gillette of Stowe, Vt., is the possessor of an heirloom that is deserving of mention. It is a sampler that was worked in the year 1700 by Mary Kingston, who afterward became the mother of General Greene of Revolutionary fame.

Lady Rachel Byng, daughter of the Earl of Stratford, conducts a school for millinery for gentlewomen, where a training is given both for those who wish to start in business for themselves and others whose only interest is to make their own hats.

Mrs. Ingeborg Nelson, mother of United States Senator Knute Nelson of Minneapolis, is over ninety years old, but is still in good health and spirits and passes much of her time carding and spinning wool, an art which she learned as a child in the mountains of Norway.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

Peru exported last year 8,000 tons of cotton, while Brazil produced nearly 300,000 bales.

The lumber output of the mills in the Minneapolis district alone last year was 718,230,481 feet.

Mexico and the United States together furnish about 72 per cent of the silver output of the world.

The art of coloring wood has made great progress in Sweden. The dye is forced under heavy pressure into the wood and replaces the sap to a length of thirteen feet.

The deepest working coal mine in Great Britain is at Pendleton, Manchester. Here coal is now being got at a depth of 3,483 feet below the surface. The deepest mine in the world is in Belgium, coal being got at a depth of 3,773 feet below the surface.

LEWIS-CLARK FEATURES.

"Hit the trail" is to be the slogan of the Pacific northwest in connection with the Lewis and Clark centennial.

The American inn at the Lewis and Clark centennial, which will be erected on the exposition grounds, will contain more than 600 guest rooms.

The new building for the Lewis and Clark centennial, made necessary by the demands for exhibit space, will contain 90,000 feet of floor space.

The project of a camping ground, to be located on the hills behind the Lewis and Clark exposition, is being agitated. Those favoring the project argue that farmers and ranchers will want to drive to Portland during the fair and camp out and that eastern people will enjoy the novelty of a few days of tent life.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

The American Mechanic says that in railroad building the crossties now cost twice as much as the rails.

The guards of the London, Tilbury and South End railway have received orders to refuse in future to accept tips from passengers.

In 1834 one of the leading railroads of the United States printed on its time table, "The locomotive will leave the depot every day at 10 o'clock if the weather is fair."

At last the Prince of Montenegro has ordered that a railroad be built throughout the principality to connect with the trunk line of the Servian state railways. The line will be one meter gauge, and work will be commenced in the early spring.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The king of the Belgians is one of the largest landed proprietors in the world. In addition to his thousands of acres in Africa and in Belgium, he owns two estates of considerable extent in France.

Queen Wilhelmina, in appointing a Roman Catholic, the Jonkherr Van Green, as her private secretary, puts one of that faith in a responsible position in the royal household for the first time since the reformation.

The kaiser, it is said, is himself his son's riding master. In the riding school the emperor takes off his coat and stands in the middle of the ring, armed with a long whip. He is a severe instructor, with no mercy for either horse or rider.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS.

Bonbon baskets in colonial design of pierced silver come in larger sizes for fruit.

Green and rose gold are combined in a signet ring set with a diamond on either side.

Flower pins with fancy heads of gold or gold and precious stones are a convenient device for fastening flowers to the dress.

More dignified in effect than the delicate chains de la reine, or necklaces, are the strikingly beautiful collars in which bars of large stones connect strands, network or elaborate designs of small stones closely set.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 61 years old." Gained Fame in Portrayal of the Character of "Rip Van Winkle"—Death of United States Senator Orville H. Platt, of Connecticut.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 24.—Joseph Jefferson, the eminent actor, died at his home, "The Reefs," at Palm Beach at 6:15 Sunday evening. The end came after a day of unconsciousness and after a [illegible] struggle of days, which had exhausted his vitality. The sickness of Mr. Jefferson which ended in his death was contracted, it is believed, while on a recent visit to his son, Charles B. Joseph Jefferson was born in Philadelphia February 20, 1829, and was looked upon as the dean of the dramatic profession in this country. He first appeared on the stage as a child and during his career has played in a number of foreign countries. His great reputation was made in Rip Van Winkle, which he played in almost every city in the United States. Up to 1857 Mr. Jefferson is said to have merely attained the standing of a respectable stock actor, but in that year he became associated with Laura Keene's theater in New York city. Mr. Jefferson there became prominent in the role of Asa Trenchard in "Our American Cousin." This play ran for 150 nights. Other characters portrayed were Newman Boggs in "Nicholas Nickleby," Caleb Plummer in "The Cricket on the Hearth," Dr. Pangloss in "The Heir-at-Law," Bob Acres in "The Rivals," and Dr. Ollapod in the "Poor Gentleman." In 1880 Mr. Jefferson visited California, but abandoned that field for Australia, where he spent a profitable four years. London was visited against his own inclination in 1865 and at the Adelphi theater played "Rip Van Winkle" for a 150-nights run. After appearing in some of the large cities in England he returned to New York in 1866. Since 1867, when he married for his second wife Miss Sarah Warren, he confined himself to a few favorite parts, of which Rip Van Winkle was the principal one. Several months ago Mr. Jefferson retired from the stage and has since divided his time between Florida and Cape Cod.

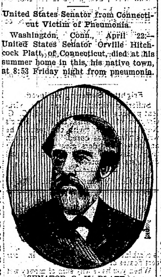
Washington, Conn., April 22.—United States Senator Orville Hitchcock Platt, of Connecticut, died at his summer home in this, his native town, at 8:53 Friday night from pneumonia.



SENATOR O. H. PLATT.

The end came almost unexpectedly, the immediate cause being the breaking of an abscess which had formed in the right lung and which produced strangulation.

The Dead Statesman.

Senator Platt was first elected to the senate in 1879 to succeed Senator W. H. Barnum, a democrat, who had been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Orris S. Ferris, republican. His last reelection was in 1903. He spoke as from a heart that was overflowing with grief and his words that touched deeply all who heard him.

During his long service of 26 years the senator has taken an active part in the proceedings of the upper branch of congress, has filled many important committee assignments and demonstrated his capacity in handling and discussing questions of national interest. He was chairman of the judiciary committee and, in addition, a member of the committee on Cuban relations, [illegible] and revolutionary claims. MUST RESPECT NEUTRALITY.

Russian Government Sends Instructions to Rojestvensky—Reply to Japan's Protest.

Paris, April 24.—As a result of communications between the governments at Paris and St. Petersburg the Russian government has forwarded urgent orders to Admiral Rojestvensky to rigorously respect the neutrality of French waters. This is a precautionary measure. In addition special instructed the French minister at Tokio ernor general of Indo-China, M. Beau, and Foreign Minister Delcasse has instructed the French minister at Tokio to give the Japanese minister of foreign affairs assurances that it is France's purpose to preserve strict neutrality, these being similar to the assurances given to Dr. Motono, the Japanese minister at Paris.

A telegram received here from St. Petersburg and understood to be of official origin, says:

"The Russian admiralty has notified Admiral Rojestvensky of the grave danger to peace which will be entailed if the stay of his squadron off the coast of Annam is prolonged contrary to the laws of neutrality. No doubt is entertained that the admiral will carry out the formal instructions sent to him."

Saigon, French Cochin China, April 24.—The complete Russian fleet left Kamranh bay on April 22 at midday At night heavy cannonading was heard out at sea. It is supposed the Russian fleet was engaged with a portion of the Japanese squadron.

Paris, April 24.—It is officially confirmed that Emperor Nicholas has personally sent an order to Admiral Rojestvensky to leave French waters. The foreign office received advices from St. Petersburg Saturday morning showing that the instructions sent to Admiral Rojestvensky are positive and explicit and that he must keep outside of French waters. The nature of the instructions is said to be such that Rojestvensky must observe them by fully respecting French neutrality or else subject himself to punishment from his government. Therefore the officials here feel that France has succeeded in securing the limit of what Japan can reasonably ask.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

State High School.

The state agricultural high school established at Crookston by the legislature, will be one of the most novel institutions in the country. Superintendent Hoverstad of the state experiment farm, who has had plans for the school under consideration, has given the matter careful attention, and the school from every standpoint will be something unique in the educational line.

The school will be established at the state experiment farm as a part of that institution. Instructors who will teach the classes in the high school will also have charge of various departments on the big farm. The pupils who attend the high school will be given an opportunity to work on the experiment farm for their board and a portion of their expenses. All of the common branches as well as the higher branches which pertain to agriculture and farm work will be taught, and it is expected from time to time that the scope of the work will be increased. Farmers of the valley are enthusiastic over the enterprise, and from present indications the school will not not want for hearty support.

A New Industry.

Thief River Falls promises in the near future to be the center of one of the largest industries in the state, according to the ideas of Northern Minnesota capitalists who are behind an investigation of the wire grass twine manufacturing possibilities at that place. According to cruisers, who know every inch of the ground above Thief River and to the east of the town, there is enough wire grass to maintain an enormous wire grass twine plant in Thief River Falls for many years. The twine has been used quite generally in this vicinity during the last two years and has been found to be equal to hemp or sisal in the grain fields of the valley, and much cheaper. Plans are completed for active work toward the organization at Thief River Falls and to manufacture from wire grass twine, cordage, matting, rugs and carpets.

The grass grows to a height of several feet, and is woven by the Indians north and east of Thief River Falls into numerous articles of fancy work.

Hold Up Boom.

Mike Anderson and Erick Perkio, settlers on the Floodwood river in the western part of St. Louis county, have held up a driving crew at the point of the rifles and threaten to shoot if they undertake to send logs down from the boom.

The settlers claim that the owners of the logs, Coolidge & Schussler have made no agreement for compensating them for log driving and boom privileges.

A constable sought to serve warrants on the settlers but when he arrived with seven deputies he found Anderson and Perkio entrenched in the latter's house and with eight other men, all armed.

The sheriff of St. Louis county has been requested to [illegible] and suppress the settlers.

The Floodwood [illegible] Improvement company claims it has made settlement for the right to drive logs through the Anderson-Perkio lands.

A Status for Ramsey.

A statue for Alexander Ramsey, the first governor of the territory of Minnesota and its governor during the civil war, will be placed in national statuary hall in the capitol at Washington.

The house passed Senator McGill's bill naming a commission.

The senate concurred in the house amendment to Senator A. R. McGill's bill providing for a statue of Former Governor Alexander Ramsey to be placed in the statuary hall at the national capitol. The house amendment was the elimination of the $15,000 appropriation. The bill creates a commission consisting of James J. Hill of St. Paul, T. B. Walker of Minneapolis and Congressman James T. McCleary of Mankato to secure the statue.

New Guns.

The artillery division of the nation guard soon will be made more formidable from a military standpoint by the receipt of an entirely new set of field equipment. The new guns will be four in number and will be accompanied by all the paraphernalia and equipment for field service.

The issuance of the new guns will be made simultaneously with the shipment of the same class of equipment to all the national guard headquarters. Congress at its last session appropriated $1,500,000 for this purpose. The shipment to the St. Paul and Minneapolis batteries will be made from the Rock Island arsenal.

News Notes.

Herman Freidie's 4-year-old son was drowned in the Red Lake River at Crookston.

George Bresseau, convicted at Minneapolis of passing a forged obligation and sentenced to four years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100, was released from prison, after taking the poor debtor's oath.

The large dry goods store of Partridge Bros. was entered at Tracy by burglars and silks worth $400 were taken. The goods had just been received. An entrance was gained by forcing the locks to the door with a chisel.

The Pelican Stone company has been organized and will engage extensively in the manufacture of concrete blocks for building purposes. Buildings are being erected and it is expected the output will be large.

The state dairy commission issues an ultimatum to dairymen who violate the law.

Paris, April 22.—As a result of communications between the governments at Paris and St. Petersburg the Russian government has forwarded urgent orders to Admiral Rojestvensky to rigorously respect the neutrality of French waters. This is a precautionary measure. In addition special instructed the French minister at Tokio ernor general of Indo-China, M. Beau, and Foreign Minister Delcasse has instructed the French minister at Tokio to give the Japanese minister of foreign affairs assurances that it is France's purpose to preserve strict neutrality, these being similar to the assurances given to Dr. Motono, the Japanese minister at Paris.

A telegram received here from St. Petersburg and understood to be of official origin, says:

"The Russian admiralty has notified Admiral Rojestvensky of the grave danger to peace which will be entailed if the stay of his squadron off the coast of Annam is prolonged contrary to the laws of neutrality. No doubt is entertained that the admiral will carry out the formal instructions sent to him."

Saigon, French Cochin China, April 24.—The complete Russian fleet left Kamranh bay on April 22 at midday At night heavy cannonading was heard out at sea. It is supposed the Russian fleet was engaged with a portion of the Japanese squadron.

Paris, April 24.—It is officially confirmed that Emperor Nicholas has personally sent an order to Admiral Rojestvensky to leave French waters. The foreign office received advices from St. Petersburg Saturday morning showing that the instructions sent to Admiral Rojestvensky are positive and explicit and that he must keep outside of French waters. The nature of the instructions is said to be such that Rojestvensky must observe them by fully respecting French neutrality or else subject himself to punishment from his government. Therefore the officials here feel that France has succeeded in securing the limit of what Japan can reasonably ask.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

State High School.

The state agricultural high school established at Crookston by the legislature, will be one of the most novel institutions in the country. Superintendent Hoverstad of the state experiment farm, who has had plans for the school under consideration, has given the matter careful attention, and the school from every standpoint will be something unique in the educational line.

The school will be established at the state experiment farm as a part of that institution. Instructors who will teach the classes in the high school will also have charge of various departments on the big farm. The pupils who attend the high school will be given an opportunity to work on the experiment farm for their board and a portion of their expenses. All of the common branches as well as the higher branches which pertain to agriculture and farm work will be taught, and it is expected from time to time that the scope of the work will be increased. Farmers of the valley are enthusiastic over the enterprise, and from present indications the school will not not want for hearty support.

A New Industry.

Thief River Falls promises in the near future to be the center of one of the largest industries in the state, according to the ideas of Northern Minnesota capitalists who are behind an investigation of the wire grass twine manufacturing possibilities at that place. According to cruisers who know every inch of the ground above Thief River and to the east of the town, there is enough wire grass to maintain an enormous wire grass twine plant in Thief River Falls for many years. The twine has been used quite generally in this vicinity during the last two years and has been found to be equal to hemp or sisal in the grain fields of the valley, and much cheaper. Plans are completed for active work toward the organization at Thief River Falls and to manufacture from wire grass twine, cordage, matting, rugs and carpets.

The grass grows to a height of several feet and is woven by the Indians north and east of Thief River Falls into numerous articles of fancy work.

Hold Up Boom.

Mike Anderson and Erick Perkio, settlers on the Floodwood river in the western part of St. Louis county, have held up a driving crew at the point of the rifles and threaten to shoot if they undertake to send logs down from the boom.

The settlers claim that the owners of the logs, Coolidge & Schussler have made no agreement for compensating them for log driving and boom privliges.

A constable sought to serve warrants on the settlers but when he arrived with seven deputies he found Anderson and Perkio entrenched in the latter's house and with eight other men, all armed.

The sheriff of St. Louis county has been requested to come and suppress the settlers

The Floorwood River Improvement company claims it has made settlement for the right to drive logs through the Anderson-Perkio lands.

A Status for Ramsey.

A statue for Alexander Ramsey, the first governor of the territory of Minnesota, and its governor during the civil war, will be placed in national statuary hall in the capitol at Washington.

The house passed Senator McGill's bill naming a commission.

The senate concurred in the house amendment to Senator A. R. McGill's bill providing for a statre of Former Governor Alexander Ramsey to be placed in the statuary hall at the national capitol. The house amendment was the elimination of the $15,000 appropriation. The bill creates a commission consisting of James J. Hill of St. Paul, T. B. Walker of Minneapolis and Congressman James T. McCleary of Mankato to secure the statue.

New Guns.

The artillery division of the national guard soon will be made more formidable from a military standpoint by the receipt of an entirely new set of field equipment. The new guns will be four in number and will be accompanied by all the paraphernalia and equipment for field service.

The issuance of the new guns will be made simultaneously with the shipment of the same class of equipment to all the national guard headquarters. Congress at its last session appropriated $1,500,000 for this purpose. The shipment to the St. Paul and Minneapolis batteries will be made from the Rock Island arsenal.

News Notes.

Herman Freidle's 4-year-old son was drowned in the Red Lake River at Crookston.

George Bresseau, convicted at Minneapolis of passing a forged obligation and sentenced to four year's imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100, was released from prison, after taking the poor debtor's oath.

The large dry goods store of Partridge Bros. was entered at Tracy by burglars and silks worth $100 were taken. The goods had just been received. An entrance was gained by forcing the locks to the door with a chisel.

The Pelican Stone company has been organized and will engage extensively in the manufacture of concrete blocks for building purposes. Buildings are being erected and it is expected the output will be large.

The state dairy commission issues an ultimatum to dairymen who violate the law.

IN the shuffle of the legislative adjournment Mr. Schiffman's "oil board" seems to have been lost.

Now that the legislature has adjourned public interest has centered on Mankato, where the Koch murder trial is in progress.

No doubt the New York stock broker is truthful in saying that it is just as safe now as it ever was for the poor to put their savings into wall street.

THE Warren Register speaks right out in meetin' regarding the late lamented legislature. Bro. Stevens' independent attitude is to be commended. It's too bad this spirit does not manifest itself just before election.

FORMER GOVERNOR VAN SANT ought to be apprised of the fact that he has been read out of the Republican party by divers newspapers and politicians. When a man has no more jobs to give he is subject to all sorts of inhuman treatment at the hands of whilom friends.

FRANK EDDY'S Sauk Centre Herald remarks that "the only way in the world the people can get the kind of legislation they want is to ask for it and turn the legislators down when they come up for renomination if they don't get it." There ought to be a tremendous killing at the next election if Frank's logic is to prevail.

AN exchange says a manufacturer of printing machinery wrote a customer as follows: "We think it is about time you were paying us something on the press you bought of us about a year ago." The purchaser replied: "I wasn't aware that I owed you anything. You told me when I ordered the press that it would pay for itself in six months."

IT was generally supposed that the act passed by the recent legislature made Good Friday a legal holiday in the full sense of the word, but such proves not to be the case. The day is only specified in the law involving commercial paper. Mention is made of the day in a law passed by the late legislature, amending the law abolishing days of grace. The legal holidays recognized by the statutes are New Year's day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Labor day, the Fourth of July and the day on which general elections are held. On these days it is specified that all business shall be suspended.

GOV. JOHNSON has announced the appointment of a commission, consisting of Graham M. Torrance of Bemidji and Cleve W. Van Dyke of Alexandria to investigate the charges against the Beltrami county officials in the report of Public Examiner Kerst to the governor. The commission will commence the work within two weeks, and will conduct an investigation and take evidence.

ALTON B. PARKER was recently asked to make a speech at a banquet on the cause of Democratic defeat at the last election and prepared an address so long that the committee would not allow him to deliver it, and as he could discover no way to make it shorter remained away from the feast, says the Fairmont Sentinel. The reason could all have been expressed in five letters, "Teddy."

SOME of the Republican newspapers of the state are exceedingly wroth because the governor's representative at the launching of the "Minnesota" praised the valor and patriotism of the First Minnesota at Gettysburg. Had a Democratic paper criticized a Republican speaker under similar circumstances how ready would have been the cry of "copperheadism." When Minnesota finds it necessary to apologize for her soldier and sailor heroes it will be time to take to task their eulogists.

THE "third house"—the clerks, doorkeepers, janitors and spittooners of the legislature—have organized a Republican league and placed the presidential crown on the head of Billy Verity. Reading between the lines one would infer that the chief purpose of this new organization is to perpetuate the jobships of the charter members. With so many divergent elements and organizations clamoring for recognition and authority the pathway of the Republican party is not strewn with roses.

SEVERAL Republican papers are criticising Speaker Clague for his seemingly friendly attitude toward the railroads. It is not charged that he gave them absolute assistance, but rather aided them in killing objectionable legislation by deserting his chair at critical moments, says the St. Peter Herald. One observer makes the declaration that at least one important measure met its death thru the rulings of his substitute, and this is significant when it is known that the substitute is a man who has never had serious trouble with the roads.

NEXT to the new code in importance and perhaps of greater benefit to the state is the wide open tax amendment which passed both branches of the legislature almost without opposition. This substitutes for the present involved and cumbersome terms of the constitution a short, concise section on taxation, providing only that taxes upon the same class of subjects shall be uniform and collected for public purposes, retaining the present exemptions from taxation. The measure, if ratified by the voters, will permit almost any form of taxation which the legislature desires to enact, and will permit the adjustment of the tax on each class of property in conformity with what it is able to bear, something impossible under the present requirement that all property be assessed at its full cash value.

PERSONAL AND FAMILY INSURANCE

COMBINED IN THE

ELECTIVE LIFE POLICY

Accident, total blindness or deafness, insanity, loss of both arms or both legs, paralysis, apoplexy, or some lingering incurable or constitutional disease may incapacitate men from earning a livelihood, and oblige them to be dependents or to forfeit their ordinary life insurance. The Elective Life feature protects the insured in event of of such contingencies.. . . . . .

John F. Naughtin, Minnesota Manager of the FIDELITY MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO., of Philidelphia, will soon be in Red Lake Falls, and will be glad to explain this plan of life insurance.

Minneapolis Office 704-705 Andrus Building.

E. D. CLAGGETT of Princeton will not be custodian of the new capitol, although the slate had been arranged to that effect. Claggett was formerly sheriff of Mille Lacs county, and during the late campaign prepared and circulated the infamous slander regarding Governor Johnson's unfortunate father. It seemed too much that the capitol commission should give the keys to the governor's private office to such a man, and had he been appointed in spite of the protest there would have been some warm scenes in the capitol. It is probable that every Democratic appointee would have refused to allow Claggett to enter their offices, and his reign as custodian would not have been peaceful. The kind of politics for which such men as Claggett stand belongs to the dark ages, and he has probably discovered by this time that even the calloused campaign managers who abetted his foul slander and assisted in its circulation dare not apologize for him.

THE St. Paul Globe announces that it will suspend publication next Sunday, owing to lack of sufficient advertising patronage to pay expenses. The Globe is nearly thirty years old, and during all of that time has been one of the leading dailies of the Northwest. At the present time it has a larger circulation than any other morning paper in St. Paul or Minneapolis, but there is no profit in circulation, and it is stated that the deficiency in the business office has avaraged $75,000 annually for several years past. During most of its existence the Globe has been consistently Democratic. In 1896 and 1900 it did not support Bryan on account of the silver issue, but it has always been loyal and active in supporting the Democratic state tickets. To thousands of Minnesota people who have read the Globe all their lives its suspension will be in the nature of a personal loss. It is likely that in the readjustment of Twin City journalism the Democrats will obtain a defendable party organ unhampered by the influences that prevented the Globe from being successful. The rumor is persistent that William R. Hearst has an eye on this field.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Brown's Valley Tribune: Whatever may be Vice President Fairbank's ambitions, it is plainly evident that thus far at least the mention of his name in connection with the presidency in 1908 does not strike a very responsive chord.

Fairmont Sentinel: From the way the manufacturers of farm implements—the trust—is fighting the proposition to manufacture implements at the states prison the project would without doubt be a splendid thing for the public. Anything which makes a trust squirm thus is always for the public good.

Sauk Centre Herald: The political history of the United States does not furnish a single instance of candidates telling the people during a campaign that if he was elected he would vote for an increase of his own or fellow official's salary.

Warren Register: It will be necessary to increase the tax rate for state purposes the next two years. The delegations from the different towns in which state institutions are located united their forces and made a combined assault upon the state treasury. It was not so much a question of what any institution needed as it was how much it could get. In some ways the scramble for a share of the spoil reminds one of a congressional river and harbor bill.

St. Cloud Times: A protest against Mr. Rockefeller's $100,000 gift to the Congregationalist mission brought out two statements in his defense by associates in the Standard Oil. By accepting Mr. Rockefeller's first check for $100,000 without raking up his past the Baptist missions are rewarded with a second $100,000. Mr. Rockefeller believe that one good turn deserves another.

Wheelock's Weekly: One of the really bright ideas of the legislative session was that of passing the revised code in the closing hours. This will result in a cheerful mix-up between the code laws and the session laws, and any sin of commission or omission by any member can be explained to his constituents by the code-and-session complications. The code thus becomes a bulwark of defense.

Brown's Valley Tribune: We can't all have matters as we would like to have them. If the writer had his way he would abolish the senate, both state and national. One house of our law-making bodies would do as well, and perhaps better than both, and things would be accomplished in much less time and at much less expense. But it will be a long time before senate bodies can be brought to admit their superfluous position, and vote to legislate themselves out of existence.

Insists on Pure Food.

The state dairy and food commission is having considerable trouble with the venders of illegal baking powder who seem to take delight in attempting to invade the law. As the law has been in effect for several years there is no excuse for dealers handling illegal goods and the commission is certainly warranted in imposing the full penalty prescribed by law for its violation.

As evidence of the work being accomplished by this department we call attention to the fact that since the advent of the present administration, its inspectors have collected and chemists analyzed a total of 4,106 samples of food products. These have been collected from different sections of the state, an attempt being made to distribute the inspection work as much as possible. 643 illegal samples have been collected. According to this rate the department will collect and analyze approximately 16,000 samples during the year.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Pe-ru-na is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy---I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."---
DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. H. W. Ogden, Congressman from Louisiana, in a letter written at Washington, D. C., says the following of Peruna, the national catarrh remedy:

"I can conscientiously recommend your Peruna as a fine tonic and all around good medicine to those who are in need of a catarrh remedy. It has been commended to me by people who have used it, as a remedy particularly effective in the cure of catarrh. For those who need a good catarrh medicine I know of nothing better."

W. E. Griffith, Concan, Texas, writes: "I suffered with chronic catarrh for many years. I took Peruna and it completely cured me. I think Peruna is the best medicine in the world for catarrh. My general health is much improved by its use, as I am much stronger than I have been for years."—W. E. Griffith.

A Congressman's Letter.

Congressman H. Bowen, Ruskin, Tazewell county, Va., writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy, Peruna, to any one who is suffering with catarrh, and who is in need of a permanent and effective cure."—H. Bowen.

Mr. Fred. D. Scott, Larue, Ohio, Right Guard of Hiram Foot Ball Team, writes: "As a specific for lung trouble I place Peruna at the head. I have used it myself for colds and catarrh of the bowels and it is a splendid remedy. It restores vitality, increases bodily strength and makes a sick person well in a short time. I give Peruna my hearty indorsement." Fred. D. Scott.

Gen. Ira C. Abbott, 906 M street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am fully convinced that your remedy is an excellent tonic. Many of my friends have used it with the most beneficial results for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."—Ira C. Abbott.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, orator of Reservoir Council No. 168, Northwestern Legion of Honor, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes from 2535 Polk street, NE.:

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

A HOPELESS FIGHT

It is as impossible to conquer the king of diseases—Contagious Blood Poison—with Mercury and Potash as it would be to conquer the king of the forest in a hand-to-hand encounter, as thousands who have had their health ruined and lives blighted through the use of these minerals will testify. They took the treatment faithfully, only to find when it was left off, the disease returned with more power, combined with the awful effects of these minerals, such as mercurial rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, salivation, inflammation of the stomach and bowels, etc. When the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters the blood it quickly contaminates every drop of that vital fluid, and every muscle, nerve, tissue and bone becomes affected, and soon the foul symptoms of sore mouth and throat, copper-colored blotches, falling hair and eyebrows, swollen glands, sores, etc., make their appearance. Mercury and Potash can only cover up these evidences for awhile; they cannot cure the disease. S. S. S. has for many years been recognized as a specific for Contagious Blood Poison—a perfect antidote for the deadly virus that is so far-reaching in its effects on the system. S. S. S. does not hide or mask the disease, but so thoroughly and completely cures it that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. while eradicating the poison of the disease will drive out any effects of harmful mineral treatment. A reward of $1,000.00 is offered for proof that S. S. S. contains a mineral ingredient of any kind. Treatise with instructions for home treatment and any advice wished, without charge.

In the Stocks

By Martha McCulloch-Williams

The mischief was done all in a minute. Fate perhaps knew how. Karsens certainly was all in the dark and as angry as he was amazed to find himself in Cupid's toils. He had got almost through this house party as through a hundred others scot free, unburdened by more than passing memories of black eyes or gray or blue. Indeed he had passed up Mildred Gore as impossible two minutes after he took her in to dinner, regretfully too. It was on many counts so desirable that he should find in her the woman he wished to marry.

She was his equal in birth, in fortune, in position; his people approved her thoroughly; moreover, there had descended to him a burden of obligation to her blood which it was impossible that money could discharge. Her father had come to his father's rescue in a day of trouble that otherwise must have ended in disaster, forcing his way through a mob of clamoring depositors in the elder Karsens' bank, with bags of gold in either hand and a ready promise of ten times as much at need. That had stopped the senseless run. Men who had been ready to fight for their money had begged abjectly to have it kept in the vaults.

This, of course, had been in the days of provincialism, before Banker Karsens had come to the city to prosper and die a millionaire. His son Herbert had only the haziest memory of the flitting of Minton, the little home town, and haziest of all of Mildred as a wisp of long, white clothes with something red and squirmy at the top of them, which he had been bidden to kiss, but from which he had turned away in disgust, sticking small fists into his first pair of pockets and saying grandly, "I'm a man now; don't kiss girls any more."

Until two hours before they were to leave Hidaway, the Barton country house, he told himself the Gore girl was out of the question.

His wife must have, above all things, beauty and brilliance. Mildred was quiet, lumpish even, he thought, content to play wall flower or happy with Dicky Barton for company. Dicky was an infant terrible, aged seven. All the other girls shunned him as much as they dared.

He had somehow sensed it that Mildred might be a beauty if she chose before he saw her come home from a rapid ride with cheeks like damask roses and tendrils of soft brown hair framing her glowing face. A crown of wild grape blooms lay lightly above the tendrils; a sheaf of pink wild roses was crushed against her dark green coat just below the throat. She was laughing, too, as merrily, as happily, as Dicky himself—Dicky, who rode at her elbow, impishly happy over having brought both their horses to the edge of running away. Dicky it was who had crowned her, after pulling off her hat and letting down her hair. He scowled at Karsens as that gentleman made to help Mildred down, saying shrilly: "You go 'way and stay with your no-goods! She," nodding toward Mildred, "belongs to me. I'm goin' to marry her when I'm grown up. That will be about Christmas after next."

"Dicky, don't you think it might be next Christmas?" Mildred asked, her eyes dancing. "I hate long engagements. They're always dreadfully sorrowful, besides being unlucky." Dicky looked at her doubtfully.

"How do you know?" he asked. "Are you 'gaged to the fellow you carry round in your locket? I saw you kiss it the other day. Let me see what he looks like; you know you said you would."

"So I will—some time," Mildred answered, catching him by the shoulders and swinging him back and forth. Karsens noted how soft yet firm her hands were, the fine modeling of wrists and palms, the whole pose of grace and strength. But he hardly knew that he did note them—he was so blindly, so furiously jealous of the fellow in the locket. When Dicky at last ran away to his mother Karsens stood before Mildred, asking imperatively, "Are you really engaged?"

"What's that to Hecuba?" Mildred countered, her paling roses suddenly red again.

"Everything!" Karsens said, with a thick undernote. "Mildred, Mildred," he went on, "I have been blind these ten days. Now that I see is it quite too late?"

"I don't understand," Mildred said suddenly, prim and pale. She half turned away her face as she wound up her thick hair and massed it high on her head. "I must go," she murmured. "Dicky has every hairpin in some of his pockets. He says he means to keep them so I cannot go with the others. My hair, you see, is unruly; it defies ordinary fastenings, so unless I can get the pins back before he thinks to hide them the chances are I shall really be a prisoner until tomorrow."

All this in a huddle, with flight after it. Karsens stood staring after the vanishing figure in a scowling daze. He was angry clean through. If it was fate's decree that he should be thus bowled over, why had it not come to pass at first? Then he might have had a chance—now, now when he had shown himself a condescending ass, of course she would never look at him, much less listen. There was also the man in the locket. She had blushed furiously when Dicky told of him. Who could he be? Some Minton manikin, no doubt. Though Mildred had been strange to him, he knew how she had grown up there, the light of her father's eyes, the stay and comfort of an invalid mother. They had no business to keep her there. It was that which had made her so silent, so pale and ungirlish instead of a beauty as glorious as delicate.

She was, after all, the wife for him, yet they had given her no chance. He had been likewise defrauded. How was he to know that aught so unlike could soften and brighten like a gray sky at dawn? Until train time he asked himself these things and many more over and over. He meant to have them answered in part before he got back to the city. There fate balked him. At the very last minute Mildred decided to stay another day. Dicky howled delight and triumph when he heard it and instantly carried her off from everybody. Karsens made his adieus with what grace he might and went home more than ever dazed.

He did not sleep that night. Next day betimes he sped him back to Hidaway. He found the house deserted. Mrs. Barton was out driving, said the butler. Miss Gore? He was not sure. She might be in the grounds. She was not in her own room or anywhere about the house.

Wherever she might be, Master Dicky was with her. Karsens waited to hear nothing more. He plunged into the shrubbery, took a short cut that led to the pine grove and came out at the edge of it breathless, yet content, for he heard voices through the murmuring stillness of it, Dicky's shrill and gleeful, Mildred's touched with [illegible]ing, yet wholly good humored. Karsens crept noiselessly toward the pair, [illegible] six feet away and listened shamelessly to what was said, having much ado the while to keep himself from laughing. [illegible] on antiques. She had astounded the countryside by paying fabulously for all manner of truck, ancient and weather beaten. Thus it happened she had bought from the town authorities the old stocks dismantled when the town hall was rebuilt and had set them up in the grove, arranging them so strollers might sit on them and hear the tale of them. Adventurers even put their feet in the allotted spaces of timbers still sound. Thus Dicky had learned the trick. He had played it this morning himself, then persuaded Mildred to do the same. When her feet were nicely settled he slapped down the upper half, fastened it tight and said: "Now you are my prisoner. I will not let you out until—"

"Until what, Dicky, dear?" Mildred had asked, laughing heartily. She was asking it still when Karsens came in sight. Dicky seemed pondering deeply. "It's not fair to ask two things for one," he said at last, "and I want to ask two. I don't know just yet which I want worse."

"Oh, well, then I'll go to sleep and let you find out," Mildred said, pretending to sigh deeply, although Karsens was sure her eyes were dancing. Dicky went very near her. "You better not," he said, "'cause if you do I mightn't have to ask but one."

"Indeed! Tell me what they are. Maybe I can decide which of them you ought to care most about," Mildred said coaxingly. Dicky shook his head. "I know all by myself now," he said, "'cause if I said you must stay here always you couldn't. We're only here for summer time. So you've got to show me—the man in the locket. If you don't I'll keep you here till mamma comes to find us. Then she will punish me, and you'll be mighty sorry."

"So sorry I cannot possibly let it happen," Mildred said, with a bubbling laugh. Karsens heard the faint click of a spring, then Dicky's sorrowful shout: "Why, it's nobody in the world but that silly Bert Karsens! What do you want with him, Milly? I know I'm ever so much better looking!"

"Not a doubt of it," Karsens said, rushing forward and kneeling beside Dicky's prisoner. The telltale locket lay open face down in her lap, where it had fallen from her nerveless fingers. As he closed it after one glance he said in Mildred's ear, "Darling, if you kept that thing maybe I can persuade you after a long, long time to take the original."

"Not unless your mother says so. She sent me the picture," Mildred whispered. Dicky had scampered off. As Karsens set her free he drew her hand over his arm, saying with a shake of the head: "You're much too dangerous to be left at large. I shall keep you prisoner all the rest of your life."

More Hay.

Two clubmen were praising the pluck of dogs.

"A good dog," said one, "has the same kind of pluck that old Jerome McWade used to show.

"He was a farmer, seventy years old, but still hale and hearty. One morning he and his two sons got to wrangling over their strength, and Jerome declared that he could load quite as fast as they could pitch it.

"So to the fields they went, and Jerome got into a hay wagon with his fork, and the two boys down below began to pitch the hay up to him as fast as they could pitch it.

"The old man stood up to his work stoutly. He loaded with lightning speed, and all the while he kept calling down: 'More hay! More hay!'

"The boys worked hard. Their youth told in their favor. Old Jerome got to loading more and more untidily. Still as he scrambled about on top of the uneven mounds he continued to shout, 'More hay!'

"All of a sudden he tripped as he dug in his fork and fell from the wagon to the ground.

"'Ah,' said his eldest son, 'what are you doing down here?'

"Jerome as he rose answered:

"'I came down for more hay.'"—Harper's Weekly.

MANNERS IN BUSINESS.

Brains and Good Deportment a Winning Combination.

The value of brains in business cannot be overestimated, of course; but neither can the value of manners. Don't make the error of supposing that brains are everything. You may have the best set of brains in the town, but if you haven't the manners of a gentleman nobody is going to appreciate you. Your manner is the outward indication of what you are within in the estimate of most people, and if the manner is disagreeable few will take the trouble to examine into you any further.

The consensus of general opinion is that the man who goes about with porcupine quills as his manners hasn't any brains worth bothering about. Did you never notice that the men who employ large forces of intelligent people look at an applicant closely, ask a few seemingly unimportant questions and promptly employ or dismiss him? They don't sound his brain depth; they don't obtain his biography; they don't inquire into his social standing; they size him up from his manners, and if he is brass on the surface they don't look for gold within.

The employer knows that if an applicant's manner strikes him favorably it will also favorably strike people with whom he comes in contact in his work. And nobody knows better than a big business man that a favorable first impression means half the sale. People are apt to think that if there is any place where manners are of little consequence it is in business, where cold calculation so largely takes the place of feeling. But the truth is that nowhere else are manners of such importance as in everyday dealings. There is no capital and equipment any young man can have that will pay him better than good manners. There is no possible calling for which this does not better fit him. If he has brains the world owes him something, but unless he has good manners he will have a hard time collecting it.—Kansas City World.

A HOPELESS FIGHT

It is as impossible to conquer the king of diseases—Contagious Blood Poison—with Mercury and Potash as it would be to conquer the king of the forest in a hand-to-hand encounter, as thousands who have had their health ruined and lives blighted through the use of these minerals will testify. They took the treatment faithfully, only to find when it was left off, the disease returned with more power, combined with the awful effects of these minerals, such as mercurial rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, salivation, inflammation of the stomach and bowels, etc. When the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters the blood it quickly contaminates every drop of that vital fluid, and every muscle, nerve, tissue and bone becomes affected, and soon the foul symptoms of sore mouth and throat, copper-colored blotches, falling hair and eyebrows, swollen glands, sores, etc., make their appearance. Mercury and Potash can only cover up these evidences for awhile; they cannot cure the disease. S. S. S. has for many years been recognized as a specific for Contagious Blood Poison—a perfect antidote for the deadly virus that is so far-reaching in its effects on the system. S. S. S. does not hide or mask the disease, but so thoroughly and completely cures it that no signs are ever seen again,

S. S. S. while eradicating the poison of the disease will drive out any effects of harmful mineral treatment. A reward of $1,000.00 is offered for proof that S. S. By Martha McCulloch-Williams

The mischief was done all in a minute. Fate perhaps knew how. Karsens certainly was all in the dark and as angry as he was amazed to find himself in Cupid's toils. He had got almost through this house party as through a hundred others scot free, unburdened by more than passing memories of black eyes or gray or blue. Indeed he had passed up Mildred Gore as impossible two minutes after he took her in to dinner, regretfully too. It was on many counts so desirable that he should find in her the woman he wished to marry.

She was his equal in birth, in fortune, in position; his people approved her thoroughly; moreover, there had descended to him a burden of obligation to her blood which it was impossible that money could discharge. Her father had come to his father's rescue in a day of trouble that otherwise must have ended in disaster, forcing his way through a mob of clamoring depositors in the elder Karsens' bank, with bags of gold in either hand and a ready promise of ten times as much at need. That had stopped the senseless run. Men who had been ready to fight for their money had begged abjectly to have it kept in the vaults.

This, of course, had been in the days of provincialism, before Banker Karsens had come to the city to prosper and die a millionaire. His son Herbert had only the haziest memory of the flitting of Minton, the little home town; and haziest of all of Mildred as a wisp of long, white clothes with something red and squirmy at the top of them, which he had been bidden to kiss, but from which he had turned away in disgust, sticking small fists into his first pair of pockets and saying grandly, "I'm a man now; don't kiss girls any more."

Until two hours before they were to leave Hidaway, the Barton country house, he told himself the Gore girl was out of the question.

His wife must have, above all things, beauty and brilliance. Mildred was quiet, lumpish even, he thought, content to play wall flower or happy with Dicky Barton for company. Dicky was an infant terrible, aged seven. All the other girls shunned him as much as they dared.

He had somehow sensed it that Mildred might be a beauty if she chose before he saw her come home from a rapid ride with cheeks like damask roses and tendrils of soft brown hair framing her glowing face. A crown of wild grape blooms lay lightly above the tendrils; a sheaf of pink wild roses was crushed against her dark green coat just below the throat. She was laughing, too, as merrily, as happily, as Dicky himself—Dicky, who rode at her elbow, impishly happy over having brought both their horses to the edge of running away. Dicky it was who had crowned her, after pulling off her hat and letting down her hair. He scowled at Karsens as that gentleman made to help Mildred down, saying shrilly: "You go 'way and stay with your no-goods! She," nodding toward Mildred, "belongs to me. I'm goin' to marry her when I'm grown up. That will be about Christmas after next."

"Dicky, don't you think it might be next Christmas?" Mildred asked, her eyes dancing. "I hate long engagements. They're always dreadfully sorrowful, besides being unlucky." Dicky looked at her doubtfully.

"How do you know?" he asked. "Are you hegaged to the fellow you carry round in your locket? I saw you kiss it the other day. Let me see what he looks like; you know you said you would."

"So I will—some time," Mildred answered, catching him by the shoulders and swinging him back and forth. Karsens noted how soft yet firm her hands were, the fine modeling of wrists and palms, the whole pose of grace and strength. But he hardly knew that he did note them—he was so blindly, so furiously jealous of the fellow in the locket. When Dicky at last ran away to his mother Karsens stood before Mildred, asking imperatively, "Are you really engaged?"

"What's that to—Hecuba?" Mildred countered, her paling roses suddenly red again.

"Everything!" Karsens said, with a thick undernote. "Mildred, Mildred," he went on, "I have been blind this ten days. Now that I see is it quite too late?"

"I don't understand," Mildred said suddenly, prim and pale. She half turned away her face as she wound up her thick hair and massed it high on her head. "I must go," she murmured. "Dicky has every hairpin in some of his pockets. He says he means to keep them so I cannot go with the others. My hair, you see, is unruly; it defies ordinary fastenings, so unless I can get the pins back before he thinks to hide them the chances are I shall really be a prisoner until tomorrow."

All this in a huddle, with flight after it. Karsens stood staring after the vanishing figure in a scowling daze. He was angry clean through. If it was fate's decree that he should be thus bowled over, why had it not come to pass at first? Then he might have had a chance—now, now, when he had shown himself a condescending ass, of course she would never look at him, much less listen. There was also the man in the locket. She had blushed furiously when Dicky told of him. Who could he be? Some Minton manikin, no doubt. Though Mildred had been strange to him, he knew how she had grown up there, the light of her father's eyes, the stay and comfort of an invalid mother. They had no business to keep her there. It was that which had made her so silent, so pale and ungirlish instead of a beauty as glorious as delicate.

She was, after all, the wife for him, yet they had given her no chance. He had been likewise defrauded. How was he to know that aught so unlike could soften and brighten like a gray sky at dawn? Until train time he asked himself these things and many more over and over. He meant to have them answered in part before he got back to the city. There fate balked him. At the very last minute Mildred decided to stay another day. Dicky howled delight and triumph when he heard it and instantly carried her off from everybody. Karsens made his adieus with what grace he might and went home more than ever dazed.

He did not sleep that night. Next day betimes he sped him back to Hidaway. He found the house deserted. Mrs. Barton was out driving, said the butler. Miss Gore? He was not sure. She might be in the grounds. She was not in her own room or anywhere about the house.

Wherever she might be, Master Dicky was with her. Karsens waited to hear nothing more. He plunged into the shrubbery, took a short cut that led to the pine grove and came out at the edge of it breathless, yet content, for he heard voices through the murmuring stillness of it—Dicky's shrill and gleeful, Mildred's touched with a something, yet wholly good humored. Karsens crept noiselessly toward the pair stopped in the ambush of a big pine six feet away and listened shamelessly to what was said, having much ado the while to keep himself from laughing.

Mrs. Barton doted on antiques. She had astounded the countryside by paying fabulously for all manner of truck, ancient and weather beaten. Thus it happened she had bought from the town authorities the old stocks rummaged out when the town hall was rebuilt and had set them up in the pines, arranging them so strollers might sit on them and hear the tale of them. Adventurers even put their feet in the allotted spaces of timbers still staunch. Thus Dicky had learned the trick. He had played it this morning himself, then persuaded Mildred to do the same. When her feet were nicely settled he slapped down the upper half, fastened it tight and said: "Now you are my prisoner. I will not let you out until"—

"Until what, Dicky, dear?" Mildred had asked, laughing heartily. She was asking it still when Karsens came in sight. Dicky seemed pondering deeply. "It's no fair to ask two things for one," he said at last, "and I want to ask two. I don't know just yet which I want worse."

"Oh, well, then I'll go to sleep and let you find out," Mildred said, pretending to sigh deeply, although Karsens was sure her eyes were dancing. Dicky went very near her. "You better not," he said, "'cause if you do I mightn't have to ask but one."

"Indeed! Tell me what they are. Maybe I can decide which of them you ought to care most about," Mildred said coaxingly. Dicky shook his head. "I know all by myself now," he said. "'Cause if I said you must stay here always you couldn't. We're only here for summer time. So you've got to show me—the man in the locket. If you don't I'll keep you here till mamma comes to find us. Then she will punish me, and you'll be mighty sorry."

"So sorry I cannot possibly let it happen," Mildred said, with a bubbling laugh. Karsens heard the faint click of a spring, then Dicky's sorrowful shout: "Why, it's nobody in the world but that silly Bert Karsens! What do you want with him, Milly? I know I'm ever so much better looking!"

"Not a doubt of it," Karsens said, rushing forward and kneeling beside Dicky's prisoner. The telltale locket lay open face down in her lap, where it had fallen from her nerveless fingers. As he closed it after one glance he said in Mildred's ear, "Darling, if you kept that thing maybe I can persuade you after a long, long time to take the original."

"Not unless your mother says so. She sent me the picture," Mildred whispered. Dicky had scampered off. As Karsens set her free he drew her hand over his arm, saying with a shake of the head: "You're much too dangerous to be left at large. I shall keep you prisoner all the rest of your life."

More Hay.

Two clubmen were praising the pluck of dogs.

"A good dog," said one, "has the same kind of pluck that old Jerome McWade used to show.

"He was a farmer, seventy years old, but still hale and hearty. One morning he and his two sons got to wrangling over their strength, and Jerome declared that he could load quite as fast as they could pitch it.

"So to the fields they went, and Jerome got into a hay wagon with his fork, and the two boys down below began to pitch the hay up to him as fast as they could pitch it.

"The old man stood up to his work stoutly. He loaded with lightning speed, and all the while he kept calling down: 'More hay! More hay!'

"The boys worked hard. Their youth told in their favor. Old Jerome got to loading more and more untidily. Still as he scrambled about on top of the uneven mounds he continued to shout, 'More hay!'

"All of a sudden he tripped as he dug in his fork and fell from the wagon to the ground.

"'Ah,' said his eldest son, 'what are you doing down here?'

"Jerome as he rose answered:

"'I came down for more hay.'"—Harper's Weekly.

MANNERS IN BUSINESS.

Brains and Good Deportment a Winning Combination.

The value of brains in business cannot be overestimated, of course; but neither can the value of manners. Don't make the error of supposing that brains are everything. You may have the best set of brains in the town, but if you haven't the manners of a gentleman nobody is going to appreciate you. Your manner is the outward indication of what you are within in the estimate of most people, and if the manner is disagreeable few will take the trouble to examine into you any further.

The consensus of general opinion is that the man who goes about with porcupine quills as his manners hasn't any brains worth bothering about. Did you never notice that the men who employ large forces of intelligent people look at an applicant closely, ask a few seemingly unimportant questions and promptly employ or dismiss him? They don't sound his brain depth; they don't obtain his biography; they don't inquire into his social standing; they size him up from his manners, and if he is brass on the surface they don't look for gold within.

The employer knows that if an applicant's manner strikes him favorably it will also favorably strike people with whom he comes in contact in his work. And nobody knows better than a big business man that a favorable first impression means half the sale. People are apt to think that if there is any place where manners are of little consequence it is in business, where cold calculation so largely takes the place of feeling. But the truth is that nowhere else are manners of such importance as in everyday dealings. There is no capital and equipment any young man can have that will pay him better than good manners. There is no possible calling for which this does not better fit him. If he has brains the world owes him something, but unless he has good manners he will have a hard time collecting it.—Kansas City World.

CONVENT BURNED; LIVES ARE LOST

A MIDNIGHT FIRE DESTROYS AN INSTITUTION LOCATED AT ST. GENEVIEVE, QUE.

Fourteen Inmates Unable to Escape and Perish—The Victims Include Nine Girls, Four Women and a Heroic Nun.

Montreal, Que., April 22.—The little village of St. Genevieve is in mourning over the loss of 14 lives in a fire which destroyed the convent of St. Anne there early on Friday. One nun, nine children, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years, and four old women, perished in the flames. Two nuns were so severely burned that it is feared they will die. In their grief over the catastrophe the villaged find some comfort in relating the heroism displayed by Sister Marie Adjuteur, who gave up her life, and Sister Marie Therese and Marie Robertine, who were perhaps fatally burned in their efforts to save the lives of the children and helpless old women in their charge. There is no organized fire protection in the village. The fire, which started at an early hour in the morning, was beyond control by the time the sleeping people could be aroused. A bucket brigade was formed, but the efforts to check the flames proved futile and the quaint old structure was reduced to ashes. Sisters Marie Therese and Marie Robertine were rescued with difficulty from the hallway, where they had fallen, overcome by the smoke and flames.

The convent was called the Ste. Annes, and was a branch of the convent of the Sisters of Ste. Annes of Lachine. The building was a gray stone structure, handsome in appearance, massive in character and with the churuch it formed a central figure of the pretty little village. St. Genevieve is a village and parish of Jaques Cartier county, on Rievere des Prairies. It is three miles from Beaconsfield and five miles from Pointe Claire.

A BRUTAL CRIME.

Aged Woman Strangled to Death by Unknown Persons at Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Mount Vernon, O., April 24.—The body of Miss Miranda Bricker, aged 25, who had been criminally assaulted and strangled to death, was found Sunday morning in the rear of the Fairchild home, in this city, where she had been employed as housemaid. There were evidences of a terrible struggle upon the part of the woman, who had been dragged 500 feet from the place where she was first attacked. Persons living in the vicinity recall that they heard cries during the night, but paid no attention to them. There is no clue, but bloodhounds have been sent for to trail the murderer, if possible.

Cleveland, O., April 22.—Maj. William W. Armstrong, prominent in the democratic party throughout the state, died Friday afternoon ,after one day's illness of pneumonia, aged 72 years. He is said to have been the man who suggested the rooster as the emblem for the democratic party.

LOSE MILLIONS.

John W. Gates and Friends Drop $10,000,000 in Effort to Corner May Wheat.

Chicago, April 24.—Burning with an ambition to be known as the "Wheat King" John W. Gates led an army of Wall street steel millionaires in a May wheat deal against the strongly entrenched Armour interests. Saturday, dashed in spirit and lame in purse, the steel ranks withdrew, having lost a cool $10,000,000. No wilder day was ever seen in the Chicago wheat pit, even in the sensational campaign of "Joe" Leiter, when $9,000,000 was dropped into the same pockets to which Gates and his allies have contributed, than Saturday. From an uneasy perch of $1.10, Friday's closing price, May wheat dropped like lead and with only one breathing space, sank 11½ cents, resting finally at 98½ cents. Gates, old brokers say, could have begun liquidating when the top price of $1.21½ was reached and would have lost little or nothing. But he wanted to fight, and Saturday Armour, Valentine and others accommodated him. He held a line of 25,000,000 bushels of May wheat. With his steel clique he had acquired 70,000,000 bushels in his effort to corner the market. Some of this wheat was bought by the Gates crowd as high as $1.21½; some at lower figures. Saturday 5,000,000 bushels of it went at prices ranging as low as 98½ cents. If the average loss be figured at ten cents a bushel, the steel clique lost $7,000,000 on the entire deal. If the more likely figure of 15 cents be used, their losses ran up to $10,500,000. From the rise in price farmers profited to the extent of 20 cents on each 25,000,000 bushels of May wheat, or $5,000,000. The bears took the rest of the plunder.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Woman Accused of Poisoning Her Two Children in a Village in Ohio.

Columbus, O., April 24.—Mrs. Henry Anthony, aged 32, of Grove City, a suburb of Columbus, is held at the county jail pending an investigation of the death of her two children by a former marriage, John and Oletha Demorest, aged 9 and 13 years respectively, who were found dead in bed Sunday morning. The circumstances of the children's death have aroused suspicions of poisoning. The mother claims the children were ill and she gave them quinine. About seven years ago, the woman, whose name was then Demorest, killed her three-year-old boy by cutting his throat. She was then adjudged insane and was sent to the state hospital, but was discharged in less than two months as recovered.

RUSSIAN FLEET IS COALING.

REPORTED OFF THE COAST OF HAINAN WHERE FLEETS MAY MEET.

Mysterious Rumors of Peace at St. Petersburg. Admiralty is Mum. Oyama is Quietly Awaiting the Sea Fight.

London, April 25.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph wires: The governor of Hainan island has wired to the Chinese government that the Baltic fleet is taking coal off the coast of Hainan. It is stated at Hongkong that the third Russian (Nebogatoff's) squadron will join the Baltic fleet about April 28, and that the Russians will make a prolonged stay at Hainan island.

Japan is vigorously protesting against the preparations for flight from Shanghai of the Russian protected cruiser Askold.

It is feared that more difficulties will arise on account of China's inability to enforce her neutrality with respect to the report that the Russian Pacific squadron is coaling off Hainan.

St. Petersburg, April 25.—Mysterious rumors that another attempt at peace negotiations is impending are circulating in high quarters and the United States is directly mentioned as the intermediary. The Associated Press has not been able to obtain any conformation of the reports.

No intimation of such a move has reached the American Ambassy but at the foreign office yesterday afternoon an official inquired perhaps significantly when President Roosevelt would return to Washington.

As previously stated in these dispatches a considerable party in the government holds strongly to the opinion that now that Admiral Rojestvensky is ready to strike, but before the issue is put to the test would be the most opportune time for opening negotiations.

WOODS ABLAZE.

Many Fires Are Raging in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. Land Dry as Tinder.

Duluth, April 25. — Northeastern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and the western end of Lake Superior are enveloped in a pall of smoke from forest fires. Scores of fires are burning in woods and slashings, and reports of losses are coming in from every line of rail communication entering Duluth.

A forest fire started a blaze in a huge pile of cedar telegraph poles and ties near Saginaw station of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, and did several thousand dollars damage before it was extinguished. The burned property was owned by Wilson & Lungren, small contractors.

The officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range roads have issued special orders to trainmen to look out for forest fires, and extra men are employed to keep an eye on bridges and instantly report when fires break out.

Fires are burning close to several of the mining locations on the Mesaba. The country is dry as tinder.

Three Are Killed.

Eveleth, Minn, April 25.—In a handcar accident Sunday night on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern between Zim and Norway Ridge three men were killed and one injured.

Two of the dead are Gus Tieman, a section foreman at Norway Ridge, and Charles Erickson, whose dead body was brought here from Virginia last night. The four were coming from Zim when they were struck by No. 13. Erickson and an unknown man who is now in the hospital here, were taken off the pilot of the engine. The bodies of the other two were not found until morning. Both of them were in the ditch.

Another Drop in Wheat.

Chicago, April 25.—A double back somersault was performed by May wheat yesterday. Instead of settling into a reminiscence, the option promptly started in the morning with a repetition of last week's sensational acrobatics. Some of the trades showed a fall off of 4 cents a bushel, the price opening at 96@98c, as against 81 at the close on Saturday.

Boiler Blows Up.

Superior, Wis, April 25.—The boiler in the enginehouse back of the New York block on Tower avenue blew up, knocking out the window and demolishing the doors leading from the room to the outside. Nobody was injured.

If you are getting lazy, watch James; if your faith is below par, read Paul; if you are impatient, sit down quietly and have a little talk with Job; if you are just a little strong headed, go and see Moses; if you are weak kneed, take a look at Elijah; if there is no song in your heart, listen to David; if you are getting chilly get the beloved disciples to put his arm around you; if you are loosing sight of the future, climb up to revelation and get a glimpse of the promised land.

One day two Italians started out to sell apples, each taking a supply of 60 apples. One sold the fruit at three for one cent, while the other sold his supply at two for one cent. The next day one of the Italians was taken ill and was unable to render any assistance, so the one man took out the full supply of 120 apples and sold them five for two cents. Find the results of both day's sales and explain why the amounts are not the same, when the same number of apples are sold at virtually the same price—five apples for two cents.

A preacher out in Kansas is responsible for this: I had occasion at one time to hold Christian services in a little town not far from Topeka. The choir was composed of two old maids and two old batchelors. When the chorus to the official Christmas hymn was reached the old maids alone sang "Unto us a child was born" and the old batchelors: followed up with.. W-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l."—Then some vag in the front pew had to snicker. That settled it. The choir quit abruptly and the services came to an end.—Exchange.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Thirteenth Biennial Report Recounts Work That Has Been Done.

The thirteenth biennial report of the Minnesota Historical society shows the society to be in a flourishing condition, and ambitious for future achievements.

The Historical society was organized in October, 1849, and was consequently fifty-five years old last fall. Now, in its fifty-sixth year, it will occupy large and convenient quarters in the new state capitol.

The additional rooms is needed to properly care for the library and records, which are now badly crowding the old quarters.

The library of the society consists of 77,684 volumes, of which 43,181 are bound. In 1903, the newspaper volumes bound and added to the records numbered 578, and in 1904, 529. The total newspaper volumes now on record is 6,526. Another interesting and valuable record consists of twenty-nine quarto scrap books, each of 160 pages, well indexed which have been filled during the past twenty-five years. The value of this work has received additional recognition lately, and at present the scrap books are being turned out at the rate of three or four annually.

The additional space in the new capitol will permit of increased display of museum specimens and portraits, the supply of which is large. J. V. Brower alone has within the past ten years collected over 100,000 specimens of stone implements and weapons, bone and copper ornaments, etc. Rev. Edward C. Mitchell, another honored member of the society, will contribute his private collection of thousands of specimens when space for their display becomes available.

The society asks for additional means to prosecute the work, and points to Wisconsin as an example, that state making a regular appropriation of $30,000 a year for its Historical society. It has also provided a four story fireproof building, costing $400,000, and our society thinks the example worthy of emulation.

The County in General

St. Hilaire schools and banks were closed on Good Friday.

The Soo is building a six stall round house at Thief River.

Dr. G. C. Hoff, of Zumbrota, is thinking seriously of locating at Plummer.

The Masons of Thief River Falls gave a big banquet to themselves one evening last week.

St. Hilaire is having great fun bowling and a contest was pulled off at that place last week.

The street commissioner of St. Hilaire has been busy lately cleaning up the streets of that burg.

A Plummer citizen lost a valuable gold watch and chain between that town and Lambert recently.

Frank Posten, of Thief River Falls, came near losing both legs one day last week while unloading rock.

H. Ogard, of Plummer, has patented a road grader and is at Crookston where he will manufacture the machines.

Dan Carroll, a Plummer resident, recently lost a pocketbook containing some money and bank certificates of deposite.

A fierce fire raged on the school section just south of Plummer a couple of days last week. No damage was done.

W. G. Brown has his new house at Plummer about completed and expects his family to move soon from Red Lake Falls.

The Crookston district of the Epworth League will meet at Thief River Falls in June. There are some sixty pastoral charges in the district and most of them will be represented at the meeting.

The saw mill at Thief River Falls is closed down on account of the scarcity of logs. The company has over seven million feet of logs in the river but the water is so low it is a slow proposition to get them to the mill.

Chas. Kjelden, a reservation settler, was burned out one day last week and has gone to his former home in the southern part of the state to raise money to get another start. While away from his home one day a prairie fire destroyed all his buildings and a yoke of oxen.

It is said the Soo will establish three new towns between Thief River Falls and the Red River on its new line. One on the east bank of the river will likely be a good one, as it will have a fine country around it. Altogether there will be twenty-one new townsites opened on the new line.

A Sad Case.

The following story is a gem in its way and will bear reproducing:

For a long, long time she gazed fixedly into his eyes as he bent over her.

"You have no heart?" she asked yearnedly.

"No," he replied decidedly, yet with a throb of regret in his voice, "I have no heart."

For a long time neither spoke; he leaned forward and looked at her searchingly.

She stood with a far-away look in her eyes.

Finally she roused herself with a sigh, seeming to realize that which she had planned could never be.

"Well." and there was still that note of regret in her voice, "wrap me up a pound of liver."

CHURCH MEETING.

Annual Congregational Session of Presbyterian Church Held.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church was held at the church parlors last Thursday evening. The ladies aid society of the church served a dainty luncheon to all who attended the meeting. Something over one hundred people were in attendance and all thoroughly enjoyed the repast.

At the conclusion of the supper a business meeting was held and the affairs of the church was discussed by those present. Frank E. Hunt acted as chairman of the meeting while S. M. Sivertson was the secretary.

The reports of the Sunday school, young people's society, ladies aid society and of Treasurer Simons of the church showed the different branches of the church work were in a flourishing condition. The indebtedness of the church was reduced about $800 during the past year

A resolution was passed changing the number of trustees to seven instead of five as has been the case heretofore. The following gentlemen were elected trustees: H. H. Zaiser, L. C. Simons, Thos. Germo, J. C. Nauman and George Hennings. Frank E. Hunt and S. M. Sivertson compose the balance of the board, their terms of office not having expired.

THIEF RIVER TRADGEDY.

Man Drowns in River While Fishing With a Net.

A man by the name of Crawford was drowned at Thief River Falls Sunday evening while fishing. He was fishing with a net and in some manner it caught in the water and in pulling it out he lost his balance and fell backwards into the river. The scene of the accident was just below the dam and the swift current was more than he could overcome. The body was recovered the next morning. Coroner Belair was notified and went to that city Monday and held an inquest.

It is said the man's home was in Marshall county and it was expected a brother would come and take the remains to their home for buriel.

GAME LAW CHANGES.

Changes in Game Law Which Sportsmen Should Remember.

The legislature, which recently adjourned, made a number of changes in the state game law of which sportsmen should take note. The principal change in the fish laws prohibits the taking of more than twenty-five fish in any one day by one fisherman. Formerly a fisherman was permitted to take fifty fish. The restrictions as to the manner of taking, etc, are practically the same as under the old law. The closed season remains the same.

The most important changes in the laws pertaining to the shooting season limit the number of field game birds which may be killed in one day to fifteen, and acquatic fowl to twenty-five. Not more than forty-five of the former or fifty of the latter shall be found in the possession of one person at one time. No person shall keep birds for a longer period than five days. No persons shall break up the nests of game birds. Hunters are prohibited from entering fields of growing grain or from entering on a farmer's land without permission.

A sportsman wishing to hunt outside of his own county must procure a license from his county auditor for which he must pay the sum of one dollar.

The closed season for muskrat, mink, otter or beaver is from May 1 to November 1 of each year, provided, however, that anyone may kill such animals if the animals are injuring such persons property. This provision is probably intended to permit farmers and others to kill mink when found raiding poultry coops, which these animals frequently do.

SNOW NOT HURTFUL

Manager Sivertson of Milling Co. says Snow would not Hurt Wheat.

Crookston Times: "Two inches of snow over the entire valley at the present time, if accompanied by severely cold weather, would be one of the best things possible for the new crop of grain," said S. M. Sivertson, the Red Lake Falls miller in the city, this morning on his way home from a trip to Nielsville during which he inspected the work done on the farms this spring.

"The valley wheat crop for the year '05 is practically all in the ground at the present time," he said, "and the arrival of a small snow storm would provide the moisture for germination and growth which is at the present time lacking. Barley and oats have not yet been sown in any large quantities but there is still a great abundance of time in which to get both grains into the field. The spring this year I consider as one of the earliest and most satisfactory from all standpoints in a great many years."

Mr. Sivertson gets about the valley about as much as any other individual in the northern section of the state and is in a position to know what he is talking about. Having practically all of the spring wheat seeding done by the 29th of April is an unusual record for this section, however.

STATE ISSUES CHICKEN BOOK.

Expert Tells All About Raising Poultry.

The expert at the experiment farm of the state university has issued a bulletin containing an article on "Poultry Culture in Minnesota," written by Charles S. Greene. It is a booklet of twenty pages, containing much information about poultry raising, houses, incubation, care of chicks, selection of stock, preparing for market and marketing. The author believes that more attention should be paid to poultry raising as a business: He says:

"By far the larger part of the eggs and poultry on our markets at the present time come from the farm where poultry are kept only as a side line. We find these fowls are being kept in houses of every conceivable style and generally receiving very little care from the owners. The eggs and poultry produced in the United States in one year are valued at $281,000,000. Minnesota produces about seven and one-half millions dollars' worth of poultry and eggs in a year, which could easily be doubled if proper attention were given to this branch of farm work. But profit with poultry is gained in exact proportion to the care and thought devoted to the business. There is no luck connected with it any more than in any other branch of farming."

Of the influence of climate he says: "While it is true that poultry will live and thrive in nearly every clime, we and that about 40 degrees north latitude is best adopted to their requirement. We would prefer a colder climate than this rather than warmer. Disease germs are more numerous and seem to develop much faster in a warm than in a cold climate. Eggs laid when the weather is moderately cool are of better quality.

An important element of success is the selection of stock. "One breed is enough for any farmer. There is abundant proof that it will pay every one better to keep pure bred stock than it will to keep mongrels. This is true even if stock is kept solely for market purposes without selling eggs for hatching or stock for breeding purposes. Here at the farm we are breeding white Leghorns, white Wyandottes and barred Plymouth Rocks. The Leghorns are the best layers, and have another advantage in coming to laying maturity at least a month before the other breeds. In Canada 42 per cent of all fowls kept are barred Plymouth Rocks. Nearly every breed or variety has some good qualities."

The principal requirement of a poultry house is that it be "warm, light, dry and well ventilated without drafts."

AN OLD FIRE LADDIE.

Nels Belair Served on St. Paul Fire Department 23 Years.

Joseph Belair returned from St. Paul last week where he was called by the death of his brother, Nels Belair, an old resident of that city.

Nels Belair moved to St. Paul in 1863 and at the time of his death he had served twenty-three years on the fire department. A couple of weeks ago he was operated upon for appendicitis and failed to recover from the ordeal. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his death, besides his brother at this place.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held in that city, the fire department taking part in the fitting services and paying tribute to his long and faithful service. The wife will receive a snug little pension for the remainder of her life as will two of the children who are under sixteen years of age.

There is a growing suspicion that the state university is getting into politics, and that its demands for appropriations are enforced by covert threats of "getting even."—Red Lake Courier.

It is past the suspicion stage. The university through its students and alumni has been in politics for lo, many years, and as a semi-organized club it grows more powerful each day, but it is a natural consequence and we don't see how it is going to be prohibited, even if there were a general desire to do so.—Brown's Valley Tribune.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Injunction Proceedings in County Seat Controversy to be Heard Later.

Yesterday Mayor Duffy and a few of our citizens were at Crookston to take part in the injunction proceedings in the county seat fight. On motion of Attorney Grady Judge Watts postponed the hearing until May 13th, when written arguments will be presented.

Surprised His Friends.

Crookston Times: J. A. Casey, who for the past three years has been manager of the Robertson Lumber Company yards in this city, was married a week ago last Monday in Dubuque, Iowa, to Miss Louise Eberline of that city. They arrived in this city last Wednesday and have been stopping at the Commercial since that time. The matter was kept a secret until today, when the fact leaked out and Mr. Casey is setting up the cigars. His extreme bashfullness was the cause of his secretiveness. Hosts of friends join in extending congratulations. The cigars are yet to come.

Can Cure Rabies At Home.

It may be of interest to some of our readers to know that it is not necessary to go to the east in order to cure rabies, or the bite of a mad dog. The Journal of the American Medical Association of April 22d says: It must be borne in mind that the treatment is not curative, but prophylactic, and that its success is the greater and the more certain the earlier it is instituted in the long period of incubation following the infecting wound, the object being to establish immunity before the development of the symptoms of the disease proper. It has been shown that when the treatment has been begun at once, the disease is invariably aborted, but the supposed necessity for having this done in an institute, often situated at a considerable distance from the patient's home and entailing at times a prohibitive expense, in many instances has prevented the employment of the procedure. It will be interesting, therefore, to know that this necessity no longer exists, and that the Pasteur Institute of the Department of Health of the City of New York, in addition to making antirabic inoculations itself, is prepared to send virus to a distance.

OUR RURAL FRIENDS.

Time is the stuff life's made of.

Strike a good gait—and stick to it.

A narrow minded man is like a narrow-tired wagon. Gets in a rut and stays there.

The farmer is almost the only business man who can regulate his own hours of work—and of play.

A correspondent thinks that there must be money in hens since so much of it has been sunk in the business.

"No man," says Benjamin Franklin, "who can have a piece of land, is poor enough to work in a factory for a master."

Farmers are anxious to breed the hogs that will attain the greatest weight at a given age on a given amount of feed.

Use kerosene freely on the roost and other woodwork of the hen houses, these days. Uncomfortable hens are unprofitable hens.

To get along with harness just ready to fall to pieces, is a poor method of economy in these days of automobiles and trolley cars.

Whether a men expects to sell his farm or not, he should endeavor to bring it to a state where, if it has to be sold, it can be disposed of to advantage, instead of at a sacrifice.

A farmer should be at his very best at forty-five. But how few really are! We learn so slowly how to look out for ourselves. We study our horses and cows and keep them in prime condition, but all the while we are digging down the walls of our own life building. Poor policy.

A fashionable way of deceiving farmers just now is to bring in from the West a stallion worth really in the neighborhood of $1,000, and form a stock company of farmers to buy him at, say $2,500. If farmers want that kind of a horse, the right way is for them to send one of their number to some reliable dealer and buy at what the animal is honestly worth.

It seems singular that 100 hens produce in egg shells about 137 pounds of chalk yearly, and yet not a single pound of that substance or perhaps even an ounce, exists on the farm, or anywhere about the house within the circuit of the hens' feeding ground. But the material is found in the sand, pebble dust, bits of bones and and so forth that they pick up miscellaneously.

One of the experiment stations bought a ton of suspected bran, says an exchange, and found that it contained 1,200 pounds of bran, 300 pounds of plaster, 300 pounds of crushed oat hulls and 200 pounds of sawdust. One ton of good bran will keep a cow 250 days, but a ton of this adulterated bran will keep her only 150 days. Stations do good service when they put farmers on their guard against such practices.

One hundred and twenty young women drew farming homesteads in the recent opening of lands in South Dakota, and a matrimonial rush that resembles the gold rush to California has set in. Men from all parts of the country are offering themselves to the fortunate young women, the majority of them being college graduates from the east which goes to show that a college education does not unfit one for matrimony.

"What plants the man who plants the apple tree?" Well, it seems that the Colorado man who planted a tree bearing coreless apples has planted both fame and fortune. A few of his apples have sold for $15 apiece in London—a rate of some $2,000 a bushel. What a temptation that orchard must be to the boys around Grand Junction! But, after all, the real value is in the power to multiply and reproduce after its kind—a power which would make a single grain of wheat, if there was only one in the world worth more than all the gold in the world.

The King of Italy has assured invitations to an international farmers' conference to be held in May at the beautiful city of Rome, the home of art, sculpture and classic literature. This announcement has a humorous side, but the King has in mind a strong desire to improve the agricultural conditions of his country, and his real ambition is to establish an international chamber of agriculture, which shall contain representatives of all civilized countries and shall do for the farmers what the United States Department of Agriculture does for farmers of America.

A man wanted a ticket to a certain railway station and only had a $2 bill. He took the bill to a pawn shop nd pawned it for $1.50. On his way back to the depot met he a friend to whom he sold the pawn ticket for $1.50. That gave him $3. Now who is out the dollar?

Talk is cheap and sometimes it doesn't seem to count for much. One day we were called a crank and a fool, and also told we got out the best paper in the county, and all not an hour a part. One must have been a roast and the other a jolly. But say, we enjoyed the latter much the best.

When he finally landed on his feet it was tound he had ruined a air of brand new pants and otherwise soiled a new suit of clothes.

Robert Burns' Muse.

Robert Burns, though he had the choice of such works as the Spectator, "Locke on the Human Understanding" and Pope, together with odd plays of Shakespeare, which formed the staple reading of his home, nevertheless owed most to an old collection of songs. "This," he says, "was my vade mecum! I pored over them during my rest or walking to labor, song by song, verse by verse, carefully noting the true, tender and sublime from affectation and fustian. I am convinced I owe to this practice much of my critic craft, such as it is!"—All the Year Round.

Robert Louis Stevenson.

Here is a pen portrait of Robert Louis Stevenson, written by Dr. Alexander H. Japp: "Not so tall probably as he seems at first sight from his extreme thinness, but the pose and air could not be otherwise described than as distinguished. Head of fine type, carried well on the shoulders, and, in walking, with the impression of being a little thrown back; long brown hair, falling from under a broadish brimmed Spanish form of soft felt hat, Rembrandtesque; loose kind of Iverness cape when walking and invariable velvet jacket inside the house."

The Gain From Others.

A man is strong in proportion to the quantity, the quality and the variety of forces which he absorbs from others. He is a power in proportion to the extent of his contact—socially; mentally and morally—with his kind and a weakling just in proportion as he cuts himself off from others.—Success.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Seed Wheat.

According to Dean. W. M. Liggett and Prof. C. P. Bull of the state experiment station, the question of a seed wheat famine in Minnesta depends entirely on securing a proper distribution of the supply of good seed. A bulletin has just been issued from the state experiment station in which it is said that there is enough good seed to sow the 6,500,000 acres of wheat land, provided the supply is properly distributed, and also provided farmers use proper precautions in selecting seed grain from their rusted wheat.

There is plenty of seed in some localities and none in others. The authorities at the experiment station are making efforts to relieve the situation, and farmers who have good seed are asked to advertise the fact, the suggestion being made that they can probably get more than the market price, and at the same time assist in protecting the state's chief product.

There is an idea prevalent among farmers that rust, like smut, is carried from one crop to another by the use of infected seed. This, the authorities assert is not true. Methods have been found for the prevention of smut, but as yet no definite methods have been found for the prevention of rust.

Wheat rust is propagated by spors and from field to field. Precaution is the only way the farmer has combating rust. The authorities claim that all stubble and rubbish which would tend to harbor the spors of this disease should be burned, and crop rotation practiced. After these precautions have been observed and some rust-resistant variety of wheat is planted the farmer will be reasonably sure.

State Fair Races.

The management of the Minnesota state fair has fairly outdone itself in the race program for the feir of 1905, which has been completed and given by Secretary E. W. Randell. The total of purses offered has been increased by $2,000 from last year and reached the handsome amount of $27.650. This is the largest amount yet offered in purses by any western race meeting, whether at a state fair or elsewhere.

The 2:40 class trot is cut and a 2:19 class is inserted while the 2:17 class is made a 2:14. These changes meet the views of horsemen.

Perhaps the most interesting change is the increase for the purse of the 2:09 pace and the 2:10 trot (formerly) 2:12) from $1,000 to $1,500. These are the fastest classes on the program and the increase is intended to draw out a larger field of starters.

The great $5,000 races for Minneapolis and St. Paul days are retained as are the $2,500, 2:35 trot and 3:30 pace introduced last year. The special novelty, however, is the introduction of two colt races, for three-year-olds or under, bred and owned in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and the two Dakotas with purses of $800 for each.

The rules are substantially the same as last year, with the popular provisions for substitution and withdrawal, except in this important particular:

"Horses not standing for money at end of third heat cannot start in fourth or fifth heats."

This is a new provision for Minnesota, but one which is coming in vogue on many Eastern tracks and is said to suit the great majority of horsemen perfectly.

CHANGE OF PLAN BY PRESIDENT

DECIDES TO SHORTEN HIS VACATION AND WILL BREAK CAMP MAY 8.

Hunting Trip Has Been Very Successful—President and Others of His Party Killed Five Bears in a Period of Two Days.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 28.—President Roosevelt will break camp on May 8, a week earlier than he had intended, and will start for Washington at once. The only stops he will make will be at Denver and Chicago, where the dates for his reception have been advanced to meet the new arrangement. Secretary Loeb returned early Thursday from the camp, where he conferred with the president all of Wednesday. He announced upon reaching here that affairs in Washington made it necessary that the president curtail his visit. That there is nothing alarming in the situation is manifested from the fact that the hunt will be continued ten days more, in spite of conditions of governmental affairs, which resulted in the altered plans. The Venezuelan situation, it is believed here, resulted in the order to start home on May 8. There are also some routine but important subjects relating to changes in high public offices in the diplomatic service which the president alone can direct, and taken altogether, it is admitted that while no real emergency exists in the state of foreign relations, it would be better were the president to take up the direction of affairs personally a little earlier than he had planned.

Hunters who are with the president believe he has enough game to satisfy him, and will have more than enough when camp is broken on May 8. The president has taken a keen delight in his outing, and has been so successful that he will not be greatly disappointed in having to shorten it. Of the six bears killed by the hunters thus far, the president has brought down three and Dr. Alexander Lambert the other three. Four bears have been killed by temporary attaches of the party and nearby ranchmen.

Hunt Is Successful.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 26.—President Roosevelt's hunting trip has been crowned with success far beyond his expectations or those of the most sanguine of his guides. Three bears were killed by the party Tuesday and two Monday, one by the president and one by Dr. Lambert. P. B. Stewart, of Colorado Springs, one of the president's hunting companions, arrived here Tuesday night, accompanied by Courier Chapman. They brought the story of the hunt. The killing of the three bears was telephoned to them, and they understood that President Roosevelt brought down two of them, but the details are lacking. The party is almost snowbound in its present location and no attempt will be made to cross the divide. Fifteen feet of snow is on the ground on the other side, and any effort to reach Redstone would be futile.

The bear killed by the president on Monday furnished one of the finest skins ever seen here, according to the taxidermist with whom it has been left for mounting. The bear was of the brown variety, with hair long and uniform color. The animal was shot directly through the heart. After it had been overtaken by the dogs it went up a tree to a position 25 feet high. After the president shot the bear it climbed 20 feet higher and then dropped to the ground.

More Bears Killed.

Glenwood Springs, Col., April 29.—Four bears were killed by the president's party Thursday. All the members participated in the hunt. There was no foundation whatever for a rumor which reached here that the president was ill and did not go on the trail. Dr. Lambert killed the biggest of the four and the president killed two of the animals.

Unique Services.

Glenwood Springs, Col., May 1.—Unique in the history of Colorado was the church service held at the Old Blue schoolhouse on West Divide creek Sunday, attended by President Roosevelt and his hunting party and all the ranchmen and their families for miles around. The members of the congregation stood or sat on the ground or in their conveyances, which were grouped around the building. The sermon by Rev. Mann was of the usual kind. After he had concluded the president spoke for about ten minutes. He expressed his well-known views on good citizenship, the morality of man, patriotism and duty to the home and country. He was cheered heartily throughout his remarks. After the services were concluded he shook hands with every man, woman and child present.

Responsibiltiy Placed.

Princeton, Ind., April 29.—Coroner Hollingsworth returned his verdict Friday in the recent coal mine disaster in which eight men were killed. He holds Roscoe Hedrick and the Princeton Coal company, which owned the mine, responsible. The verdict says that Hedrick was incompetent to prepare the shot which caused the explosion, and the company knew this and is therefore to blame. Harry Targett, who fired the shot and was killed, is also blamed for knowingly firing an illegal shot.

Policy-Holders Safe.

New York, April 29.—H. C. Frick, chairman of the directors' committee investigating the Equitable Life Assurance society, has written a letter to the policy-holders assuring them that the interest of every policy-holder is absolutely safe.

CAICAGO RIOTING GROWS VICIOUS.

CHICAGO TEAMSTER'S STRIKE ASSUMES AN EXCEEDINGLY OMINOUS ASPECT.

Many Strike-Breakers are Brought to City. Many Persons are Hurt in Vicious Rows. The Mayor is Helpless.

Chicago, May 2.—Conditions in the teamsters' strike were worse yesterday than at any preceding time.

The strikers were in a more ugly mood, the rioting was more open and vicious and the attacks on non-union men more frequent and daring.

The chief cause for the increased beligerency on the part of the strikers and their friends is laid to the fact that the Employers' Teaming association yesterday brought 1,500 men into the city to take their places, and 500 more are said to be now on the way and will arrive within twelve hours.

These men will receive the full pay of union men, and it has been guaranteed to them that their positions will be permanent.

Among them are 200 farmer boys from all the surrounding states, who have volunteered their services and sought positions are drivers.

A new feature appeared in the strike yesterday and it will be in full evidence today whenever a wagon of the Employers' Teaming company goes through the streets.

This feature will be a Winchester rifle.

It will be carried on all wagons of the Employers' Teaming Association in open view.

President Shea of the teamsters' union, said last night that if the Employers' Teaming Association armed its drivers with Winchesters he would do the same with the union drivers. "If it is legal for the non-union men to arm themselves," he said, "it is certainly not illegal for us to do likewiee."

The city council last night passed a resolution directing the chief of police to enforce that portion of the state statutes which prohibits the carrying of rifles in the streets by unauthorized persons.

The wholesale grocers and coffee and spice houses were more or less completely tied up yesterday by the spreading of the teamsters walkout.

The union labor leaders who were indicted last Saturday in connection with the strike appeared at the criminal court building and gave bonds in in the sum of $1,500 each.

Strikebreaker Farley is not in Chicago, as reported.

CAPTURED.

Man Accused of Murder at Eveleth is Captured with His Pal at Farm House.

Duluth, Minn., May 2.—Sheriff William J. Bates and two deputies early Monday morning captured Peter Lenich, accused of the murder of Peter Koceran at Eveleth on the night of April 23.

With him was captured Luj Movinesk, who is charged with complicity in the crime.

Lenich was arrainged, and charged with murder in the first degree. The prisoners were half famished when they arrived at the farm house of Edward Telson on the Miller Trunk road Saturday night.

Nelson spotted the men as the fugitives from Eveleth. He dispatched a neighbor's boy on hrseback, fifteen miles to Albon station on the Messabe road with a message to Sheriff Bates.

He then stood guard over the suspicious guests with a rifle until Sheriff Bates and his deputies arived at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Movinesk has a knife wound in his side, received, it is supposed, during the fight that ended in the tragedy.

Firebugs.

Minneapolis, May 2.—The firebug seems to be getting busy again in the sawmill district. About 6 o'clock Sunday morning fire was discovered under the log platform of the Itasca sawmill, Twenty-seventh avenue north and the river, and by the time the department arrived was threatening the mill. The blaze was soon under control, however, although it was not entirely extinguished for nearly two hours. The damage done was slight and is fully covered by insurance.

Burglar Shoots.

Minneapolis, May 1.—A desperate burglar caught in the act of robbing Alex Johnson's saloon, 800 Fourth street south, between 2 and 3 o'clock Monday morning by Patrolman Frank Zalusky, fired five shots at the policeman as the latter was trying to intercept him at the back door of the saloon. He then succeeded in making his escape.

Hilborn, in the first contest between these institutions, the visitors getting the decision by a vote of two to one. Carleton having the negative of the subject, which was, "Resolved, That a system of bank notes based on the general assets of the bank is preferable to a system based on government bonds."

THE BELTRAMI INVESTIGATION.

Governor Johnson's Democratic examiner reports flagrant abuses in Beltrami county. From the statements of the Bemidji papers, he is trying to make a mountain out of a molehill with poor success.—Austin Transcript.

It is hardly fair that Bro. Belden should venture a conclusion in advance of the investigation. Charges of serious import have been preferred by the public examiner, and Governor Johnson has complied with the requirements of law by appointing three commissioners of unquestioned ability to hear the evidence and investigate the charges made. If the Beltrami officials are innocent they will not be made to suffer, but if they are guilty there is no political influence in the state strong enough to secure a "whitewash."

The cry of the apologists for the officials under suspicion that it is a case of "Democratic persecution" falls flat in view of the fact that the investigating commission is not Democratic. One of the commissioners—Mr. Van Dyke—is a Democrat; another—Mr. Torrance—is a Republican; the third—Mr. McIntyre—is an independent, one whose political activities have always been free from partisan bias. All of them are fair-minded and capable. There can be no politics in the investigation. It is merely a question whether or no the officials of Beltrami county have violated their oaths of office.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Three constitutional amendments will be submitted to the people of Minnesota for ratification in 1906. The most important by far is the wide-open tax amendment to allow any form of taxation so long as it is uniform upon the same class of subjects and levied and collected for public purposes.

Another amendment important to the entire state is that proposed by the joint legislative road and bridge committee to increase the maximum state tax that may be levied for the state road and bridge fund from 1-20 to 1-4 of a mill. The road and bridge fund now amounts to about $70,000 a year, about $42,000 being raised by the 1-20 of a mill tax. The constitutional amendment will increase the miximum amount that may be raised by taxation to $210,000.

There probably will be some question as to the constitutionality of the method of adopting the amendments proposed by Representative Alvin Rowe of St. Paul, which allows farmers and gardeners to peddle produce grown by them without securing a license from any municipality. The measure provides that the amendment shall be declared adopted if it receives the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast upon it at the next general election. The state constitution, however, requires a constitutional amendment to receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election before it shall become effective.

It appears that George A. Ralph of Crookston will not be state drainage engineer after all. The public examiner's bureau called the attention of Governor Johnson to some ugly flaws in Mr. Ralph's record as an engineer, and the governor will probably request that Mr. Ralph quietly withdraw his application for the place. If the other members of the drainage board insist upon Ralph's retention some unpleasant disclosures are promised, and it is not at all likely the Crookston man courts a second investigation, especially since political pressure cannot suppress examination under the present administration. Mr. Ralph's insistence during the campaign that the drainage cause would suffer if the Democrats captured the governor's office is now more readily understood. The engineer, however, will suffer more than the drainage cause.

Editor Miller of the St. Peter Free Press will be hailed for les majeste first thing he knows. Hear him: "Isn't it about time for the state railroad and warehouse commission to be up and doing? Either it is the worst maligned commission ever appointed or the most successful in hiding its good deeds. The people of this state are not all from Missouri but they like to be shown just the same."

ELECTIVE LIFE POLICY

Accident, total blindness or deafness, insanity, loss of both arms or both legs, paralysis. apoplexy, or some lingering incurable or constitutional disease may incapacitate men from earning a livelihood, and oblige them to be dependents or to forfeit their ordinary life insurance. The Elective Life feature protects the insured in event of of such contingencies.

John F. Naughtin, Minnesota Manager of the FIDELITY MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO., of Philidelphia, will soon be in Red Lake Falls, and will be glad to explain this plan of life insurance.

Minneapolis Office 704-705 Andrus Building.

The St. Paul Globe's existance ceased with Sunday's issue, and the state capital now has but one morning newspaper. It is reported on good authority that William R. Hearst offered $160,000 for the Globe's press franchise, and that Mr. Hill refused it, although the franchise was not worth a penny twenty-four hours after the Globe's death. Mr. Hill is probably wealthy enough to yield to sentiment in a matter of this kind, and then the fact that he is reputed to own a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press may have something to do with it.

Andrew Carniege has the right idea upon many subjects. This is what he says relative to the marriage of his niece to a poor man: "My niece was married to Mr. Heaver in New York about a year ago." Mr. Heaver was hired as a riding teacher in her family. The family has no objection to the match. Mr. Heaver is an honest, upright young man. I would rather Nancy had married a poor honest man than a worthless duke. We want no rich men in the family."

The Southern Minnesota Editorial association will meet at Jackson June 2. The senior editor of The Courier is down for a paper on "Should a Newspaper Tell the truth of a Political Opponent?" At the banquet in the evening Governor Johnson is scheduled for a toast to "Minnesota Newspapers," and Chas. C. Eastman of the Wadena Pioneer-Journal will eulogize that patient friend of the editor, "The Advertiser."

The Brown's Valley Tribune says there is going to be quite a demand for Minnesota farm lands this season. Canada is not what it is cracked up to be, and the tide is receding. Thus early there is quite considerable inquiry for farm lands in western Minnesota.

Congressman McCleary is reported as saying that the mileage graft was approved by every congressman who is not a coward. This audacious utterance is supposed to strengthen the Second district representative with his farmer constituents.

The Wadena Tribune, Billy Verity's paper, professes to believe that Ed. Claggett was not responsible for the promulgation of the infamous story about Governor Johnson during the campaign. Such innocence is really heartrending.

The state labor department will soon establish an employment bureau in connection with that office. This new departure was born of Commissioner Williams' fertile brain, and will result in great benefit to employer and employee.

Frank Eddy doesn't pretend to be up on religious ethics but he thinks that the more money Rockfeller gives for missionary purposes the less he will have to extend his trust operations.

Governor Johnson goes to the other corner of the state next Fourth of July. He will orate at Lawrence. Grand Marais and Caledonia ought to put in their requisitions.

Fortunately Bro. Eastman of the Thief River News is not obliged to make affidavit as to the truth and veracity of his editorial utterances on the county-seat question.

Julius Schmahl of the Redwood Gazette is alleged to be an aspirant for secretary of state. Julius will give the other fellows a lively chase for the place.

The American people are beginning to realize that the presidency does not amount to much in comparison with the senate.

The disappearence of H. Gassaway Davis from the public view seems to have been accomplished without excitement.

A Great many people are more anxious to get the money they earn than to earn the money they get.

Political influence doesn't secure immunity from graft under the Johnson administration.

Lots of good people want to abolish the senates—national and state. But how?

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Albert Lea Standard: The stateman whose death occurred forty years ago this month had a clearer vision than anyone of his time. Listen to the prophet who looked down the vista of our national life and saw its future crisis. Following the close of the war Lincoln wrote to his friend W. R. Ellis and among other things he said: "This has indeed been a trying hour for the republic, but I see in the near future a crisis arising that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned, and an era of corruption in high places. will follow; and the money power will continue its sway by appealing to the prejudices of the people, until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed. I feel more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war. God grant that my fears may prove groundless." This letter was written early in 1865.

Windom Reporter: It was a decidedly dirty thing in Republicans to insist upon the appointment of a man as superintendent of the new capitol so distasteful to Gov. Johnson as that man Claggett. Someway Claggett seems to have been connected with the St. Peter scandal last fall in which an effort was made to smirch Gov. Johnson, and no Republican can justly censure the governor for making a fight against Claggett. The Reporter is glad to see Johnson win out in the fight, and hopes the Republicans will learn better than to again insult his excellency, We can shake hands with the governor over the pclitcal chasm which divides us and congratulate him for his success in this instance.

The Stillwater Messenger has had an experience that is unique in newspaper annals. A gentleman called voluntarily at the office and paid up a delinquency rnnning back to 1870, and that is not all. In addition thereto he paid a year's subscription in advance! The usual experience of newspaper men is that when you have accomodated a subscriber by waiting for several years subscription, he digs up grudingly and repays you for the accommodation you have accorded him by stopping the paper. But in the simple life of the editor acts like that of the Stillwater gentleman shine as a star of the greatest magnitude.

THE BIG STORE

Theo. LaBissoniere, Prop.

There were two or three delegations here from the new reservation country Monday to see the Commissioners in regard to the formation of new school districts. It is a difficult job to satisfy all as to the boundary lines of these new districts, as one crowd wanted one thing while another delegation would ask for something else. The board succeeded in satisfying most of them.

A looking glass in one of the LaBissoniere store display windows has caused considerable merriment this week. It is so arranged that a person standing in front of the Kaufer barber shop is made to look as though standing two or three doors farther north. All sorts of explanations have been offered by different persons as to the cause of the de- and some will be surprised to learn that an innocent looking mirror is the "wholething."

A St. Paul man has constructed a contrivance for the purpose of preventing cyclones. It consists of a steel tower and electric apparatus which extends up above the ground about 100 feet. SSS FOR THE BLOOD

"S. S. S. for the blood" has grown to be a household saying. When the blood is out of order, or needs treatment from any cause, this great remedy is the first thought of and used by thousands of people all over the country, because it is superior to all other blood purifiers. It is a purely vegetable remedy, and while it penetrates the circulation and forces out all poison and morbid matter, it also builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. During the winter months the natural avenues of bodily waste have become dull and weak and failed to perform their full duty, the blood has been sluggish and an extra amount of poisons and waste matters have accumulated in the system and been absorbed by it. With the coming of Spring and warm weather the blood is aroused and stirred to quicker action and in its effort to throw off these acids and poisons the skin suffers. Boils, pimples, blotches, rashes and eruptions break out and continue until the blood is cleansed and made pure. S. S. S. is the ideal remedy for this condition; it clears the blood of all impurities, makes it rich and strong and these skin troubles pass away. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases of the blood are cured by S. S. S. Book on the blood and any advice desired, free of charge.

I was suffering from impure blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing flesh, and an all-gone tired feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S. and my blood was restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite returned, I increased in weight, that "tired feeling" left and I was again myself.

POLLY'S CAREER

By Izola Forrester

Copyright, 1904, by Izola Forrester

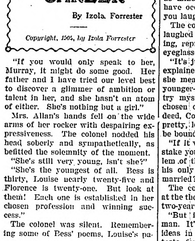
"If you would only speak to her, Murray, it might do some good. Her father and I have tried our level best to discover a glimmer of ambition or talent in her, and she hasn't an atom of either. She's nothing but a girl."

Mrs. Allan's hands fell on the wide arms of her rocker with despairing expressiveness. The colonel nodded his head soberly and sympathetically, as befitted the solemnity of the moment.

"She's still very young, isn't she?"

"She's the youngest of all. Bess is thirty, Louise nearly twenty-five and Florence is twenty-one. But look at them! Each one is established in her chosen profession and winning success."

The colonel was silent. Remembering some of Bess' poems, Louise's patients and Florence's copies of old masters, he did not feel that either affirmation or denial was called for.



"THAT'S JUST WHAT I DO FEEL, COLONEL HARTWELL—A SPECIAL PREDILECTION."

"And at eighteen they had all decided definitely what they wanted to make of themselves, while Polly—Murray Hartwell, when I asked Polly this morning if she had even the vaguest sort of an inclination toward any occupation in the world, what do you suppose she said? She told me that she hoped some day to be the mother of as many charming daughters as I had, and if they were half as much worry as mine were she thought she would have occupation enough. Murray, are you laughing at me?"

The colonel leaned his head back and laughed heartily in spite of the accusing, reproachful stare of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"It's just like Polly to say that," he explained. "And, by Jove, I believe she means it too. If I were a little younger—say thirty years—I'd have a try myself and encourage her in her chosen career. By Jove, I would indeed, Cousin Sarah! Polly's a mighty pretty, level headed little girl, and I'll be bound she's a good cook."

"If it were Jack's career that was at stake you wouldn't turn a serious problem of this kind into a joke. What if his only ambition in life were to be married?"

The colonel's face sobered suddenly at the thought. Jack—debonair, twenty-two-year-old Jack—married!

"But it's absurd, Sarah. Jack's a man. It's different. One expects such ideas in a girl's head, the same as a taste for ice cream or rose color or matinees. But Jack is ambitious and talented and well started in his profession now. By Jove, I'm proud of the boy—I am indeed. He's a fine fellow. Takes after his dad. But married?" The colonel leaned back his head and took another laugh.

"Why, if the young rascal even suggested such a thing I'd fire him back to college or send him down to the mines to work off an attack of romance on the brain."

"And yet you censure me for desiring something better for Polly than mere marriage." Mrs. Allan's tone was aggrieved. "I thought surely that you would understand and sympathize with me, Murray, and your influence might possibly direct Polly into making some sort of a choice."

"Wait a minute." The colonel rose from his deep chair near the fire. There was the slam of the front door and the sound of quick, light steps in the hall.

"Come and get warm before you go home, Jack," called a voice. "There's a fire here in the study."

The long, dark green portieres parted, and Polly stood in the doorway, tall, blithely youthful and pink as a rosebud where the wind had teased the color to her face. There were snowflakes clinging to her big brown hat and to her furs, but she was merry eyed and happy, suspiciously happy, the two in the study thought.

"Hello, dad." Jack's face looked over her shoulder. "Awful glad you're here. We've been for a trot along the drive, Polly and I."

"I thought that you were upstairs studying with Bess, Polly," said Mrs. Allan, "but as long as you are here you may come in. The colonel and I have been talking of your career."

Polly drew off her long brown fur stole and trailed it meditatively along the edge of the rug at her feet. The colonel coughed and realized that he was expected to speak on the subject. He beamed down upon Polly paternally. He had always liked Polly somewhat better, privately, than Cousin Sarah's more talented daughters.

"Of course you are too young to understand your own capabilities and—er—and any lurking talents which you may possess, Polly, but you must not give up or be discouraged. Some of the great geniuses of the world only discovered their gifts at middle age."

"Well, it's a pity some of them didn't die young," said Jack cheerfully.

The colonel ignored the interruption and looked at Polly. He felt the approving attention of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"But if you can consider the question of a career or should feel any special predilection"—

"That's it." Polly nodded her head until the snowflakes scattered in raindrops from her hat. "That's just what I do feel, Colonel Hartwell—a special predilection."

"For what, in the name of sense, Polly Allan?" Mrs. Allan leaned forward in amazement.

"For Jack." Polly smiled assuredly, and slipped her hand into the one that sought it. "He's going to be the object of my career."

There was a tense silence. The colonel and Mrs. Allan looked back at him with conflicting sensations. The paramount one was a small but solid sense of amused satisfaction in the colonel's utter discomfiture.

"Shall it be college or the mines, Murray?" she asked.

The colonel squared his shoulders. He had met honorable defeat before and could face it like a soldier and a gentleman.

"Neither, madam, neither. Seeing, as it is, Polly and her career are at stake, I give my consent and wish her all success."

Jack stretched out his disengaged hand.

"You blessed old dad!" he said, and the colonel had the honors of war.

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sours on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia claims the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a package from your dealer for 25c. If he does not keep it, send the money to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Wanted a Big "Bar'l."

A newspaper tells the story of a storekeeper in a country town who, after twice telling a young man that he had no "onions," reverted to the matter after the customer had gone. "I declare," he said, "I do' know but what it was ingans that feller wanted!"

A similar tale is told by a young woman who, being in search of a barrel to catch rain water, applied to the village innkeeper.

"Have you a hogshead that I could buy?" she said, with the careful enunciation that she had learned in childhood.

The innkeeper shook his head.

"Not any sort of hogshead?" she asked, with gentle persistence. "I thought you must have a good many."

"I wonder what set you thinking that?" said the landlord, looking as if he considered her demented. "I haven't kep' a single hog for ten years back, and when I did keep 'em I never had any call for their heads."

It was the young woman's turn to look horrified.

"Oh, I don't know anything about hogs' heads!" she said excitedly. "I want a hogshead, an old molasses hogshead or something."

The landlord looked at her, and light dawned at last.

"I believe you mean you want a hugshud," he said, smiling broadly. "You step this way and take your choice of what I've got."

A Very Funny Joke.

"The head of our firm had a trying experience one Fourth of July," said a commercial man. "He thought he would play a funny joke on his family, so a day or so before the holiday he bought one of those candy boxes made in imitation of a cannon firecracker. He secreted this in the pantry, where he thought it would be safe.

"But his little son, about eight years old, discovered the firecracker and also discovered that it was filled with candy. He helped himself to the contents and finally, finding the box empty, he made way with it and substituted a real cannon cracker.

"Fourth of July came and the head of the family, smiling broadly, came downstairs and placed his big firecracker in the middle of the breakfast table. Then, regardless of his wife's expostulations, he touched a match to the fuse, never thinking but what it was the candy box on the table.

"His son and heir astutely vanished from the scene about this time. In about thirty seconds there was an explosion that wrecked a once happy breakfast table, and one hour later the worst spanked boy in Detroit had sobbingly confessed to an irate father why the joke had failed."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Old Time Dentistry.

In the early days of dentistry a hickory plug was put into the cavity to fill the space where a tooth ought to be. This plug had to be gently pounded into its desired position. Old Judge Peckham was somewhat addicted to strong language, and when the dentist began his work the judge indulged in some classic comment. As the tapping of the plug continued he threw all dignity to the four winds of heaven, and his language became decidedly "more forcible than elegant." When, however, he arose from the chair, after what seemed to him an interminable period of agony, he pulled out all the stops in his vocabulary for a grand climax. The impression on his listener seems to have been deep and lasting. As the judge passed out the dentist grimly remarked to a waiting patient:

"Wasn't it beautiful? It wasn't really necessary to pound half so long, but I did so enjoy his inflection that I almost pounded the hickory plug into splinters. Wonderful command of language the judge has!"—National Magazine.

As illustrating a difference in characteristics it is officially noted that twice as many people in Scotland as in Ireland choose to go to prison for minor offenses rather than pay a fine. In Ireland they pay the fine.

Wild Animals.

Zoologists say that all known species of wild animals are gradually decreasing in size.

Trees in Iceland.

Iceland seems to be hardly as destitute of trees as some suppose, an old idea being that it possesses only a single tree. An investigation shows that the island really contains woods having various trees of considerable size and that the climate is not unfavorable to tree growth.

In France a cheese seller is as familiar a sight on city streets as a fruit man is in our cities.

In England some centuries ago if an ordinary workman without permission moved from one parish to another in search of work or better wages he was branded with a hot iron.

"Fourteenth Guest" Agency.

There is a most curious agency in Paris whose business it is to supply the fourteenth guest. Parisians, like some other people, have a superstitious objection to dinner parties of thirteen, and this agency undertakes to supply at short notice a lady or gentleman "warranted to give satisfaction."

The Book of Job.

The Book of Job is believed to be the most ancient literary work in existence. It is known to have been written prior to the Pentateuch and prior to the promulgation of the law.

Mexico is credited with being at the head of the Latin-American countries in the matter of letters. Besides possessing the oldest organs of Spanish-American journalism, it is said to have in active existence the first library established in America, which is now at least 300 years old.

Pare and grate eight large potatoes, cut in an onion, beat in four eggs, add a teaspoonful of salt, mix with two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, add and mix well. Fry in a hot skillet.

Bamboos Grow Best at Night.

The growth of the giant bamboos of the East Indies is so rapid that a difference in the rate of increase between day and night can be observed. The growth is more rapid at night, because then the air is more charged with moisture than in the daytime.

The First Typewriter.

The first typewriter was received by the public with suspicion. It seemed subversive of existing conditions. A reporter who took one into a courtroom first proved its real worth.

Autumn Leaves.

It is popularly believed that autumn leaves assume their brilliant hues when touched by the frosts. This is an error. Autumn leaves turn red and yellow and brown and intermediate tones because that is the natural way for leaves to ripen.

Gaboriau's Visitors.

Gaboriau was troubled with visitors, and of those he desired never to see again he suspended photos in his servants' room for guidance. Once an author called. The servants ran to consult the cartes and, being puzzled, asked the visitor to smile, which being complied with he was informed determinedly, "Master is not at home."

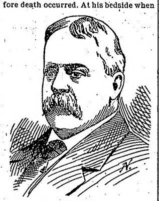
GEN. FITZHUGH LEE SUDDENLY DIES

FAMOUS SOLDIER EXPIRES IN A HOSPITAL IN CITY OF WASHINGTON.

He Is Stricken with Apoplexy on Train En Route from Boston to the Capital—Family Fails to Reach His Bedside—His Career.

Washington, April 29.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, died at the Providence hospital in this city at 11:20 o'clock Friday night, as the result of an attack of apoplexy and paralysis with which he was stricken early Friday morning while traveling by rail from Boston to Washington. A pathetic feature was the fact that no member of his immediate family, consisting of his wife and five children, was able to reach the city before death occurred. At his bedside when he died were his brother, Daniel Lee, and Drs. Edie and Kean. The end came quite suddenly and was without pain.



Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

The Attack.

Gen. Lee was stricken with apoplexy, the entire left side being affected, at three o'clock Friday morning. He was on a train en route from Boston to Washington. The train had just left the Harlem river when the stroke came. Two physicians were summoned and Gen. Lee remained on board the train while it was transferred by float to Jersey City and proceeded to Washington. When the train arrived here the patient was removed to the Providence hospital. Gen. Lee's attack is attributed largely to his activity in behalf of the military and naval review, which is to be held in the vicinity of Jamestown, Va. His heart and soul have been in the work and he labored zealously to make it a success.

His Career.

Gen. Lee was a nephew of the famous Gen. Robert E. Lee, commander-in-chief of the confederate army. In Washington he was well and popularly known, and his appearance on public occasions always was the signal for outbursts of applause from hosts of admiring friends. Gen. Lee's record includes an honorable service in the cavalry branch of the army of the United States up to the time of the civil war, years of active service in the confederate army and the filling of important federal and state positions since that time, including the governorship of Virginia, the presidency of the Pittsburg & Virginia railroad, the collectorship of internal revenue for the Lynchburg district, and the consul generalship at Havana. Following his honorable discharge from the volunteer army on March 2, 1901, Gen. Lee was appointed to the regular army February 11, 1901, with the rank of brigadier general, and with this rank he was retired in the March following.

Against Trusts.

Lansing, Mich., April 27.—The lower house of the Michigan legislature on Tuesday passed unanimously the Bland anti-trust bill. It defines and declares illegal all corporations which aim at the monopoly of any business, trade, avocation of profession, and nullifies any agreement binding individuals not to engage in a certain occupation.

DEBTS ARE ENORMOUS.

Defaulting Ex-President of Milwaukee Bank Said to Have Liabilities of $3,277,000.

Milwaukee, April 28.—The latest step in the career of Frank G. Bigelow, the former bank president who defaulted in the sum of $1,000,000, is the filing of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy. The revised schedules show a total liability on the part of Mr. Bigelow of $3,277,000, of which $1,975,000 is wholly or in part secured. Of the remainder, $1,100,000 is a secondary liability on notes and bills discounted, in which Bigelow figures as indorser.

The balance, $192,000, represents unsecured loans, the largest one being an indebtedness of $100,000 to the Broadhead estate, of which Bigelow was executor.

The assets of the banker are estimated at $1.849,800, against which a homestead exemption of $5,000 is placed. The rest of the assets consist chiefly of stock in various industrial and other enterprises and 1.600 acres of coal land in Huerfano county, Colorado, valued at $160,000. The schedule states that he has no cash on hand.

Late Tuesday Judge Landis appointed the Wisconsin Trust and Security company receiver of the bankrupt estate of Frank G. Bigelow.

Milwaukee, May 1.—Fred Vogel, Jr., was Saturday elected president of the First national bank of this city, to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Frank C. Bigelow, the defaulting president. Mr. Vogel is one of the wealthiest business men in Milwaukee and has long been a director of the bank.

BIG SUM FOR COLLEGES.

Daniel K. Pearsons, Chicago Philanthropist, Donates $135,000 to Five Southern Institutions.

Chicago, April 28.—Dr. Daniel K. Pearsons, wealthy capitalist, well-known philanthropist, and former alderman from the First ward, Thursday made gifts amounting to $135,000 to five southern colleges. At the time he rejected the requests of some 400 institutions from various parts of the country. The recipients are: Guilford college, Greensboro, N. C., $25,000; Piedmont college, Demorest, Ga., $25,000; Washington college, Tennessee, $25,000; Grant university, Chattanooga, Tenn., $50,000; West Virginia seminary, Morgantown, W. Va., $10,000.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Milwaukee, April 28.—Fire Thursday gutted the north half of the five-story structure of the Hansen Empire Fur company, on East Water street, and badly damaged the stock in the piano warerooms of William Rehlfing & Sons, occupying the south half of the building, causing a combined loss estimated at $300,000.

Death of a Philanthropist.

Monmouth, Ill., May 1.—William P. Presley, 94 years old, a philanthropist, is dead. He founded the Warren county library of Monmouth, and endowed the chair of chemistry and physics at Monmouth college, and the Presley memorial school for girls at the Presbyterian mission at Asyut, Egypt.

MINERS MEET DEATH.

Twelve Killed by Explosion Near Dubois, Pa.—Ten Dashed to Pieces at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Dubois, Pa., April 29.—An explosion, the exact nature of which is as yet unexplained, occurred in the Eleanora shaft near this city, Thursday night. Twelve were killed and one had both legs and both arms broken. He will probably die. An examination of the bodies as they were laid on the floor of the little building near the shaft indicated that death had come instantly. Those that had the black dust washed from their bodies showed evidences of having been burned, scarlet spots showing all over their bodies. Their clothing tears as though it were made of paper.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 27.—Ten miners were instantly crushed to death Wednesday at the Conyngham mine of the Delaware & Hudson company, located in the northern part of this city. The men were being lowered into the mine, and when 350 feet from the surface the rope broke and the cage fell to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 400 feet.

A rescuing party was at once organized, and they found the bodies of the men in the sump at the bottom of the shaft beneath a mass of debris. They were terribly mangled. Most of the victims lived in the vicinity of the mine, and when the rescuers brought the crushed forms to the surface a large crowd was in waiting. The grief of the relatives of the dead was heart-rending.

Wilburton, Okla., May 1.—Thirteen miners were entombed and probably killed by an explosion at 1:20 Sunday morning in the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Coal company's mine No. 19, four miles west of here. There is little prospect of their bodies being recovered for several days. It is the universal opinion of experienced miners that all the men are dead. Foreman Steiner was killed at the bottom of the shaft. He had returned to the surface a few minutes before the explosion to look after Bud Cole, a negro belonging to the preceding shift, whose leg had been cut off by a trip. He had, according to the engineer, barely reached the bottom of the shaft when the explosion occurred. The heels of his shoes were torn off and thrown to the top of the shaft.

A DEADLY TORNADO.

City of Laredo, Tex., and Vicinity Swept by Fierce Wind—Twenty-One Lives Lost.

Laredo, Tex., via Bermuda, Tex., May 1.—Twenty-one persons were killed and scores injured in Laredo and New Laredo by a tornado which tore through this vicinity late Friday night. Rumors of others killed in places outside Laredo are heard. The property damage is large. Five of the dead are members of one family, and were employed on the ranch of George Woodman. They were crushed to death by the falling in of the heavy walls of the adobe house which they occupied. The other victims met their fate in a like manner. The entire town has suffered more or less from the storm. Trees, fences, telegraph and telephone poles, roofs, chimneys, walls and debris of all kinds strew the streets. Laredo is a city of 15,000 inhabitants, the census of 1900 giving it 13,429. It is located on the Rio Grande river, on the Mexican border, in the southern part of the state, just opposite Nuevo Laredo, Mex.

CARNEGIE'S LATEST GIFT.

Establishes Fund of $10,000,000 to Care for Wornout College Professors.

New York, April 28.—A gift of $10,000,000 by Andrew Carnegie, to provide annuities for college professors who are not able to continue in active service, was announced Thursday by Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank of New York. Professors in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland will share in the distribution of the income of the fund. United States Steel Corporation five per cent. mortgage bonds for $10,000,000 have been transferred to a board of trustees and steps will be taken at once to organize a corporation to receive the donation. Dr. Pritchett, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Mr. Vanderlip have been selected by Mr. Carnegie to obtain data on the subject, to be presented at the first meeting of the board of trustees, which will take place on November 15.

Bowen Ordered Home.

Washington, May 1.—Secretary Taft Saturday received instructions from the president to call Minister Bowen, now at Caracas, to Washington, also, to send Mr. Russell, now minister to Colombia, to Caracas, and Mr. Barrett, now minister at Panama, to Colombia. It is stated that if Mr. Bowen's action relative to certain charges affecting Assistant Secretary Loomis are not subject to criticism, it is the president's purpose to send him as minister to Chili and then probably as ambassador to Brazil.

Bribe-Takers Sentenced.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 1.—Carey P. Bissell, John T. Donovan, Adrian Schriver and Ryner Stonehouse, former city officials, who had pleaded guilty to accepting bribes in connection with the Lake Michigan water scandal, were fined in sums ranging from $100 to $500 by Judge Newnham as his last act before retiring from the bench. All the men paid their fines.

Japs Defeated.

St. Petersburg, May 1.—Gen. Linevitch in a message to Emperor Nicholas says: "Two Russian forces on the night of April 29 simultaneously attacked the Japanese near the town of Tunghusiang, driving them from five consecutive positions and occupying Tunghusiang."

Good or Bad Roads.

After dragging through the mud or bumping in the holes after the mud has dried up on some of our roads—says the Princeton Union, one is moved to say amen to the following from the Mankato Free Press: "The difference between good and bad roads is often equivalent to the difference between profit and loss. Good roads have a money value to farmers as well as a political and social value, and leaving out convenience, comfort, social and refined influences which good roads enhance, and looking at them only from the 'almighty dollar' side, they are found to pay handsome dividends each year."

The farmer is not the only man for which the good road has a money value. Good roads leading into a town have a greater money value to the merchant than to the farmer. Everything else being equal the farmer will haul his produce to and do his trading in, the town which has the best roads, leading to it. In fact he will go a little further and accept a little less for his produce if he can have good road over which travel.

The World's Greatest Cities.

The relations of the world's five greatest cities is changing rapidly, but American cities seem to grow the fastest. Berlin is growing much faster than Paris so that either Chicago or Berlin will soon supplant Paris as the third largest city. Our golden grain belt beer already stands among the best if it is not the best home tonic ever brewed. This delicious beer is another testimonial to American skill and care in manufacturing. A Sad, But True Story.

Ten years ago a farmer put his initials on a dollar, went down town and spent it with a merchant. Before the year was out he got the dollar back. Four times in six years the dollar came back to him for produce, and three times he heard of it in the pockets of his neighbors. The last time he got it he sent it to a mail order house. He has not seen the dollar since and never will. That dollar will never pay any more school or road tax for him, will never build up or brighten the homes of the community. He sent it entirely out of the circle of usefulness to himself. —Estherville Democrat.

The Anti-Cigarette Laws.

In Indiana smokers who are found with cigarettes in their possession are arrested and punished by a fine big enough to equal the cost of several thousand cigarettes. In Wisconsin an equally drastic law will soon go into effect. In Nebraska men who manufacture or sell cigarettes or cigarette papers will be punishable with a fine of from $50 to $100. In other states laws forbidding the sale of cigarettes to minors have been passed. All this is the result of one season's anti-cigarette crusade. And Michigan and Illionis, in both of which states cigarette prohibition bills are pending, are yet to be heard from.

It does more than that.

Gloria Lung Balsam not only removes the irritation but it heals the throat and aids nature in rebuilding and restoring to health the inflamed organs of speech and breathing. It is made of healing balms and is best for children. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Caught the Coal Man.

A rather amusing incident it is reported occurred in a county not much farther away than Faribault, where a farmer got a little suspicious as to the weight of a coal dealer. So some farmers got up a job on him. While some of them kept him busy talking another drove in and said he would like to get about five hundred pounds of coal, but, that if he was busy, he could load it himself. The wagon was weighed, and the farmer went into the yard, pretending to be loading the coal. He had a triple box on his wagon. Came back, drove on the scales, the dealer weighed it, and reported 610 pounds. The farmer said he thought he was mistaken and that the dealer should weigh it again. He weighed it again and pronounced it 610 pounds without a doubt. The farmer told him he had certainly made a mistake. The dealer insisted he was right. Finally the farmer asked him to take a look in the wagon. So the dealer stepped upon the wheel and looked into the box,—and there was not a pound of coal!

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tubs. When this tube is Inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Slaves of the Orient.

"In Zanzibar and Pemba slaves are very slow to take advantage of the regulations that give them the right to claim their freedom," says a traveler. "They realize that so long as they are well used their position is superior to that of the man whose freedom is his sole asset. I have found the same attitude in north Africa. From Morocco to Tripoli one sees most of the slaves well content and flourishing. The famine, the locusts, the drought and the tax collector have no terror for them. Work keeps them healthy, they have enough to eat and drink, and the future has no meaning at all. There is promotion, there are confidential missions to governors and friends that elevate a slave, if only in the eyes of his fellows, and there is always a chance of manumission when the owner dies and wishes to have some good deeds recorded in the books of Islam's recording angels. The sorry truth of the matter is that slaves under Mohammedan rule are much better off than they ever were under the rule of white men in America and elsewhere."

The Permanent Novel.

"The novel that has inherent and permanent value that will secure for it a place in literature," said a well known author a few days ago, "rarely exceeds an edition of ten or fifteen thousand copies, and more often the limit is 5,000, while the one that is ephemeral, but catches the public fancy, may have a sale of fifty or a hundred thousand. Books of the latter class put money into the pockets of both author and publisher, but it does not come from the most discriminating readers. Of the class in question the field is limited, and, while they establish the reputation and permanent value of the really literary production, they are not included in the clientele of the author who is willing to sacrifice quality and style to increase his revenues from royalties. The novel that attains a wide but brief popularity does not appeal to the literary class."

Farmers' Trust.

The farmers of the western part of Winona county have organized a local union of the Society of Equity with the following officers: President, C. L. Blair; vice president, Timothy Daly; secretary, O. P. Boysen; treasurer, Charles Rabben.

The object of this society which is national in its scope, is to regulate the prices of farm products according to demand and not permit them to be fixed by the arbitrary rulings of speculators. It is probable that the farmers in other parts of Winona county will also organize.

A Valuable Paper.

The state historical society has come into the possession of an autograph letter written by George Washington two days after his retirement from the presidency. It has been handed down in the family of Christopher Gist, Washington's guide in the expedition to Fort Euquesne, and was donated to the society by Annette Ralpe, a sister at the Episcopal home in St. Paul. The letter was written to Sir John Sinclair, a Scotch baroness, March 6, 1797.

AN ALL DAY SERVICE.

Possibility of an All Day Electric Service in the Near Future.

The Red Lake Falls Electric Light Company are ready to install an all day service as soon as enough patrons are secured to warrant the venture. The company does not expect it to be a paying venture at the start and are willing to begin the service when enough patronage is assured to pay the services of one extra man.

In a talk with one of the representatives of the company yesterday we were told that it is thought there are business houses and concerns who would make use of the service to make it an assured fact in the near future. A continuous service—night and day—is beneficial to a town in more ways than one. Besides being a cheap and economical power it would be an inducement to outside capital to locate factories here. Cheap power is always looked upon with favor by those looking for the investment of capital. It is to be hoped that all who use power in any form will encourage this movement and help it along at every opportunity.

WEALTH OF DIAMONDS.

Hidden Treasures in Northern Minnesota and Canada.

Old mining men and prospectors in this region did not need to be told by Dr. Ami, of the geological survey, that great diamond wealth undoubtedly lies hidden in that part of Canada between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay, says a corrospondent at International Falls. In the Rainy Lake district, and in the auriferous valley of the Seine, many "sparklers" have been obtained from Indians and French-Canadian voyageors, who had picked them up in their wanderings without any idea of their character and value.

At the hamlet of Mime Center, in the Seine river county, George R. Douglass is the resident agent and assayist for the Rothschild interests, who are buying large tracts of land in the district that give evidence of gold bearing quartz. Mr. Douglass was long a resident of South Africa. He says the geological conformation of the Rainy Lake and Seine territories is almost identical with that of the Kimberly district, which has given to the world the famous diamond mines.

Forty miles from the mouth of the Big Fork river, which empties into the Rainy from northern Minnesota, are many ancient mounds whose origin extends beyond the traditions of the Ojibways. Until recently these mounds had been inviolate, for they are in a wild region but little visited by white men and accessible only by canoe. One summer, however, a party of scientists from the University of Toronto came out to explore them. From one of the mounds, on which a sturdy oak was growing, a large human skeleton, perfectly preserved, was exhumed. It was not that of an Indian, and in the cavity whence it was taken were evidences of prehistoric civilization, in the form of many articles of pottery, some stamped with unique and beautiful designs.

Around the skeleton's neck was a massive band of pure copper and on its bosom rested a curiously wrought necklace of the same metal, into which were interwoven shells and colored stones. What arrested the attention of the exploring party, however, was a stone which gleamed from the center of a bendant to the necklace. At first it was judged to be nothing more than a clear piece of quartz, but closer examination and testing proved that it was a diamond.

An Aged Resident Gone.

Mr. Ralph has been in very poor health for several years and has during the past few months been confined constantly to the hospital with a bone trouble. Better Prune Some More.

Bemidji Pioneer: The capitol commission has done well to cut expenses. While it was pruning it would have done better to have adopted Governor Johnson's suggested of dispensing with the guides provided for the building. It would be a very nice thing indeed if every stranger could have some one to show him about the capitol but it is doubtful if one visitor out of twenty ever sees the official guides or even so much as knows that they exist.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

Red Lake County Teachers hold a big Meeting at St. Hilaire.

About fifty of Red Lake county's teachers met at St. Hilaire last Friday and Saturday in what proved to be one of the best meetings ever held by the association.

Friday morning a spelling contest was held, pupils of the rural schools being the only scholars allowed to compete. Prof. J. B. O'Brien, Catherine Pirath and Hulda Gigstad were the judges while President Weld pronounced the words. Miss Mary Miller, of Huot, was the winner of this contest. In the afternoon a musical program and short speeches occupied the time of the teachers.

Friday evening President Frank A. Weld, of the Moorhead Normal School, delivered an address to the members of the association. Mr. Weld is an educator of note and his address was listened to with great interest by those present.

Saturday musical selections and a general discussion of school matters was the order of the day. The question of teachers' wages, rural school consolidation and ventilation were thoroughly talked over.

The meeting was by far the largest gathering of the kind ever held in the county. Supt. McAunlty is to be congratulated upon the success of the occasion as his untiring efforts were no doubt the cause of the successful and entertaining meeting.

The following teachers attended: Katie McAnulty, Laura Lizee, Lerraine Longtin, Guy Willcuts, Elmeda Gonigam, Lillian Swason, Annie Fellman, Eugenia Perrault, M. Clare Allison, Rose Helm, Lena Tschirhart, Julia Toban, John O. Swanson, Dora Marchand, Clara Berg, Clara Richard, T. J. Krouse, Carl Schusser, Wm. J. Harlow, H. T. McAnulty, Chas. Moller, Florence Columbus, George Netteland, Maggie Rose, Emma Lonson, Marias Roland, Nannie Swanson, Charloy Swason, Ester Olson, Walter Johnson.

The Country Merchant Has a Snap.

"Yes." remarked the country merchant to a newspaper reporter, "I certainly have a snap. The wholesale houses send me duns every month and draw on me at sight, but if I send a bill to a farmer he comes in swearing mad and quits trading at my store. While I am hard up for ready money many of those who owe me are sending cash in advance to mail order houses If I contribute money to any cause people say I am a hog. Every day I am expected to dig up for everything that comes along, from a raffle ticket to a church fund, by people who say I ought to do this because they do part of their trading here, but my friend Montgomery Ward neither buys raffle tickets nor helps the church fund and yet gets the cash in advance business; and if I were to circulate a subscription paper among the city wholesale houses where we trade I would get the horselaugh proper. If I sell a pair of pants I must treat the family to candy and cigars; if I buy a load of potatoes I must do the same. Customers who are able to pay hang onto their money while I pay ten per cent at the bank to get ready cash. I have a big business during hard times and poor crops from people who are willing to trade with me providing I can duplicate catalog house prices and wait until after harvest for my money. My scales weigh too heavy when I sell sugar and too light when I buy butter. I am a thief, a liar and a grafter, If I smile I am a softsoapy hypocrite; if I don't I am a grump. Yes, this is certainly a snap." And then he looked over $10,000 worth of book accounts, all good. and wondered how he could raise $350 to pay a sight draft due tomorrow.

STEAM POWER FOR TURNING SOD

Farmers of the Red River Valley Believe in it.

With the arrival at Crookston of a carload of improved steam plow machinery, including wide-tire traction engines of improved design and great power, a movement has been started in the Minnesota Red river valley which will, in time, disturb the usefulness of the horse as a means of turning over the virgin soil.

Heretofore farmers have been skeptical of the value of steam power as an agent for plowing, but recent tests have turned out so satisfactory and the saving over old methods has been so apparent that they understand the benefit which is derived from the steam system, both from a monetary standpoint and the quality of the work done.

The steam plow outfit consists of thirty-five-horsepower engines with tires nearly three feet wide. The wide tires are made necessary because of the unstable character of the average field, which would almost bury an engine of the ordinary type. The plow proper consists of sixteen 16-inch shires and at each trip across a two-mile field six acres of ground is turned over. The two-mile stretches can be covered by the machine in an hour, making the result for the day's work of twelve hours 144 acres, or three weeks' work for one man with team.

Farmers are enthusiastic and it is likely that many outfits will be shipped to Crookston for use in the fall. The engines are so made that they can be used for threshing and other farm purposes.

The Dying Drummer's Sweethearts.

A gay and handsome traveling man
Lay on a bed of pain;
All hope was past, his life ebbed fast,
He ne'er would rise again.
"Have you no sweetheart, fair and true?"
They whispered o'ver his bed,
"Whom would you tell a last farewell?"
The young man softly said:
"There's Daisy back in Warrensbury,
And Bess in Sandy Hill,
There's Millie down in Albany,
Kate in Mechancville.
There's darling Jess in good old Ti,
And Mary up in Jay,
And write to Sue in Ruthlad, too,
Or h—I will be to pay."

The watchers stared in mild surprise
And then they said once more—
"And tell us, pray, without delay,
The girl whom you adore.
The girl whom you have sworn to love
And bring both wealth and fame;
Your promised wife, and hope, and life,
Quick, let us know her name."
"In Saratoga Jennie lives,
Go, phone her quick," he said;
"And Carrie calls from dear Glens Falls,
And Ann from old Fort Ed,
There's Mamie down in old Fort Ann,
And Maudie in Whitehail,"
The young man sighed, "Its time I died,
Ive sworn to love them all."

GOOD CROP ASSURED.

Rain of the Past week Practically Insures a Large Yield.

Any fears that the crops of the northwest might be injured during the early stages of their growth by dry weather have been dissipated by the weather of the past week. Every acre of land in northern Minnesota and North Dakota has received in the neighborhood of two inches of water in the form of either rain or snow, and a storm could not have been more welcome or more timely. In the valley there was no special need for rain, just at this time, as there was sufficient moisture in the ground to sprout the grain in the absence of usually dry winds. But even in the valley the soil was dry enough to receive all the water that fell without flooding, and in the western part of North Dakota the storm was a godsend. There the fall rains were lacking, and there was beginning to be some anxiety concerning rain, both on account of the grain crops and because of the pasturage. Wheat seeding was practically all over before the storm came, and most of the oats had been sown. The ground has been too wet since to resume operations, and there is still abundance of time in which to sow all the later grains that are desired.

It may be that wireless telegraphy will enter almost every sphere of human activity. OUR RURAL FRIENDS.

Now is the time to do things.

A good friend is better than gold.

The way to have good credit is not to use it.

Put a few tar-camphor balls under the sitting hen to drive away the lice.

The experiment of feeding molasses to horses has been found to be economical and very effective in many cases.

It is all right to plan and work headwork: but don't do it when you ought to be abed and asleep. That never paid any man.

When cholera appears in the flock, give no water save that in which pokeroot has been boiled. This is both a preventive and a cure.

It has been estimated that the average annual crop of honey in the United States amounts to 125,000,000 pounds, with a value of $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

From figures given out at Washington we learn that there are now about 200,000,000 bearing apple trees in the United States, producing enough fruit to give every man, woman and child in America at least two bushels of apples annually.

They do not fag out on a long drive, and have plenty of energy, with coats sleek and bright. Horses out of condition always gain rapidly on this diet, as it seems to have an especially good effect on the digestion. It will make inferior hay more palatable.

For the morning feed for heavy work horses, give a quart of molasses diluted with three quarts of water, mixed with one quart of corn meal and two quarts of wheat bran, and from five to six pounds of cut hay. At noon give four quarts of oats. At night give the same ration as in the morning with the addition of a little long hay in the manger.

Cultivate the best side of your neighbor and don't forget that he thinks you need as much charity from him as he needs from you. A man to a large extent makes his neighbors, for take men as they run, if treated kindly, generously, justly, they will nearly always make good neighbors. There are exceptions, however, and this sort it is best to let entirely alone.

When the farmer and his wife and boys, and all the rest, go to bed, they want to sleep and rest. That is what they are there for. But what lots of poor beds there are in this world! Dear, good housewives, make a study of your beds. Make them comfortable. Make them look nice. Air the clothes on them every day. Keep the air in the rooms pure and sweet where they are, always. By doing this you will add greatly to the length of life of the farmer and all his folks.

A short time ago some men were engaged in putting up telegraph poles on some land belonging to an old farmer, who disliked seeing his wheat trampled down, according to the veracious "Register." of Great Bend, Kan. The men produced a paper by which they said they had leave to put the poles where they pleased. The old farmer went back and turned a large bull in the field. The savage beast made after the men, and the old farmer, seeing them running from the field, shouted at the top of his voice: "Show him the paper! Show him the paper!"

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing by dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." STEAMER SUNK BY A BARGE

COLLISION IN A FOG OFF THE MASSACHUSETTS COAST.

All on Board But One Woman Saved—Squall Capsizes Pleasure Craft Near New York.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., May 9.—With the arrival here Monday of the tug Patience came news of one of the most remarkable marine disasters in the history of Vineyard sound shipping. The Joy line steamer Aransas, bound from Boston for New York, was struck by the coal-laden barge Glendower, in tow from Boston for Philadelphia, and sank less than 15 minutes later, but out of 47 passengers and a crew of 29 on the steamer, most of whom were asleep at the time of the collision; only one life was lost. Miss Mamie Keller, 27 years of age, residence unknown, was missing when the roll of passengers was called.

The scene of the collision was about a mile and a half southeast of the Pollock Rip Shoals lightship. The disaster was due to the fog.

The engine room and fire room of the Aransas were quickly flooded and some of the firemen barely escaped being caught by the torrents of water. It was seen at once that the steamer was sinking and orders to lower the boats were given.

Most of the passengers and crew were in their berths at the time of the collision, but all were awakened by the crash. They dressed hastily and rushed upon deck. Although there was great excitement there was no panic and the discipline of the crew was excellent, every man taking his appointed station.

While some of the passengers were being transferred to the steamers' boats, the Patience came alongside the rapidly sinking Aransas and took off those who had not already taken to the boats. Those who had taken to the boats were then transferred to the tug or to the barges in tow. Few of the passengers saved anything except their clothing and small hand baggage.

The Aransas was a twin screw of 1,156 gross tonnage. She was built in 1877 at Wilmington, Del. She carried a cargo valued at $150,000.

New York, May 9.—Squalls Sunday upset several pleasure craft on the East and North rivers and on Long Island sound. In one wreck a life was lost, and there were many narrow escapes from drowning. Joseph R. Dreising, of Hoboken, was asleep in the cabin of a sloop yacht on the Hudson when a sudden squall capsized the boat. His seven companions managed to save themselves with much difficulty, but Dreising was overwhelmed by the water which rushed in upon him. Police boats and tugs were kept busy during the afternoon picking up imperiled persons who had taken advantage of the warm weather for pleasure trips in the harbor.

KILAUEA IS ACTIVE.

Fear Enormous Mass of Lava in Great Crater May Explode and Overwhelm Hawaii.

Honolulu, May 9.—The three-mile long crater of Kilauea, a constantly agitated lake of liquid lava, is showing great activity, and fears are felt that the enormous mass may be thrown into the air by an explosion and overwhelm a part of the island of Hawaii and its 25,000 inhabitants. The burning lava in the great crater, the largest in the world, is steadily rising. Should the pressure increase there is great danger of a terrific eruption. Fishermen on the east coast of Hawaii say Kilauea has never presented as grand a sight as in the last few days. On account of the relative smaller height of Kilauea an eruption from it might not reach the north coast, but it is feared Mauna Loa, which is 7,000 feet higher and in the center of the island, would be exploded by the eruption of the other and cover the whole island. The town of Hilo is considered safe from a more overflow of Kilauea, and it is only an explosive eruption that is feared. The overflows from Kilauea usually go down the south and west slopes and away from Hilo. In any event, it is likely that the activity now begun will leave its mark on the topography of the island. In one of its overflows 100 years ago Kilauea gave forth 15,000,000,000 cubic feet of rock and lava, changing the formation of the coast for miles.

Pays Penalty for Crime.

Union, Mo., May 9.—William Rudolph was hanged in the jail yard at 10:01 o'clock Monday. About 200 persons witnessed the execution and a large crowd collected in the street outside the jail. The crime for which Rudolph was executed was participation with George Collins, who was hanged last year, in the killing of Detective Charles J. Schumacher, of St. Louis, at Rudolph's home, near Stanton, on January 25, 1903.

Minister Bowen Arrives.

New York, May 9.—Herbert W. Bowen, American minister to Venezuela, arrived here Monday on the steamship Philadelphia. He said he would say nothing on Venezuelan affairs until he had reported at Washington. He inquired as to the present status of the Loomis charges, but declined to discuss the matter. He said he probably would go to Washington Tuesday.

Arbitration Treaty Signed.

Christiania, Norway, May 9.—An arbitration treaty between Norway and Portugal was signed Monday at Lisbon.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Seed Wheat.

According to Dean W. M. Liggett and Prof. C. P. Bull of the state experiment station, the question of a seed wheat famine in Minnesta depends entirely on securing a proper distribution of the supply of good seed. A bulletin has just been issued from the state experiment station in which it is said that there is enough good seed to sow the 6,500,000 acres of wheat land, provided the supply is properly distributed, and also provided farmers use proper precautions in selecting seed grain from their rusted wheat.

There is plenty of seed in some localities and none in others. The authorities at the experiment station are making efforts to relieve the situation, and farmers who have good seed are asked to advertise the fact, the suggestion being made that they can probably get more than the market price, and at the same time assist in protecting the state's chief product.

There is an idea prevalent among farmers that rust, like smut, is carried from one crop to another by the use of infected seed. This, the authorities assert is not true. Methods have been found for the prevention of smut, but as yet no definite methods have been found for the prevention of rust.

Wheat rust is propagated by spors and from field to field. Precaution is the only way the farmer has combating rust. The authorities claim that all stubble and rubbish which would tend to harbor the spors of this disease should be burned, and crop rotation practiced. After these precautions have been observed and some rust-resistant variety of wheat is planted the farmer will be reasonably sure.

State Fair Races.

The management of the Minnesota state fair has fairly outdone itself in the race program for the feir of 1905, which has been completed and given by Secretary E. W. Randell. The total of purses offered has been increased by $2,000 from last year and reached the handsome amount of $27.650. This is the largest amount yet offered in purses by any western race meeting, whether at a state fair or elsewhere.

The 2:40 class trot is cut and a 2:19 class is inserted while the 2:17 class is made a 2:14. These changes meet the views of horsemen.

Perhaps the most interesting change is the increase for the purse of the 2:09 pace and the 2:10 trot (formerly) 2:12) from $1,000 to $1,500. These are the fastest classes on the program and the increase is intended to draw out a larger field of starters.

The great $5,000 races for Minneapolis and St. Paul days are retained as are the $2,500, 2:35 trot and 3:30 pace introduced last year. The special novelty, however, is the introduction of two colt races, for three-year-olds or under, bred and owned in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and the two Dakotas with purses of $800 for each.

The rules are substantially the same as last year, with the popular provisions for substitution and withdrawal, except in this important particular:

"Horses not standing for money at end of third heat cannot start in fourth or fifth heats."

This is a new provision for Minnesota, but one which is coming in vogue on many Eastern tracks and is said to suit the great majority of horsemen perfectly.

PRESIDENT BEGINS HIS RETURN TRIP

SPECIAL LEAVES GLENWOOD SPRINGS AT 5 A. M. BOUND FOR DENVER.

EXECUTIVE PERMITTED TO DEPART IN QUIET

Citizens Refrain from Cheering So That He May Rest—Farewell Dinner Given to Guides and Companions of His Hunt.

Salida, Col., May 9.—The presidential special left Glenwood Springs at 5 a. m. Monday over the Denver & Rio Grande railroad and was scheduled to arrive in Denver at 5:30 p. m. The early start gave the party an opportunity to view from the rear end of the train the best scenery in Colorado, which is said to be the canyon of the Grande river.

Most of the occupants of the train were up at 5 a. m., although the president did not arise until 7:45 a. m. His breakfast was served at 8:30, after which he joined the sightseers on the observation end of the car "Rocket." Citizens of Glenwood Springs were particularly considerate of the president's feelings. He went to bed on the train at 11 p. m. and wanted to get a good rest. A crowd was assembled at the station when the train was made up for the start.

Train Departs in Quiet.

When it was announced that the president was asleep the early-risers, who were prepared to give the party a rousing send-off, refrained from cheering, and without demonstration of any kind permitted the president to depart in quiet.

The trip from Glenwood Springs to Denver is one that the members of the party looked forward to with great expectation. While the running schedule of the train is fast, officials in charge arranged for slow time while passing all points of interest.

These arrangements included a ten minutes' stop at Hanging Bridge, one of the greatest engineering feats of the railroad. The bridge spans a narrow gulch above which rise the walls of the Royal gorge, 2,700 feet to the top. At Minturn the train took on a helper engine. From that point the climb ranges from three and a half to four feet to the hundred for 21 miles. One engine cannot pull even such a light train as the special, which is made up of the "Rocket," the "Denver," the private car of C. H. Schlacke, vice president of the Rio Grande, and a Union Pacific buffet car. The highest point is the Continental divide, from where the best view of Mount Massive and the Collegian peaks is had. From the divide there is a descent for 150 miles.

Breakfast was served in the president's car when the train passed the divide. The curtains were raised and Mr. Roosevelt took a keen interest in the scenery.

Dog Greets President.

"Skip," the little terrier bear-dog which the president is taking back to Washington, bounded into the car to greet his new master as soon as Mr. Roosevelt got up. The dog slept in the president's cabin while he was in the mountains. The active little animal appeared lonesome on the train until Mr. Roosevelt took him up. After that the terrier made friends with everyone on the train.

The personnel of the party on the presidential special is: Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb, Dr. Alexander Lambert, F. B. Stewart of Colorado Springs, A. C. Ridgway, general manager; Major S. K. Hooper, general passenger agent, and I. H. Luke, division superintendent of the Pullman company; two stenographers to the president, newspaper men, two secret service men and two messengers to the president.

Pupils of the state reform school lined up beside the railroad tracks at Buena Vista, the train slowed and the president waved an answering salute to the boys. A brief address was made by the president at Salida to several hundred persons. A five minutes' stop was made.

Gives Farewell Dinner.

As a climax to the president's hunt in the Rocky mountains Sunday night he gave a farewell dinner to his guides and companions of the outing at Glenwood Springs. The rest of the day was occupied by a trip to church, a visit to the taxidermist who is mounting the trophies of the chase and a short address to the people who had come to the springs to pass Sunday. Mr. Roosevelt retired at 11 p. m.

Tragedy in Georgia.

Covington, Ga., May 9.—Lemuel Walker, of Mansfield, shot his wife to death with a shotgun early Monday while she was asleep. He then made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide with the remaining load in the gun and, in a further endeavor to end his life, sought to hang himself in the barn with a plowline. He was overpowered by his son. Domestic troubles are alleged to be the cause of the murder and attempted suicide.

Battle with Hereros.

Berlin, May 9.—A force of Hereros on April 27 fell upon a German column under command of Capt. Winterfeldt in the mountains east of Gananis, German Southwest Africa, and in a lively fight which followed 16 Germans were killed or wounded. The natives were beaten off with the loss of 15 men killed.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Defective Eyesight.

St. Paul.—Reports received by the state board of health indicate that there are 60,000 to 70,000 pupils in the public schools of Minnesota who have defective eyesight, and that less than 10 per cent of these wear glasses or are taking any treatment to improve their eyesight.

This condition is all the more remarkable when it is known that owing to the nature of the test applied by the teachers, only the more serious defects are discovered. If the pupils' eyes were examined by oculists the number showing defective eyesight, it is believed, would be much larger.

The reports received by the state board of health show that 10 to 15 per cent of the pupils examined have defective sight. In many cities the percentage is much greater. For instance, in the public school at Tower, of 290 pupils examined, 86 had defect eyesight. In Sauk Rapids 43 had defective sight of of 260. In Red Wing the percentage of defective eyes was about 20, the figures being 196 and 927.

No More Mineral Leases.

No mining leases to operate in the beds of meandered lakes will be issued by State Auditor S. G. Iverson for at least two years. The recent legislature refused to pass a law expressly authorizing the state auditor to lease beds of lakes, and in the absence of authority from the legislature the state auditor will issue no such leases.

Scores of applications for leases covering the beds of most of the lakes in the vicinity of the iron range have been filed with the state auditor. Two years ago he issued prospecting leases on a portion of the bed of Long lake in St. Louis county, town 58, range 20, in accordance with an opinion filed by Former Attorney General W. B. Douglas, who held that the state owned the land and that it should exercise its ownership.

Irrigation.

Minnesota and North Dakota are taking steps to catch a good share of the immigration that is being directed toward the northwest province of Canada. The legislatures in both states appropriated large sums for the purpose of advertising their agricultural, commercial and educational advantages.

In Minnesota annual appropriation is $15,000, and will be expanded by State Auditor Iverson, who is ex-officio land commissioner. Mr. Iverson is given authority to advertise the advantages of Minnesota lands within and without the state and to prepare such literature and statistics explaining the resources of the state as he may deem advisable.

Sugar Factory Burns.

St. Louis Park.—The factory and sugar refining plant of the Minnesota Sugar company at St. Louis Park was totally destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $400,000, with insurance of $240,000.

Flames were first discovered by workmen in the roof of the laboratory and before the village volunteer fire department and the factory hands could get a stream of water playing upon the burning structure, the flames had spread to the entire roof and the building was doomed.

From the southwest end of the big building where the flames originated, they traversed the entire plant, comprising four buildings about 200 feet in length and nearly as wide. A telephone call was sent in to Chief Canterbury of the Minneapolis department, and he hurriedly dispatched District Chief Hernlund with three engines, three hose carts and a chemical to the scene, but when the local apparatus arrived the building, machinery and manufactured stocks had been destroyed.

Indian Allotment.

White Earth.—The reallotment of of additional land to Indians under the Steenerson land bill closed here. The allotment of land will resume again on Monday, May 15. About 1,000 allotments have been issued.

Most of the logging camp matters connected with the cutting of dead and fallen timber on the reservation during the last winter have been settled. The result to both loggers and purchasers was, on the average very satisfactory. A total of about $100,000 was paid out.

News Notes.

St. Paul.—The St. Paul club will join the Northwestern LaCrosse league.

St. Paul.—Attorney General Young says there is no ground for the fear that the omnibus bill is invalid.

Frazee.—The eighty-sixth anniversary of Oddfellowship was celebrated in the Methodist church here.

St. Peter.—Business men of Courtland have organized the State Bank of Courtland.

Rice.—The house and all the buildings of Lasper Jenskey, a farmer living near Rice, were destroyed by fire Monday morning, entailing a loss of $2,500.

Hastings.—Roy, a little son of William Kleeberger of Randolph, fell over a washtub, while playing around the house, breaking his arm just above the wrist.

Chatfield.—The Chatfield Canning company shipped four cars of last year's pack of corn, two to St. Paul and two to Minneapolis. Each car contained 1,500 cases.

St. Paul.—Complaint has been made by Edward T. Young, attorney general, that the South St. Paul Stock Exchange is violating the Minnesota antitrust law, and an investigation is to be instituted.

DEPARTMENT STORES RESUME DELIVERIES

CHICAGO EMPLOYERS ACT ON THEORY THAT TEAMSTERS' STRIKE IS OVER.

UNION LEADERS FIGHT INJUNCTION ORDER

Men Oppose Subpoenas for Their Appearance in Court—Mayor Orders Inquiry Into Trouble—Six Persons Hurt in Rioting.

Chicago, May 9.—The employers set out Monday to make deliveries on the apparent theory that the teamsters' strike is broken. Thirteen hundred wagons were said to be on the street. Some of the State street stores sent out the normal number for the first time. Deputy sheriffs and private guards, many armed with rifles, were pressed into service to aid the police. With the general movement came an order from Chief of Police O'Neill permitting patrolmen to ride upon the wagons of the employers. The chief instructed his inspectors that in future it will not be necessary for the police to follow the wagons on foot, but that they will be permitted to sit beside the drivers and guard the deliveries from the wagon seats.

Fight Injunction Order.

Lawyers representing the Employers' Teaming company and the 60 labor leaders temporarily enjoined from interfering with the property of the teaming concern organized by the Employers' association, argued before Judge Kohlsaat on the question of forcing the labor men to appear before Master in Chancery Sherman to give testimony. Levy Mayer and Alfred Austrian appeared for the Employers' Teaming company, and John F. Geeting, Daniel L. Cruice and Jacob Le Bosky represented the labor leaders. Attorneys Mayer and Austrian asked the court to authorize the issuing of subpoenas to force the leaders to appear before Master Sherman, who was empowered by the court to hear testimony in support of an interlocutory injunction, to be followed by a permanent injunction. The counsel for the defendants under the writ answered by saying that the federal courts have no jurisdiction in the matter, and that, inasmuch as a criminal offense is likely to be charged against the men, they cannot be forced to give testimony which might be used against them.

Labor to Retaliate on Banks.

Retaliation on the banks which subscribed $50,000 as a fund with which to help fight strikers was voted by the Chicago Federation of Labor Sunday when a resolution was passed providing for the withdrawal of deposits of labor unionists from "unfair" banks. Further initiatory action was included in the call to the state's attorney for the prosecution of members of the Employers' executive committee for alleged conspiracy to ruin the business of several individual teaming companies.

Six Hurt in Rioting.

Six men were severely injured in two downtown riots Monday, the disturbances being a continuation of the wave of violence which started at an early hour far out on the South side, where two other men were almost done to death for attacking a nonunion teamster. The downtown battle was fought in the alley between the Ashland block and the Olympic theater, in which two negroes were badly hurt by a yelling mob of strikers. Desperately battling with four strikers in view of more than 1,000 men, Deputy Sheriff Robert Mulhall rescued the driver of a United States Express company wagon, and after wounding four men arrested them for interfering with property protected by a federal injunction.

Mayor Orders Inquiry.

Mayor Dunne has issued a proclamation providing for an investigation of the charges and countercharges between merchants and strikers arising out of the teamsters' struggle. He also named a commission of three men, whose duty it shall be to conduct the inquiry. This commission consists of the following: Prof. Graham Taylor, sociologist, head of the Chicago Commons, chairman; Towner K. Webster, manufacturer, head of the Webster Manufacturing company, engineers, founders and machinists; William C. Bayden, lawyer, resident in Winnetka, member of law firm of Matz, Fisher & Boyden.

Charges Against Each Side.

In the mayor's statement of the case, he finds that in general the charges against the union officials are blackmail and the breaking of contracts, while the Employers' association is accused of willfully spreading the strike with the intention of precipitating a greater labor crisis. It is to investigate these charges that the mayor's commission is formed.

Ask Deneen to Arbitrate.

The next most significant move of the day was an appeal by President Shea and President Dold to Gov. Deneen to provide a commission of three, headed by the governor himself, to arbitrate the strike difficulty. The governor says the request will receive due consideration.

Two Killed in a Row.

OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE COUNTY
OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

CONGRESSMAN MC CLEARY will probably cut Frank Eddy off his visiting list.

BELTRAMI county paid over $1,000 for her election ballots. Red Lake paid less than $200. This shows that Red Lake county officials are either more honest or that they exercise better business judgment.

NORTH DAKOTA placed an act at the recent session of the Legislature on its statute book stimulating the the planting of trees, which should produce excellent results, since it allows an annual reduction in taxes of $3 for each acre planted in any kind of trees set not more than eight feet apart, in holdings of 80, 120, or 320 acres.

THE investigation of the Beltrami officials shows a bad condition of county affairs. According to the correspondent of the St. Paul Dispatch there was collusion between he auditor, county attorney and at east two members of the board by which the county was systematically robbed of at least $30,000. The inference is that this money went into the pockets of the officials, less a small amount graciously given some of the newspapers in overcharges for official work. It is high time a stop was put to this kind of work.

THE attorney general's office under E. T. Young's regine seems to be intelligently and efficiently administered. The grafters are finding opportunity for further exploitation nor waiver of punishment for past offenses. There promises to be a higher political and civic morality throughout the state as a result of co-operation between the executive and judicial branches of the state government in ferreting out dishonesty and insisting upon prompt and proper punishment.

MR. CARNEGIE in his pension endowment for professors has discriminated against sectarian colleges which are expressly excluded. Mr. Carnegie's own test, as stated in his letter to the trustees of the fund, seems liberal, yet it is specific enough to compel its application against certain institutions. Speaking of sectarian colleges, Mr. Carnegie said: "Many of these established long ago were truly sectarian, but to-day are free to all men of all creeds or of none—such are not to be considered sectarian now. Only such as are under control of a sect or require trustees (or a majority thereof), officers, faculty or students to belong to any specified sect, or which impose any theological test, are to be excluded."

THE revised code was passed by both bodies and will become the law of the state on March 1, 1906. It was originally intended to have it take effect on December 1, 1905, but it was found that the time was too short to edit and publish it. The time was therefore extended and it is expected that the new code will be published and ready for delivery about January 1, 1906. The state will publish it and the book will be sold at not to exceed $5 a copy. The code will contain all the laws of the state and they will be so arranged, condensed and classified that "anyone" who can read can ascertain what the law is.

DO NOT allow yourself to believe that fortune has passed you by, says the Elsworth News. The road she travels is an endless circle. She reappears again and again to the watchful and observant eye. If she has passed your door today and knocked while you were sleeping and you awoke to see her retreating far down the roadway, do not despair and say the opportunity of your life has gone. Remember it is only one opportunity. Set yourself about your business, keep busy, hopeful and expectant, and look for the return trip of the fortune. Do not expect to see her in the same gown and bonnet. She loves new apparel. She is a woman, and fond of new effects.

HARPER'S WEEKLY originates the theory that President Roosevelt has already picked his successor to the presidency in the person of Judge Taft, the present Secretary of War; and is now embarked on a campaign to deliver him the nomination in 1908. The Weekly holds that while Mr. Roosevelt, by the terms of his pledge, is debarred from accepting nomination three years hence there is nothing to prevent him aspiring to the presidency in 1912 or 1916. By using Mr. Taft as a warming pan the Roosevelt administration might thus be stretched over the next decade. This is an interesting speculation, but circumstances change so rapidly that there is no assurance that, even if the Weekly has guessed right, the President can command the future as he proposes.

JOHN ALEXANDER DOWIE, the self-stayled Elijah III, has returned to Zion City in his private car, after spending the winter in Mexico. He reports on coming back—doffing his silk hat the while, according to the Chicago newspapers—that he has an excellent appetite, at which joy fills the faithful and peace reigns in Zion, though there have been rumors of impending financial disaster while Dowie has been away taking his sun bath in Mexico. After making the announcement about his appetite, he announced that he had purchased 1,000,000 acres of land in Mexico on which he will build a new Zion. This new Zion will be an agricultural colony, and will in no way disturb the north shore Zion near Chicago, which is devoted to manufacturing, and which "will remain the headquarters of the Christian Catholic Church."

SOME of Goveonor Johnson's critics allege that the warfare on George Ralph, state drainage engineer, is being made because of Ralph's activity as a Republican politician. Nothing could be further from the facts. The governor is not granting amnesty to anyone because of race, color or politics, and he has given assurance heretofore that he will not countenance the appointment of any man whose public record is not straight. It is understood that charges of a serious nature against Mr. Ralph have been filed by the public examiner. The governor would be recreant to the oath he gave the people did he not insist that these charges be explained before his re-appointment is sauctioned. When the governor condones a Democratic offender it will be in order to charge "persecution" because Ralph happens to be a Republican.

COMBINED IN THE

ELECTIVE LIFE POLICY

Accident, total blindness or deafness, insanity, loss of both arms or both legs, paralysis, apoplexy, or some lingering incurable or constitutional disease may incapacitate men from earning a livelihood, and oblige them to be dependents or to forfeit their ordinary life insurance. The Elective Life feature protects the insured in event of any such contingencies.

John F. Naughtin, Minnesota Manager of the FIDELITY MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO., of Philidelphia, will soon be in Red Lake Falls, and will be glad to explain this plan of life insurance.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

Here is an installment of "trade at home" paragraphs copied from The Journal of Faribault, Minn. They are equally applicable to Red Lake county. The Journal says:

Every dollar spent in Rice county is a Rice county dollar. Don't forget it.

Every dollar spent away is a dollar lost to Rice county. Don't forget it.

Rice county dollars mean Rice county prosperity. Don't forget it.

Rice county prosperity is our business. It's up to us. Don't forget it.

The catalogue houses never return a dollar to Rice county. Don't forget it.

A catalogue house never fixed a road or built a bridge in Rice county. Don't forget it.

A catalogue house never built a building or paid a cent of tax in Rice county. Don't forget it.

The pennywise policy never made a man rich. Don't forget it.

It will make him the secret laughing stock of his neighbors, though. Don't forget it.

Everybody knows who is building up Rice county with good old Riee county dollars, and who is building up some other county with Rice county dollars. It cannot be kept a secret. Don't forget it.

Great American Game.

The baseball season is on once more, and lovers of the game are packing the "bleachers" and the grand stands and cheering their favorites on to victory. Baseball has a greater hold on the American people than any other athletic game. It is a game of skill and science, it furnishes exercise for participant and spectator, it takes those who play and watch out of the daily grind of business and gives them fresh blood and fresh air and fresh impulse. The growing boy who does not love to play ball should be looked after carefully. The grown man who does not love to watch a good game betrays the fact that he missed something in his early training. One reason why baseball has so long retained its place in the hearts of the people is that it has been kept practically free from the taint of gambling. It is a "clean sport," and as long as it remains such it will retain its place at the head of American games of athletics.

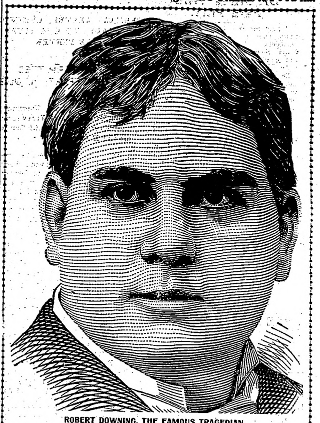
SYSTEMIC CATARRH SO LITTLE UNDERSTOOD

Claims Many Thousands. A Tragedian's Thanks to Pe-ru-na.



ROBERT DOWNING, THE FAMOUS TRAGEDIAN.

In speaking of Peruna, Robert Downing, the famous tragedian, says:

"I find Peruna a preventative against all sudden summer ills that swoop upon one in changing climates and water. It is the finest traveling companion and safeguard against malarial influences.

"You may notice that persons in poor health always find the heat most intolerable; this I avoid by using Peruna. I know by the thermometer that the weather is hot, yet I have felt the heat less this summer than ever.

"The cooling action of Peruna on the mucous membrane makes it invaluable to actors and singers, as it does away with that tendency to sudden hoarseness so apt to overtake one on emerging from a hot dressing room to a draughty stage.

"To sum it up, Peruna has done me more good than any tonic I have ever taken."—Robert Downing.

Dr. Hartman was the first physician in the United States to accurately describe systemic catarrh. His remedy Peruna, the only systemic catarrh remedy yet devised, is now known all over the civilized world. A person having used it once can never be persuaded to be without it when in need of such a remedy.

Write for a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book entitled "Summer Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

The New Ten Commandments.

I. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, nor thy son nor thy daughter.

II. Thou shalt patronize thy merchants, and thy home printer, for yea, verily doth thy home printer spread over the tidings of thy goodness and greatness, and many will patronize thee.

III. Thou shalt employ thy home mechanics, that they may not be driven from their homes to find bread for their little ones.

IV. Thou shalt not ask for credit, as goods cost much and the merchant's brain is burdened with bills.

V. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices on thy influence for guile is in your heart and the merchant readeth it like an open book. He laugheth thee to scorn and shouteth to his clerks, ha, ha.

VI. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thine own town and thine own people.

VII. Thou shalt not suffer voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice thee, consent thou not, for thou mayest be deceived.

VIII. Thou shalt spend thy earnings at home, that they may return from whence it came, and give nourishment to such as may come after thee.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwelleth, but speak well of it to all men.

X. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children even unto the third generation that they may be made to flourish and grow in plenty when thou art laid to rest with thy father.

It does more than that.

The New Ten Commandments.

I. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, nor thy son nor thy daughter.

II. Thou shalt patronize thy merchants, and thy home printer, for yea, verily doth thy home printer spread over the tidings of thy goodness and greatness, and many will patronize thee.

III. Thou shalt employ thy home mechanics. that they may not be driven from their homes to find bread for their little ones.

IV. Thou shalt not ask for credit, as goods cost much and the merchant's brain is burdened with bills.

V. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices on thy influence, for guile is in your heart and the merchant readeth it like an open book. He laugheth thee to scorn and shouteth to his clerks, ha, ha.

VI. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thine own town and thine own people.

VII. Thou shalt not suffer voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice thee, consent thou not, for thou mayest be deceived.

VIII. Thou shalt spend thy earnings at home, that they may return from whence it came and give nourishment to such as may come after thee.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwelleth, but speak well of it to all men.

X. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children even unto the third generation that they may be made to flourish and grow in plenty when thou art laid to rest with thy father.

It does more than that.

SKIN DISEASES SPEAK FOR THE BLOOD

Skin Diseases speak for the blood and tell of the acid-laden, poisonous condition of that vital fluid, and of its effort to throw off and rid the system of the poisons and waste matters that have accumulated in it. Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Boils and diseases of this type are all caused by a weakened and polluted blood circulation, and though they may have lain dormant in the system during the cold weather, at the coming of Spring and Summer, when the blood is reacting and making extra efforts to expel all morbid and poisonous matter, they make their appearance. External remedies cannot cure; they soothe and give temporary relief, but often clog the pores and glands, and the poison causing the trouble is thus shut up in the system to break out afresh later on. S. S. S., a purely vegetable blood remedy, cures all skin diseases by going down into the circulation, driving out all poisons and waste matters, strengthening the blood, leaving the skin soft and smooth, and building up the entire system by its tonic effect. S. S. S. cures Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and all skin diseases that enter the system through the pores and glands, as well as those that have their origin in the blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any advice wished, without charge.

In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. I was convinced I was afflicted with a type of Eczema. I consulted several physicians, and used several external applications, receiving but slight temporary relief. I decided to try S. S. S., and soon I found myself entirely cured.

POLLY'S CAREER

By Izola Forrester

Copyright, 1904, by Izola Forrester

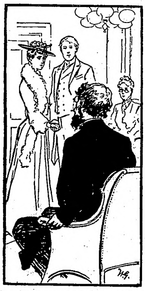
"If you would only speak to her, Murray, it might do some good. Her father and I have tried our level best to discover a glimmer of ambition or talent in her, and she hasn't an atom of either. She's nothing but a girl."

Mrs. Allan's hands fell on the wide arms of her rocker with despairing expressiveness. The colonel nodded his head soberly and sympathetically, as befitted the solemnity of the moment.

"She's still very young, isn't she?"

"She's the youngest of all. Bess is thirty, Louise nearly twenty-five and Florence is twenty-one. But look at them! Each one is established in her chosen profession and winning success."

The colonel was silent. Remembering some of Bess' poems, Louise's patients and Florence's copies of old masters, he did not feel that either affirmation or denial was called for.



"THAT'S JUST WHAT I DO FEEL, COLONEL HARTWELL—A SPECIAL PREDILECTION."

"And at eighteen they had all decided definitely what they wanted to make of themselves, while Polly—Murray Hartwell, when I asked Polly this morning if she had even the vaguest sort of an inclination toward any occupation in the world, what do you suppose she said? She told me that she hoped some day to be the mother of as many charming daughters as I had, and if they were half as much worry as mine were she thought she would have occupation enough. Murray, are you laughing at me?"

The colonel leaned his head back and laughed heartily in spite of the accusing, reproachful stare of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"It's just like Polly to say that," he explained. "And, by Jove, I believe she means it too. If I were a little younger—say thirty years—I'd have a try myself and encourage her in her chosen career. By Jove, I would indeed, Cousin Sarah! Polly's a mighty pretty, level headed little girl, and I'll be bound she's a good cook."

"If it were Jack's career that was at stake you wouldn't turn a serious problem of this kind into a joke. What if his only ambition in life were to be married?"

The colonel's face sobered suddenly at the thought. Jack—debonair, twenty-two-year-old Jack—married!

"But it's absurd, Sarah. Jack's a man. It's different. One expects such ideas in a girl's head, the same as a taste for ice cream or rose color or matinees. But Jack is ambitious and talented and well started in his profession now. By Jove, I'm proud of the boy—I am indeed. He's a fine fellow. Takes after his dad. But married?" The colonel leaned back his head and took another laugh.

"Why, if the young rascal even suggested such a thing I'd fire him back to college or send him down to the mines to work off an attack of romance on the brain."

"And yet you censure me for desiring something better for Polly than mere marriage." Mrs. Allan's tone was aggrieved. "I thought surely that you would understand and sympathize with me, Murray, and your influence might possibly direct Polly into making some sort of a choice."

"Wait a minute." The colonel rose from his deep chair near the fire. There was the slam of the front door and the sound of quick, light steps in the hall.

"Come and get warm before you go home, Jack," called a voice. "There's a fire here in the study."

The long, dark green portieres parted, and Polly stood in the doorway, tall, blithely youthful and pink as a rosebud where the wind had teased the color to her face. There were snowflakes clinging to her big brown hat and to her furs, but she was merry eyed and happy, suspiciously happy, the two in the study thought.

"Hello, dad." Jack's face looked over her shoulder. "Awful glad you're here. We've been for a trot along the drive. Polly and I."

"I thought that you were upstairs studying with Bess, Polly," said Mrs. Allan, "but as long as you are here you may come in. The colonel and I have been talking of your career."

Polly drew off her long brown fur stole and trailed it meditatively along the edge of the rug at her feet. The colonel coughed and realized that he was expected to speak on the subject. He beamed down upon Polly paternally. He had always liked Polly somewhat better, privately, than Cousin Sarah's more talented daughters.

"Of course you are too young to—to understand your own capabilities and—er—and any lurking talents which you may possess, Polly, but you must not give up or be discouraged. Some of the great geniuses of the world only discovered their gifts at middle age."

"Well, it's a pity some of them didn't die young," said Jack cheerfully.

The colonel ignored the interruption and looked at Polly. He felt the approving attention of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"But if you can consider the question of a career or should feel any special predilection"—

"That's it." Polly nodded her head until the snowflakes scattered in raindrops from her hat. "That's just what I do feel, Colonel Hartwell—a special predilection."

"For what, in the name of sense, Polly Allan?" Mrs. Allan leaned forward in amazement.

"For Jack." Polly smiled assuredly, and slipped her hand into the one that sought it. "He's going to be the object of my career."

There was a tense silence. The colonel stared frowningly at Mrs. Allan, and Mrs. Allan looked back at him with conflicting sensations. The paramount one was a small but solid sense of amused satisfaction in the colonel's utter discomfiture.

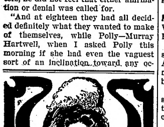
"Shall it be college or the mines, Murray?" she asked.

The colonel squared his shoulders. He had met honorable defeat before and could face it like a soldier and a gentleman.

"Neither, madam, neither. Seeing, as it is, Polly and her career are at stake, I give my consent and wish her all success."

Jack stretched out his disengaged hand.

"You blessed old dad!" he said, and the colonel had the honors of war.



Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Wanted a Big "Bar'l."

A newspaper tells the story of a storekeeper in a country town who, after twice telling a young man that he had no "onions," reverted to the matter after the customer had gone. "I declare," he said, "I do' know but what it was ingans that feller wanted!"

A similar tale is told by a young woman who, being in search of a barrel to catch rain water, applied to the village innkeeper.

"Have you a hogshead that I could buy?" she said, with the careful enunciation that she had learned in childhood.

The innkeeper shook his head.

"Not any sort of hogshead?" she asked, with gentle persistence. "I thought you must have a good many."

"I wonder what set you thinking that?" said the landlord, looking as if he considered her demented. "I haven't kep' a single hog for ten years back, and when I did keep 'em I never had any call for their heads."

It was the young woman's turn to look horrified.

"Oh, I don't know anything about hogs' heads!" she said excitedly. "I want a hogshead, an old molasses hogshead or something."

The landlord looked at her, and light dawned at last.

"I believe you mean you want a hugshud," he said, smiling broadly. "You step this way and take your choice of what I've got."

A Very Funny Joke.

"The head of our firm had a trying experience one Fourth of July," said a commercial man. "He thought he would play a funny joke on his family, so a day or so before the holiday he bought one of those candy boxes made in imitation of a cannon firecracker. He secreted this in the pantry, where he thought it would be safe.

"But his little son, about eight years old, discovered the firecracker and also discovered that it was filled with candy. He helped himself to the contents and finally, finding the box empty, he made way with it and substituted a real cannon cracker.

"Fourth of July came and the head of the family, smiling broadly, came downstairs and placed his big firecracker in the middle of the breakfast table. Then, regardless of his wife's expostulations, he touched a match to the fuse, never thinking but what it was the candy box on the table.

"His son and heir astutely vanished from the scene about this time. In about thirty seconds there was an explosion that wrecked a once happy breakfast table, and one hour later the worst spanked boy in Detroit had sobbingly confessed to an irate father why the joke had failed."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Old Time Dentistry.

In the early days of dentistry a hickory plug was put into the cavity to fill the space where a tooth ought to be. This plug had to be gently pounded into its desired position. Old Judge Peckham was somewhat addicted to strong language, and when the dentist began his work the judge indulged in some classic comment. As the tapping of the plug continued he threw all dignity to the four winds of heaven, and his language became decidedly "more forcible than elegant." When, however, he arose from the chair, after what seemed to him an interminable period of agony, he pulled out all the stops in his vocabulary for a grand climax. The impression on his listener seems to have been deep and lasting. As the judge passed out the dentist grimly remarked to a waiting patient:

"Wasn't it beautiful? It wasn't really necessary to pound half so long, but I did so enjoy his inflection that I almost pounded the hickory plug into splinters. Wonderful command of language the judge has!"—National Magazine.

New Burglar Trap.

A Paris burglar was caught in the act of leaving a house with his spoil owing to a musical album, which formed part of the stolen goods, starting to play the "Marseillaise" and thus rousing the inmates.

A River of Wine.

Casks holding 320,000 pints of wine exploded in a wine vault at Quiller, Switzerland, the wine flowing in torrents down the street.

Scotch and Irish.

As illustrating a difference in characteristics it is officially noted that twice as many people in Scotland as in Ireland choose to go to prison for minor offenses rather than pay a fine. In Ireland they pay the fine.

Wild Animals.

Zoologists say that all known species of wild animals are gradually decreasing in size.

Trees In Iceland.

Iceland seems to be hardly as destitute of trees as some suppose, an old idea being that it possesses only a single tree. An investigation shows that the island really contains woods having various trees of considerable size and that the climate is not unfavorable to tree growth.

Cheese Sellers of France.

In France a cheese seller is as familiar a sight on city streets as a fruit [illegible] in our cities.

The Englishwoman.

The American or the French woman never allows herself to be daunted by the fact that she has not been endowed by nature with good looks or a good figure. She dresses as carefully, carries herself as grandly, as her beautiful sisters and indeed assumes rather more of an air than they, with the happy result that America and France seem to have no ill-dressed and no really plain or ungraceful daughters. We Englishwomen are too modest and fancy we are altogether hopeless unless we have good material on which to work.—London World.

First Life Insurance Policy.

The first life insurance policy of which the details are on record resulted in a lawsuit. William Gybbons insured himself on June 15, 1583, for £[illegible] against dying in twelve months. He did die on May 18 of the next year, and the disgusted underwriters (the company of those days) contested payment on the plea that he had lived twelve months of twenty-eight days each.—World's Work.

Determination.

"Yes?" queried the proud papa.

"Yes. He spent the whole day making soap bubbles and trying to pin one to the wall."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Horse Dealer.

"What is the secret of your success?" asked the young man.

"In buying," said the old horse dealer, "I look sharp, and in selling I look just as ignorant as I can."—Chicago News.

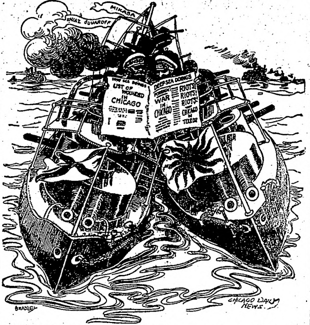
POSSIBLE EXPLANATION OF DELAY IN GREAT SEA FIGHT.



Maybe Togo and Rojestvensky Are Too Busy Reading the War News.

OYAMA IS AIMING AT VLADIVOSTOK

PREPARES TO INTERPOSE FORCE BETWEEN THAT PORT AND HARBIN.

SUCH IS THE BELIEF AT ST. PETERSBURG

Russian Troops Have Already Retreated Eighteen Miles — Junction of Squadrons Practically Assured—Division Passes Saigon.

St. Petersburg, May 9.—Interest is once more directed to Manchuria, the news from the front indicating that Field Marshal Oyama is pressing Gen. Linevitch's advance posts east and west of the railroad with considerable force, as if about to undertake a general offensive movement. The Russians are offering slight resistance and are falling back upon their first line of defense. The Russian advance post covers a front of about 100 miles, extending from Singtmantsu, on the Liao river, in a southeasterly direction across the railroad above Changtu to the Mandarin road, leading to Kirin, to Kamal Pass, about 70 miles due east of Tie Pass. The Russian cavalry protect both wings, small bodies being probably beyond the Liao river, in Mongolia, to guard against a surprise turning movement in that direction. Experts believe, however, that Oyama's purpose is to thrust in from the east, turn Kirin and interpose himself between Harbin and Vladivostok preparatory to the investment of the latter place.

Linevitch's dispositions seem especially taken to meet such a plan. He would not give battle along his present line, but would gradually retire and draw in his forces as Oyama's strategy develops to the main Russian positions, which extend due east and west from Kirin through Kuanchangtsu to Huaitaihanen.

Juncture Practically Assured.

St. Petersburg, May 9.—Admiral Nebogatoff's junction with Vice Admiral Rojestvensky is now considered by the admiralty as practically assured. If Vice Admiral Kamimura fails to prevent a juncture of the Russian fleets, as the admiralty here believes he has, the impression is strong that Vice Admiral Togo will not dare risk an open battle against the united divisions of Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff, but will content himself with torpedo attacks and possibly long range action, being prepared to draw off in the event that he is unable to make an impression. Naval officers are prepared to see Rojestvensky lose half his convoy, but in the face of the united divisions it is believed that Togo will accomplish little or nothing in the way of opposition to the advance to Vladivostok, and that he must be content, with the aid of the army, to try to invest by land and sea and make Vladivistok another Port Arthur.

Fleet Passes Saigon.

Hongkong, May 9.—A special dispatch from Saigon, Cochin China, reports that Rear Admiral Nebogatoff's division had passed Saigon. A Russian cruiser was off Honkohe bay, a short distance north of Kamranh bay, May 5 when the British steamer Charterhouse, which arrived here Monday, passed that point. The latter also noticed a collier leaving the bay and steaming east, but the main Russian squadron was not seen.

Decides Against Bucket Shops.

Washington, May 9.—The United States supreme court handed down a decision Monday in the Chicago board of trade case in which the bucketshops are defeated in their fight to force the board to furnish them its quotations. The legality of puts and calls is established and the bucketshops are prevented from using the board of trade's quotations, except by its consent. This ends a long continued fight between the board and the outsiders and will force the bucketshops out of business.

STREET CAR LINE FOR CITY

AN IMPORTANT DECISIONDELIVERED BY JUDGE GROSSCUP.

Jurist Declares That Adams Street Car Franchise Is Property of Chicago.

Chicago, May 9.—The city has possession by right of Judge Peter S. Grosscup's ruling Monday of the streets upon which to operate a car line from West Twenty-first street and the city limits to Adams and Clark streets in the downtown district.

The court decided that the franchise to the old Chicago Passenger Railway company, under which the Union Traction company has been operating the so-called Adams street line, expired April 21, 1904. The contention of the traction interests was that it would not expire until March, 1907, argument being made that the ordinance of 1887 was not intended to confirm an ordinance granted in 1884, but declared invalid because frontage consents had not at that time been secured, but was a new and independent ordinance. The court held that the ordinance of 1884 being invalid was not susceptible of cure or confirmation, but that it was clearly the intention of both council and company at that time that the franchise should run for the unexpired period of the grant of 1884 and not twenty years from 1887.

The ruling was on motion of counsel for the traction company for an injunction to prevent the city from depriving it of the use of the line until March, 1907.

SETS TIME FOR HEARING.

Chadwick Case Goes Over Until Fall Term of Court—Will Precede All Others.

Cincinnati, May 9.—The case of Mrs. Chadwick was Monday set for hearing by the United States court of appeals for October 3. Judge Lurton announced the decision of the court to the effect that in view of the statement of former Judge Wing, attorney for the defendant, that he would be unable to prepare the case properly in time for the June term of court, and because considerable time would be required on both sides after the filing of the transscripts, the case would go over until the fall term; but that in the interests of speedy justice this would precede all others at the October term of court. This will bring it up for hearing on October 3.

Exclusion Decision Valid.

Washington, May 9.—In the case of Ju Toy the supreme court of the United States Monday held that the decision of the secretary of the department of commerce and labor is final in Chinese exclusion cases. Ju is the son of Chinese parents, but claims to have been born in the United States. His exclusion was ordered after a temporary visit to China, and he took the case to the federal courts.

Scores Poisoned by Cheese.

South Bend, Ind., May 9.—Physicians here Monday and Sunday attended to 50 victims of cheese poisoning, and telephone messages say thirty families were made ill in Elkhart from the same cause. The symptoms were those of arsenical poisoning. The grocers made efforts to notify their customers of the danger, but were too late in most cases.

Hargis Released on Bail.

Lexington, Ky., May 9.—Judge James Hargis, whose trial for the murder of James Cockrill resulted in a hung jury here Thursday, was granted bail Monday by Circuit Judge Parker in the sum of $25,000, with John and Floyd Day, of Jackson, as bondsmen. The bond was made out and Judge Hargis was released.

Immigrants Coming in Droves.

New York, May 9.—All records were broken Sunday in the number of immigrants passed quarantine. Within 12 hours 12,039 foreigners, arriving in steerage, were permitted to enter New York, indicating that the spring influx of immigrants this year will probably exceed the records for former years.

Big Money in Chickens.

In a booklet just received by the experts of the university experiment farm of the state university, on the subject of "Poultry Culture in Minnesota," the authors take the position that more attention could profitably be paid to poultry raising as a business in this state.

The article says in part: "By far the largest part of the eggs and poultry in our markets at the present time come from the farm where poultry are kept only as a side line. We find these fowls are being kept in houses of every conceivable style and generally receiving very little care from the owners. The eggs and poultry produced in the United States in one year are valued at $281,000,000. Minnesota produces about seven and one-half million dollars' worth of poultry and eggs in which could easily be doubled if proper attention were given to this branch of farm work. But profit in poultry is gained in exact proportion to the care and thought devoted to the business."

Of the influence of climate, the article says: "While it is true that poultry will live and thrive in nearly every climate, we find that about 40 degrees north latitude is best adapted to their requirements.

We would prefer a colder climate than this, rather than warmer. Disease germs are more numerous and seems to develop much faster in a warm than in a cold climate. Eggs laid when the weather is moderately cool are of a better quality.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tubs. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Farmers' Trust.

The farmers of the western part of Winona county have organized a local union of the Society of Equity with the following officers: President, C. L. Blair; vice president, Timothy Daly; secretary, O. P. Boysen; treasurer, Charles Rabben.

The object of this society which is national in its scope, is to regulate the prices of farm products according to demand and not permit them to be fixed by the arbitrary rulings of speculators. It is probable that the farmers in other parts of Winona county will also organize.

A Valuable Paper.

The state historical society has come into the possession of an autograph letter written by George Washington two days after his retirement from the presidency. It has been handed down in the family of Christopher Gist, Washington's guide in the expedition to Fort Euquesne, and was donated to the society by Annette Ralpe, a sister at the Episcopal home in St. Paul. The letter was written to Sir John Sinclair, a Scotch baroness, March 6, 1797.

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Treffle Doust, one of Lambert's Oldest Citizens, Passes Away.

Word has reached the city that Treffle Doust, an old and respected resident of Lambert, died this morning at his home.

He had been a merchant and hotel keeper of Lambert for over fifteen years, and had been sick for a number of years. His death will be mourned by many friends in this and adjoining territory.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY.

Old Soldiers will observe the Day with Appropriate Services.

On Sunday, May 28, appropriate memorial services will be held at St. Joseph's church. All old soldiers are requested to meet at the city hall at 7 o'clock p. m. and march in a body to the church where the services will be held. It is hoped the services will be attended by all who honor the memory of the heroes who lost their lives in the services of their country.

Several members of the G. A. R. have been wondering if the citizens of the city would take hold and observe Decoration Day with appropriate services. This day is sacred to most old soldiers and it seems as though the old veterans are entitled to all the honor that can be heaped upon them. It is to be hoped that arrangements will be made to observe the 30th of May as it should be.

BELTRAMI INVESTIGATION

Testimony Reveals State of Corruption Many Fold Worse Than Anticipated.

It is intimated by the members of the special commission appointed by Governor Johnson to inquire into the Beltrami scandal that all the charges made in Public Examiner Kerst's report have been substantiated at the public hearing, conducted for the last two weeks at Bemidji.

The hearing was completed Thursday and two of the members of the commission arrived in St. Paul last evening. The evidence which they have collected will be submitted to Governor Johnson today upon his return from his vacation and the two county commissioners, F. O. Sibley and W. Wright, will be given a hearing before Governor Johnson on May, 19 at 10 o'clock. It is intimated that removal from office is almost sure to follow from the findings of the commission which will be made public on that day.

R. A. Stone, who represented the attorney general's department, had in his pocket the written resignation of H. J. Loud, who resigned under fire. He will not file it with Attorney General Young until the governor decides what must be done in the case of the two county commissioners. Should Loud's resignation be filed at this time the county commissioners, who are now under a cloud, would have a hand in electing his successor, and that is just what the state does not want to happen.

"We just skimmed the surface during the hearing," said a member of the commission last evening, "and then found more than enough to substantiate the charges made in the report of the public examiner. The hearings were public and the evidence which was brought to light as to the conditions of Beltrami county were certainly appaling. The graft and looseness of practice which has been going on in the county dates back as far as four years. Since that time there has grown up a number of irregularities.

"At first we found the residents of the county loath in testifying, but as the hearing went on they gradually realized that the good of the county was at stake, as well as their own welfare. Some persons almost had to be dragged into testifying and when they were put on the stand would not volunteer the least bit of information. All had to be brought to the surface by the most severe cross-examination. The county commissioners who are charged were both represented by attorneys and did all to fight their case.

"It was stated that there was a feeling among the better element of the county to have the whole affair aired and secure a thorough renovation of the county's government.

"In brief, the charges against the officials are that they allowed illegal claims against the county, passed on applications for abatement of taxes which had no merit in them and irregularities in awarding the county printing."

CLUB ORGANIZED.

Tennis Association Meets and Elects Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Red Lake Falls tennis association held last evening in the First State Bank the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President Rev. Herbert W. Knox, Secretary and Treasurer, Sam E. Hunt, members of board of control, R. E. Wyer, V. M. Higinbotham and W. A. McIntyre.

The association voted to amend its rules so as to allow ladies to become members of the association upon the payment of a membership fee of fifty cents. This will entitle ladies to full privileges of the association with the exception of the use of the grounds after 7:00 p. m. This latter clause was decided necessary because of fact that the majority of the members of the club are unable to play except in the evening and because the lack of room on the courts it becomes necessary to restrict the number of the membership entitled to the use of the courts in the evening.

The courts are being put into first class condition and play will begain at once. As other cities of the valley are taking renewed interest in tennis it is quite probable that touraments may be arranged with the neighboring citie-

Polk County Digs Up.

Probate Judge Tarrant received a draft for $80.90 from the auditor of Polk county Wednesday morning to pay the costs Red Lake county has been to in sending Edwin Olson to the insane hospital at Fergus Falls. It will be remembered that Olson was found in Terrebone township one day last winter in a demented condition and was adjudged insane and sent to the hospital. No one knew where his home was, but it was afterwards ascertained that he was a citizen of Polk county. That county was requested to pay the costs which has been done.

A Big Expense to the County

That is what Thief River's Offer Turns Out to be.

When the county seat petition was first presented to the Auditor, the Thief River Falls committee, represented by Alex Sweaas, agreed to post all notices of the meeting of the County Board to consider the petition, free of charge to the county. This was no more thsn right as Thief River Falls is the only place interested in having the county seat removed, and the farmer tax-payers ought not to be asked to pay for Thief River's sole benefit.

But this week when the Auditor prepared the notices of meeting, he at once wrote Mr. Sweaas stating that the notices were ready for posting and asking him to make good his offer of free posting. By return mail he received answer that Sweaas refused to act. Consequently all this work will have to be done by the Sheriff and his deputies at a big expense to the county, as three notices must be posted in each town of the county, and the mileage and fees will run up into the hundreds of dollars.

This is the way Thief River Falls makes good her FREE offers.

The tax-payer must pay for it all.

This is just an instance of what the Thief River boomers would do if they had the county seat.

That offer of a free court house would melt away in air. Sweaas would refuse to act as he did this time. Their next move would be to build a fifty thousand dollar court house at Thief River at the expense of the farmer tax-payer. That is just what one of their county seat committee said they would do when he was in Red Lake Falls the other day.

SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

Judge Watts holds Special Term of Court and Adjusts Differences.

Judge Watts and Stenographer Lohn came over from Crookston Tuesday morning and opened court, the session being an adjourned one from the regular April term.

The case of Bertha Ropp vs. First State Bank of St. Hilaire was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff.

Case No. 28, entitled Daoust vs Antonio Bachund the plaintiff was allowed twenty days to amend complaint and was ordered to pay defendent $5 and one witness fees. Case was continued to the Oct. term. This was an action to recover land in Lambert township.

In the case of Treffle Daoust vs. Antonio Bachund, an action to replevin horses and farm machinery, the Court found the plaintiff was entitled to the property.

Case No. 30, Treffle Daoust vs. Zelia Daoust, an action to replevin certain household goods, Judge Watts ruled that the plainstiff was entitled to recover a greater portion of the property claimed.

Part of the evidence in the case of O. W. Simouson vs Merchants National Bank of Crookston was taken and the case will be concluded at Crookston at a later date. This controversy is over Thief River Falls property.

In the Rice vs Freund horse difficulty the plaintiff was given a judgment for $75.

The sidewalk cases at St. Hilaire were tried but no decision rendred.

To Appraise State Lands.

Adam Zeh, of this city, Louis Parenteau, of Terrebonne, and Gilbert Haave, of Thief River Falls, have been appointed appraisers of state lands in Red Lake county. It will be the duty of these gentlemen to look over all state land in the county during the summer months before the sale next fall.

The members of this board are appointed by the county commissioners, the governor and state auditor, each naming one member of the board. Mr. Zeh was appointed by the county commissioners, Governor Johnson named Mr. Parenteau while Mr. Haave was appointed by the state auditor. It will probably take the appraisers about thirty days to perform their duty.

The secret of many a man's success in the world resides in his insight into the moods of men, and his tact in dealing with them.

An ordinance has been sent to the council in Chicago to fine the landlords $15 to $100 who bar children from living in their flats.

Confidence is great. But it is well to remember that it is better to have too little confidence in yourself than to have too much in others.

In the calendar year 1904 the importations of rice into the United States amounted to 137,000,000 pounds as against 178,000,000 in 1903.

Every one has his vanity card to play. The preacher gets a man into the fold by telling him of the "great influence" he has upon others.

"How shall the masses be reached?" asks Secretary Shaw. We can assure the Secretary that there is no better way than through the advertising columns of this paper.

There is much talk of the advantages for education that the children nowadays have over the children of a generation ago. But it should not be forgotten that the latter had the benefits of Webster's spelling book and McGuffy's readers.

Dewey's birthplace, which was valued at $10,000 a few years ago, is now regarded as being worth less then the mortgage of $2,500 that some body has on it. The public can loose a lot of interest in a hero in the course of six or seven years.

Do not send away for a wife or husband—in other words do not patronize matrimonial bureaus. The Chicago police have closed up 64 of these meccas for lovelorn men and women who cannot be suited with the homegrown stock.

Juggling With Dynamite.

Is no more dangerous than to neglect kidney disorders. Foley's Kidney Cure corrects irregularities and has cured many severe cases after other treatment has failed. It builds up the worn out tissues and restores health and vigor. "I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. A. Davis of Mt. Macaroni Wheat.

During the past year or two macaroni wheat has grown into much favor in the markets, and certainly much favor among the farmers. It yields more per acre than other kinds of wheat, and it is less liable to failure. It is especially adapted to growth during dry weather, and in dry seasons it yields well when other varieties of wheat fail. It also resists rust in wet years. In this market, and others as well, it has been only two cents per bushel lower in price than No. 1 Northern.

Until lately it was not deemed suitable for bread flour, but of late there has been an active demand for it wherever people have been acquainted with it. It has compelled recognition. Its advantages have been appreciated by many and its popularity has been on the increase. Like every other good thing it had its detractors. Some of the millers at Minneapolis and other points feared their machinery would have to be changed to convert the macaronia wheat into flour and yet bought it by stealth to mix with other grades of wheat, the result of which was all sold as flour from No. 1 hard blue stem and fife, and the flour was as good as the best. Conservative people did not want to admit there was anything new under the sun and would have none of the new wheat. The "crop experts" who regulate the universe said the macaroni wheat was a kind of an illegitimate offshoot and was not admissable to good wheat society. The macaroni kept right on growing and yeilding from 10 to 50 per cent more bushels per acre than any other kind, and the quality of the flour was just as good as the most aristocratic wheat with a pedigree a yard long. Then came the rust this year. Other kinds of wheat fell victims to the invader. The loss was from 10 to total. The macaroni, like a young gaint stood proudly in the fields and defied the attacking forces. Scoffers began to treat it with respect. Knockers are putting away their hammers. The "experts" admit they may have judged the grain too hastily and concede some of its advantages. Practical farmers see wealth in its production and are preparing to grow larger crops of the new wheat next season.

Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., described his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life I have tried many different doctors and several medicincs, but got no benegt, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at all druggists price 50c.

PRESIDENT ENDS HIS HUNTING TRIP

PRESIDENT RETURNS TO WASHINGTON PLEASED WITH HIS OUTING.

He Delivers a Noted Speech at a Banquet in Chicago—Again Announces That He Will Not Be a Candidate for Reelection.

Washington, May 12.—President Roosevelt reached home at midnight from his western trip, which he regards as one of the most enjoyable journeys he has taken since he has been president. He traveled 6,006 miles and passed through 12 states and three territories — Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Indian Territory, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Nebraska and Iowa. Every state and territory in the United States except Florida and Arkansas have been visited by Mr. Roosevelt since he became president, and it is his intention to accept the hospitality of these states before his term is finished. It is probable that he will make a tour of the south some time before the convening of congress in the fall of this year. The demonstrations at every point where the president spoke are said by the official members of the party to have been the heartiest that have ever been accorded him on any trip. The president was particularly pleased with the manner in which he was received in Chicago.

Chicago Greets President.

Chicago, May 11.—President Theodore Roosevelt arrived in Chicago promptly at noon Wednesday. A hearty welcome was extended him as he stepped off the presidential train at the Northwestern station, fresh from his extended hunting trip in the west. Gov. Deneen, Mayor Dunne, delegations from the Merchants', the Hamilton and the Iroquois clubs, a committee of aldermen and other city officials extended a greeting. After the greetings at the station were over the president passed through the waiting-rooms and entered his carriage and with an escort of national guard, police and citizens, was driven to the Auditorium hotel, where he was the guest of the Merchants' club at luncheon. The entire route was packed with people, who cheered the president. At the conclusion of the Merchants' club luncheon a committee arrived from the Hamilton club to conduct the president to the organization's headquarters at Monroe and Clark streets, where the chief executive held and was given a reception.

Law Must Upheld.

As honored guest of the Iroquois club, the most potential democratic organization west of New York, President Roosevelt talked on the theme of capital and labor, making the point that both must be compelled to observe the law and that violence on the part of either should call for a swift visitation of justice. He condensed his speech so far as it touched on the relations between employer and union into two asphorisms:

"This government is not and never shall be the government of a plutocracy."

"This government is not and never shall be the government of a mob."

The president gave his remarks a local application by turning to Mayor Dunne, who sat on his right, and tendering his support in enforcing the law, in keeping order and in uprooting violence. He called attention to the dangers in class hatred, and after touching on the necessity for exhausting all resources before calling for help, made a statement that brought the 600 guests to their feet with vociferous cheers. He said:

"But if ever the need arises, back of the city stands the state, and back of the state stands the nation."

President Roosevelt also gave the trusts and corporations his attention. He declared the federal government must take control of corporations, and strongly advocated the passage of a law conferring on some executive body the power of supervision and regulation of the great corporations.

Not Candidate for Reelection.

Omaha, Neb., May 11.—The Bee quotes President Roosevelt as making the emphatic statement that he will not be a candidate for president. It says: "You are authorized to state that I will not again be a candidate for the office of president of the United States. There are no strings on this statement. I mean it. I made my speech at Denver for the purpose of convincing the people of my earnestness in regard to the matter of railroad rate legislation. I will not be satisfied with any compromise that does not bring relief to the people from the conditions that now exist in regard to transportation affairs in the country.

To Rest in Annapolis.

Washington, May 13. — President Roosevelt has approved the recommendation of Secretary Morton that the body of John Paul Jones be buried at Annapolis, Md. Rear Admiral Sigsbee's squadron will be sent to France to bring back the remains.

HORRIBLE DISASTER.

Explosion of Dynamite Wrecks Passenger Train—Twenty Killed and 100 Injured.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 12.—Nineteen persons are known to be dead and more than 100 others were injured in a railway wreck and dynamite explosion which occurred early on Thursday on the Pennsylvania railroad in the southern part of this city. That not more persons were killed is considered remarkable by the Pennsylvania officials, as a full box car of dynamite exploded directly at the middle of the heavy express train.

There are various stories of how the wreck occurred, but the official version is as follows: About 1:40 o'clock the engine on the east-bound freight train was flagged by the crew of a shifting engine ahead on the same track. The engineer quickly put on his air brakes, and the train, an unusually long one, came to a sudden halt. The strain on the air valves was a severe one, and a connecting air hose in the middle of the train blew out. This caused the middle of the train to "buckle" and the damaged cars fell over on the passenger tracks. Just as this happened the Cleveland express came thundering up and "side-swiped" the wreck. The express was stopped within its own length, and the third sleeper was opposite the wrecked cars. Before anyone could leave the passenger train, which was not very badly damaged, a few slight explosions occurred and then there was one great flash and roar that shook the earth. The whole affair occurred within a period of a few seconds. A scene of horror followed the explosion of the dynamite. The passenger cars and some of the freight cars instantly took fire and a number of passengers were burned to death before rescuers could reach them.

MAUSOLEUM FOR M'KINLEY.

Brief Description of Magnificent Tomb to Be Built for Remains of Late President.

New York, May 11.—The trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association met Wednesday and formally approved the design for a mausoleum submitted by H. VanBurne Mc Gonigle, who was appointed consulting architect to the board six months ago. It was decided, also, that work should be begun at once, and a subcommittee was appointed, which will exercise the function of a building committee. At present the body of President McKinley is in a public vault in Westlawn cemetery, Canton. The association has purchased a tract of land adjoining the cemetery, which will be known as Monument hill. The approach to the hill, which is 74 feet high, called "the Mall," which is 600 feet in length, will be beautified at an approximate expense of $50,000. Along the middle of this mall, with a walk on either side, will be a "waterway," or artificial lake. A broad and massive flight of steps will lead from the foot of the hill up to and, in fact, form a part of the mausoleum. From the foot of the hill to the top of the mausoleum, the height of the stone structure will be in the neighborhood of 175 feet. The detailed description of the monument will not be made public yet, because the committee desires first to copyright the plan and pictures that they may be placed on sale for the benefit of the monument fund.

Killed Two and Himself.

Memphis, Tenn., May 15.—A triple tragedy occurred here about dusk Sunday night, when Thomas McCall, a night watchman for the Illinois Central railroad, shot and killed Edith Ferguson and Hal Williamson. The murderer an hour later turned the weapon upon himself, firing a bullet into his head. McCall is said to have been jealous of Williamson's attentions to the woman.

Floating Mine Sinks Steamer.

Tokio, May 15.—The Japanese mail steamship company's chartered steamship Sovralence, on its way from Kobe to Kinkow, port of Newchwang, with beancake for the Japanese army, was blown up at noon Friday by a floating mine near the Lisotishan promontory, off Port Arthur, and sank. Sixty-three of those on board were rescued. Twenty-eight of the passengers and crew were drowned.

Fighting in the Philippines.

Manila, May 15.—Fierce fighting the past two weeks on the island of Jolo between troops under the personal command of Gen. Leonard Wood and an outlaw Moro chief named Pala, with 600 followers, has resulted in the killing of 300 Moro and the loss of seven killed and 16 wounded by Gen. Wood's force. Pala and his remaining followers are surrounded in a swamp.

Several of the Employers "Marked for Assassination." With Financial Help Teamsters will Contest to the End.

Chicago, May 16.—A practical armistice in the teamsters' strike was declared last night, to last until the officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters meet here, either on Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

At a meeting of the teamsters' joint council, held last night, to reconsider the action of Sunday night, when it was decided to refuse the demand of the Teamowners' association that deliveries be made to strike-bound houses, the members of the council reaffirmed their stand and stated they would not accede to the demands of the Teamowners' association.

It is known to members of this latter organization that this action would be taken, it having been agreed that the matter should await the arrival of the national officers of the teamsters' union.

As a result of yesterday's developments in the teamsters' strike the labor leaders assert that the strike, aided financially by unions all over the country, will spread in a marked degree.

"Marked for assination" are several members of the Chicago Employers' Association it is alleged.

Men hired to break the strike hardly pass a day that they do not receive a letter threatening death to them if they persist in figuring in the labor troubles.

Frederick Job, John G. Shedd, Robert Thorne and many others of the employers' forces have been condemned to death no fewer than a hundred times by anonymous letter, writers during the past few days, it is claimed.

Those picked out to die do not appear greatly worried, though the wives of some of them are said to be in a nervous state.

Body guards follow each "doomed man" every hour of the day and night.

Serious consideration is being given the letters since exposures made by a confession of a hired thug that he and others made a business of slugging at the rate of $15 per person slugged.

NO VERDICT.

Koch Jury Fails to Agree in the Celebrated Murder Case and Are Discharged.

Mankato, Minn., May 15.—The Koch jury stands seven to five.

Whether the seven favor conviction or acquittal is not known.

The jury reported in court this morning at 8:30 o'clock and judge asked them if there was any prospect of an agreement. The answer was in the negative, the statement being made that there had not been no change in the last eighteen hours.

The court then wanted to know how they were divided and was informed that the jury stood seven one way and five the other.

The judge then made a talk to the jurymen, explaining that the expense of trial was great and there should be a conscientious effort made to arrive at a verdict. It was their duty to make an honest effort to agree. He then sent them back for further conference.

After the jury had retired the court informed the attorneys that he would call the jury again at 11 o'clock, and if there was no prospect of agreement at that time then he would discharge them. At 11 a. m. they were discharged.

Robbed.

Minneapolis, May 16.—A telegram was received by Superintendent Doyle from a St. Louis train conductor in charge of the excursion train from Des Moines, Iowa, which brought some 1,500 visitors to Minneapolis Sunday that Louis Rathje, one of the excursionists, had been robbed by pickpockets of his pocketbook containing $15 in money and checks to the value of $5,569.

The man was unable to tell whether he had been robbed at the depot before taking the train or after he had entered the coaches. Superintendent Doyle had three detectives detailed to protect the crowds and as many more policemen, but no suspicious characters were noticed.

Aged Pair Burn in Home.

Winfield, Kan., May 16.—William Buchels and wife, at Udall, were burned to death in a fire, started apparently from an exploding lamp, destroying their home. Buchels was 90 years old and his wife, who was blind, was 88.

Killed by Sheriff.

Owatonna, Minn., May 15.—While resisting arrest for highway robbery, Ivan Tomajis was shot and killed by Sheriff Chambers.

Tomajis made no statement, and little is known of him. He and Martin Eukawina and Martin Arnik came from Minneapolis and spent the night in a barn. The first two, it is alleged, learned that Arnik had $400 and was returning to Slavonia to bring over his family, whereupon they held him up and took his money from the lining of his trousers and vest.

You occasionally hear a man boasting of his charitable qualities, observes the St. Peter Herald, when you know that nothing short of a hydraulic press could squeeze a drop of the milk of human kindness not of his weazened carcass.

Frank Eddy says a pretty girl can conceal a heap of deviltry behind an innocent look, and the Duluth News-Tribune wants to know how he found it out. Evidently Frank is going to have hard work in proving himself as unsophistocated as he appears.

The Windom Reporter thinks it was most unkind of Dr. Arnold to come out with the scientific statement that men are more graceful than woman, just after the ladies had been informed by the scientific world that women are mentally superior to men.

The Beltrami county investigation disclosed the fact that the tax-payers have been systematically robbed of nearly $50,000 by dishonest officials, and yet some of the newspapers declare that the investigation is "a piece of petty political persecution" on the part of Governor Johnson.

Minneapolis seems to be a mecca for the country statesmen of both parties. John Lind and Loren W. Collins are already old residents, and now ex-Governor Van Sant is to make that city his domicile. And many are wondering if the doughty merger fighter hasn't his eye on Loren Fletcher's seat in congress.

The Preston Times tells Prof. Hicks that there is no sense in "eternally blabering about stroms which may never come, and if they do come must find suffering humanity unprepared and helpless notwithstanding his warnings. Let us enjoy the sunshine while we have it and take the cellar when the storms come but not before."

The only thing the matter with Julius Schmahl's candidacy for secretary of state is the fact that if successful it will batter down the walls of sacred tradition in Minnesota politics. Long years ago, way back in the days of Col. Hans Mattson the secretary of state's office was turned over to the Swedes, and down to the present day no man has dared to suggest a change.—Brown's Valley Tribune.

Here's a little consolation for the Hallock News, the editor of which is alleged to be a candidate for Peter Hanson. shoes. Mr. Nelson seems to fulfill the traditional requirements, and besides has no particular aversion to office-holding.

Probably no president since Lincoln has done so much to demolize party lines as Theodore Roosevelt. He has friends and admirers almost as strong and as numerous in the Democratic as in the Republican party. The last election returns show that almost a million Democratic voters supported him in preference to their own candidate. And, now, comes the startling and anomalous announcement that the president was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Iroquois club of Chicago, one of the great Democratic political organizations of the country. And the president seemed to feel at home. Many phases of his excellent administration were applauded by Democratic orators, and in reading accounts of the function it is almost incredible that American politics could produce such an extraordinary and unusual occasion.

A BAD BREAK.

Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston is reported as saying at a recent banquet speech:

"I have always held that it not to the interest of this city to antagonize the railroad: I have always advocated the sending of men to the legislature who are in sympathy with the railroads, so that at any time something of interest to their district with reference to securing appropriations and the establishment of such an institution as the one just secured is wanted, they may be in a position to get it, end this I am pleased has now come about, You are now represented by that class of men and you are now reaping the reward. I hope you will continue them in office and I have no doubt thegood work will be continued. This opposition to railroads is all wrong and the quicker it is known the better for you."

This sort of doctrine is unhealthy and pernicons, and if Mr. Stephens is ever a candidate for congress his little syeech will cause no end of trouble for him.

The idea that the representative of great agricultural constituency must be the tool of a railroad company in order to get a slice of the appropriation! The utterances accredited the distinguished senator from Polk do him no credit. They insult the intelligence and the honor of his people.

The railroads are entitled to fair play, as is every other interest of the state. It is not the desire of the people that their legislators should favor the railroads at the expense of other interests. The railroads should not be the speeial objects of favoritism. The state constitution maintains that "government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of all the people," and if our legislators are going to special agents for special interests how are the common people going to get a square deal?

In this connection the Wadena Pioneer-Journal gives the sum and substance of the popular contention:

"A community which want a square deal is not necessarily opposed to the railroads. No sane man wants to persecute them, or drive them to the wall. The railroads are a necessary public institution, but under our present system they enjoy too many unfair advantages. There should be a general shake-down and and adjustment. The consumers have rights as well as the railroads, and if Crookston sent men to the senate, who were less friendly to the railroads and more mindful of the whole people, not only Crookston but the whole state would be better off in the long run."

CAN'T BE RECONCILED.

Since Mr. Johnson has been meekly lead by Dick O'Connor into the camp of those whom his private secretary is fond of calling the plutocrats, there is less talk of the possibility of his re-election. There has never before been known in this state so complete a surrender to corporate power and the great financial interests, as that of the present governor. He uses President Lowry's private car at will. He is entertained by the jobbers of both cities. He is dined and wined by representatives of Standard Oil. He is made an honorary member of the millionaire club. He spends his time dining and speech making and squabbling over who shall mop the floor of the new capitol and most carefully avoids doing any thing for the people.—Fairmont News.

Here is an example of partisanship gone mad. The gangrene of disappointed political hopes sinks deep into the heart of Charlie Michell, the private secretary who missed connections with the job by an abrupt disturbance of Republican reign. It is doubtless a sad thing to be rudely jolted away from the public trough at the moment of greatest promise, but Charlie should take it more more philosophically and endeavor to hide his sore toe from public gaze as much as possible.

Really, Charlie hasn't much of a kick coming. He has been pampered and fed on the richest political cream for a long time. In fact he has been able to dove-tail his jobs so artistically as to secure the benefit of two salaries for a long period of time. As postmaster of Alexandria he was enabled to connect himself with an $1,860 annuity without interfering with his private business or curtailing his liberty to chase down other soft snaps. While a faithful suborinate worked the cancelling machine and signed the money orders Charlie attached himself to the superintendency of the Minnesota building at St. Louis. This job carried a salary of $2,500 and almost unlimited personal expense account for upwards of two years. Meantime the government salary went on without intermission. All this did not prevent him from spending several of the busiest exposition months in St. Paul, looking after the Republican campaign and fastening his avaricious tentacles to the private secretaryship, which like a dream of youth passed out of sight but never for a moment out of mind.

Thus Charlie's sourness is accounted for. The lances he hurls at his imaginary enemies are so blunt and rusty that they fall of their own weight and excite no comment save that of pity. It is noticeable, too, that there is little criticism of the administration outside the ranks of disappointed seekers of office. From these there is no alarm, since the voters of Minnesota have already spoken on that issue.

So much for the animus of the attack. A grosser or more undeserved misrepresentation could not be conceived. No administration of the state government, in its acts, deeds and appointment, was ever more out of touch with corporate interests and influences than of John A. Johnson. Governor Johnson is under no obligation to the railroads, lumber barons nor any other special interest. He is doing his duty as he finds it, and the people of the state are giving him their support and applause.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN ESCAPED SPRING CATARRH BY USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Nothing Robs One of Strength Like Spring Catarrh---Spring Fever is Spring Catarrh.

Mrs. Leone Dolehan.

Mrs. Leone Dolehan, in a letter from the Commercial Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen: "For two months my physician experimented with me trying to cure a hard cold which settled in my stomach, causing inflammation and catarrh. I then made up my mind he was simply unable to help me, and reading some of the flattering testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases, I thought I would try it.

"It was six weeks before I could eat a meal without unpleasant effects, but I have now been well for six months, and I give all the credit to Peruna."—Mrs. Leone Dolehan.

Miss Helen Whitman.

Miss Helen Whitman, 308½ Grand Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness, about a year ago I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in a good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure, healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it."—Miss Helen Whitman.

How to Get Strong Nerves.

First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mr. Hal. P. Denton, Chief Department Publicity and Promotion of National Export Exposition.

He writes: "Toward the latter part of August I found myself in a very much run-down condition. My family physician said I had nervous prostration and recommended a sea voyage. I gradually grew worse. A kind friend whom I had known in Ohio recommended Peruna. Though skeptical, I finally yielded to his advice. After using one bottle I was much improved and with the fifth bottle came complete recovery. I am in perfect health today and owe everything to Peruna."—Hal. P. Denton.

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."—Mrs. D. W. Timberlake.

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co. Columbus, Ohio.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Steaans, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores, 25c at all druggist.

Warning.

You cannot have good health unless your kidneys are sound, for the kidneys filter the blood of impurities which otherwise act as irritating poisons and break down the delicate organs of the body and caure serious trouble. If you have kidney or bladder trouble and do not use Foley's Kidney Cure, you will have only yourself to blame for results, as it positively cures all forms of kidney and bladder diseases. Sold by A. The fire boys are training these days for the tournament at Blackduck in June. They will enter all the contests and will no doubt give a good account of themselves.

Henry Castello, wife and neice, of Espetvet, were Red Lake Falls visitors the first of the week. They left Tuesday for Gentilly where they will visit friends for a few days.

Mrs. J. H, Glass, of Lake Pleasant township, leaves this evening for an extended trip "down below." She will visit Watertown, S. Dak., Fairmont, Minn., and Armstrong, Iowa, before her return.

Station Agent Mizen of the Northern Pacific presented the COURIER with a copy of "Wonderland," a descriptive magazine of the northwest, issued by his company. It is certainly a work of art, the illustrations especially being of a high order. The book treats of things of interest to every resident of Minnesota and the Northwest, and should be in the hands of every loyal citizen of this section. A copy can be obtained by sending six cents to A. M. Cleland, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul.

A mad dog has been doing mischief in Poplar River and Lambert townships the past few days. Henry Cyr, living near Brooks, had a hog bitten by the animal some days ago and was obliged to kill the pig Saturday. A sheep was also a victim of the dog and it is being watched closely, but so far has showed no signs of rabies. Mr. Cyr advises the farmers of that vicinity to have their shot guns loaded and ready for the dog as it appears suddenly, does his damage and is off again in a very few minutes.

Mrs. Vague left Tuesday for Tacoma, Washington, to join her husband who has been in that section for some time past. They will make their home in that city hereafter.

Sam Allard is reported as improving steadily and is on the high road to recovery. His condition has improved wonderfully the past week and hopes are entertained of his soon being able to be out again.

Judge Tarrant is said to be a great singing master and he organized a class last Sunday while at Thief River. It is said some of his pupils are practicing faithfully and will soon be ready to appear in public.

Seventy tickets were sold at this station for Thief River Falls for Sunday's excursion. The base ball game between Crookston and Thief River Falls resulted in a victory for Crookston, the score being 7 to 3. Thief River had one bad inning, otherwise the game was a good one. A large crowd was present and all report a good time.

Nearly 700,000 school children in Minnesota have defective sight, according to reports made to Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health. Less than 10 per cent of these are supplied with glasses or have received any treatment. From 10 to 15 per cent of all children thruout the state, examined at instigation of the state board of health, have some form of eye trouble.

Attorney General Young rendered last week two opinions in regard to the educational department of the state upon request of Superintendent of Public Instruction Olsen. Rural schools employing a second grade teacher are allowed to share in the $100,000 apportionment appropriated during the recent session of the legislature, and a county superintendent who receives up to $1,400 anually is entitled to $250 a year traveling expenses, according to the opinions.

RHEUMATISM ROBS LIFE of PLEASURE

Rheumatism does more than any other disease to rob life of pleasure and comfort. It is so painful and far-reaching in its effects on the system that those afflicted with it find themselves utterly unable to enjoy bodily comfort or any of the pleasures of life. Some are bound hand and foot and suffer constantly with excruciating pains, swollen, stiff joints and muscles, and often distorted, crooked limbs, while others have intervals of freedom, during which they live in constant fear and dread of the next attack, when, at the least exposure to damp weather, or slight irregularity of any kind, the disease will return.

I had been troubled with Rheumatism for two years, had been under the treatment of physicians, and tried everything recommended to me, but all to no avail. My knee and elbow joints were so stiff that I could not use them. I was unable to do my household work, and was truly in a pitiable condition. S. S. S. cured me after using it for awhile, and I unhesitatingly give it the credit it so much deserves.
Sta. A, E. Liverpool, O., MRS. M. A. DECKER.

The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, produced by food lying undigested in the stomach, poor bowel action, weak kidneys and a general sluggish condition of the system. External applications, such as liniments, oils, plasters, etc., do not reach the cause and can only give temporary relief. The blood must be cleansed and purified before a cure can be had.

SSS

S. S. S. attacks the disease in the right way—it neutralizes the poison and filters out every particle of it from the blood, stimulates the sluggish organs and clears the system of all foreign matter. It cures the disease permanently and safely because it contains no harmful minerals to derange the stomach and digestion. Book on Rheumatism and any advice you wish, without charge.

POLLY'S CAREER

By Izola Forrester

Copyright, 1904, by Izola Forrester

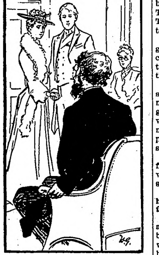
"If you would only speak to her, Murray, it might do some good. Her father and I have tried our level best to discover a glimmer of ambition or talent in her, and she hasn't an atom of either. She's nothing but a girl."

Mrs. Allan's hands fell on the wide arms of her rocker with despairing expressiveness. The colonel nodded his head soberly and sympathetically, as befitted the solemnity of the moment.

"She's still very young, isn't she?"

"She's the youngest of all. Bess is thirty, Louise nearly twenty-five and Florence is twenty-one. But look at them! Each one is established in her chosen profession and winning success."

The colonel was silent. Remembering some of Bess' poems, Louise's patients and Florence's copies of old masters, he did not feel that either affirmation or denial was called for.



"THAT'S JUST WHAT I DO FEEL, COLONEL HARTWELL—A SPECIAL PREDILECTION."

"And at eighteen they had all decided definitely what they wanted to make of themselves, while Polly—Murray Hartwell, when I asked Polly this morning if she had even the vaguest sort of an inclination toward any occupation in the world, what do you suppose she said? She told me that she hoped some day to be the mother of as many charming daughters as I had, and if they were half as much worry as mine were she thought she would have occupation enough. Murray, are you laughing at me?"

The colonel leaned his head back and laughed heartily in spite of the accusing, reproachful stare of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"It's just like Polly to say that," he explained. "And, by Jove, I believe she means it too. If I were a little younger—say thirty years—I'd have a try myself and encourage her in her chosen career. By Jove, I would indeed, Cousin Sarah! Polly's a mighty pretty, level headed little girl, and I'll be bound she's a good cook."

"If it were Jack's career that was at stake you wouldn't turn a serious problem of this kind into a joke. What if his only ambition in life were to be married?"

The colonel's face sobered suddenly at the thought. Jack—debonair, twenty-two-year-old Jack—married!

"But it's absurd, Sarah. Jack's a man. It's different. One expects such ideas in a girl's head, the same as a taste for ice cream or rose color or matinees. But Jack is ambitious and talented and well started in his profession now. By Jove, I'm proud of the boy—I am indeed. He's a fine fellow. Takes after his dad. But married?" The colonel leaned back his head and took another laugh.

"Why, if the young rascal even suggested such a thing I'd fire him back to college or send him down to the mines to work off an attack of romance on the brain."

"And yet you censure me for desiring something better for Polly than mere marriage." Mrs. Allan's tone was aggrieved. "I thought surely that you would understand and sympathize with me, Murray, and your influence might possibly direct Polly into making some sort of a choice."

"Wait a minute." The colonel rose from his deep chair near the fire. There was the slam of the front door and the sound of quick, light steps in the hall.

"Come and get warm before you go home, Jack," called a voice. "There's a fire here in the study."

The long, dark green portieres parted, and Polly stood in the doorway, tall, blithely youthful and pink as a rosebud where the wind had teased the color to her face. There were snowflakes clinging to her big brown hat and to her furs, but she was merry eyed and happy, suspiciously happy, the two in the study thought.

"Hello, dad." Jack's face looked over her shoulder. "Awful glad you're here. We've been for a trot along the drive. Polly and I."

"I thought that you were upstairs studying with Bess, Polly," said Mrs. Allan, "but as long as you are here you may come in. The colonel and I have been talking of your career."

Polly drew off her long brown fur stole and trailed it meditatively along the edge of the rug at her feet. The colonel coughed and realized that he was expected to speak on the subject. He beamed down upon Polly paternally. He had always liked Polly somewhat better, privately, than Cousin Sarah's more talented daughters.

"Of course you are too young to—to understand your own capabilities and—er—and any lurking talents which you may possess, Polly, but you must not give up or be discouraged. Some of the great geniuses of the world only discovered their gifts at middle age."

"Well, it's a pity some of them didn't die young," said Jack cheerfully.

The colonel ignored the interruption and looked at Polly. He felt the approving attention of Mrs. Allan's eyeglasses.

"But if you can consider the question of a career or should feel any special predilection"—

"That's it." Polly nodded her head until the snowflakes scattered in raindrops from her hat. "That's just what I do feel, Colonel Hartwell—a special predilection."

"For what, in the name of sense, Polly Allan?" Mrs. Allan leaned forward in amazement.

"For Jack." Polly smiled assuredly, and slipped her hand into the one that sought it. "He's going to be the object of my career."

There was a tense silence. The colonel stared frowningly at Mrs. Allan, and Mrs. Allan looked back at him with conflicting sensations. The paramount one was a small but solid sense of amused satisfaction in the colonel's utter discomfiture.

"Shall it be college or the mines, Murray?" she asked.

The colonel squared his shoulders. He had met honorable defeat before and could face it like a soldier and a gentleman.

"Neither, madam, neither. Seeing, as it is, Polly and her career are at stake, I give my consent and wish her all success."

Jack stretched out his disengaged hand.

"You blessed old dad!" he said, and the colonel had the honors of war.

THEDFORD'S BLACK DRAUGHT

Wanted a Big "Bar'l."

A newspaper tells the story of a storekeeper in a country town who, after twice telling a young man that he had no "onions," reverted to the matter after the customer had gone. "I declare," he said, "I do' know but what it was ingans that feller wanted!"

A similar tale is told by a young woman who, being in search of a barrel to catch rain water, applied to the village innkeeper.

"Have you a hogshead that I could buy?" she said, with the careful enunciation that she had learned in childhood.

The innkeeper shook his head.

"Not any sort of hogshead?" she asked, with gentle persistence. "I thought you must have a good many."

"I wonder what set you thinking that?" said the landlord, looking as if he considered her demented. "I haven't kep' a single hog for ten years back, and when I did keep 'em I never had any call for their heads."

It was the young woman's turn to look horrified.

"Oh, I don't know anything about hogs' heads!" she said excitedly. "I want a hogshead, an old molasses hogshead or something."

The landlord looked at her, and light dawned at last.

"I believe you mean you want a hugshud," he said, smiling broadly. "You step this way and take your choice of what I've got."

A Very Funny Joke.

"The head of our firm had a trying experience one Fourth of July," said a commercial man. "He thought he would play a funny joke on his family, so a day or so before the holiday he bought one of those candy boxes made in imitation of a cannon firecracker. He secreted this in the pantry, where he thought it would be safe.

"But his little son, about eight years old, discovered the firecracker and also discovered that it was filled with candy. He helped himself to the contents and finally, finding the box empty, he made way with it and substituted a real cannon cracker.

"Fourth of July came and the head of the family, smiling broadly, came downstairs and placed his big firecracker in the middle of the breakfast table. Then, regardless of his wife's expostulations, he touched a match to the fuse, never thinking but what it was the candy box on the table.

"His son and heir astutely vanished from the scene about this time. In about thirty seconds there was an explosion that wrecked a once happy breakfast table, and one hour later the worst spanked boy in Detroit had sobbingly confessed to an irate father why the joke had failed."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Old Time Dentistry.

In the early days of dentistry a hickory plug was put into the cavity to fill the space where a tooth ought to be. This plug had to be gently pounded into its desired position. Old Judge Peckham was somewhat addicted to strong language, and when the dentist began his work the judge indulged in some classic comment. As the tapping of the plug continued he threw all dignity to the four winds of heaven, and his language became decidedly "more forcible than elegant." When, however, he arose from the chair, after what seemed to him an interminable period of agony, he pulled out all the stops in his vocabulary for a grand climax. The impression on his listener seems to have been deep and lasting. As the judge passed out the dentist grimly remarked to a waiting patient:

"Wasn't it beautiful? It wasn't really necessary to pound half so long, but I did so enjoy his inflection that I almost pounded the hickory plug into splinters. Wonderful command of language the judge has!"—National Magazine.

New Burglar Trap.

A Paris burglar was caught in the act of leaving a house with his spoil owing to a musical album, which formed part of the stolen goods, starting to play the "Marseillaise" and thus rousing the inmates.

A River of Wine.

Casks holding 820,000 pints of wine exploded in a wine vault at Quiller, Switzerland, the wine flowing in torrents down the street.

Scotch and Irish.

As illustrating a difference in characteristics it is officially noted that twice as many people in Scotland as in Ireland choose to go to prison for minor offenses rather than pay a fine. In Ireland they pay the fine.

Wild Animals.

Zoologists say that all known species of wild animals are gradually decreasing in size.

Trees In Iceland.

Iceland seems to be hardly as destitute of trees as some suppose, an old idea being that it possesses only a single tree. An investigation shows that the island really contains woods having various trees of considerable size and that the climate is not unfavorable to tree growth.

Cheese Sellers of France.

In France a cheese seller is as familiar a sight on city streets as a fruit man is in our cities.

Let the Battles Be Fought Out by the Experts and Critics, the Nations to Abide by the Result.

CYCLONE CAUSES WOE IN OKLAHOMA

THE LITTLE TOWN OF SYNDER IS ALMOST TOTALLY DEMOLISHED.

The Loss of Life Is Placed at 125, While from 25 to 40 More Were Killed in the Surrounding Country —Stricken Town Appeals for Aid.

Snyder, Okla., May 13.—All estimates of the number killed by Wednesday night's tornado in and south of Snyder make the total at least 125. The tornado traveled a distance of 35 miles, cutting a path from a quarter to a half mile wide. The farm houses in this path were demolished and the occupants killed or injured. All the men available are needed here to clear away debris, bury the dead and care for the sick, and the fate of the farmers struck by the storm has not been fully investigated. Estimates of the number killed outside of Snyder range from 25 to 40. More than 100 laborers brought here by the 'Frisco railroad company, together with a big force of volunteers, began moving and burning debris Friday. Two men dead and another barely alive were found in a heap of rubbish piled up against railroad freight cars near the station Friday morning. They had been there since last Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock, at which time every clock in town stopped. Statements that 400 persons were injured are correct, but most of these suffered only slight bruises. Forty-five persons are receiving hospital treatment. On account of lack of accommodations here, the wounded are being taken to larger towns.

Fire Completes Havoc.

To add to the general confusion and distress, after the tornado had passed fire broke out and burned up all that remained of the buildings on one of the business blocks. So far, it has not been possible to find out whether or not any bodies were cremated, but it is highly possible that such is the case.

The havoc wrought by the tornado is complete. Out of a town of 1,000 people, not more than a score of houses are intact, while two-thirds of the buildings are totally wrecked. The storm formed south of Olustee, near the Texas line, and took a northeasterly course through a well-settled section. At eight o'clock it was observed by the people of Snyder, but the usual funnel-shaped formation was lacking, although the roar was plainly heard for some time before the storm broke, Many were of the opinion that it was a hail storm. Within a few minutes the sky became suddenly dark, and a terrific downpour of rain began, lasting for several minutes, when it stopped almost as suddenly as it had commenced. A few moments after an ominous calm followed, and then the tornado struck, tearing buildings to pieces as though they were made of paper.

A Call for Aid.

A relief committee, headed by E. Dowden, chairman, has been formed and the following appeal for outside aid has been issued:

"To the People of the United States: This place was almost totally obliterated by a cyclone on the evening of May 10. The people here are dividing their all, but have not enough to relieve the pressing necessity. Neighboring towns are strenuously supplying us with hospital supplies and food. Fully 300 families have been ruined by the storm; 1,500 people are more or less dependent on the good will of the generously inclined to tide them over the present distress. Money is urgently needed. Property loss, including crops, stock, homes and other property will reach $500,000, with a portion of the stricken district yet to be heard from. Almost continuous rains since the cyclone have rendered many of the roads almost impassible. The stricken people have helped the less fortunate to the extent of $500 in cash, besides dividing food, provisions and clothing with those who lost their all. In view of these circumstances, we ask assistance from the American people."

NAN PATTERSON FREED.

After Three Mistrials for Murder She Is Discharged from Prison Without Bail.

New York, May 13.—After more than 11 months in prison and three mistrials on the charge of murdering "Caesar" Young, Nan Patterson walked from the Tombs Friday a free woman. As she left the great building which has been her home since a few days after Young was found dying in a cab in lower New York, 2,000 people greeted her with cheers. Her release was made at the instance of District Attorney Jerome, who said he did not believe another trial would result other than in a disagreement. At the same time he declared that there had been a serious miscarriage of justice. He said that many of the newspapers had labored to create sympathy for the girl and that this step had "caused one more step in this country toward trial by newspaper rather than trial by jury."

WOLVES NOT TIMID

State Auditor Pays $3,256 in Warrants for Wolf Bounties.

Minnesota wolves are not afraid of the progress of civilization. According to reports received by State Auditor S. G. Iverson many of the counties in the state which are the most thickly settled produce the largest number of wolves. At least more wolves are killed in these counties than in the more sparsely settled districts.

Warrants aggregating $3.256 for wolf bounties were issued by the state auditor yesterday. Dodge county, one of the most thickly settled in the state, gets $143, whereas Becker county on the Minnesota frontier gets only $38.

Other populous counties in which several wolves were killed the last few months and the bounty paid follow: Fillmore, $38.50; Jackson, $31; Morrison, $29.50; Mower, $36: Murray, 22.50; Ramsey, $10.30; Rice, $90; Rock, $30; Stearns, $83.50.

Red Lake county gets the largest amount of bounty, $504, and Roseau is next with $495. Itasca gets $367.50, Sherburne $316 and St. Louis county $293.50.

Can't Be Satisfied.

St. Cloud Journal Press: It was only a few weeks ago that certain papers were asserting that while John A. Johnson was a good fellow, that the real governor was Dick O'Conner, and later they concluded that Frank A. Day was the real thing. Now, having discovered that Johnson is governor, these same papers are denouncing him as "the Czar of Minnesota." Some people are so constituted that they will even grumble when the sun is shinning, a gentle breeze is blowing from the south, and the bass are biting with the enthusiasm of a Democrat seeking office!

Fred Enright, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Enright of East Grand Forks, and nephew of Ed. Enright of Red Lake Falls, passed away in Duluth last Wednesday forenoon at 11:35, after a brief illness with congestion of the lungs. News of his death was received in a telegram which came about 1 p. m. The first notice that his parents had of his illness was at 9 o'clock yesterday morning when they received a telephone message from Duluth informing them that Fred was very ill and asking them to come at once. They were preparing to take the evening train for Duluth when the second message came.

A man stopped us on the street the other day and said we did not publish all the things that happened. We should say we don't. In the first place, there's somebody else depending on us for a living. If we published all that happened we would soon be with the angels. In order to please the people we must print only the nice things said of them and leave the rest to gossip. Yes, it's a fact, we don't print all the news. If we did wouldn't it make spicy reading? But it would be for one day only. The next day you would read our obituary, and there would be a new face in heaven. "All the news" is all right when it's about the other fellow.

Memorial Day.

William J. Bryan's Commoner says: "Memorial Day is but little less than a month in the future, and the veterans are preparing to observe it. For several years the soldiers have been protesting against making it a day of sports, and the Commoner heartily seconds the protest. Memorial Day is a day set apart to pay our respects to the men who fought and died for their country, and whether it by the memorial day of the northern or the southern soldier it should be a day of solemnity and fervent thankfulness for the valor which proved beyond dispute that the American soldier, fighting for what he belives to be right, is the best soldier the world has ever known. In justice to the memory of these brave men the day set apart for paying tributes to their memory should not be desecrated by making it a day of revelry and dissipation. After the proper tribute have been paid to their memory, the day should be spent in teaching patriotism to the children, and reviving the patriotism of those who may have grown lukewarm. The spirit of Memorial Day seems destined to be lost in the tendency to make the day a mere holiday to be enjoyed, and not a day of remembrance. The protest of the veterans is founded in justice and should be heeded by every citizen"

Fatigue Cause of Accidents.

That a tired man is much more apt to meet with accidents than one in full possession of his strength, physical and mental, has been shown conclusively by a series of stateistic collected in Paris. These figures show that few accidents occur in the early hours of the day or right after the noon hour of rest, but that they increase enormously toward evening and when people are tired. This means but one thing—golden grain belt beer to keep the world fresh and strong. "Never let yourself grow weary" is more than an idle song. To-day Succeeds Tomorrow.

Redwood Gazette: The Democrats of Minnesota and many Republicans have undoubtedly regretted many mornings since May 1st the non-appearance of the St. Paul Globe, which on the previous announced its final suspension in the superb editorial "There'll be no To-Morrow." But they should remember that up at the head of the lakes—up in the Zenith City by the Unsalted Seas, there still blossoms forth every afternoon a mighty, Democratic organ, carrying with it all the news of the day, and editorials straight from the Democratic standpoint. We refer to the Duluth Evening Herald, the one remaining great Democratic paper in Minnesota—a daily furnishes all the news and, unlike the Globe, is a paying proposition, and bound to remain so and Democratic as long as A. C. Weiss remains at the helm. Democratic reader, have you thought of this?

GEORGE RALPH RE-ELECTED

Crookston Engineer Wins Despite Strenuous Protest of Governor Johnson.

George A. Ralph of Crookston was re-elected engineer of the state drainage board yesterday. In spite of the oppositon of Gov. Johnson, the other two members of the board, Secretary of State Hanson and Auditor Iverson, voted for Mr. Ralph, and he will continue to act as engineer of the board. The opposion of Gov. Johnson to the Crookston engineer was based on a report of the public examiner concerning alleged malfeasance in office on the part of Mr Ralph. The report charges Mr. Ralph with duplicating accounts in official report of work in Polk, Red Lake, Marshall and Roseau counties. The report covers a pariod from 1901 to 1903. It contains evidences of charges made to two counties for the same work and other charges which are said to be illegal.

Secretary of State Hanson and Auditor Iverson took a decided stand in the matter. They claimed that these charges had been submitted previous to the election two years ago. At that time both officials made a thorough investigation and found that many of the charges could not be proved, and it was their belief that many of them were erroneous. They stood by Mr. Ralph and stated that they had elected him two years ago, believing that he had performed his duties previously in an efficient manner.

The drainage board elected John Abercrombie of Alexandria as special engineer to conduct the survey of the northern part of the state ordered by the drainage act of the last legislature. This work will be independent of the regular work of the state and will result in the state having two drainage engineers, each at a salary of $150 a month.

The survey of the state will be made for the purpose of obtaining a systematic manner of draining all northern parts of the state. Arrangements have been made for a large public meeting at Bemidji on Saturday, June 10, at which representatives of all parts of the state interested in drainage will be present.

ADVISES STOCKRAISING.

Iowa Farmer thinks Red Lake County Farmers should Raise Stock.

A. T. Gordon was up yesterday from Kensett, Iowa, looking after some breaking which is being done on his large farm in section 36 of River Falls township, says the Plummer Pioneer. Mr. Gordon has lived in Iowa nearly all his life and has traveled much, but says he has never seen a country better adapted than this for the successful raising of timothy and clover, or where those crops do so well as here and do not winter-kill as they do in Iowa. He is an ardent advocate of stockraising and says he would advise the farmers in this country to discontinue wheat raising and go in more for oats, barley, timothy, clover and stock. He says that while the latter course is not always as quick a money making system for the farmer it is always sure. The farmer should raise all the stock and feed he can and patronize a good home creamery which will bring him sure cash income every month in the year with the lowest outlay and the least worry This kind of an income belongs to the farmer who while engaged in that kind of farming does not have to devote all his money to paying of old machine notes and such things.

Village Has No Power to Donate Village Property to a County to be Used for Court House Purposes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE

A. V. Rieke, Esq., County Attorney.

Dear Sir: In response to your verbal request, I have examined somewhat further the subject of your former inquiry with reference to the power of a county to receive conditionally a deed to certain real property in the village of Bird Island from private citizens of that village.

I see no reason to change in any substantial particular the opinion written rather hastily July 15th to Mr. W. B. Coles, president of the village council of Bird Island, a copy of which was on that date forwarded to you, as being a reply to a joint inquiry.

A settled rule in this state, adopted repeatedly by our supreme court, prevents a donation to be made by a village to a county of any property to be used as a court house, or of any funds to be used in its construction and authorizes the recovery back of any money so donated. The cases cited by you of Borough of Henderson vs. Sibley Co., 28 Minn. 555 and Village of Glencoe vs. McLeod Co., 40 Minn. 44, support this proposition. The supreme court, in case of Bazille vs. Board of Co. Commrs. of Ramsey Co., 73 N. W. R. 845, held that the county had no power to purchase land for the express purpose of making a donation, and that if it entered into a contract to purchase, which was known to the vendor, that the purchase price could not by such vendor be recovered in an action.

W. B. Douglas, Attorney General.

Relief None Too Soon.

NEW FURNITURE FIRM.

Harry Healy Sells his Interest in the Furniture Business.

Last week a deal was made whereby Harry Healy, of the firm of Anderson & Healy, sold his interest to M. Wader, possession to be given immediately. Mr. Wander comes from Barnesville, is an experienced furniture dealer, and comes highly recomended in a business and social way. The COURIER extends him a hearty welcome and trusts his residence in this city will prove both pleasant and profitable. He is expected to arrive in the city on Saturday. Mr. Healy has not decided just where he locate or what business he will persue. He will look around for awhile and if a desireable opening is found will again engage in business. He has made many friends in this city who would be loath to have him leave, and all hope he will become indentified with the business interests of Red Lade Falls. He is a young man of sterling worth, a credit to any town.

WON THEIR FIRST GAME.

High School Base Ball Team wins from Fertile last Saturday.

Our high school baseball team went to Fertile last Saturday and played a team representing the seat of knowledge of that place, winning by a score of 13 to 2. This was the boys first game of the season and they put up a remarkable game considering the limited practice they have had. Connaughty and Toupin were at the points for Red Lake Falls and the small score made by the Fertile scholars indicates that the battery work of our nine was first class.

The boys report a loyal time and say Fertile entertained them lavishly. They are loud in their praises of the treatment received from the residents of the lower city, and hope to return the compliment when the Fertile boys come here June 3rd to take paat in the field meet.

Following is the score by innings:

Red. Lake Falls	2	3	0	3	3	1	0	1	x	—13

State Aid to Schools,

More of Red Lake county will be benefitted by the state aid, under a new ruling of the state department of public instruction. Last week superintendent McAnulty received a circular from State Supt. J. W. Olson setting forth the requirements which will be exacted of schools applying for the aid. Heretofore there have been two classes, $250 being allowed to semi-graded schools and $125 to districts employing teachers with first grade certificates. These remain the same, but a third class is created which makes an allowance of $50 to districts with second-grade teachers. In all other respects the districts must meet the same requirements as those receiving $125, but the new class presents an opportunity which Red Lake county school boards should promptly grasp.

FIELD MEET IN JUNE.

Red Lake Falls High School is Making Efforts to Secure other Teams.

The high school boys are trying to induce teams from the surrounding towns to meet them in a field day contest on Saturday, June 3rd. So far Fertile is the only team that has agreed to come, but strong hopes are entertained that Warren will be represented. Running races, jumping, hurdle races, and all othea sports usual in such meets will be pulled off and our team expects to make a creditable showing in all the contests. It is to be hoped that other high schools will decide to be represented at this gathering. Everything possible will be done for the comfort and entertaiement of the visitors and we can promise them a most delightful time.

Every horse should have a bran mash at least twice a week.

In Russia the average price of agricultural land is $14 per acre. In England farm land ranges in price from $60 to $120 per acre.

They seem to forget that besides the water needed to sustain her life, like the horse, 87 per cent of all the milk she secretes is water.

Milk weighs two pounds and fifteen one-hundredths to the quart on the average, or eight pounds and sixty one-hundredths to the gallon.

Whenever a farmer or any other man says he ought to have done such and such work but didn't have time to get around to it, it is conclusive evidence that the poor fellow is trying to do more than he can do well.

It is all right to economize in money matters, but lots of folks whoare real stingy of money, are wasteful as they can be in the matter of time and strength, which is a hundred times as valuable as money. So don't overlift; don't make the hours too long; don't be stingy of the hours of sleep; and, above all, don't waste the heart by worring about troubles that probably never will come.

South Carolinia has 14,000,000 acres of unoccupied land, and her officials are making an effort to direct immigrants to that state by sending to New York city a commissioner of immigration. It would be a good thing for the entire country if a few thousand Italians and immigrants from Southern Europe could be induced to settle on the cotton and rice plantations of that state instead of locating in the over-crowded cities of the East and Middle West.

Comparatively few people realize the extent to which the American navy has been built up in the past few years. Today there are in the navy of the United States 24 battleships of 10,000 tons or over, 12 coast defense vessels, 10 armoured cruisers, 5 cruisers above 6,000 tons, 17 cruisers of from 3,000 to 6,000 tons, 23 cruisers of from 1,000 to 3,000 tons, 16 torpedo boat destroyers, 32 torpedo boats and 8 submarine torpedo boats. The total tonnage of the navy is 643693, represented by a total of 147 vessels. In point of tonnage the United States stands third on the list of nations of the world. First comes Great Britain with 502 vessels aggregating 1,926,000 tons, second France with 508 vessels, aggregating 978,000 tons.

A swarm of bees consists of a queen bee and from 2,000 to 3,000 drones, and if a large swarm, all the way from 40,000 to 60,000 worker bees. When pollen and honey is scarse the worker bees have been known to go seven miles in search of it. Every wideawake beekeeper knows that just a few days before swarming the queen, in some mysterious way, sends out several thousand workers in search of a home for the coming swarm. These bees we call "homeseekers," for they cover many thousands of acres in flying back and forth searching out every nook and corner until a home is found, and when all is ready the queen comes forth with her swarm and is conducted on a "bee line" by these homeseekers to their new homes.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing by dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough. which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At all druggists, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Cost of Koch Trial.

There has been considerable speculation as to the cost of the Koch trial. We are uuable to give the expenses to the Koch family, but County Auditor Weaver, of Brown county estimates the state's expenses as follows.

Boarding jury	$600 00
Jury	1,285 00
Witnesses	559 88
Triers	150 00
Coroner, securing venires	70 88
Deputy clerk	33 00
Clerk of court	150 00
Bailiffs	450 00
Sheriff	150 00
Janitor	50 00
Court stenographer	150 09
Gen. H. W. Childs, state	875 00
County Attorney S. B. Wilson, state	500 00
A. Pfaender, attorney, state	500 00
Total	$5,523.68

The cost will be paid by Brown county. The total cost of this, the second trial, will probably be $6500 or $7000 when the defence expense is added to that of the state.

In estimating the cost to the Koch's the Minneapolis Tribune says: Ernest G. Koch has employed constantly since Dec. 29, three attornoys at $50 a day; two attorneys at $25 a day; one Thiel agency detective at $10 a day, and has in addition, spent large sums for witness fees. The Koch relatives acknowledge that the first trial cost nearly $7000. The defence of Geo. Koch by his aged father has cost not less than $25,000.

PLANS FOR PEACE MEET WITH CHECK

CHICAGO TEAMSTERS AGAIN REJECT TERMS FOR SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE.

Express Companies Refuse to Reemploy Striking Drivers and the Trouble Will Be Continued—Industrial War May Spread.

Chicago, May 22.—Complications suddenly have arisen in the teamsters' strike situation that threaten the overthrow of all peace negotiations and the precipitation of a general strike. The Teamsters' Joint Council, at an hour when the calling off of the strike was looked for, rejected the proposition for a settlement agreed to by the employers and the union leaders, and voted to continue the struggle. The refusal by the express companies to reemploy any of their old drivers was the cause of the joint council's action. The arbitration that the Chicago team owners requested several days ago, regarding the right of teamsters to refuse to make deliveries to strike-bound firms, also was turned down in the renewed manifestation of the war spirit.

Strike May Spread.

The situation, therefore, has been put back exactly where it was before peace negotiations were begun last week, following the arrival of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. This situation, however, promises to become aggravated when lumber and hay and grain interests attempt to deliver their products to boycotted houses. The inevitable result, unless other means of bringing about a settlement are found, will be the adding of thousands more to the ranks of striking and locked-out teamsters.

With a spread of the strike may come troops to cope with the law and end of the situation. This is regarded as a certainty, and Sheriff Barrett, who had been awaiting the outcome of the joint council meeting at the Sherman House, a few doors away, announced his determination of taking immediate action.

Terms Voted Down.

3. Policemen, special guards, detectives and private operatives to be removed from the barns and wagons within 30 minutes after strike is settled.
4. Employers to take back employes without discrimination.
5. Wages, hours and working conditions to remain unchanged.
6. No agreements to be signed on either side.
7. Agreements to apply to department stores, furniture dealers, coal firms and all other strike-bound firms except railway express companies.

HOCK IS FOUND GUILTY.

Self-Confessed Bigamist Convicted of Wife Murder—Death Penalty Recommended.

Chicago, May 20.—Johann Hoch was found guilty of wife murder by a jury in Judge Kersten's court Friday afternoon. The 12 men decided he administered arsenic to Mrs. Marie Wacker-Hoch to cause her death. The jury recommended the death penalty.

The jury's verdict as read follows: "We, the jury, find the defendant, Johann Hoch, alias John Hoch, alias John Schmitt, guilty of murder in manner and form as charged in the indictment and fix his punishment at death."

William G. Messler was foreman of the jury. He said the jurors would not divulge what took place in the jury room. It was said, however, the first ballot was unanimous for guilty. On the first ballot for punishment two are reported to have voted for life sentence. The next ballot resulted in an unanimous vote for a death sentence.

Hoch's trial has lasted a month and the indictment under which he was tried charged him with the murder of Mrs. Marie Walker-Hoch, to whom he is said to have given arsenic. The man who by his own confession is several times a bigamist received the news in a stupor.

KILLED HIS FATHER.

Young Man Becomes a Parricide to Save His Mother from Attack.

Bellport, R. I., May 22.—While defending his mother Sunday from the attack of his father, who is said to have been frenzied with drink, Joseph Connell, a youth of 18, shot and instantly killed his father, John T. Connell. According to the statements of Mrs. Connell and her two sons, Connell began to beat his wife, and on his elder son, Joseph, interfering in his mother's behalf, assailed him with an ax, when Joseph drew a revolver and fired, the bullet passing through his father's heart. Joseph was arrested.

Empress Is Injured.

Wiesbaden, May 2.—Empress Augusta Victoria fell down stairs Sunday and was slightly injured on the forehead. Thought the hurt is not serious the incident has caused the postponement of the departure of the emperor and empress for Berlin.

WILL NOT BE CALLED.

President Said to Have Abandoned Idea of Summoning Congress in Extra Session.

Washington, May 18.—President Roosevelt's decision to make a southern trip in October is believed to settle permanently the question of an extra session of congress. Before the president left Washington for the southwest his mind was made up apparently irrevocably, to assemble the Fifty-ninth congress in extraordinary session not later than October 1, for the purpose of enacting railroad rate legislation along lines that would insure permanent reform for many of the evils of railway management. He was only dissuaded from calling an extra session immediately following the adjournment of the Fifty-eighth congress in March by promises of leading republican senators and representatives to support his legislative programme so far as it applied to railroad rates, if the call was delayed until October. Now the president appears to have voluntarily changed his programme, and instead of calling congress here in October he will make a prolonged tour of the southern states which will keep him on the road at least three weeks. He may decide to issue the call for the 1st of November, but this is purely conjectural.

Senators and representatives who keep in touch with his purposes are inclined to believe that there will be no extra session; that the president is satisfied that the Fifty-ninth congress will heed the demand of the people for satisfactory railroad legislation and that a bill can be passed as speedily at the regular session as it could at a special session. He has received positive assurances from Senators Elkins, Cullom, Dolliver, Clapp, Kean and other influential members of the committee on interstate commerce that a bill will be reported to the senate at the beginning of the next congress, and that it will embody many needed reforms in keeping with the president's suggestions. All this is very gratifying to Mr. Roosevelt. It seems to assure the passage of a satisfactory bill next winter and the president does not feel that he ought to ask for more than that.

YACHTS IN BIG RACE.

Eleven Vessels Start on Voyage of 3,000 Miles Across the Atlantic.

New York, May 18.—A splendid fleet of sailing yachts swept across a starting line at Sandy Hook lightship at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday, and with the queenly American schooner Atlantic leading the way, headed out to the broad Atlantic ocean on a race of 3,000 miles to the English coast for a $5,000 cup offered by Emperor William of Germany. When last seen as they vanished into the mist, they were strung out in a line six miles long, heading southeastward and pointing as nearly as possible to a wind that was dead ahead. DEATH OF JUDGE TOURGEE.

Noted Author and American Consul at Bordeaux, France, Passes Away.

Bordeaux, May 22.—Judge Albion Winegar Tourgee, of Mayville, N. Y., American consul general here, died Sunday morning of acute uraemia, which resulted from an old wound. Judge Tourgee was taken seriously ill some months ago, but his condition afterward improved and it was believed his recovery was probable. Recently, however, the disease took another serious turn and Judge Tourgee lingered until Sunday morning. He was born at Williamsfield, O., May 2, 1838.

Washington, May 22.—A cablegram was received at the state department announcing Judge Tourgee's death. He was formerly consul general at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and was well known as a lawyer, writer and lecturer.

A BIG BATTLE IS IN PROGRESS.

JAPANESE DRIVEN OUT OF POSITION RECOVER THEIR LOST GROUND.

Reported that Linevitch has Occupied Two River Valleys. Japanese tell of Bloody Repulse of Russian Troops.

Gunshu Pass, May 23.—Practically the entire Russian right army is engaging the Japanese west of the railway between Khanda and Kaik rivers. The battle line extends beyond the old mandarin road from Mukden to Harbin, taking in the Liao river district. While the main forces are not in conflict, it seems certain that the attack begun by General Linevitch on last Friday must bring on a general engagement. Two brigades on Saturday swept the Japanese from small villages in the Khanda river valley, but at night the Japanese cavalry and infantry dislodged the Russian forces from positions gained during the day.

Gen. Martynoff, in command of the extreme right, drove the Japanese forces from Ted Lu and routed their cavalry outposts across Liao river at Wao. Shortly after midnight on Sunday, the Japanese, estimated at two regiments of infantry, attacked with bayonets, and in severe engagement which lasted three hours forced the Russian lines northwest accross Khanda river. Reinforcements have come up on both sides, and yesterday afternoon an artillery engagement began in Changtu mountains, extending from Nan-shensi to Shaho valley. Many small skirmishes are in progress along entire line southwest of this point. Japanese attempting to force right flank of Russian position.

Paris, May 23.—Advices have been received here by a firm of French bankers, who have been active in floating Russian loans, from their confidential agent at St. Petersburg, to the effect that Admiral Rojestvensky had died of dysentary, and that Admiral Nebogatoff has assumed command of the Russian fleet.

Log Jam.

Minneapolis, May 23.—Every bridge over the Mississippi in Minneapolis and St. Paul and even the government dam is in danger of being swept away by an immense log jam in the river, three miles north of the workhouse. There are 100,000,000 feet of lumber in the jam, which is grinding with fearful pressure against the feeble piers. While the river falls or remains stationary, say rivermen, there is no danger, but if the river rises the logs may be released to carry everything away in their course.

The jam is the largest that has ever been formed by the logs waiting for the use of the Minneapolis sawmills at the booms. It extends from a point almost opposite where the Brooklyn Center road runs into Lyndale to a point about two miles north. The width of the jam is about one-third of a mile, as the logs block the channel from Dunham island to the east shore of the river.

Saved by Tree Tops.

Mankato, Minn., May 23.—While Bernal Morrison, son of A. M. Morrison, editor of the Mankato Journal, and Ralph Sinot, accompanied by two young women, were boat riding on the Minnesota river near Sibley Park, the boat was overturned. They succeeded in grasping the tops of willow trees standing in the swollen stream, and clung to them until rescued.

Morrison and one of the young woman had a narrow escape from drowning. Morrison having gone down twice.

Corner on Corn.

Chicago, May 23.—A stampede of shorts Monday advanced the price of corn for May delivery precisely 6 cents a bushel. It was current gossip that the May option is practically cornered by a few prominent traders. A desire to avoid possibly greater loss was the cause of the urgent demand from those on the wrong side. The May delivery opened at 53c. The price quickly jumped up to 59c a bushel. Realizing sales caused a reaction to 57⅛c.

High Water.

La Crosse, Wis., May 23.—The Mississippi has risen six inches yesterday and two feet in the last three days, and is still rising slightly.

In North La Crosse a large section is under water, people going about in boats where the land is usually dry. Manufacturing industries are greatly unconvenienced and can only be operated with difficulty.

Sulphite Plant Burns.

Appleton, Wis., May 23.—The sulphite plant of Riverside Fiber & Paper company was destroyed by fire Monday. The insurance is $100,000. The loss is possibly 20 per cent more.

Woman Clerk Fined.

Deadwood, S. D., May 22.—The United States court, in the case of Mrs. Sadie Ford of Hill City, who was indicted at Sioux Falls at a recent term of the United States court, fined her $50. Mrs. Ford pleaded guilty to the charge of opening mail which passed through her hands as assistant postmaster. The fine was made light on account of the pleadings of her attorney, and Congressman E. W. Marton, who stated that Mrs. Ford had not fully recognized the wrong of the act.

A FEW more Equitable suits and the St. Cloud Times wonders if it pays to continue to pay life insurance premiums.

RAY JONES has been assuring the newspaper reporters that he could be induced to accept the nomination for governor next year.

GOV. JOHNUON has appointed O. J. Johnson, of Glenwood, a member of the fish and game board, to succeed Capt. William Bird, of Fairmont.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER O'BRIEN has appointed Edward Peterson, of St. Paul, as fire marshal. This is a new office created by the last legislature.

THE Fairmont News has discovered that the Pioneer Press is absolutely free from corporate control. The discoverles being made by Bro. Mitchell are alarming.

WHETHER Nan Patterson killed Ceasar Young or not, the Winona Independent refuses to recommend her methods of advertising to other girls seeking a dramatic career.

THE Duluth Herald doesn't believe in the theory of removing temtation from legislators. The effect would be more salutary to remove the legislators who are so fond of temptation.

THE Sauk Center Herald sagely observes that when an employe gets it into his head that his employer cannot run his business without him he is of no further use; and when a public official gets the idea that the public business cannot be properly transacted without him he is of no further use to the public.

EDITOR EASTMAN is in imminent danger of being again hailed for les majeste. In the current issue of the Thief River News he says:

"Ray Jones, of Minneapolis, it is said, may become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. It ought not to be hard to find a candidate that could easily defeat him, and we hardly believe that he would be able to secure the support of his home county."

A FAMOUS physician upon being asked recently what was the chief cause of ill health, replied: "Thinking and talking about it all the time. This ceaseless introspection in which so many of the rising generation of nervous folks indulge is certainly wearing them out. When they are not worrying as to whether they sleep too much or too little they are fidgeting over the amount of food they take or the quantity of exercise necessary for health. In short, they never give themselves a moment's peace."

ACCORDING to the report of Insurance Commissioner O'Brien, the insurance companies made a big profit during the year 1904, says the Fairmont Sentinel. His report will show that the net earnings of the legal reserve companies admitted to Minnesota were $117,247,130, as compared with approximately $59,000,000 in 1903. The Minnesota department is one of the few insurance departments in the United States that prepare a statement showing the exact profits of each company, and annual report of the Minnesota commissioner for this reason is much in demand among life underwriters of other states.

STATE CAPITOL LETTER.

St. Paul, Minn., May 24, 1905.

The new Democratic administration is proving a thorn in the side of grafters and special interests. Heretofore innumerable violations of the spirit and letter of the law have been considerately overlooked and condoned by those in authority because the offenders have invariably been high in party councils and were supposed to be entitled to "get something out of it." The Johnson regime is on an altogether different basis. The administration is not in the business of protecting wrongdoers from the consequences of their misdeeds. An instance in point is the removal of two commissioners in Beltrami, one of the newer counties up north where graft has held high carnival and the tax-payers have been systematically robbed of at least $200,000 by dishonest officials. The condition of affairs up there was not unknown to the preceding administration. The robbery has been going on for years, but the county was "reliably" Republican and could be depended upon to return a thousand majority—and more if necessary—for the state ticket. A number of well known timber exploiters—also "reliably" Republican—were past masters in the art of telling "dead and down" timber by the way it stood up, and succeeded admirably in dodging taxes on logs they had purloined from the state. Hence no outcry was made by those in authority. As soon as Governor Johnson had the reins well in hand he sent the public examiner up to investigate. He succeded in finding all sorts of corruption. The public officials were rooting in the spoils of office, and even the newspapers were in connivance with the conspirators. As a result of the investigation two commissioners were removed from office, the county attorney resigned under fire, and suspicion of crookedness is directed to others. The gang of looters has been broken up, Beltrami County has been redeemed from the public corruptionits, and the investigation will have a chastening effect on other counties where official probity is held lightly. And the end is not yet. Other counties are to feel the lash of searching investigations, and at the close of Governor Johnson's first term county corruption and mismanagement will be at a minimum.

* * *

The results of the public examiner's bureau are not the only achievements of the early months of Governor Johnson's administration. The dairy and food commissioner, the insurance commissioner and the labor bureau have all contributed to the improved conditions, and the Republican departments have caught the atmosphere of reform. For instance the auditor's office and land department have been regenerated and the loose and incomplete methods of former years discarded. The timber board, consisting of the governor, auditor and treasurer, now holds stated meetings and all matters of conquence are considered by the entire board instead of delegating full authority to a single member. The same is true of the drainage commission, and all the other of which the governor is a member. An instance of the effect of the governor's contention for the wise expenditure of public money is illustrated in the action of the capitol commission in lopping off $6,800 in salaries when he was reported to have said that the janitors, firemen, guides and other factotums were falling over in the halls and corridors of the new capitol.

* * *

The new dairy and food commissioner, Mr. Slater was selected wholly on the grounds of fitness and ability. The leading dairymen of the state told the governor that Mr. Slater was the best qualified man in the state for that position. And he is proving to the people that he was worthy of this confidence. His service to the people of St. Paul and Minneapolis in compelling the venders of adulterated milk and cream to obey the law is in itself a great achievement, but this is not all of his record. Dealers in adulterated food products all over the state have been prosecuted, and it no longer pays the manufacturer or dealer in poisonous or adulterated preparations to prey upon the public. Mr. Slater brings to his work an unusually high order of ability and a teachnical knowledge of the industries within the scope of his department. His work is resulting in a betterment of quality and greater improvements are hoped for under a continued rigid enforcement of our laws.

* * *

Fourth of July orators are coming in demand, and many of the state house officials are already engaged for this day. Governor Johnson goes to Luverne. He is in great demand from every quarter of the state at all sorts of functions, and has been compelled to decline more than half of the invitations owing to the press of public business. Cleve Van Dyke, the governor's brainy confidential clerk, who made a magnificent race for congress in the Sixth district last year, will pull a few tail feathers from the American eagle at Delano.

* * *

Visitors from all parts of the United States are still numerous about the capitol. It is the universal expression of the casual visitor that the building is magnificent in appointment and architectural design, but the officials who inhabit the structure are not so profuse in their praise. There is no criticism of the beauty of design or magnificence of finish, but it is the almost universal opinion that practicability and utility has to a laage extent been sacrificed to dignity and harmony. The windows are often disadvantageously placed, and the rooms of many departments illy arranged. But the people demand stateliness and symmetry and all that sort of thing in a great public building—and they have it.

Successful Home Treatment.

Dr. Hartman's Cure for Female Diseases—A Generous Offer to Women.

Invalid Women are Applying by Thousands for Dr. Hartman's Free Home Treatment by Letter.

MRS. J. P. COADY, Treasurer of the Ivy Leaf Club, 1,702 6th Avenue, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes:

"Peruna is no experimental medicine. I have used it off and on now for three years. At that time I was cured of irregular and painful menstruation. Since that time I have taken it for indigestion or whenever I felt overworked and in need of a tonic, and I have always found that it was of great benefit to me. I am therefore pleased and happy to say a word in its praise and shall gladly indorse it to my friends."---Mrs. J. P. Coady.

Miss Hattie Grace, 254 West 46th St., New York, writes:

"Peruna has changed me from a fretful, irritable, nervous woman into a healthy and a happy one. Nothing seems to worry and to fret me any more. Since early womanhood I suffered with bearing down pains and nervousness. I was thin and worried, but Peruna restored me. Those who knew me before cannot understand the change, but I can sum it all up in the blessed word, Peruna."--Hattie Grace.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ferguson, No. 151 51st St., Brooklyn, N. Y., President West Brooklyn Audubon Society, writes:

"I am pleased to tell what a blessing Peruna has been to me. Several years ago my constitution seemed broken down and I cared little whether I lived or died. I had taken so much medicine that the sight of a bottle made me sick. I had read about Peruna curing women, and I thought perhaps it would help me. I bought a bottle and before it was finished I felt better. I kept on taking it, and after three months' faithful use I was a well woman and able to do the work and undergo the strain of younger days."---Elizabeth Ferguson.

In view of the great multitude of women suffering from some form of female disease and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned gynecologist, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases as make application to him during the summer months without charge.

The treatment will be conducted by correspondence. The doctor will prescribe all medicines, applications, hygienic and dietary regulations necessary to complete a cure. The medicines prescribed can be obtained at all drug stores. This offer will hold good only during the summer months. Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, history and symptoms of her derangements.

All cases of female diseases, including menstrual irregularities, displacements, ulcerations, inflammations, discharges, irritation of the ovaries, tumors and dropsy of the abdomen, should apply at once and become registered as regular patients. All correspondence will be held strictly confidential.

As is well known, Dr. Hartman is the president of The Hartman Sanitarium, an institution which has a department devoted exclusively to the treatment of female diseases. He is thus brought to see thousands of such cases every year, the most of whom return to their homes to be treated by correspondence. The principal remedy he relies upon in such cases is Peruna, which every woman should have who has any affection of this kind. Those, wishing to become patients should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

No one knows better than Dr. Hartman how much the women suffer with diseases peculiar to their sex. No one knows better than he does how many of them suffer with such diseases. Patiently, hopefully, wearily, and often silently, they eke out a miserable existence, year after year.

No martyr in poetry or heroine in romance makes a more touching appeal to human sympathy than the woman burdened with the cares of a family trying to carry the extra load of some tormenting and ever present female disease.

Dr. Hartman's sympathy for such is unbounded, and his willingness to help them limited only to his power.

One provision of the new game laws passed by the Minnesota legislature last winter is brought to the attention of local sportsmen. This is a restriction regarding the granting of licenses. Hereafter a hunter can kill birds in his own county without taking out a license, but if he wants to hunt in some other county he will have to take out a license at a cost of $1. This arrangement premits farmers to hunt around their own farms without taking out a license.

Notice of the reception appears elsewhere in this paper.

While the increase in the value of farm land during the last decade is a subject of frequent comment there are other things belonging to the farm in which the increase is fully marked yet which are seldom considered. And one of these is the value of a dairy cow. Ten years ago Minnesota cows averaged only sixty pounds of butter a year. The state farmers institute has been holding sessions regularly during recent years and more attention has been given to stock and dairy matters, with the result that the average Minnesota cow now gives 160 pounds of butter annually. And the cost of keeping the cow that gives the 160 pounds of butter is no more than the cost of keeping and caring for the bovine ten years ago. The next ten years will no doubt see an even greater gain.

MALARIA A Poison Breathed into the System

The air arising from low, marshy places, damp cellars, stagnant ponds and pools and from decaying vegetable matter, as well as the gases from sewers, is loaded with germs of malarial poison. The water we drink, that has not been properly filtered and purified, is also full of these germs and microbes, and as we daily breathe and drink millions of these into the system, to be absorbed by the blood, the entire body begins to feel the effects of the poison. The most common form of Malaria is "chills and fever," but when the blood is thoroughly saturated with the poison it becomes so weak and polluted that abscesses, carbuncles, boils, sores, ulcers and other skin diseases result. Malaria also affects the liver, kidneys, bowels and stomach, producing a chronic state of biliousness that often results in jaundice or some malignant fever. In cases of Malaria the blood must be purified before the body can regain its natural health. S. S. S. contains purifying and tonic properties possessed by no other blood medicine, and is the ideal remedy for the treatment of Malaria. It destroys the germs of the disease and builds up the weakened, polluted circulation. It enters into the blood and forces out every particle of poison and waste matter and adds strength and activity to it. S. S. S. improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the entire system by its alterative and purifying action, and Malaria, with all its bad effects, is permanently driven from the system. Book on the blood and any medical advice, without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

MALARIA IN HIS SYSTEM FOR YEARS.

For several years I suffered with Chills and Fever, caused by Malaria in my system, and each summer for several years I would have a relapse. Finally my physician prescribed S. S. S. It entirely cured me; I have never been troubled since. 913 W. Market St., Louisville, Ky. I. SHAPOFF.

STATE LAND SALE.

State Auditor Announces Thousands of Acres Will Be Sold.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson announces that he will sell from 50,000 to 100,000 acres of state lands in the northern part of the state this fall. The maximum acreage which the state may sell under the law each year is 100,000, and the state auditor intimates that he may go the limit.

The exact dates and places of the sales have not been fixed, but it is understood that they will take place in St. Louis, Aitkin, Carlton, Beltrami, Crow Wing, Hubbard and possibly Polk, Fed Lake and W.dena counties. The sales will probably be held in September or October.

Mr. Iverson says that much of the land that will be put on sale is located in settled districts, within a few miles of railroads, school houses and churches.

The Higher Life.

St. Cloud Times: Senator Depew says Washington is the only place in the country where "mind can separate from and enjoy the lights and shadows of the higher life." The Senator's mission in Washington is doubtless the spiritual improvement of Senators who corrupt legislatures and of railway magnates who seek to prevent railway rate legislation.

Opposes Death Penalty.

Gov. Johnson declares that he is opposed to capital punishment, but as long as such is the law of the state, he can see no other way than to carry out its mandate.

"I have my views on capital punishment," said Gov. Johnson, "and they are in accord with those of my private secretary, Mr. Day. I am opposed to it. I do not think it is right."

"However," added the executive, "my views will not be allowed to interfere. The law provides for capital punishment, it says that I shall fix the punishment, it says I shall fix the date of execution, and that settles it. I have no alternative but to obey. I suppose I could evade the disagreeable task, but I shall not."

Gov. Johnson, in fixing the date for hanging of Gottschalk, practically extended his time one month from that fixed by the trial judge.

Gov. Johnsen says he has no especial reasons for selecting Aug. 8 as the date. Gottschalk could not be executed within the two months, and the governer says he thought adding another month would do no harm.

Governor Names Flag Day.

The removal of the battle flags captured by the Minnesota regiments in the civil war from the old to the new capitol will be the feature of the celebration of Flag day in St. Paul, according to the proclamation of Gov. John A. Johnson, issued yesterday, designating June 14 as Flag day.

J. M. Bowler. D. L. Kingsley, J. H. Abbott, C. R. Fix, J. S. McDonald and L. W. Collins are named to make provision for the proper removal of the flags from the old to the new capitol building and to arrange for fitting ceremonies for that occasion.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

State Fair.

Hamline.—The state fair of 1905 will be held Sept. 4. to Sept. 9, inclusive, and will be the most comprehensive ever held in the United States. It will be much larger even than the great fair of 1904. No industry will be neglected. Each department will be in charge of a superintendent, selected because of his competency and experience in that particular line, and each part of the fair will be given well-balanced attention. The fair will not be strong in some particulars and weak in others. It will be strong in all.

For instance, the great sweepstakes prize for creamery butter, which has for several years past attracted an enormous display at the state fair is this year, increased from $800 to $1,000.

Another interesting prize and a new one, is that of $100 sweepstakes for exhibits of corn husked and in stalk to be shown on a table three by six feet with wall space. This suggests the developed importance of the corn growing industry of Minnesota. As last year, $2,000 goes to county exhibits and similar liberal appropriations are found all through the book.

The premium list is for free distribution. Anyone interested may obtain it by addressing Secretary E. W. Randall, State Fair Grounds, Minn.

Settled.

St. Paul.—Attorney General Young has made a settlement of the suit he commenced last January for the recovery of a half-section of timberland in the eastern part of Hubbard county.

It was set up that the land had been erroneously appraised in 1902 by three citizens of Hubbard county as being devoid of timber and had been sold in October, 1902, as agricultural land, at $5 an acre. The land was sold to S. W. Allen of Walker and later transferred to West & Bonness of Minneapolis. State Auditor Iverson found the land contained 1,500,000 feet of of white pine timber.

Indians.

White Earth.—Minnesota Indians will not be included in the enumeration of the residents of the state to be made under the direction of the state census department.

Superintendent George Wright stated that the enumerators would be instructed to count only Indians who were entitled to the rights of suffrage. In the Leech Lake reservation a large number of the Indians have participated in the allotments of government money, which gives them the right of citizenship.

The great majority of the Indians of the state, however, are still wards of the government and the Indian reservations will be practically free from the invasion of the census enumerator. The agents of all Indian reservations have been asked for a complete statement as to the number of Indians entitled to citizenship.

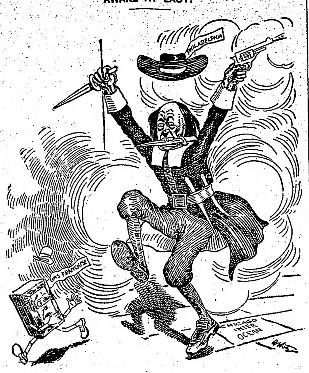
AWAKE AT LAST.



THIEVES STEAL HANDSOME JEWELS

FIRM OF TIFFANY & CO., ROBBED OF THREE STONES CUT FROM FAMOUS DIAMOND.

Value of the Gems Is Placed at $90,000—Old and Trusted Employes Are Blamed for Carelessness Making Theft Possible.

New York, May 22.—Three diamonds cut from the world famous Excelsior stone and valued in the aggregate at $90,000 were stolen from the shop of Tiffany & Co. on May 4. The fact was made public for the first time Saturday. Detective forces on two continents are working to recover the gems. In all ten diamonds were cut from the Excelsior last fall shortly after its purchase by Tiffany from an English syndicate. The stone was found at Jagersfontein, South Africa, in 1893, and in the rough weighed 971 carats. It was the largest diamond that has ever been cut up and the total value of the ten stones taken from it was $500,000. Five of the diamonds were sold by Tiffany to well known New York people last Christmas. Of the remaining five the company now has only two.

Stolen in Workshop.

The robbery was committed in the workshop on the fifth floor of the Tiffany building in Union square, on the afternoon of Thursday, May 4. The next morning, when the manager of the department went to take them from the safe in which they should have been locked for the night, they had disappeared. In fact, the three diamonds upon which a trusted workman had been employed all day on May 4 never had been placed in the safe. Loosely wrapped in paper the $90,000 worth of jewels had been laid by the workman an the shelf window of the wire cage which separates the office from the workshop.

Detectives are working on the theory that one of the 60 men and boys in the shop knew what this particular package contained and that the temptation to take it was too great to be resisted.

Although 16 days have passed since the robbery was committed, not one satisfactory clew has been found, but Tiffany & Co., and the police are confident that the jewels cannot be disposed of without detection.

Wonderful Jewels.

Of the three diamonds, the largest weighs 31 carats and is valued at $50,000. Another of 24 carats is worth $25,000. The smallest one, weighing 20 carats, would bring $15,000. All are pearl shaped and absolutely pure white. Their brilliancy is remarkable. Each one is flawless. Tiffany & Co. were proud of the ten diamonds and experts pronounced them to be as fine as ever known.

They never had been displayed in the store, but were shown to customers in the diamond room. J. Pierpont Morgan, Thomas W. Lawson, the Astors, Vanderbilts and other wealthy people handled and admired them when the firm decided first to sell the ten stones in one set. The price asked—$500,000—proved a stumbling block to this plan, so the diamonds had to be disposed of separately.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 22.—One of the most disastrous fires that has occurred in this city in some years started in the business district at an early hour Sunday morning, and not until afternoon were the firemen able to control the flames. The loss entailed will reach fully $300,000. The Isaac Long dry goods firm is the heaviest loser.

Moro Chief Killed.

Manila, May 19.—News has been received that Pala, the outlaw Moro chief, who has been pursued the past two weeks on the island of Jolo by troops under the command of Gen. Leonard Wood, has been killed. His few surviving followers are being trailed by the troops.

CAUSED AN UPROAR.

Philadelphia City Councils Lease Gas Works to a Private Company.

Philadelphia, May 19.—Amid scenes of disorder unprecedented in the annals of Philadelphia's legislative body, both branches of the city council voted to lease the city's gas works to the United Gas Improvement company for a term of 75 years for the total sum of $25,000,000, the money to be paid in various amounts before the end of 1907. Council chambers and committee rooms were crowded with excited citizens protesting against the lease to the United Gas Improvement company. The climax was reached when the vote in common council was announced, after three hours of debate. The moment President George McCurdy of the common council announced the vote a great uproar was started in the gallery, which was crowded to the door. From all over the gallery came hisses and cries of "Thieves!" The outburst was somewhat startling to the presiding officer, who made a vain effort to quell it. Finally he sent for a squad of police to clear the gallery.

Mayor Weaver is expected to veto the bill, and in that event both chambers will probably pass it over his veto. The vote in the common council was 74 to 9, and in the select council, 37 to 4. There is only one democrat in each body, and both voted against the lease. There is some talk among citizens who fought the lease to take the matter to the courts.

FATAL GALE IN TEXAS.

One Man Killed and Considerable Damage Reported at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 22.—A heavy wind storm blowing at the rate of 70 miles an hour struck this city from the southwest at 6:30 Sunday night. Part of the west wall of the Texas & Pacific passenger station was blown in and John Young, a train dispatcher, killed. The storm was most severe west of the city and all telephone and telegraph wires in that direction are down. A passenger on a Texas & Pacific train from the west reports that the town of Mineral Wells was partly blown away. One church building, belonging to the African Methodist Episcopal congregation here, was demolished. Many business buildings lost their roofs, including the First national bank building, a seven-story structure.

The bill in the main is as introduced in its original form, and also passed the assembly by a large majority. It provides for an appointive railway commission of three members, with a salary of $5,000 per year, with power to prescribe just and equitable rates, charges and regulations, to govern and regulate freight and passenger rates and switching and other charges, to correct abuses and prevent unjust discriminations in railroad rates.

SIEFF ANSWERS PLETH.

Editor COURIER:—In the Plummer Pioneer of May 6th, Julius Pleth caused to be published a long statement telling why he had caused my arrest on the charge of horse-stealing. While I was very sorry that Mr. Pleth should do all in his power to injure me by. dragging my name in the newspapers as well as in Court, I determined not to answer until I could back up my statements by the decisions of the Court, which I knew must surely prove that I was right and Pleth was wrong.

That time has now come. In justice to myself and my friends I wish to state the real facts as they have been proven in Court. About April 19th last, Julius Pleth and his hired man, Oscar Carlson, a constable, drove to my farm in Equality, and finding my team working in the field, unhitched them and took them away, claiming that they had been mortgaged by F.E. Sullivan. One of this team was already mine and had never been owned by Sullivan. The other had been sold me by Sullivan, and neither of them was included or described in the mortgage which Sullivan had given the Bank of Plummer. Pleth could not find the horses which Sullivan had mortgaged, and so took mine. I immediately replevied the horses, and the case was tried Tuesday this week. I proved the horses mine, obtained judgment against the Bank of Plummer for their return, and damages for their wrongful taking from me. Mr. Pleth did not even show up at the trial, in spite of all his newspaper talk.

Now as to the horse which I was charged with stealing. About April 27th, Pleth and Carlson went to the farm of Thor Gunstenson, and finding Mr.Gunstenson plowing in the field, seized one of his horses, unhitched it from the plow, against his will, and took it away, claiming it under the Sullivan mortgage. This was a horse which Sullivan had never owned or mortaged, or described in any mortgage. I bought the horse at Red Lake Falls, sold it to Alex Arveson, who traded it to Gunstenson. Neither Mr. Pleth nor the Bank ever owned it or had a mortgage on it or any other claim to it. Yet Pleth caused his man Carlson to swear out a warrant charging me and Gunstensen, the owner of the horse, with stealing it. Pleth had no great grudge against Gunstenson, so he was arrested, and premitted to go on his own bond. But I was arrested without any warrant, thrown into jail, andarssulted while helpless in the jail. Bail bonds for my release signed by the cashier of the best Bank in the County were offered, but refused without any reason. News of my arrest was sent to the newspapers and reached my sick wife in the Hospital at Minneapolis Not satisfied with that, Mr. Pleth himself wrote the article I have referred to and had it published. My hearing was put off from time to time, but when it finally came up for trial at Plummer, last Monday, Mr. Pleth did not show up at all, except to come and ask me if I was willing he should drop the case. But I told him in the presence of witnesses to go on and prove what he had said he could prove. Then he instructed the County Attorney to dismiss the case against both Gunstenson and myself, and it was done. I leave the public to judge who is the guilty one.

The Great Northern and Soo Line Trains to Winnipeg.

There is a speed contest on between the Great Northern and Soo Lines between the twin cities and Winnipeg. The stake is the carryng of the mails between the two points. The rivalry between the two great railway systems is resulting in better service by both roads better roadbeds, better and more comfortable coaches and greater attention to passenger service. It is said that the mail contract is worth nearly $400,000 per year. The improved conditions are bringing to the roads a greater amount of passenger traffic.

New heavy steel rails have recently been laid on both roads and the roadbeds are being heavily balasted with gravel. The new trains put on are not excelled by any road in the west. The engines are of the most improved passenger type, the speediest engines made. The time between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg is being cut down and it is said that the Great Northern is contemplating a speed of not less than sixty miles an hour, inclusive of stops.

Big Expense to the County

That is What Thief River's Offer Turns Out to Be.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 16, 1905.

Mr. Alex A. Sweaas,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Dear Sir:—At the time you brought the petition for the removal of the county seat to Thief River Falls to my office you made the proposition that you would post the notices of the special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners in all the towns of the County free of charge. These notices are now ready for posting and if your proposition still holds good either come down or send your men down on this evening's train, and I will deliver the notices to you or them.

Yours very truly,
James E, Ford,
County Auditor

Thief River Falls, Minn., May 17, 1905

Mr. James E. Ford, County Auditor.
Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Dear Sir: I have just received yours of of yesterday referring to the offer I gave you in regard posting the notices of the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners at the time we was there with the petition. At that time our committee concluded to do that work and pay the expenses for same, but you know how much unneccessary trouble and expenses this Mr. Duffy's Injunction Case put us into; we had about forty (40) Affidafits to get from nearly all over the county to prove that Duffy's alligations was not true. This alone cost us more than what the posting of the notices would amounted to, and a considerable expense beside that. On these reasons the committee do not feel like doing the posting of these notices, and I for my part, personally have no time now to do it; I have the assessing to do, and the census to take for the whole city, which will keep me very busily up to July 1st.

Yours respectfully,
Alex A. Sweaas.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

How the Expense Is Paid for Quarantined People.

The attorney general has rendered an opinion as who is to pay the expense of the control of contagious diseases which will be of general interest. Part of his opinion is as follows:

"All expenses incurred in the care of a person ill of a contagious or infectuous disease is first charged against such person, his parents or guardian. If he or they are unable to pay the same then the entire expense is a charge against the county in which he has a legal settlement, if under the county system of caring for the poor, if the town system for caring for them in force in your county, and the person ill is unable to pay the same, the political subdivision chargeable with the care of such person as a pauper must meet the entire expense. You will note the distinction between control and care in the forgoing opinion.

"There has been some controversy as to what may be properly included under control, and what may properly be designated as care. In the opinion of this office the establishment of the quarantine, including the services of the board of health, the physicians employed by them for that purpose, the raising of the quarantine and the expense of the guard for the purpose of maintaining the quarantine, are probably chargeable to general control. On the other hand, expenses incurred for a physician, food and other necessaries of life for the person ill are expenses. In my judgment, clearly chargeable to care, and payable as above indicated, whether ordered by the board of health or by the person ill. A person ill of a contagious disease where able, is liable, in my judgment, for the expense of his care even where ordered solely by the board of health."

Worth Reading.

In all the Baking Powder "Wars" that have boen intermittently waged in the last twenty years, there is one point that has been overlooked by the belligerent makers of these goods. Rival manufacturers have contented themselves with accusing their competitors of making an unwholesome product. The question of keeping quality, and therefore, efficiency in raising bred, the only purpose for which baking powder is used, appears to have been generally ignored. There are many powders, which, when fresh, and the can is first uncovered, will do fairly good work, but after standing some time on the pantry shelf, the powder becomes so weak as to be almost worthless as far as raising bread is concerned. This is especially true in the case of the so called "Phosophate powders, which, were it not for this fatal defect, would be satisfactory baking powders. The unsuccessful attempts to overcome this fault of the "Phosopnate" powders has enlisted the services of more chemists and cost more money than the solution of any other problem connected with the raising of bread. The makers of these "Phosophate" powders raise a great cry about the wonderful healthiness of their product, but what matters all this if the powder will not fulfill the only object for which it is purchased? The housewife to whom economy is an object will avoid these "Phosophate" powders.

Let Common Sense Decide

Do you honestly believe, that coffee sold loose (in bulk), exposed to dust, germs and insects, passing through many hands (some of them not over-clean), "blended," you don't know how or by whom, is fit for your use? Of course you don't. But is another story. The green berries, selected by keen judges at the plantation, are skillfully roasted at our factories, where precautions you would not dream of are taken to secure perfect cleanliness, flavor, strength and uniformity.

From the time the coffee leaves the factory no hand touches it till it is opened in your kitchen.

This has made LION COFFEE the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES.

Millions of American Homes welcome LION COFFEE daily. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity. "Quality survives all opposition."

NEW MAIL ROUTE TO CITY

Uncle Sam will Establish a Route from Dorothy to this City via. Wylie.

Postmistress Marshall received notice the first of the week that a new mail route is to be established in Red Lake county and the following notice has been given a prominent position in the post office at this place:

"Sealed proposals will be received by the Second Assistant Postmaster General until June 13, 1905, for carrying the United States mails for the term from July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1907, on the following described route—including the depositing and collecting of mail along the route—by the schedule stated, or such other schedule of like running time as the Postmaster General may prescribe:

"From Dorothy by Wylie to Red Lake Falls, 18 miles and back, six times a week."

The notice provides for the following time table or schedule: Lv. Dorothy at 6 a. m., arrive Red Lake Falls at 11:00 a. m,; returning leave this city at 12 m. arriving at Dorothy at 5 p. m. Bonds required with bid, $1,600.

It will be noticed that the service will be every week day, and that farmers and patrons living along the route will be allowed the privileges of a rural mail route.

STATE CAN USE THE CASH

Money to Be Provided for Taking Care of Needs of Counties and School Districts.

State Treasurer J. H. Block will likely recommend to the board of investment the sale of all or part of the state's holding of the Virginia bonds which amount to $2,145,000. He is now investigating the probable price that these bonds would bring in case they were offered for sale.

All these bonds mature in 1901 with the exception of $52,500. The state of Virginia has the option of redeeming them at par after 1906. Mr. Bock is now corresponding with the authorities of Virginia to ascertain what proportion of them, if any, they expect to redeem.

Mr. Block's object in such a disposition of the bonds is to place more funds at the disposal of the board of investment municipalities, and counties for the purpose of building school houses, court houses and construction of drainage ditches.

It has been found at present impossible to supply all of these calls. This is particularly true of the northern part of the state, which is rapidly developing. These loans pay the state four per cent interest or 33 1-3 per cent more than the Virginia bonds. The Virginia bonds only bear three per cent.

Mr. Block thinks that such a disposition of the bonds would not only aid the municipalities and school districts, but it would also result in a much greater revenue to the state school, university and other trust funds.

HONOR THE NATION'S HEROES

Appropriate Memorial Day Exercises held in Red Lake Falls—Civil War Veterans Honored.

Red Lake Falls observed Decoration Day with appropriate exercises at the Metropolitan opera house. Although the preparations were made somewhat hurriedly the affair was a success in every particular.

At 10:30 a. m. the old soldiers formed in marching order at the city hall and proceeded to the school house, led by the band. At the Lafayette school building the school children joined the procession and the parade marched through the principal streets of the city, dispersing at the Metropolitan opera house.

The meeting at the opera house was attended by a large crowd, all bent on honoring the old soldiers. Mayor Duffy persided at the meeting, and the music was furnished by a large chorus and the band. Hon. L. C. Simons, Atty. Fred. L. Farley and Supt. of Schools Chamberlain were the speakers of the occasion. The gentlemen's talks were timely and befitting the occasion. Their addresses teemed with patriotism and honor for the old war veterans and were most kindly received by the large audience present. There are but a few of the old soldiers left in this vicinity and it is a pleasure and a duty the public owes them to meet once a year and pay tribute to their deeds of valor and daring.

In the afternoon a ball game was played between the high school nine and a team picked up about town. The town club won the game by a score of nine to two, but it was a close game until the seventh or eighth inning. The game was witnessed by a number of people.

A number of the local trap shooters held an impromtu shoot in the afternoon. Dr. F. F. Fletcher proved the best shot, making a record of twenty-four birds out of a possible twenty-five.

MASTODON AT FOSSTON.

Homesteader Finds Bones of What was Likely a Mastodon.

Foston has a Mastodon skeleton the head of which is some three and one half feet in length and the teeth four inches in length.

A skeleton was dug up by a farmer fifteen miles north of that place. It was found at a depth of twelve and one half feet and was a very large one. Though badly decomposed its general form and size could be clearly made out. The head itself extended from corner of the well and which is about three feet square. The teeth are well preserved and the largest ones are between three and four inches in length, occuring in groups of three of four in length. The general character of the country where the skeleton was found is hilly. The sub-soil in the locality is sand and gravel, the particular stratum surrounding the skeleton being a black loam.

Various opinions are current as to the character of the skeleton, but the best informed persons who have seen the bones incline to the view that they are of a mastodon. Dr. McKinnon of that place has in his possession some of the best preserved bones.

A Building Without Wood.

Two Baltimore architects have drawn the plans for a sixstory building entirely without wood. The entire structure will be of reinforced concrete and steel. Even the doors, trimmings, window sashes and door jams will be of metal. From the modern idea this will be a "perfect" building, just as golden grain belt beer is a "perfect" food drink. It contains the strength of purest barley malt and hops in a liquid form easy to digest. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson Crookston.

FIELD MEET HERE SATURDAY

Fertile and Red Lake High Schools Will Strive for Honor and Fame in Athletic Contests Saturday.

Word was received this noon that the Fertile high school scholars will be here Saturday to try conclusions with representatives of the local school in a field meet. The events will take place at the base ball park, beginning at 1 o'clock p. m.

The program will call for foot races of 100 yards, 220 yards and 440 yards. There will be 120 yard and 220 yard hurdle races, 12 lb. shot put, 12 lb. hammer throw, running high jump, running broad jump, running hop, step and jump at the pole vault—eleven events in all.

The judges have not been selected yet but will be announced later. The usual school yells and enthusiasm will no doubt be in evidence and a good time is looked for.

PERFORMANCE POSTPONED.

Operetta by the Choral Union to be given Next Week.

"Phylis, the Farmer's Daughter," the operetta to be given by the choral union, has been postponed until Friday evening of next week. It was intended to present "Phylis" this week, but the illness of Prof. Onstad, the director and leading tenor singer, has prevented this.

The singers have been working faithfully on this work and have the operetta well in hand. The leading parts are taken by singers of ability and the chorus is especially strong. The program and cast of characters will be announced in next week's papers, and the evening of the performance will no doubt find a large audience of our music-loving people present at the opra house.

NEW RAILWAY SURVEY.

Great Northern said to be Surveying a New Line to this City.

People in a position to know are led to believe that the Great Northern railway is preparing to build a line from Blackduck to Red Lake Falls the coming summer. At the present time engineers are working in Beltrami county.

E. J. Swedback of Bemidji, engineer for the Bemidji, Red Lake & Manitoba Ry. Co., and one of the best authorities on railroad matters in Northern Minnesota, stated recently that there was no doubt in his mind but that the line would be built this summer.

NEW DEAL ON GRAIN BOARD

Red River Valley Given Two Places—Kelso of Hallock and McManus of Crookston.

Five new members of the state board of grain appeals were appointed yesterday by Gov. John A. Johnson, and the sixth member, Arthur F. Evenson of St. Peter, was reappointed. He was appointed by Governor Johnson to succeed N. Lally of Crookston last February. He is an old friend and neighbor of the Governor and a Democrat. Mr. Evenson is a nephew of C. F. Johnson of Red Lake Falls. The positions pay $2,200 a year.

The five new members who will take office Aug. 1, follow: Theodore Thorson, Republican, Glenwood; S. B. Thorson, Republican, Winthrop; W. F. Kelso, Democrat, Hallock; J. F. Cargar, Democrat, Fergus Falls; T. B. McManus, Democrat, Crookston. The law provides that not more than four members shall be of the same political party.

Following are the five members whose service on the board will end Aug. 1: E. H. Pugh, Duluth; G. J. Strang, Alexandria; James K. Stone Montevideo; Franklyn L. Greenleaf, Minneapolis; A. C. Aaby, Rockdell, Olmstead county.

This announcement closes one o the most vigorous contests for appointments since Gov. Johnson became the chief executive of the state. There were nearly eighty applicants for the positions, and many delegations waited upon the governor to urge the appointment of a favorite candidate.

The action of the governor in not naming a resident of any of the three large cities on the board caused considerable surprise, since the board sits in the Twin Cities and at Duluth. It was stated at the governor's office yesterday that the appointments were given to the country because the three large cities had been well taken care of in the way of appointments and because it was thought a board composed of country members would work more harmoniously.

ASSAULTED BY MAD MOOSE.

Former Red Lake Falls Girl Has a Thrilling Experience.

Big Fork Compass: Mrs. J. M. Allard had a very unpleasant and unusual experience while wandering over her husband's homestead in Grand Falls township, four miles from the village. With her 22-calibre rifle and accompanied by the family dog "Chocolate"—a big Newfoundland—she was looking for rabbits.

Walking alone down a deer trail through a small marsh she heard savage barking far in advance. Later she heard heavy tramping through the brush and grass, accompanied by the repeated snarl of "Chocolate." Suddenly in the path before loomed a big moose, snorting, running toward her, to turn in an instant to charge at the dog which was jumping at his throat and legs.

The moose paused when he saw Mrs. Allard, paused with a snort like a steamboat whistle. Then grunting as the dog hurled itself upon his flanks, he lowered his head and charged full upon her.

Mrs. Allard did not climb a tree or run, as common custom would have her do. Instead she leveled her toy repeater and shot a stream of bullets into Mr. Moose's face until he admitted that a lady was entitled to the road and he swung off to one side and passed on.

The appearance of a farm residence is enhanced by the presence of trees. The world, indeed, would be a dreary place without trees.

It pays to keep fences up in good shape and keep all fields clear of weeds. To do this requires work and to do work needs men.

One of the worst weed pests on the farm is quack grass, and like quack doctors it persists in doing all kinds of harm while farmers feel that it is not a bad weed. I succeded in getting rid of a patch of this pest by summer plowing and putting it to buckwheat, followed by early plowing again and winter wheat. The third crop was again winter wheat and that field has been free from quack grass ever since.

You put blinders on a horse so that he can scarcely see anything that is going on about him and then you blame him for trembling and jumping and starting to run at every little noise. And why shouldn't a horse be frightened as easily as a donkey.

An 87,000 acre farm is one of the big things of big America. In fact, it is the largest farm in the world. Stretching along the southern border of Kansas, near Winfield, and extending across the line into Oklahoma, more than one hundred and fifty miles of fencing are required to surround its fertileacres. Nearly five hundred farm hands are required to till the 12,000 acres under cultivation. Fifty cowboys look after the 15,000 cattle and 5,000 hogs that roam in its 75,000 acres of pasture land. There are 300 work horses, 500 mules, and an immense lot of farming machinery on the place. Its largest cultivated field contains 9,000 acres. A telphone system connects all parts of the farm. Operating expenses exceed $100,000 anually and a rental of $30,000 is paid for part of the tract. Net profits of over $150,000 are banked each year. In addition to its other features, the farm contains the largest and finest herd of full blooded buffalo in existence.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Bonds.

St. Paul.—State Treasurer Julius H. Block has under consideration a recommendation to the board of investment of the sale of all or part of the state's holdings of the Virginia bonds. Mr. Block is investigating the probable price that these bonds would bring in case they were offered for sale.

The state holds $2,145,000 of these bonds, and all except $52,000 of them mature in 1991, with an option on the part of the state of Virginia to redeem them at par after 1906. Mr. Block is now corresponding with the authorities of Virginia to ascertain what proportion of them, if any, they expect to redeem. These bonds bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent, payable semiannually.

There is a great demand for loans from the state—from our own school districts, municipalities and counties—for the purpose of building school houses, court houses, constructing drainage ditches, etc., and it is at present impossible to supply all these calls. This is particularly true of the northern part of the state, which is rapidly developing. These loans pay the state 4 per cent interest, or 33⅓ per cent more than the Virginia bonds bring.

Mr. Block's object in this disposition of the bonds is thus not only to aid the municipalities and school districts in our own state, but it would also result in a much greater revenue to the state school, university and other trust funds, now holding these bonds.

Business Openings.

It seems to me that the man with a small capital can find no better opportunity for investment and for the establishment of a small business than in some of the many growing towns of the Northwest.

The Great Northern railway issues a booklet 'Business Openings,' which adequately and comprehensively describes the needs of the many towns along its lines and contains a detailed list of the business openings afforded the man with limited means as well as the big investor. I do not know of a section of the country which offers such limitless opportunities to the man who is content to live in a new country. The fact that in nearly every state of the northwest there is an available supply for almost every form of manufacture, offers to the manufacturer a chance to operate close to the supply of raw material.

Life Insurance.

St. Paul.—Insurance Commissioner O'Brien issued a preliminary report of the condition and business of the life insurance companies doing business in the state during 1904. The amount written by the premium companies doing business in the state was $33,439,414 and the losses incurred amounted to $1,777,922. Their total admitted assets were $2,479,716,868, liabilities $2,229,652,260, and surplus $214,064,495.

The general casualty insurance companies have a cash capital of $20,782,681 and assets of $141,165,271. Of fifty-six fraternal societies furnishing the department with statements a total income of $1,977,774 is given in premiums and losses amounting to $1,516,764. There were eleven fraternal societies doing business exclusively in the state and these show an increase of $233,556 for the year and losses paid $163,441.

Less Aid.

Owing to the fact that the last legislature largely increased the number of rural schools to secure state aid without increasing the appropriation, the rural schools will this year receive considerably less than the $125 each, which is the regular amount granted. The legislature provided that a certain class of rural schools which do not employ a first grade teacher shall have $50 aid each. This money must come out of the $100,000 appropriated as aid for first grade schools, and will accordingly, cut down the allowance for each.

Many Fish.

The state fish commission will this year distribute 150,000,000 wall-eyed pike in the streams and lakes of the state. This large number of that species of fish is now being raised at the state hatcheries because it is declared to be the best pan fish in Minnesota waters, and its propagation is in every way assisted by the commission.

Fatal Fall.

Farmington.—Falling headlong from a scaffold suspended eighteen feet in the air, Peter Becka, a prominent farmer living four miles south of Farmington, was fatally injured.

Becka was working on a building located on the farm, when he suddenly fell. A St. Paul physician was called, who found that the neck was broken in two places.

News Notes.

St. Paul—The city clerk has issued 1,300 bicycle licenses.

St. Paul—John C. Eden resigns as assistant general traffic manager of the Great Northern.

St. Paul—The state railway and warehouse commissioners will make their own plans for hay inspection.

Duluth—Complaints that some of the retail meat dealers' and grocers' associations in Minnesota are violating the Minnesota anti-trust law were filed with Gov. John A. Johnson yesterday, and the governor has ordered an investigation.

Fort Snelling—Private A. Ballard, Company A, Twenty-eighth regiment, stationed at Fort Snelling, accidentally shot himself through the left wrist while cleaning his revolver.

St. Paul—State Treasurer Block proposes to cash the $2,000,000 worth of Virginia bonds held by the permanent school fund.

China's Trade Guilds.

Canton, China, boasts of over seventy trades guilds. These guilds have fine halls and spacious courtyards, where their members meet daily and discuss the affairs of their respective trades and other matters.

Business to the Last.

It is asserted by the London Globe that a methodical and business-like bank clerk in a country branch forwarded a letter to the following effect to the head office: "Greatly regret to inform you I died this morning of pneumonia. John Smith, per James Brown."

Feel Impending Ill.

The feeling of impending doom in the minds of many victims of Bright's disease and diabetes has been changed to thankfulness by the benefit derived from taking Foley's Kidney Cure. It will cure incipient Bright's disease and diabetes and even in the worst cases gives comfort and relief. Slight disorders are cured in a few days. "I had diabetes in the worst form" writes Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind. "I tried eight physicians without relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure mode me a well man." A. L. Riechert.

Whales, Porpoises and Dolphins.

Neither whales, porpoises nor dolphins can be correctly described as fish, though they were till comparatively recently considered of the finny tribe. They are in the same class of creatures as the rhinoceros and gorilla—the mammalia. They cannot be at all correctly described as fish.

Columbus' Voyage.

It may be of interest to some to know that, according to his own account, Columbus was 33 days and 5 hours in crossing from Spain to San Salvador.

A Cemetery Inscription.

In an old Virginia cemetery there is a weather beaten tombstone bearing this inscription: "I await my husband, May 26, 1840." "Here I am, Dec. 14, 1861." Some joker had read the inscription and added with a pencil, "Late, as usual."

An Optimist.

The following peculiar advertisement recently appearing in the London Times testifies a human optimism: "Married lady, with five children (husband's income very small), wishes to be adopted by very wealthy old lady or gentleman (without relatives), who would pay for children's education and provide for their future. LABOR LEADERS FACE JAIL TERM

REFUSED TO ANSWER QUESTIONS IN STRIKE INQUIRY AND ARE HELD IN CONTEMPT.

Two Are Sentenced—Shea Escapes Punishment on Ground That Answers Might Incriminate Him—More Rioting.

Chicago, May 26.—Bernard Mulligan, president of the Express Wagon Drivers' union, and John H. Donaghue, a member of that organization, were ordered to jail yesterday by Judge Kohlsaat. Cornelius P. Shea, president of the Teamsters' International union, who was cited for contempt with the other two labor leaders, escaped punishment because he was under indictment by the Cook county grand jury.

Judge Kohlsaat decided that if Shea answered questions which were put to him in the hearing before Master in Chancery Sherman he might incriminate himself by admitting that he was guilty of conspiracy to injure the business of Montgomery Ward & Co. On this ground the judge declared that Shea need not answer certain questions that had been asked of him in the hearing before Master in Chancery Sherman.

Mulligan and Donaghue had no such excuse as Shea for refusing to answer the questions. Judge Kohlsaat held them both in contempt and ordered Mulligan taken to the Du Page county jail at Wheaton and Donaghue to the Kane county lockup at Geneva. The judge ordered that the two leaders should be locked up until they agreed to answer certain questions asked of them or until released by due process of law.

Mulligan and Donaghue were taken to the Briggs house, where they will remain for five days in nominal charge of Deputy United States Marshals Ruel and Griffith. Meanwhile their attorneys will perfect a review before another federal judge on habeas corpus proceedings, on the outcome of which depends their release.

Governor Pledges Troops.

Chicago, May 23.—Gov. Deneen has given his pledge to Mayor Dunne that he would fill the streets of Chicago with troops within two hours of the receipt of an official request either from the mayor or Sheriff Barrett. This response was made over the long-distance telephone in response to an inquiry from Mayor Dunne. The mayor expressed to the governor his fear that it would be found necessary to ask for troops to restore and preserve peace in this city. The mayor realized that the police department had reached the limit of its ability to cope with the lawless bands of rioters that are hourly causing terrific disturbances all over the city, and had to acknowledge that with the threatened spreading of the war the police arm of the municipal government would be practically paralyzed.

Chicago, May 24.—All the lumber teamsters in Chicago struck Tuesday, 1,800 of them, shutting down the lumber industry absolutely for the time being at least and forcing conditions that will bring stagnation to all the vast building operations of Chicago, with idleness for 100,000 workmen engaged in the various trades connected with building.

Police in Constant Battles.

Chicago, May 26.—Many riots kept the police in constant battle with crowds of pickets and others who sought to interfere with the nonunion wagons, now numbering between 2,000 and 3,000. The idle teamsters, their numbers added to by the ever-increasing procession of strikers from the lumber yards, formed disorderly gatherings, which quickly grew into riotous demonstrations.

Further Rioting.

Chicago, May 27.—The forcing of lumber deliveries with nonunion teamsters Friday caused fierce riots, in which bricks and clubs were used. Caravans of lumber wagons were attacked by mobs, determined to prevent the passage of the vehicles, and battle after battle occurred. A caravan was attacked at Twenty-second street and Ashland avenue by a crowd of pickets, who, taking advantage of the small number of police on hand, hurled bottles and other missiles at the drivers. The street was blocked in a few minutes by the mob that collected, and the wagons were stalled. The police guard advanced in a body and ordered the mob to disperse, but the hooting and jeering only increased. The police then fired over the heads of the crowd, which became panic-stricken and broke up. Two men were arrested and the wagons proceeded on their way. Another riot occurred at Sixteenth street and Blue Island avenue, when a wagon of the John Spry Lumber company was forced into a rut by another truck. Several hundred boisterous men surrounded it, and the police charged the crowd after a number of bricks had been thrown. In a riot at Thirty-fifth and Morgan streets Policeman George Teape was hit on the head with a brick and seriously hurt.

Fresh Complications.

The building industry in Chicago is rapidly being tied up by the teamsters' strike, and now a fresh complication has appeared in sympathetic strikes among carpenters and other building workmen. At dozens of buildings the contractors faced the alternative of sending back consignments of lumber delivered by nonunion teamsters or having strikes on their hands. In a number of these instances the lumber was accepted by the contractors, whereupon the carpenters and other workmen promptly laid down their tools and quit.

SOLVES A MYSTERY.

Man Suspected of Assassination of Dan Berry, at Savanna, Ill., Commits Suicide.

Savanna, Ill., May 26.—The mystery of the murder of Daniel S. Berry was cleared away Thursday by the bullet, fired by his own hand, which blew out the brains of Bothwell Pulford, Savanna's wealthiest citizen, whose name had been connected with the Berry assassination.

Pulford hid in the hayloft of a barn which he owned in the center of the town and sent a bullet into the center of his forehead, which ended life instantly. His wife, whose rumored relations with Berry had been assigned as the cause of Pulford killing the lawyer, became hysterical when informed of her husband's fate.

No one in Savanna, which has been stirred more deeply than ever before by the second act of the heartrending tragedy in which the two most prominent families of the town have been the performers, now doubts that Bothwell Pulford shot down Dan Berry and then ran into his drug store below Berry's office, where he bore himself with amazing calm and heard the news of Berry's death with expressions of regret.

The suspicion which has been whispered openly since the murder, has been confirmed beyond doubt in the minds of Pulford's neighbors by the suicide. The theory of insanity, which was urged for Pulford in the first place, is now accepted as the true one.

Stories of the relations of Mrs. Pulford and Dan Berry, which had been told in this town for years, produced a bitter enmity between Berry and Pulford and made a tragedy such as has occurred a climax to be looked for. Brooding over his wrongs is said to have wrecked Pulford's mind.

Savannah, Ill., May 23.—Daniel S. Berry, who was prominent as a lawyer and who was an ex-member of the legislature, was shot and killed Monday at the door of his office. Mr. Berry had just come from home and was unlocking the door of his office when he was shot from behind, one bullet striking him in the arm and the other penetrating his brain. He died instantly.

HAS NO AUTHORITY.

President Roosevelt Decides That He Cannot Probe Insurance Companies' Affairs.

Washington, May 27. — President Roosevelt, as heretofore noted, has been urged to take steps looking to a government inquiry into the operations of life insurance companies, and especially the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York concerning which embarrassing complications have developed during the past few months. After careful consideration of the subject and inquiry into the legal phases of such a suggested investigation, the president has determined that under the circumstances the government has no authority to take up the matter, either through a special commission or through a bureau of corporations.

Investigations may be instituted and carried on by the state governments in the states where the companies do business. These inquiries may be made as rigid as is deemed necessary to develop the facts. Upon state investigations, therefore, the government officials are of the opinion that the people must rely for information as to the conduct of the insurance business.

SLAIN BY GIRL.

Young Woman Kills Her Lover in Minnesota and Attempts Suicide.

Wheaton, Minn., May 26.—A young man named Herman Speff from Cokato, working near here for Mrs. Deal, and a young girl about 15 years old, named Sidensticker, whose father resides near here, were found three miles south of here near the railroad tracks Thursday afternoon, the young man being dead, having been shot in the mouth with a revolver, and the girl seriously wounded, with two or three bullets in the abdomen. The girl is still alive and claims that she had killed the man and shot herself and that she wished to die as they had planned to die together. She borrowed the revolver from a hardware store here. It seems to be a complicated love affair.

Ohio Bank Closes.

Canton, O., May 25.—The Canton state bank, with individual depositors of more than $600,000, closed its doors Wednesday. The directors state that the bank will not be able to resume business. The failure was brought about by loans amounting to $400,000 to W. L. Davis, vice president of the bank, by the cashier, Corwin B. Bachtell, without the consent of the other directors of the bank.

Receiver Named.

Cincinnati, May 27.—H. P. Boyden, former city auditor, was appointed receiver for Holzman & Co., bankers and brokers, Friday, by United States Judge Thompson, bond being fixed at $200,000. While no regular statement has yet been issued, Mr. Holzman says the firm's liabilities are about $190,000 and that the firm can eventually pay all claims in full.

JAPANESE GAIN BIG NAVAL FIGHT.

ADMIRAL TOGO INFLICTS A CRUSHING DEFEAT ON RUSSIAN NAVY.

Russian Armada Enters the Fighting Zone and Suffers Disastrous Defeat Though not Final. Japanese Suffer some Loss.

Washington, May 29.—The American consul at Nagasaki cabled the state department yesterday that the Japanese have sunk a Russian battleship, four other warships, and a repair ship in the straits of Korea.

The following is the text of the Nagasaki dispatch to the state department: "Nagasaki, May 28.—Japanese sunk the Russian battleship Borodino and four more warships and a repair ship."

The other dispatch reads as follows: "Tokio, May 27.—Japanese fleet engaged the Baltic squadron this afternoon in the straits of Tsu Shima, which was held; cannonading heard from shore."

U. S. officials believe Japanese made free use of torpedo boats.

London, May 29.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the Russian fleet has been dispersed, that several ships have been disabled and that the remainder are in flight with the Japanese pursuing.

Tokio, May 29.—The embargo on the publications of naval news continues. Absolutely no news consering the operations of the Japanese and Russian fleets were obtainable yesterday. Newspapers are held under absolute leash and all telegraphs and cables are closed to press dispatches.

Tsingtau, May 29.—A telegram from Chinese sources says that in the naval battle in the straits of Korea Saturday and Sunday the Russians have lost two battle ships and three cruisers.

The Japanese losses so far reported are one battleship and ten topedo boats.

The island of Oki is in the Sea of Japan, about 200 miles northeast of the strait of Korea, where the battle between the Japanese and Russian fleets is reported to have had its beginning.

Shanghai, May 29.—A telegram has been received here from Pekin announcing that Rojestvensky's fleet has been defeated off the Tsu islands and is fleeing northward.

P. O. ROBBERY.

John D. Hyatt of the Minneapolis Postoffice is Arrested for Robbing Mails

Minneapolis, May 27.—John D. Hyatt, whose residence is 926 Fourteenth avenue south, for the last twenty-three years an employ of the Minneapolis postoffice, and for many years one of the clerks at the receiving window, was arrested for stealing letters from the mails.

The arrest was the result of a six weeks' work on the part of Postoffice Inspectors H. O. Smith, of Owatonna, and Howard C. Fry, of Fargo. Persistent complaints of valuable letters lost in the mails led to the assignment of the inspectors to ferret out the thief or thieves.

The arrest of Hyatt was made by United States Marshal W. H. Grimshaw in person at just about the time when the heavy evening deposits of mails have been made. In his pockets when arrested were found twenty-five letters, all with stamps uncancelled, and evidently just abstracted from the thousands of letters passed over the counter. Among the letters found on Hyatt's person was a decoy letter addressed to a fictitious person in Winona, containing four marked one dollars bills.

To Help Prosecute.

Mankato, Minn., May 29.—A man from New Ulm who has been more or less prominently connected with the Koch case, was in Mankato and stated that it is the general wish of the people there that either Pierce Butler of St. Paul, Frank Nye or A. H. Hall of Minneapolis be secured to act as assistant for Mr. Childs at the third trial of the case. There is a general feeling that the third trial will be the last, no matter what the outcome. County Attorney Wilson, acting as attorney for Philip Liesch, editor of the Brown County Journal in the contempt of court proceedings resulting from the Koch case, when he was fined $150, has secured a writ of certiorari to Judge Cray from the supreme court, and the case will be reviewed in October.

First Divedend.

Washington, May 29.—Checks have been drawn at the treasury for 20 per cent dividend declared in favor of the creditors of the First National Bank of Faribault, Minn., and have forwarded to the receiver by Controller Ridgley.

Forest Fires.

Ashland, Wis., May 27.—Forest fires south of Ashland have destroyed about $15,000 worth of hemlock bark belonging to the United States Lumber company, a half million feet of logs belonging to the Foster Latimer Lumber company, and thousands of cords of pulp and cord wood belonging to small jobbers. A saloon building at York Siding was destroyed and the mill at Tyler's Fork narrowly escaped.

As far as known no lives have been lost but danger is feared if the fires break out anew.

THE peot Longfellow and Rev. Morril differ materially when it comes to Minnehaha Falls.

NATIONAL politics is quiet this week. Jim Tawney hasn't given the president a piece of his mind recently.

THE Big Fork Compass notes the candidacy of Ray Jones for governor, adds: "Pass the asafoetida bottle quick!"

SENATOR NELSON refuses to "stand pat" on the tariff. The McCleary postoffice organs of the Second district should read him the riot act.

THERE'S no limit to newspaper enterprise. Some of the dalies reported the Togo Rojestvensky naval battle a month before it happened.

Now that we have a hotel inspector why not a church inspector? Isn't it essential to our ultimate safety that they, too, be provided with fire escapers?

PRESIDENT HARPER of the Chicago university is not worrying over the subject of "tainted money." He has eight or nine of Rockefeller's millions and his hand is out for more.

ONE of the bankers who transacted business with Mr. Chadwick has been sentenced to the penitentiary for seven years. He pleaded guilty, and must have been able to show that his profits were small.

"PEACE hath her victories no less renowed than war." Along with the news of the Japanese naval victory comes the announcemnet that Mayor Weaver has been successful in thwarting the Philadelphia gas trust.

THE Fairmont Sentinel has this political bon-not: "Ray Jones is going to be a candidate for governor and dont care who knows it. Wouldn't that stun you? He ought to carry everything in sight in the timbered country."

ADMIRAL TOGO is the hero of the civilized world. He has put a new world-power on the effective blow toward destruction of the Russian autocracy. The Slavs will be benefitted no less than the little Oientals by the result of the awful battle in the straits of Korea.

THE inconsistency of people in high official life is pointedly referred to by Frank Eddy in this short paragraph: "The postmaster general who resigned one cabinet position to manage a political campaign and received another and a better one as a reward for his political services, is out with an order forbidding postmasters to take an active part in politics. Wouldn't that embezzle you?"

JIM TAWNEY has been down to Washington telling the president and Secretary Taft that they're off their base on the tariff question. Jim straightened out the [illegible] statesmen in a jiffy, and we are now all convinced that the protection principle is too sacred to be monkeyed with by presidents. Only the divinine guiding hands of the house and senate leaders are to be entrusted with interpretation of the tariff schedules. Let the tariff be revised by its friends!

SAYS the Chicago Chronicle, (Rep.): "Democratic editors merely waste ink and energy in ringing the charges upon the admitted fact that the Philippines are costing us considerably more than they return in the way of commerce or revenue. Everybody knows it, and everybody knows that we got ourselves into a mess when we assumed charge of the islands."

SENATORS R. B. Brower and Samuel Lord are at present the conspicuous candidates for the Republican nonimation for governor. It is probably a co-incidence that both voted against the gross earnings bill when that measure was the crucial test of the people's fight against railroad donimation and control. Governor Johnson was also a member of the senate at this time. His voice and vote was always found in favor of the gross earnings bill. How beautifully on the defensive would be the Republican party with either Brower or Lord as the leader! To whom would be accorded popular praise? To Governor Johnson, the champion of the people' or to Brower or Lord, apologists and advocates of the railroads? Does the Republican party want to meet the issue?"

No Grounds for Criticism.

Fairmont Sentinel: There is a remarkable absence of complaint and criticism of Gov. Johnson, and instead the press and the people are almost unanimously commending and praising almost everything he does. The truth is, there are no grounds for criticism. Gov. Johnson is giving the state an administration that is able, judicious, strong. clean and above reproach, and we doubt if a man exists that voted for him but is glad he did so.

Morton's Predicament.

The announcement that Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton will retire from the cabinet and the report that he will succeed to the presidency of the Santa Fe railway need occasion no surprise. Mr. Morton is a self-confessed law-breaker, having admitted that while engaged in the active management of the Santa Fe the company gave rebates in violation of the interstate commerce act. That such a man should be prominent in an administration one of whose hobbies is the regulation of railroad rates is an anomaly that is almost farcical.

A short time ago Secretary Morton made an address to railroad men in which he assured them that President Roosevelt did not intend to harm the transportation interests and left the impression that the president would not insist on radical measures.

A few days later Roosevelt came out of the Colorado woods, full of the ardor of the chase. Evidently he had read Secretary Morton's speech, for he took advantage of the first opportunity to deliver an address in which he made it very plain that he would camp on the trail of the railroad magnates and their tools in the United States senate until he brought down some big game.

After that speech there was nothing for Secretary Morton to do but to leave the cabinet as soon as he could decently do so. To be sure, as secretary of the navy he is not in direct conflict with his old pals in the rebate business, but the head of a government department is more than an executive officer; he is a part of the administration, and as such is directly responsible for the policies it adopts. Had Morton given the goverment the bedefit of his knowledge of the breaking of the laws affecting the railroad companies he might have proved a valuable member of the cabinet, but he evidently did not intend to turn State's evidence against his former associates.

If Morton becomes the president of the Santa Fe company it will be interesting to watch his course. Having frankly confessed to violating the antirebate law and having justified himself on the ground that he had done only what all the other railroad men were doing, it remains to be seen whether he will continue the policy of giving rebates or attempt to bring the Santa Fe company to the policy of obeying the law.

The Civil Service.

Ex-Congressman Frank M. Eddy in the Sauk Center Herald is discussing the civil service law in that paper. After commenting at length on the fact that "clerks, elevator men, persons who wrap books, must demonstrate their intellectual and educational superiority over their competitors for the same positions by undergoing a severe examination while there is nothing in the world to prevent a man who cannot read and write from being selected as one of the law-makers of the nation. "To add to this ridiculous situation he further says:

> Three-fourths of the senators and members of congress could not make an average of 70 per cent in the examination required of the department clerks. Take for example Uncle Joe Cannon of Illinois, present speaker of the house, an ideal congressman, I doubt if he is right sure whether Washington crossed the Deleware or the Deleware crossed Washington. No doubt he is a little lazy on the point as to whether the Brandywine was a conflict between English and American armies or a drinking bout be- Yankees and Britishers with brandy and wine for liquids. His handwriting looks like that of a school boy, traced with the wrong end of the penholder. In debate he murders the King's English while he nails his opponent to the cross. I don't believe he could, to save his life, locate the gulf of Ashantee or name the rivers of New England that flow into the Atlantic ocean, and if asked the distance from Earth to Jupiter he would probably answer that he did not come from Danville to Washington that way."

A Query for Today.

Are you honest?

The question may startle you a little, but only last September Frank G. Bigelow, the defaulting Milwaukee banker, made an address to the bankers of this country in which he took occasion to define his ideal of life. He quoted that remarkable prayer of Robert Louis Stevenson—"To be honest, to be kind, to earn a litte, to spend a little less," etc."

You say the man was a hypocrite.

But you think perhaps he did not realize his hypocrisy. If he turned sharp corners sometimes and ventured in forbidden ways, he doubtless said to himself, "If I loose I can make good, but I will not loose." Like so many men he imagined he was an exception to the rule. He could win where other men failed. He would take just one more "flier" and then be good says the Cleveland Express.

Then the smash came.

The fact is, the man was not honest. He had every reason for contentment so far as financial ease can go. He had more money than he needed. He had position, esteem, honor—everything. But for the sake of money—money to pile up uselessly—he risked all. He loved money more than he did honesty.

And this man's love of money for the sake of money grew into moneyphobia. His desire became a disease. The mania mastered him,

But Bigelow began by being at heart dishonest. He affected the appearance of honesty and traded upon that reputation.

Does it not then behoove every man to stop and ask himself: Am I honest?

The world in which you live may regard you as the soul of honor. You may hold your head high. But are you honest? Down at the core of things is all genuine?

If your soul is corrupt at this course, be sure your sin will find you out.

Campbell's VARNISH STAIN

Is different from any other so-called Varnish Stain on the market. It is made of a high grade Waterproof Varnish made especially for the purpose, and treated in such a manner as to produce with one application beautiful imitations of natural woods finished in Varnish. Campbell's Varnish Stain is transparent, thereby preserving the grain and beauty of the natural wood, and at the same time giving a splendid colored effect. It dries with a durable gloss, and the colors remain permanent. Campbell's Varnish Stain does not settle in the can. It does not contain any pigment whatever. The colored effects are the results of our own peculiar process perfected after years of labor and costly experiments. Many of our competitors claim they have stains—"just as good as Campbell's"—but they will not produce the effects or wear as well. For sale by Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Every time you get a nice letter from a Minneapolis or Chicago catalogue mercantile firm, telling you of the "great bargains" they have to offer you, just drop them a few lines and ask them to send you the goods for inspection at their expense. Will they trust you, not on your life, but did you ever stop and think of the one sided way they do business. You must send your money in advance and trust to luck for a square deal. Are these people more honest than you, think of this. On the other hand your home merchant displays his goods for your inspection and doesn't ask you one cent in advance. Give the home dealer a fair chance.

Growth of Woodmen.

Head clerk C. W. Hawes, of the Modern Woodman office, has prepared his biennial report. The document reveals several interesting facts. From Jan. 1, 1885, to Dec. 31, 1904, 1,268,583 officials receipts for remittances were issued: 808 cases where the applicant was supposed to be addicted to the use of liquor were investigated with the result that 657 were declared void and 109 valid. The remainder of the cases are still pending. One hundred and thirty-four expulsions from the local camp occured.

The membership statement of Mr. Hawes dated May 1 shows that at the close of business on April 30, the Woodmen society had 699,633 beneficial members in absolute good standing, a net increase of 7,774 during the month of April. The insurance in force on April 1 totaled $1,160,775,500 and on May 1, $1,171,220,000, a net increase of insurance in force during the month of $10,444.50.

There were 51 camps chartered during the month of April and 10,827 were in absolute good standing on May 1.

There were 1,664 issued to old camps making a total of 100,419 issued for the month.

If the certificates outstanding on which adoptions were not reported by May 1 were counted as members in good standing the society would have on May 1 a beneficial membership of 711,633. Add to this the social membership of 33,191 in absolute good standing, and the society on May 1 had a grand total membership of 744,824.

OLD PEOPLE

Their Pains and Ailments

Any taint of the blood quickly shows itself with old people, and troubles, which a younger, more vigorous constitution holds in check, take possession of those of advanced years. A mole, wart or pimple often begins to inflame and fester, terminating in a sore that refuses to heal. Wandering pains of a rheumatic character are almost constant, the joints get stiff and the muscles sore, while sleeplessness and nervousness make life a burden. The natural activity of the body is not so great in old age and all the organs get dull and sluggish, failing to carry out the waste matters and poisons accumulating in the system and they are taken up and absorbed by the blood, rendering it weak and unable to properly nourish the system. There is no reason why old age should not be as healthy as youth if the blood is kept pure and strong. S. S. S. is purely vegetable and is the safest and best blood purifier and tonic for old people, because it is gentle, but at the same time thorough in its action, purifying the blood of all poisons and foreign matter, strengthening it and toning up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. Almost from the first dose the appetite increases, the general health begins to improve and the pains and ailments pass away.

I had a severe attack of La Grippe, which left me almost a physical wreck. To add to my wretched condition, Rheumatism developed. In a short time after beginning S. S. S. I was relieved of the pains and have gained in flesh and strength and my general health is better than for years. I heartily recommend S. S. S. for all blood diseases.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE

This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Thedford's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial.

It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit.

PITTSBURG, KAS., March 25, 1904.

I have been using your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine on my stock for some time. I have used all kinds of stock food but I have found [illegible] is the best for my purpose. [illegible]

TERRIBLE DEED OF AN INSANE MAN

WILLIAM STEPHENS, OF ROSS VALLEY, CAL., MURDERS HIS WIFE.

Shoots His Five Children—Three Killed Instantly and the Others Die of Their Wounds—Maniac Then Takes His Own Life.

San Francisco, May 25.—William Stephens, who lived at Ross Valley, Marin county, Wednesday murdered his wife, his five children, attempted to murder a passing milkman, and then ended his own life. Stephens, who was 35 years old, was formerly a book agent, but latterly was said to be connected with a rubber goods house of San Francisco. The family also conducted a chicken ranch at their home in Ross Valley. Early Wednesday Stephens emerged from his home, revolver in hand, and fired upon a passing milkman. The milkman whipped up his horses, and Stephens pursued him for 200 yards firing as he ran. Stephens then halted in the roadway, placed the revolver to his breast and discharged the weapon. The bullet did not end his life and he sent a second fatal bullet through his brain. When neighbors and officers entered the home of Stephens, they came upon a shocking scene. The members of the family, each with a revolver wound in the head, were found in their beds. The wife and three of the children were dead, and the other two died later. The children were from one to eleven years of age. There is no known reason for the tragedy, but the theory is advanced that Stephens became suddenly insane.

BARON ROTHSCHILD DEAD.

Head of Famous Banking Firm Passes Away in Paris, France.

Paris, May 27.—Baron Alphonse Rothschild, head of the Paris branch of the richest family in the world, died Friday. The news spread rapidly through the financial centers of the world. He was the real leader of the cousins whose wealth is estimated to be far more than $2,000,000,000, and whose loans to governments in the last ten years have exceeded $600,000,000. An illness of but a few days' duration caused his death.

Baron Alphonse was the leading spirit of the Rothschilds in their relations with practically all the governments of Europe. Besides the colossal task of financing the indemnity which France paid to Germany after the Franco-German war of 1870-71 he actively carried on relations with other governments. In Italy these included both the government and the vatican finances. The house also has large interests in Spain, largely controls Austria's railroad development and held considerable parts of all the old Russian loan issues. The house has also had considerable dealings with American securities through the Belmonts, J. Pierpont Morgan and John W. Gates, including Louisville and Nashville and the Atlantic Coast Line transactions, and also has extensive interests in mines in California.

A Damaging Frost.

THEBES BRIDGE OPENED.

Magnificent Structure Across the Mississippi River Is Formally Dedicated.

Thebes, Ill., May 26.—There was opened here Thursday to the north and central west a new "gateway" for commerce and traffic and human intercourse with the south and the "great southwest." The only bridge crossing the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Memphis, attended by ceremonies in which the governor of Missouri and prominent railroad officials, representing the proprietary roads, participated, was formally opened to traffic and dedicated to the uses of five great railroad systems and the business of two great sections of the nation. The bridge proper consists of a continuous steel structure of five spans, built on the cantilever system, and weighs about 28,000,000 pounds. The central or channel span is 651 feet long, each of the other spans being 521 feet long. The total length of the bridge proper, including the concreate approaches, is 3,817 feet, and the total length of the entire double-track construction, including grade approaches, is 4.7 miles. The total height of the bridge, from the bottom of the lowest foundation to the top of the highest point on the superstructure, is 231 feet. The total cost is about $3,000,000.

BLOODSHED IN WARSAW.

Riots in the Jewish Quarter in Which Eight Persons Are Killed.

Warsaw, May 26.—The Jewish disorders here Wednesday night arose from an attempt of the Jewish socialist organization called the Bund to purge the Hebrew district of Warsaw of all disreputable persons. The Bundites, with the view of expelling their undesirable coreligionists, commenced to wreck disorderly houses, cafes and other resorts. Eight persons have been killed and 100 wounded, 19 seriously. The damage to property has been considerable. There has been no pillaging, but the destruction of the furniture in the various houses has been absolute. The mob, armed with axes, smashed the doors and windows and brought the furniture out on the streets, where they broke it into small pieces. The owners of the furniture in attempting to defend their belongings were attacked, beaten and even killed.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Four Persons Instantly Killed on the Pennsylvania Road Near Canton, O.

Canton, O., May 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Gust Miller, of Louisville, O., and Mrs. Howell and daughter, Anna, of South Bend, Ind., were struck by a passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad while out riding late Thursday night and all were instantly killed. The bodies of the three women were found on the front of the engine. Miller's body was found some distance in the rear and was picked up by the train crew. The accident occurred just outside the village of Louisville, a few miles south of this city.

Declared Not Guilty.

Peoria, Ill., May 27.—The jury in the case of Richard Higgins, charged with the murder of Mrs. Nellie Thomasson, on October 15 last, returned a verdict Friday finding the defendant not guilty. But two ballots were taken. The evidence showed that Mrs. Thomasson suffered an affection of the stomach, which might have caused her death.

Blown to Pieces.

Denver, Col., May 25.—M. H. Walley was killed Wednesday by an explosion of nitroglycerine on a vacant lot in this city. Whether it was suicide or accident has not been determined. Fragments of the body were found three squares distant from the scene of the explosion.

NO MORE PRIVATE SALES.

Lands Bid in for Taxes Must Be Sold at Public Auction.

After Suly 1, 1905, real property bid in for the state at regular annual tax sales will be sold only at public auction, according to the ruling made by State Auditor S. G. Iverson.

Under the old law absolute property had to be disposed of by the county auditor at a public or private sale as the state auditor might direct. The legislative session of 1802 however, provided that such property must be disposed of at public sale to be conducted by the state auditor, the tax deed to be executed by the governor instead of the county auditor.

Mr. Iverson holds that the property acquired by the state under the old law shall be disposed of under that law, and property acquired since May, 1902, under the 1602 law.

According to Mr. Iverson's intrpretation of the 1902 law, in July, 1905, and each succeeding year a duplicate list of absolute property of the state shall be prepared by the county auditor, one copy to be forwarded to the state auditor and the other to be retained by the county auditor for examination by the public. Public sales will be held once each year, the date to be fixed by the state auditor.

In Mr. Iverson's ruling he summarizes the requirements of the old and new laws as follows:

Tracts acquired under the 1902 law can be sold only at public sale.

After July 1, 1905, tracts acquired under the old law can be sold only at public sale.

The personal notice of expiration of redemption must be given on all absolute property sales.

All absolute property sales are subject to redemption, and taxes on all such forfeited property may be paid, until the termination of the time (sixty days) after proof of service of notice of expiration has been filed with the county auditor.

The tax deeds under the 1902 law will all be executed by the governor, those of the old law by the county auditor.

The county auditor and the county treasurer are required to attend the public sales.

A special distribution of the proceeds of these sales should be made and a special report of all moneys received therefrom be promptly transmitted to the state auditor, who will draw upon the county treasurer for the amount shown to be due the state.

THE FIVE DAY MARKET.

It Is Up to the Feeder to Assist In Making a Change In Market Days.

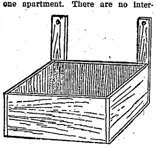
"Our readers are aware that an attempt was made some time ago to install what is known as the five day market in the place of the market held formerly but two days during the week. At the Chicago market a committee was appointed by the Live Stock Exchange known as the five day committee," says Iowa Homestead in publishing the statement recently made by the secretary of the committee. The last item of the statement is as follows:

"The success of a five day market, while of benefit to all engaged in the trade, is of paramount benefit to the shippers and producers, as it will eliminate the bunching of receipts on certain days and thereby avoid the disastrous and expensive depreciation in values always attendant on an overstocked market."

Commenting upon the report, the Homestead remarks: It seems now as though it is up to the feeder to assist in effecting the change from the two day to the five day market. It seems that there is as yet too much temptation to send in live stock on the old market days, and, as shown in this communication, the result is a direct loss to shippers. Could shipments be distributed so that they would be reasonably well cleaned up each day there is no question but what it would result in more money being paid for live stock.

For Her Majesty the Hen.

Considerable experience has taught me that all nest boxes for laying or hatching purposes should be movable, says an Ohio Farmer correspondent. When a hen becomes broody and I wish to set her I place the eggs under her and that evening move her, box and all, to the brooder house, where three sitting hens are given the use of one apartment. There are no interlopers to lay by them and break the eggs. They can get off whenever they feel like it for food and drink, which are kept in all the apartments.



A MOVABLE NEST BOX.

Two cleats are nailed to the back of the box and a hole bored in each cleat, by means of which the box is hung on two stout nails driven in the side of the building. It is well to have these nails all the same distance apart, so that boxes are interchangeable and can be placed anywhere. The nails should be tenpenny and driven with the heads projecting one and a half inches and sloping upward, so as to hold the boxes firmly.

Yield Increasing on Good Land.

Why do Illinois farm lands sell for $125 to $150 an acre? Because they are productive, answers Orange Judd Farmer. This year one Christian county farmer gathered a field of corn which yielded 119 bushels to the acre. The corn was sold for 37 cents a bushel, a gross return of $43 per acre. Taking out the cost of growing the crop, there still remains a big interest on the investment even if the land be valued at $200 per acre. While yields as large as this are exceptional, they are becoming more and more common. With improved seed and improved methods of culture the average yield on good land is increasing. This is one of the reasons land is going up.

Don't trim the cherry trees now. Wait till June and then be light handed.

To bleed the grapevines by cutting during March, April or May is bad management.

Radishes are usually ready for use in six weeks from sowing.

Cold frames are useful for forwarding lettuce and cabbage in spring or early summer.

If the rhubarb is run out or more plants are wanted it can be propagated by dividing the old roots. Each eye or bud when broken apart with a root attached forms a plant.

For the good of the lawn some gardeners scatter fertilizer or bone meal on the last light snowfall, or a light dressing of manure left on through the spring rains will disfigure the lawn only for a short time and can then be raked off.

As soon as the snow is gone it is in order to ply the rake on grass plats and borders, thus cleaning up manure and litter of the winter. The roller, too, well used will remove the roughness caused by the soil heaving with frost.

One of the errors of garden lovers is that they often plan to do more than they can carry out successfully. To have everything neat, thrifty and beautiful on a smaller scale gives far more satisfaction than an overgrown place full of ambitious and unsuccessful attempts.

The Secret of Good Coffee

Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored

LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.

Use LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee.

Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use "a tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot." First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:

1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES ONLY. Add a little cold water and set aside five minutes to settle. Serve promptly.

2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.

3 DONT'S
Don't boil it too long.
Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving.
Don't use water that has been boiled before.

TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.

1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.

2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.

Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.)
(Lion-head on every package.)
(Save these Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

Advertised for a Wife

Recently a farmer living near Preston, Minn., advertised in the city papers for a wife. In due time a fair and willing one responded. He suited her and if he would send her money to buy a few necessary things and to pay car fare she would come. He sent the money, secured the license and, wearing a white ribbon for purposes of identification, waited for the train, but the fair one with his money never came.

ST. JOSEPH'S PIANO PLAYERS

Sister Cecilia's Pupils Give a Recital Tuesday Evening—Young Players of Promise Participate.

Sister Cecilia, who had charge of the music class at St. Joseph's school, may well fell proud of the showing the young people made at the piano recital given at the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday evening. The entertainment was a most pleasant one, made doubly interesting by the fact that most of the performers were very young.

A large audience greeted the little players and every number received hearty applause. The recital was the means of demonstrating the fact that there are some very clever players in the class who will make a name for themselves in the future should they continue their studies.

Four vocal numbers and a mandolin solo gave a tone and variety to the program. These numbers, as well as the piano selections, were rendered in a taking and pleasing manner, and the whole made a program that was good wholesome entertainment from start to finish. It is to be hoped that more recitals will be given by the pupils of St. Joseph's school. The occasions are beneficial to the pupil and patron alike and are the means of stimulating interest in music and the good things of life.

TOO MUCH FOR FERTILE

Red Lake Falls High School Gets the Best of Fertile in Field Meet Tuesday Afternoon.

The long looked for field meet between the Red Lake Falls and Fertile high schools took place in this city Tuesday afternoon. The boys of this place proved too much for the Fertileites and won easily, scoring 47 points to Fertile's 13. The feature of the day's sport was the remarkable showing made by Drew Marshall of this place. He was in nearly every event and won more points than any other contestant. He is an all 'round athlete and will no doubt make a record for himself should he continue "in the game." The other representatives of Red Lake Falls did themselves proud and the team would make it interesting for any high school in a similar contest.

The following young men took part in the "meet:"

Fertile—Olstad, English, Sandvig, Hagen, Hanson, Cunningham, LaDue and Holmes;

Red Lake Falls—Marshall, Garceau, Healy, Buse and Blake.

Following are the events and results of the afternoon:

100 yard dash—1st., Marshall, 2nd Garceau, 3d Blake, time 11½ seconds.

AN OLD LANDMARK GONE

The Washington School Building was Entirely Destroyed by Fire Early Monday Morning.

Citizens of Red Lake Falls were awakened from their peaceful slumbers at 2 o'clock Monday morning by the ringing of the fire bell, when it was discovered that the Washington school building on the north side was a mass of flames. The fire was well under way before it was discovered by persons living near by, and by the time the alarm was given the structure was far beyond control. The fire boys responded promptly to the call and the fire engine and the hose carts were taken to the scene of the blaze to be in readiness to fight any fire that might be started from the burning building. Fortunately a hard rain was falling and the wind was blowing from a quarter that protected buildings near the school house. Fire brands were blown to the west and had it not been for the rain the residences in the "hollow" would have sufiered.

When discovered the building was burning at the top plainly showing that the blaze had been started by lightning. The building was completely consumed and it was impossible to save any of the contents. Insurance to the amount of $4,750 was carried on the building and $1,000 on the contents. Only $3,000 insurance was carried on the building up to last fall, but the directors at that time decided that additional risk should be taken. It proved to be a wise move.

The building was one of the old landmarks of the city, having been built in 1885. The lumber for the building was hauled from Crookston and the construction was attended by the inconveniences of pioneer life.

The insurance adjusters were in the city yesterday and the loss adjusted in a satisfactorily manner. At a meeting of the school board Tuesday it was decided to communicate with architects immediately and get plans and estimates for a new building to be erected as soon as possible.

HONORS FOR CLASS OF '05

Class Exercises Held at Metropolitan Opera Honse Monday Evening—Great Success.

This is the great week of the year to the pupils of the public schools. To the graduates it is the joyous period that intervens between the idealism of school days and the stern realities of life, and to the pupils of the lower grades it means that the long summer vacation has begun.

The commencement exercises of the Red Lake Falls schools opened Sunday evening when the baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. Father Ansgar at St. Mary's church. A large audience was present to listen to the words of good cheer and advise to the young people, and the address was a most appropriate one.

Monday evening the class program of the high school graduates was given at the Metropolitan opera house. The room was most profusely and appropriately decorated with flowers, plants, the class colors, etc., and presented a beautiful sight. A large audience was present and every number was heartily received. The following program was presented:

Every member of the class did themselves proud and have every reason to feel that their efforts was of the highest order and greatly appreciated by all. The orations were delivered in a free and easy manner and showed a familiarity with the subject treated. The members of the class received many présents and words of cheer and commendation were on every hand. The occasion will no doubt be long remembered as one of the bright times of their life.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the band orchestra and Mrs. Chase. The orchestra numbers were well received as was Mrs. Chase's vocal solo.

The '07 and '08 classes occupied prominent places in the hall and enlivened the occasion with their class yells and a good natured "class fight." Taken all in all the graduating exercises were far ahead of the usual commencement program, and all who took part, and those who managed the affair, may well fell proud of the occasion.

Last evening the Juniors gave a banquet to the classes of '04 and '05 at the Lafayette school building, and this evening the usual alumni banquet will be held at the K. of P. hall.

Business Change in Terrebonne.

The general merchandise business conducted at Terrebonne for a number of years by Dupont & Sons changed hands last week, the elder Dupont retiring. The business hereafter will be conducted by Geo. and Wm. Dupont under the firm name of Dupont Bros. The retiring member of the firm, Louis Dupont, will leave shortly for an extended trip in the east. He will visit Montreal, Canada, and from that place will go to his native home in Maine. He expects to be away from two to three months. Mrs. Dupont will accompany him as far as St. Paul where she will visit relatives during Mr. Dupont's eastern trip.

Dupont & Sons have enjoyed a good business and there is no reason to think but what the new firm will enjoy the same liberal patronage.

THIEF RIVER UP IN THE AIR

County Commissioners find Thief River Falls' Petition is not in Accordance with Law and Refuse to call Special Election.

The Commissioners of Red Lake county at their special meeting in this city Tuesday decided that Thief River Falls' petition for a special election to vote upon the removal of the county seat to that city was not in accordance with the law governing such cases, and that the board was not justified in calling the election.

The commissioners met Monday and immediately took up the county seat petition, for which purpose the meeting was called. After hearing the arguments of the attorneys and testimony of several witnesses the board passed a resolution declaring the petition as not being in legal form.

It seems Thief River circulated 32 petitions instead of one, as they stated they would in their notice before the petitions were circulated. In their notice published at the beginning of proceedings they stated that eight persons would circulate a petition. It seems that sixty-four persons circulated the thirty-two petitions. It was also found that the notices in regard to the circulating of the petition were not posted in the three most prominent places of this city. For these and other good reasons the board refused to grant their request for an election.

It looks as though the Thief River Falls people had used poor judgmnet in getting up their petition and had not consulted competent legal advice at the beginning of the fight. They have been to a great expense, but what is worse they put the county to a great expense in their selfish endeavor to remove the county seat. The tax-payers of the county are getting heartily sick of their work of expense and trust they will use better judgment in the future and not entail further unnecessary expense to the county.

Just what Thief River's next move will be is hard to foretell but it is presumed they will try and dig up some excuse to prolong the contest.

Wm Erb, a resident of Deer Park township, immediately began mandamus proceedings. and served a notice on the commissioners issued by Judge Watts commanding the Board to meet June 20th and reconsider their action. This action no doubt was done to test the legality of the commissioners' action, and the suit will probably be in the courts for years to come.

MARRIED AT ST. PAUL.

Miss Tambling to be Married in Saintly City To-Day.

Miss Carrie E. Tambling left the city Monday evening and is to be married to-day to Dr. Merton Field at St. Paul.

Miss Tambling taught in the high school of this city since the first of the year, and made many friends both with the scholars and the older people of the city. She proved to be one of the best teachers Red Lake Falls ever had and was very successful in that line of work. She made many friends during her short residence in the city who will join the Courier in wishing her happiness and joy in her new home and relation.

Dr Field is a practicing physician of Minnesota Lake, a prosperous town in the extreme southern part of the state. He is spoken very highly of and no doubt will prove a worthy husband. The couple will go immediately to Minnesota Lake where they will make their home.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 27, 1905.

Hon. E. T. Young, Atty. Gen.,
St. Paul, Minn.,

Dear Sir:—Can the City Council of a city legally give to the county authorities a lease of its City Hall to be used as a court house, for the term of ten years, at a nominal rent of one dollar per year, the said City Hall being a building of the value of several thousand dollars, and now used by the city for city offices and fire department? An early answer will oblige,

Yours truly,
CHAS, E. BOUGHTON,
City Attorney of Red Lake Falls, Minn.

St. Paul, Minn., June 6, 1905.

Mr. Chas. E. Boughton,
Red Lake Falls, Minn.,

Dear Sir:—I have the honor to advise you that the City Council has no authority to lease a City Hall or other public building in the manner indicated in your question. A City Council has only the powers granted to it by the Legislature and the Legislature of this state has not yet seen fit to grant to City Councils a power to lease public buildings belonging to the municipality.

Yours truly,

RURAL SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

By Chas. Moller, Terrebonne.

The greatness and prosperity of a nation depends upon the intelligence of its citizens. This is especially true in a republic. In seeking an educational institution the people demand the very best to be had.

Should we find any weakness in our present system we should not hesitate to throw it out. The welfare of the people of the nation demand that school officers should remove and abolish those defects which time, experience and circumstances have shown to exist. They should not be contented to continue along the same lines or pursue the same methods as their forefathers, until they feel confident that the present methods and the present system fill the requirements. That a certain system has been continued for a long time is no evidence that it is the only, or even the best system.

In looking over the history of the last twenty years, we find that an extraordinary progress has been made along almost every line of human action. In the organization of our common school system used in this state and county we can see but very little difference from those systems which were organized in 1879 in the New England States.

Has our common school system arrived at such a state of perfection that it cannot be improved? If not then we have neglected to keep it up to the standard of other lines of progress

The town unit school system was the ancient system of New England. The classic school law of Massachusets, enacted in 1748 ordered that the towns should form schools on their reaching a certain number of householders. Connecticut and other New England provinces followed the example of Massachusetts. The original New England town was a small concentration of people and was well adapted to this system. As the settlement spread from the original center it became convenient for families at a distance to establish new and smaller schools. At first these existed merely by private suffrage. In 1879, however, thew were legalized by law. In speaking of this law, Horace Mann says: "I consider the law of 1879, authorizing towns to divide themselves into districts the most unfortunate law on the subject of common school laws ever enacted in this state."

This faulty district system has spread into a great majority of the the states today. But we find the New England states that were first to adopt it are likewise leading in abolishing it. In Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New Jersey we find it no more. In Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Florida, Washington, California and a great many other states, we find some form of consolidated schools, side by side with the old system. From all these states the reports are decidedly in favor of the consolidated system. Considering how much better the consolidated system is than the district system it is not a little strange that its progress has been so slow.

In our present system, the district system, we find many defects. We should ever be on the watch for these and try to remove them. The fact that our present system was good enough a generation ago does not prove that will fill the requirements of the future. New conditions have arisen. Competition has become more keen. In order that the children of the present time may have the same opportunities as their parents, it is absolutely necessary that they should receive a proportionate degree of better school facilities than those of their parents.

In this county we attempt at present to maintain 77 distinct and seperate schools. Does it not seem plain to you that the result mast necessarily be a great many weak and expensive schools? Are you satisfied in scattering your efforts along educational lines? Would it not be better to so arrange our school system, that the greatest amount of good can come to the greatest number of people for the amount of money invested?

It is well to look into the question with care before rendering an opinion. It is well also to be conservative, and not be in too great haste, in adopting new ideas. But we must not make the mistake of the Chinese and allow this conservatism to prevent all progress because of being satisfied with present conditions.

In investigating this question all personal feelings should be laid aside. It should be considered from all points of view without prejudice. Especially when it is recommended by thousands of learned fellow citizens from other states.

One evidence that our rural school system is faulty is the fact that the average country pupil does not remain in the country school after reaching the seventh or eighth grade. It has been and still is the custom for pupils in the country who are ready to enter those grades, to leave the rural school to attend a graded school in some town. In some cases where they have relatives residing in town they leave earlier in the grades to reside with these town relatives to attend the graded school. Again we find parents selling or renting their farms, and moving into town for the sole purpose of letting their children attend the graded school. All children are not blest with these town relatives, and these opportunities for attending the graded school in town. Neither are all parents in such position as to be able to hire board for their children in town. The result is that the average country pupil leaves school at an age when he is best fitted to take up school work to prepare him for the struggle of life. A graded school in the country to which he could have access would enable him to continue without leaving home. Now the question is: How can this be accomplished?

Consolidation of rural schools answers this question. By this system graded schools can be organized in the country and country children can have the privelege of attending without leaving home and going to some town. And it is not in all cases that this change has the best results for the country children. Not every boy and girl who comes fresh from the country with good health and pure morals is able to retain these blessings under the changed conditions in town. They have not been prepared for it; they have grown up under different surroundings and the new life may not be the best for them. The country is the ideal place for the graded school, with its simplicity of manners and dress, the ruggedness of its life, the peace, quiet and contentment of its homes, its formation of good habits, its absence of vice, its opportunities for physical development and its making of men and women of clear consciences. All these are items which argue for rural life and the rural school.

There is a tendency, or rather there has been, on the part of some of our rural population to think think their work less dignified than work in town. The average farmer did not sufficiently "magnify his office." So when able to educate one of his sons he would send him to college to study for the law, medicine, divinity or to to fit him for some department of an imagined higher life in town. To the old style farmer science had not yet made the revelations which have transformed agriculture and shown it to afford gratifications of the highest order to intellect and ambition.

But the transforming influence of the new agriculture is being felt today in every state. It has endowed farming with such facinations that not only do the farmer's sons, when fairly brought in contact with its wonderful agencies, show an increasing tendency to remain on the farm, but multitudes of city youth are attracted to field and garden and forest. The graduate of the modern agricultural school finds himself the peer and more in intellictual equipment of the graduate from the ordinary college.

Formerly the tendency was to educate the boy from the farm. Now the tendency is to reverse this state of affairs. Since a great many boys derive all their education in a country school the subject of agriculture should receive due attention. Unfortunately it is almost entirely neglected in the average country. There are a great many reasons for this among which are the limited enrollment, lack of time, shortness of school terms, etc. If graded schools were established in the country this subject could easily be given the time and attention it ought to have. Then the country boy would be learning something that would insure him a greater chance for attaining a competence than the average city youth.

The question of school consolidation stated simply, is whether or not it would be better to unite small, single room, isolated country schools into graded or semi-graded schools and to carry the children to and from the latter at public expense. It is conceded by state and county superintendents and other administrative officers everywhere that the most rational solution of the rural school problem lies in thus combining these small isolated schools into larger ones and transporting the children.

Regarding the wisdom of the plan, experience has shown the following points in favor of consolidation, as set forth by State Superintendent Olsen: 1st. It allows more time for recitations.

The chief difficulty in a country school where a considerable number of pupils is enrolled, or more strictly speaking, where all the grades—from the primary to the eight—are represented, lies in the lack of time for recitations. Allowing but four recitations for each grade this would amount to from twenty-eight to thirty-two recitations in a single day! Contrast this if you please with the number of recitations required of a teacher in a graded school.

2nd. It makes larger classes, permitting desirable classification and grading of pupils.

By a regular system of graduation from one class and from one room to another, schoolwork is given a more distinctive aim and more tangible rewards are offered pupils.

3rd. It enables school boards to

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

SEEK REFUGE IN PORT OF MANILA

ADMIRAL ENQUIST, WITH THREE RUSSIAN CRUISERS, ESCAPE FROM JAPANESE.

Badly Damaged, and Crowded with Wounded, They Reach Manila and Request Time to Make Necessary Repairs.

Manila, June 5.—Three Russian cruisers that escaped from Admiral Togo in the battle of the Sea of Japan reached this port Saturday night. They are the cruisers Aurora, Oleg and Jemtchug, under command of Rear Admiral Enquist, who was commander of the heavy cruiser division of the Russian fleet. The three vessels suffered in the engagement a loss of 68 killed and 135 wounded, and in their appearance bear striking witness to the excellence of Japanese marksmanship. Their funnels are riddled with large and small shot. Several large shells pierced them amidships, and many of their guns are dismounted.

Escorted by American Ships.

The Russians reached port at nine o'clock Saturday evening. Rear Admiral Train, on board his flagship, the battleship Ohio, with the Wisconsin, Oregon. Raleigh and Cincinnati, was outside the Corregidor islands maneuvering when the Aurora saluted with 13 guns and the Ohio answered. Admiral Train and his squadron accompanied the Russian vessels to Manila.

Must Leave or Disarm.

Washington, June 5.—The three Russian cruisers under Rear Admiral Enquist, which escaped from the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan and have staggered into Manila, will be granted a refuge within the limits of the laws of neutrality. They must leave with 24 hours after making repairs necessary to place them in a seaworthy condition, or they must intern and remain in port until the end of the war.

Ask Time to Repair.

Washington, June 5.—The following cablegram was received at the navy department Sunday from Admiral Train dated at Manila, and was sent immediately to the president: "Admiral Enquist states that the Aurora and the Oleg are both seriously damaged, and are not seaworthy. The Jemtchug is in bad condition. He makes the request to fill up with provisions and coal. Will require 14 days to repair damages. A board has been ordered to examine and report their condition. One hundred and thirty men wounded. Permission has been granted 50 to be landed."

Manila, June 5.—The naval board which has examined into the condition of the Russian warships here reports that the Oleg will require 60 days, the Aurora 30 days and the Jemtchug ten days to effect repairs. Admiral Enquist has requested permission to repair here, saying that he would be unable to sail except in a smooth sea, on account of his vessels needing patching near the water line.

The Japanese Losses.

Tokio, June 2.—The Japanese losses in the battle of the sea of Japan were 113 officers and men killed and 424 officers and men wounded. The completion of the revised list shows that the losses were under the original estimates. The flagship Mikasa was the heaviest loser, losing 63 killed and wounded. The losses were distributed among the fleet as follows: Mikasa, 63; Adzuma, 39; Shikishima, 37; Asashi, 31; Fuji, 28; Idzuma, 26; Nisshin, 27; Otowa, 26; Kasaga, 26; Tsushima, 19; Asama, 16; Naniwa, 17; Tokiwa, 15; Yakumo, 11; Chitose, 6; Idzumi, 10; Kasuga, 9; Hashidate, 5; Nitaka, 4. The casualties among the destroyers and torpedo boats were 87. Commander Togo was wounded on the Adzuma.

A Story of Mutiny.

London, June 3.—Mutiny on the Russian ships, or some of them, in the battle of the Sea of Japan, is now generally believed to have contributed in part to the ease with which the Japanese won their victory. Dispatches from official sources in St. Petersburg to the war office assert that Admiral Nebogatoff in his report of the battle to the emperor excuses his surrender by his astonishing statement that when the flag of Russia was pulled down he was a prisoner in the mutinous hands of his own command.

Cruel Order Enrages Men.

The full story of what is apparently one of the most startling occurrences in the history of warfare is understood to have been related to the emperor as follows:

After taking part vigorously in the battle of the first day the soldiers and sailors on the Orel and the Nicolai I. became enraged by the fact that, the wounded hampering the operations of the still able-bodied, Nebogatoff ordered that 140 of them be thrown overboard near the Liancourt rocks. The order was carried out, and the rapidly growing spirit of mutiny was intensified by the sight of the advancing turrets of the Japanese.

Scarcely a shot had been fired, it is understood Nebogatoff explains, when the officers of the Orel and the Nicolai I. were seized, disarmed after a struggle, and confined in the main ward rooms of the vessel.

Run Up Japanese Flag.

The Japanese flag was then run up to the peak by the mutineers and on the mikado's ships ceasing fire a delegation of the mutineers informed Nebogatoff that he was to proceed to the Jap ships and there to tender the submission of his command.

Realizing that it was useless to attempt to maintain any semblance of resistance with the mutinous crew, Nebogatoff complied, and, boarding a small launch, went aboard the Jap cruiser Asama and formally surrendered.

President in Washington Gives Signal Which Starts the Portland Exposition.

Portland, Ore., June 2.—With the gentle touch of a hand upon a golden telegraph instrument, President Roosevelt from the white house on Thursday gave the signal which formally opened to the world the Lewis and Clark Centennial exposition, a monument to the memories of Capts. Merriwether Lewis and William Clark, the pioneers who 100 years ago blazed the trail which opened up to the world the "Old Oregon Country." A more auspicious day for the opening of the exposition could not have been desired. The literary exercises which preceded the formal opening of the fair were of extraordinary excellence. The speakers were Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, of the house of representatives; Senator Clark, of Wyoming; Congressman Tawney, of Minnesota; H. A. Taylor, assistant secretary of the treasury department; Gov. Chamberlain, of Oregon, and Mayor Williams, of Portland.

AMERICAN YACHT WINS.

Atlantic Victorious in Race for Kaiser's Cup—She Makes a Remarkable Voyage.

The Lizard, England, May 31.—The American three-masted schooner yacht Atlantic, owned by Wilson Marshall, New York Yacht club, is winner of the kaiser's cup. The German schooner yacht Hamburg finished second, nearly 24 hours behind her successful rival. The Atlantic passed Wolf rock with every stitch of sail set. Her spinnaker was rigged to starboard and the American ensign was at her peak. Shortly afterwards the wind dropped and the spinnaker was taken in. Capt. Barr was hailed by the correspondent's boat. He said the Atlantic had made an average speed of 10½ knots since leaving Sandy Hook. The record sail for one day was 341 knots, which Mr. Marshall believes beats anything hitherto achieved. This was made May 24.

Counterfeiters.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 6.—The discovery by the United States authorities in this city of a counterfeiters' den in what is known as the old Rowland cemetery, situated near Sioux Falls, explains the mystery surrounding recent movements of a strange nature in the vicinity of the old home of the dead. As the result of a raid on the den, the federal authorities succeeded in capturing the man who, it is alleged, is the maker of a great amount of counterfeit money which has recently been placed in circulation at Yankton and other places in the southeastern portion of the state.

Drowned.

Shakopee, Minn., June 6.—Joseph Ryan, the fourteen-year-old son of William Ryan of Skakopee, was drowned in the Minnesota river, one and a half miles east of Shakopee. The father has offered a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body.

Ryan and a companion, Julius Pingilly, had been searching in the woods near Shakope for ferns and flowers with which to decorate the high school building for commencement. They went in swimming at the point where Pond's creek joins the Minnesota river.

Crookston, Minn., June 6.—Congressman Halvor Steenerson believes that the Nelson bankruptcy law has done its service and should now be repealed. He says he will introduce a bill at the next session of congress to repeal the law. OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE COUNTY
OFFICIAL PAPER RED LAKE FALLS CITY

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance.

MORT ADSON, a former Red Lake Falls boy, has been promoted to the position of general passenger agent of the Duluth South Shore. You can't keep Red Lake County folks down.

THE Republican factions are just now enjoying a controversy as to whether the Dunn vote or the Roosevelt vote shall be used as a basis of representation in the next convention. Sic 'em!

GOVERNOR JOHNSON can afford to regard complacently the roar from the Minneapolis and Duluth wheat pits because they are not to be represented on the new board of grain appeals. This board was established with a view of securing the largest measure of protection to the grain producer, and it is proper that the board should be made up of men not interested in the "puts and calls" of the grain gamblers.

HON. ROYAL A. STONE, assistant attorney general, has rendered an opinion that the Thief River council exceeds its authority in offering to lease the city hall for court house purposes. This question was decided several years ago in the Renville county case, as cited by THE COURIER several weeks ago. The Thief River papers said we were wrong, but then sometimes even Thief River Falls newspapers fall into unintentional error.

WITH all our boast of refinement and civilization there must be something radically wrong in our education and code of morals, viewed from the many accounts of hold-ups, defalcations and divers other crimes says the St. Peter Free Press. We are in the habit of picking at little things and ridicule the short-comings of other nations and at the same time furnish a spectacle of corruption and dishonesty that makes every good citizen blush for shame. Look at the bank of Fairbault, the bank of Milwaukee and now again at the doings of Judge Ogle of Mankato. The great trouble with our present generation is that too many live above their means. A man who gets ten dollars a week strives to rival with the well-to-do merchant, the merchant wants to outdo the big capitalist and the capitalist apes European aristocracy, And the remedy? A return to the true republican principles of our forefathers and the application of severe and lasting punishment to the evil doers.

The Tide Has Turned.

John D. Rockefeller is reported to be heart-broken over the public criticism arsiing from his proffered gift of $100,000 to missionaries.

He has given up his vacation, returned to his desk in New York and will seek relief from his depression in hard work.

What will it profit a man to monopolize the earth if he loses his own self respect?

Only two things make life worth living—one is to be respected, the other is to be feared.

No matter how many millions he may possess the person who is neither feared or respected is a miserable wretch.

That is why the system is striving to gain control of the Amerlean government.

If it could control railroad rates and command and recruit the army it is precious little the Rockefellers would care whether the churches accept their ill-goods or not.

As bold as are the American people in expressing their contempt for millionaire crooks, however, the idea of fear has not yet even appeared.

It is no wonder the younger Rockefeller should think of quitting the System.

If the head of the system is thus to be despised, what will become of pusillanimous aldermen and members of the legislature who betray their constituents to the system.

It is evident that the political tide has turned.—Midway News.

OUR RURAL FRIENDS.

The largest cornfield in the world is down in Missouri, containing 6,000 acres. David Rankin, who owns it, raised in 1904, 15,000 acres of corn on his various farms. He may rightly be called the "corn king."

The Kansas City Journal points out that while farmers compose 50 per cent of our population, they commit only 2 per cent of our crimes. The simple life keeps close to the soil and far from influences that beget crime.

Plant Wizard Burbank is now engaged in crossing the "common potato with the solanum commersoni." We doubt if it will ever be more popular than the common potato crossed with a little fresh butter or brown gravy.

While the Chinese are held to be the most economical people in the world, it has apparently never occurred to them to use the vast areas of their verdant hill and mountain regions as pasturage for cattle, sheep or horses.

As few farms in Iowa are without tenants and farms are eagerly sought after at values never before realized, it would seem that the high price of farming land in that state is responsible for the falling off in the rural population.

The best way to treat a new buggy is to wash it thoroughly with clean cold water before hitching to it. Have a clean sponge and chamois skin. Wash and polish with the chamois. The process hardens the varnish and prevent dust from sticking.

The farmers everywhere should get up on both hind feet and insist that the telephones poles which are now found along almost all public highways stuck out about four feet from the fences shall be moved back on the fence line. As now set, it is almost impossible to move the highways with any ease. What lunatic started this plan of sticking them out in the road?

One man cannot do more than a reasonable amount of work on the farm and do it well and continue to do it. It is possible for a man to put forth extra energies for a day or two, or perhaps several weeks, but to keep up month after month doing more work than one person should do will eventually break down the person doing it and a physical wreck will be the result.

Talking about eggs, if you want to see something phenomenal in this line call at the United States National Museum and inspect the product of the gaint bird called the Aepiornis. It is twelve inches long and ten inches wide, while its shell is nearly a quarter of an inch thick and as hard as rock. Some idea of its size may be had when it is stated that it is capable of holding the contents of six ostrich eggs. A setting of these eggs, or 149 hens' eggs or 30,000 humming birds eggs. A setting of these eggs would be liable to jar the owner of the most vaunted modern incubator and the young Aepiornises, when they come out, would stump the most ambitious brooder to take care of them.

The best way to be miserable is to think about yourself, how much you have lost, how much you have mode, and the poor prospects for the future. A brave man, with a soul in him, gets out of such pitiful ruts and laughs at discouragement, rolls up his sleeves, whistles and sings and makes the best of life. This earth was never intended for glory, and the man who rises above his discouragements and keeps his manhood will only be the stronger for his adversities.

Luther Burbank of Santa Rosa, Cal. has succeeded in producing another wonderful creation, which will come under the head of potato experiments and is known as "potato fruit." Briefy summarized, the evolution is a matter of planting a tuber and gathering from the potato vine the luscious white fruit, one that is delightfully palatable and makes excellent preserves. Mr. Burbank has named the pototo fruit "pomato." When compared with a tomato the pomato is smaller in size and its meat is white instead of red. It is highly flavored. Its flavor is that of a fruit rather than a vegetable. Mr. Burbank has now some 10,000 varieties of potatoes with wich he is experimenting. Most of them are bybred seeding of his own creation.

The County in General

Thief River wants a band.

The new passenger train on the Soo was put on Monday.

Plummer will pull the tail feathers out of the American eagle July 4th. Preparations are being made for a grand celebration.

The Red Lake County Agricultural Society has issued their annual premium lists for the fair this year at Thief River Falls. August 9, 10 and 11 are the dates this year.

Brooks and Plummer indulged in another ball game a week ago Sunday, Brooks winning this time by a score of 23 to 16. Each team has now won a game and the tie will be played off.

St. Hilaire will celebrate the glorious fourth of July in a royal manner. Committees have been appointed to look after the different features of the day and a rousing time is looked for. The Red Lake Falls band will furnish the music for the occasion.

Saving Banks in Germany.

Most of the larger German cities conduct saving banks on a plan entirely different from any we are acquainted with. They are for the benefit of the poor and very small sums are accepted, a fair rate of interest being paid. The banks are run with the greatest economy and are not supposed to do more than be selfsupporting. Not all of the money can be drawn out at any time, so they force savings. The greatest economy in this country is in buying golden grain belt beer, for it gives good health and happiness and strength. Order a case of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

The Courier stationery store is showing some unusually handsome box papers these days.

Log drivers have been much in evidence the past week. A drive for the Crookston mill has been going down the Clearwater for a number of days.

County Treasurer Hansen has had an assistant this week in the person of Adam zeh. There is a large amount of work in the office and it would seem that Mr. Hansen is entitled to a clerk.

The financial statement of the Merchants State Bank appears in this issue of the COURIER. It shows this popular insitution is in a prosperous condition, as it has always been since its organization.

Miss Mamie Erickson returned to the city Tuesday and will remain during the summer vacation. She taught school at New Prague the past year and has accepted the position for next year.

The kid nine from St. Hilaire came down to this city Sunday and beat our youngsters in a game of ball by a score of 8 to 9. In the language of one of the aforesaid youngsters "They can't do it again."

If our fire boys do not win first place at the Blackduck tournament it will not be because they have not practiced faithfully. They are in the pink of condition at present and will no doubt set a fast pace for all contestants in the races.

Anthony Roy, one of the pioneers of Red Lake county, died at his home in Louisville township last Thursday. He had been a resident of that section for twenty-five or thirty years and had a wide acquaintance. His death will be mourned by a large number of friends throughout the county.

Judge Watts handed down a decision Monday that is of interest to a great many citizens of Red Lake county. The title of the case is Asa Paine vs. Town of Gervias. The town of Gervias issued bonds to the N. P. railway back in 1886 which have been purchased by Mr. Paine a resident of Minneapolis. Mr. Paine began the action to compel the township to pay the interest and Judge Watts holds that the bonds must be paid along with the interest.

A party of traveling men back from the Rainy River country report that things up north are generally overboomed and that all the property is in the hands of speculators; town lots on the outskirts of town, with 25 feet frontage, are held up at $300 apiece. Living is high, eggs selling at 60 cents a dozen or 5 cents apiece, butter 50 cents a pound, oats 70 cents a bushel. Common board is $7.00 a week, day laborers are paid $2.00 and $2.25 a day and everything in a like proportion. The town has a posulation of about 600 and all the appearance of a frontier village.

Alick Halvorson, of Garnes, was a county seat visitor several days the first of the week.

An article by Chas. Moller on rural school consolidation appears in this issue of the COURIER. Mr. Moller is one of the best teachers in this section and his article has attracted wide attentian.

Miss Olga Kretschimre, of Thief River Falls, was here Monday evening to be pressnt at the graduating exercises. She was formerly a member of the class at this place but graduated at Thief River this year.

The band of this place has been secured by St. Hilaire for July 4th. It is said the town to the north of us is to have a monster celebration and we assure our neighbor that Red Lake Falls will be represented by a large crowd.

Editor George of the Fertile Journal came up with the high school students of his town last Tuesday. While here he hied himself to the river and endavored to catch fish. What success he had we have been unable to learn, but presume if he had been successful he would have been around and told us about it.

A party of young ladies were at the N. P. one evening recently to see a friend depart. Thinking the train would pull up to the depot and stop they boarded the cars to visit with the one to depart. Unfortunately the train did not stop until the Great Northern crossing was reached, so the young ladies had a walk of a mile or so in order to get back to town. They think the conductor of that train is a real horrid man.

For Sale.—Two Brussels carpets, in good condition. Were originally intended for double parlor but can be used in separate rooms. Also one hall rug, 3x12 feet. For particulars enquire of Mrs. S. M. Sivertson, North Side.

County Treasurer Hansen's mail has been very large the past two or three weeks. Most of the letters contained checks for the payment of real estate taxes. Mr. Hansen should be given a clerk as it will take some time to catch up with his work without help.

A young tornado is reported as having visited the country about six miles south of this city last Friday. Trees were torn up by the roots and other evidences of a severe storm are shown. Fortunately no buildings were in the path of the storm so the damage was light.

The Great Northern depot has been in the hands of carpenters the past few days. The interior has been rearranged and when the work is completed Agent Tracy and his office force will have more commodious quarters. The office has been enlarged and extends across the entire building now.

Mesdames C. L. Dabney, John Eastman and Dan Shaw, of Thief River Falls, attended the graduation exercises at this place Monday evening, and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Hansen. Mrs. Dabner and Mrs. Eastmen returned home Tuesday morning, but Mrs Shaw remained until the county commissioners adjourned.

J. C. Wander arrived in the city last week and closed the deal for Harry Healy's interest in the furniture business of Anderson & Healy. He immediately took possession and the business has been under the new management since the first of the month. Mr. Wander comes highly recomended from his home town, Melrose, and will no doubt make many friends in this city.

BLOOD POISON MAN'S GREATEST ENEMY

The disease that has done more than any other to wreck, ruin and humiliate life, is Contagious Blood Poison. Sorrow, shame and suffering go hand in hand with this great enemy, and man has always hated and fought it as he has no other disease. It is the most powerful of all poisons; no matter how pure the blood may be, when its virus enters, the entire circulation becomes poisoned and its chain of horrible symptoms begin to show. Usually the first sign is a small sore or ulcer, not at all alarming in appearance, but the blood is being saturated with the deadly poison, and soon the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the hair and eyebrows drop out, a red eruption breaks out on the body, copper-colored splotches and sores make their appearance and the poison even works down into the bones and attacks the nerves. Not only is the disease hereditary, being transmitted from parent to child, in the form of scrofula, weak eyes, soft bones, weak, puny constitutions, etc., but is also so highly contagious that many a life has been ruined by a friendly hand shake, or from using the toilet articles of one infected with the poison. To cure this blighting, deadly curse the blood must be purified, and nothing will do it so quickly and surely as S. S. S. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, drives out every particle of the poison and makes the blood clean and strong. It does not hide or cover up anything, but from the first begins to expel the poison and build up and strengthen the system.

SSS

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book on the disease, with instructions for home treatment, and any advice desired, without charge.

employ teachers especially adapted to certain kinds of work.

This is an age of specializing. Some teachers are best adapted for primary work while others possess qualities which fit them for upper grade work. Some may have especial ability in mathematics, others may have an aptness for reading and its allied branches. Very seldom do all combine in the same person. In a school where only one teacher is employed it is obvious that some grades or some branches of study will be slighted. In a graded school employing more than one teacher it could be so arranged that each teacher would get the work for which she is best fitted. Music could then be taught in country schools.

4th. It opens the doors to longer terms of school as well as to schools of higher grade; to better appointed school houses, heated, lighted and ventilated on more sanitary plans, affording conditions that insure health of pupils; to better equipment of apparatus and books. All these naturally follow, the concentration of people, wealth, interest and effort.

5th. It economizes in the purchase of text books libraries and needed apparatus. It follows that one school of several rooms can be better provided with these working tools for a stipulated sum of money than half a dozen separate schoolhouses.

One good well appointed four room building will meet the needs of at least six school districts. It is plain that it will be cheaper to maintain the four room building than six separate buildings. Only four teachers need be employed instead of six.

6th. It makes efficient supervision possible. A principal can be employed to organize and direct the work along definite lines, and the county superintendent can devote more time to each school. A competent superintendent is valuable according to the extent of his acquaintance with the teachers and school officers.

The county superintendent has not time nor opportunity to impress his ideas fully upon a hundred teachers and three or four hundred school officers.

7th. It increases attendance, prevents tardiness, quarreling and improper conduct on the way to and from school.

When a pupil is doing irregular fragmentary work in a class by himself it is so easy for him to remain absent for the slightest excuse. There is no competition. When he comes back he can take up the work where he left off. It does not mean much to him. In a larger class which progresses each day he can be made able to feel a distinct loss for a day's absence. With a responsible driver tradiness is entirely unknown. There is no swearing, fighting or vulgar languagt nor imporper conduct along the road. All of which is conducive to better morals.

8th. It is better for the health of the children, they being less exposed to wet feet and clothing and the ills resulting therefrom.

9th. It incidently promotes the "good roads" movement and makes easy the daily distribution of mail thruout the district.

10th. Petty local jealousies are lost in the larger schools, neighborhood difficulties are less liable to occur, and the burdens of taxation will be more evenly distributed,

11th. It adds the stimulating influence of large classes with the resulting enthusiasm arising from keener competition and more active rivalry with classmates.

Prof. Hinsdale in regard to this says, "Once more the interest and enthusiasm of pupils and teachers depend directly upon the number and ability of the pupils present. For the majority of children individual instruction or anything closely approaching it is not to be commended. Children need the inspiration of numbers. You can, as a rule no more make a good school out of a dozen children than you can make a strong galvanic battery with one or two pairs of plates."

12th. To many it affords association with others whose lives are less restricted than their own,—a distinct gain in school grace, and personal culture. The narrow environment of many country school pupils may be appreciated by reflecting that in Minnesota there are 136 schools enrolling fewer than ten pupils, and 1,117 schools enrolling fewer than twenty pupils.

State Superintendent Jones of Indiana says:

"The great evil of the small rural school lies in its nonsocial character. It is wholly unable to furnish each of its pupils that educative influence that comes from association with many of the same age and same degree of advancement; it cannot have in many classes enough of honest and helpful competition to establaish standard to which many a bright pupil would raise himself, and fails therefore to bring from him that supreme effort which develops and ennobles, and which comes only from vigorous contest with his fellows. The humdrum and monotony of a recitation in a one pupil class is discouraging to both pupil and teacher. Not only is the mental work in school thus impaired but the lack of enough pupils to organize a game on the school yard prevents necessary exercise and tend to make morbid, selfish and pessimistic all who live in its atmosphere,—the deadly quiet and inactivity of the small school kills the spirit."

The small country school offers no educational feature for the boy; it holds for him no advancing interest to counteract the allurments outside of school life. The consolidated school, with its better equipment and larger attendance, will hold the pupils because it gives them an opportunity to see what there is for them to do. As has elsewhere been mentioned in this article instruction could be given in agriculture, thus planting in the boy a love for his home and the farm. Under this system the farm becomes the ideal place to bring up children, enabling them to obtain the advantages enjoyed in our centers of population and yet to spend their evenings and holidays in the country "under the constant tender care of father and mother, in contact with nature and plenty of work, instead of idly loafing about town."

It is to be regretted that one of the chief drawbacks to this movement is the fear that it will cost more than the old system.

Whether the expense will be greater or less depends wholly upon local conditions. Where the schools are small so that the teaching force may be materially reduced the expense will lessen. Where the schools are now drawing special state aid and are so large that the number of teachers cannot be reduced, the expense will remain much the same plus the expense of transportation. Experience however has shown that the daily cost of the pupils' schooling has been decreased, where this system has been employed, even though there has been a slight increase in the school tax.

But we should not allow the standard of dollars and cents to govern us too exclusively in a question of such vital importance as the education of our children, and our public schools, The question should not be, How cheap? but, How efficient?—not How may the saving of a few dollars be effected? but, How may boyhood and girlhood be expanded into manhood and womanhood of the very highest type, well equipped mentally, morally and physically to appreciate and perform honestly, faithfully and intelligently, every duty of life to enjoy those highest recreations most helpful to enter and possess the rich heritage to which the twenthieth century falls heir; to construct ideal homes, ideal society, an ideal nation?

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buessing, 701 West Third St., Davenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could not more than give me temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and if I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering." INDICTMENT FOR STRIKE LEADERS

CHICAGO GRAND JURY RETURNS TRUE BILLS FOR CONSPIRACY AGAINST MANY.

Latest Effort to Settle the Strike Fails—Shea Is Arrested on Charge of Criminal Libel—Fierce Riots Still Continue.

Chicago, June 5.—The Cook county grand jury, after a week's consideration, indicted a score of labor leaders for conspiracy. The indictments are broad. Among those indicted are: C. P. Shea, Albert Young, W. J. Gibbons, Joseph W. Young, J. B. Barry, John Smyth, Hugh McGee, Emil Schwark, Charles Dold, G. F. Golden, Steve Sumner, Jerry McCarthy, Michael Kelly, Harry Lapp, John Schultz, John Karpen, Fred Okeson.

Fail to Reach Settlement.

Negotiations which came closer to settling the great teamsters' strike than any peace movement that has been attempted since the struggle began were broken off summarily at midnight Saturday. The employers, in conference with representatives of the unions, insisted that union men, if they returned to work, should do the work of their fellow unionists now on strike against the express companies. The unions refused to accept this condition and all peace plans were swept to the ground. The failure of these plans came as a climax to a day of extraordinary activity in the strike, ranging from unusual and probably fatal violence to the mortal wounding of a policeman, and the indictment by the grand jury of union leaders on charges of conspiracy.

Thorne Sues Shea.

Robert J. Thorne, of Montgomery Ward & Co., began suit during the day for $25,000 damages in the federal court against President Shea. He brought suit in the same amount in the superior court against Albert Young. He charged that his business reputation had suffered to that extent because of charges Shea and Young had made to the effect that he had paid money to union men to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck & Co., one of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s strongest competitors. Attorney Alfred Austin, who filed the suits for him, chose the federal courts, he said, because if Shea was found guilty and could not pay damages to Thorne he could be put in jail. Capiases were issued for both Young and Shea and the latter gave bond early in the evening.

Much Wild Rioting.

Before, during and after the time spent in court there was wild rioting throughout the city. One policeman was shot and mortally wounded in a riot on the West side. Another shot and fatally wounded one of 40 strikebreakers that attacked him on the South side. All through the day police fought crowds with clubs and revolvers. Many arrests were made.

Wisconsin Bank Closed.

Milwaukee, June 3.—A special from Ladysmith, Wis., says: The First national bank of this place, was closed Friday and is in charge of P. F. Earling, special bank examiner. The state has on deposit $8,000 and total deposits aggregate $35,000, which will be paid in full and the bank reorganized.

Seventeen-Year Locusts Appear.

Milwaukee, June 3.—Special dispatches from several points in Walworth county, southern Wisconsin, say that 17-year locusts are reported to have arrived in that section, but not in sufficient numbers as yet to do any serious damage.

Killed by Lightning.

Wanatchee, Wash., June 3.—Charles Cooper, aged eight, and Harry Cooper, aged 14, only children of Rev. Fred Cooper, were struck dead by lightning while working in an orchard Friday.

Exposition Building Burned.

Milwaukee, June 5.—The Milwaukee exposition building, occupying a city block, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday evening. The loss is $300,000, insured for $75,000.

THE EQUITABLE FIGHT.

Stormy Meeting at Which Three Directors Resign—Alexander Deposed—Hyde Asked to Sell.

New York, June 3.—By a coalition of the Hyde and Alexander factions in the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance society Friday, the report of the Frick investigating committee was rejected, and three of the members of the committee, angered by the turn affairs have taken, resigned as officers of the society. Those directors who resigned were Henry C. Frick, Cornelius N. Bliss and E. H. Harriman. The remaining members of the Frick committee, Melville E. Ingalls and Brayton Ives, both of whom were fiercely attacked by Mr. Hyde during the meeting, are also expected to quit the Equitable directorate. The meeting was stormy, and at times the talk was so plain that it verged on accusations of criminality. Mr. Harriman, in particular, was singled out by Mr. Hyde as the target for attack. While the combined Hyde and Alexander forces were able to dispose of the Frick report, because it recommended that the "deferred dividend" system of doing business be abolished, they were compelled to submit to the adoption of resolutions which strip President James W. Alexander of authority and place the chairman of the board of directors in full power over the affairs of the society. James Hazen Hyde also is requested formally by the resolutions to dispose of the stock he controls within the next three months.

New York, June 5.—Admittedly worse than at any previous time during the Equitable Life imbroglio are the conditions that prevail to-day. If the opinions of directors not controlled either by the Hyde or Alexander factions count for anything there will be several resignations from the board within the next five days. With one exception every member of the Frick investigating committee probably will sever his connection as a member of the directorate of the society. The one exception is Brayton Ives.

Meanwhile it is conceded that James H. Hyde dominates the Equitable and both his friends and opponents are waiting anxiously to see what the first vice president purposes doing. They believe they will have no longer to wait than next Wednesday, when the directors will meet. It is at this session that the committee of seven chosen to submit the names of several men from whom to select the new chairman of the board is to make its report. The indications also are that the directors at their meeting Wednesday will not be able to unite on any man for the chairmanship, as they seem to be hopelessly divided over the matter. A dispatch from Chicago stated that Robert T. Lincoln had declared that under no circumstances would he accept the chairmanship.

Now Rest in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 5.—After reposing in a cemetery vault in New York city for many years, the remains of Stevens Thompson Mason, first governor of the state of Michigan, were on Sunday interred with appropriate ceremonies in a stone-lined grave in Capitol Square park in this city, where stood the state capitol when Gov. Mason was the chief executive of Michigan.

Valuable Securities Found.

Bedford, Ind., June 3.—Workmen engaged in unloading a carload of sand, found hidden in it several bundles of papers which proved to be bonds and securities valued at $300,000. They were identified as the property of the Wilmington, Ill., bank, which was robbed of the papers and $2,500 cash on May 9. The papers have been returned to the bank.

Remember Confederate Dead.

Lexington, Va., June 3.—Confederate Memorial day was observed here Friday by special exercises in Lee Memorial chapel. The burial places of Gens. Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and other distinguished dead were decorated profusely with flowers and flags.

Man Blown to Pieces.

Dixon, Ill., June 5.—A man was blown to pieces here with dynamite. His head was found intact, but the remainder of his body, in small fragments, was spattered against houses in the vicinity.

LOCAL NEWS.

The evangelists, Miss Smith and Miss Reed, will be here next week and hold services at the Presbyterian church Thursday and Friday evenings and twice on Sunday.

I intend to have a class in music this summer and will give lessons on either the piano or the reed organ. I intend to begin the class on the first Monday and Tuesday of June. If you have a child whom you wish to take lessons during the vacation I will be pleased to confer with you.—Lee C. Healy.

Postmistress Marshall is making an effort to have the twin city mail come over the Great Northern to this city. The irregularity of the Northern Pacific trains is a great inconvience to the patrons of the post office and as the Great Northern is always on time the new order of things will be greatly appreciated by all. One pouch now comes over the Great Northern and Mrs. Marshall says all the mail will come by that route in the near future.

The Great Northern system has adopted telephone service between some of their small stations and if the experiment proves satisfactory they will adopt the plan quite generally. The advantage to the company is pecuniary, of course, as operators can be secured at lower salaries. Naturally the telegraphers along the line are "red hot" about the advent of the 'phone service along the system and fear they will lose their jobs to men with only a clerical knowledge of railroading. Between Moorhead and Crookston the plan is being tried.

Crookston Times: Miss Julia Bloom entertained at a parcel shower last evening in honor of Miss Dora Eichoff who is soon to wed Arthur Zaiser of Red Lake Falls. The shower was attended by twenty or more prominent young ladies and proved most enjoyable. Miss Eichoff, the guest of honor, was the recipient of inumerable articles and packages, the contents of some of which were not revealed to the reporter. Miss Eichoff is to be married June 14th in this city and the wedding will be a quiet home affair attended only by the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting young people.

An Editor's Loss.

Brainerd Dispatch: Report comes from the upper country that Col. Edward L. Davidson, editor of the Perham Bulletin, has lost $500,000. This may come as a startling statement referring as it does to a country editor., but Bro. Davidson's loss is the same as was that of the man who did not have pork to sell when it went to a high price on the market. In '75 Davidson was offered a tract of land as a bonus to come to Fargo and start a paper and the piece of property has since sold for the above figure. Bro. Davidson is a prince of good fellows as it is and the Wadena Pioneer-Journal says "a million dollars might have spoiled him."

A SUDDEN SUMMONS.

Miss Cora Luxenburger Dies After a Short Illness

Miss Cora, the fifteen-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Luxenburger of Lake Pleasant township, died very suddenly in this city Monday afternoon after a sickness of but a few hours. It seems the little girl ran a needle into one of her thumbs a few days ago. The case was not considered serious at all and she was up and around until the day of her death. Monday morning she became very sick and passed away about 5 o'clock p. m.

The case was a most unusual one and the cause of her death is not exactly known. It is presumed heart failure or blood poisoning developed suddenly and took the young life away. Miss Cora made her home in this city the past winter with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bourdon and attended school. Her death was a great shock to all acquaintances of the young lady and the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved parents and friends.

The funeral was held from the Presbyterian church Wednesday, Rev. Knox being in charge of the services.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the kind neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us in our daughter's sickness and death. We especially wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bourdon and Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bourdon for their kindness and thoughtfulness.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam'l Luxinburger

Mayor Duffy's Proclamation.

In pursuance of the recommendation of Governor John A. Johnson, I hereby urge the citizens of Red Lake Falls to observe Wednesday, June 14 as Flag Day, and suggest that all our people display the stars and stripes at their homes and places of business, thus attesting the fact that we are a patriotic people anxious and ready to show our loyalty to the national colors.

J. A. DUFFY, Mayor.
Attest: A. P. TOUPIN, City Clerk.

RAINS GOOD FOR CROPS.

No Damage Done Whatever by Showers the Past Week.

In the opinion of old time crop experts of the Red River Valley the rains the past week were not injurious to the growing crop of grain and, although of a cloudburst nature while they lasted, good effects from the showers will be apparent in the growth of grain during the next few weeks.

The warm weather and moisture is shooting the grain ahead at a phenomenal rate and the appearance of the fields at the present time could hardly be better. Grass in the meadows and pastures is making rapid strides and haying will soon be in full blast.

THIEF RIVER CANT GIVE HALL

Attorney General Young Gives an Opinion in Regard to Thief River's Generous Offer.

Yesterday's Minneapolis Journal contained the following news that will be of much interest to the taxpayers of Red Lake county:

Partizns in the strife between Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls, for the county seat of Red Lake county, have asked Attorney General Young for an opinion. The city council of Thief River Falls, which is trying to get the county seat, has offered the use of its city hall as a courthouse building for ten years at a nominal rent of $1 a year. The Red Lake Falls people want to know whether the council has the right under its charter to grant the use of the city building for such a purpose, and the attorney general's office is inclined to rule the point well taken.

NEW DEAL IN LAND SALES.

Purchasers of State Lands Must Make Improvements.

The state land which will be offered for sale by State Auditor S. G. Iverson this fall will be sold on an entirely new basis. In accordance with a law passed by the recent legislature, those who buy land from the state will be required to do one of these things.

First—Fence at least 25 per cent of the tract for pasture and convert such portion into pasture land,

Second—Cultivate at least 5 per cent of the tract,

Third—Build a house and actually reside on the tract for a period of twelve months.

Under the law one of these three conditions must be met by the purchaser or his assigns within five years from the date of sale.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson, who is ex-officio land commissioner, will send out a circular today explaining the terms under which state lands are offered for sale under the new law.

In addition to explaining the foregoing conditions, the state land commissioner says:

"No sale can be made for less than the appraised price, which cannot be less than $5 per acre and may be higher. Four weeks notice of sale is given by publication in a newspaper published at the county seat and in a St. Paul newspaper. The advertisement of the sale contains the legal description of land to be offered. The lands so advertised are then offered for sale at the county seat of the county in which the lands are situated, and are sold at public auction to the highest bidder. No bid can be received for less than the appraised price. Where it is not convenient for parties to attend the sale they may arrange to have some one present and bid for them.

"Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase money from the date of sale to June 1 following must be paid at the time of sale.

The balance can run for forty years on interest at 4 per cent per annum, payable annually in advance on June 1 each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years. If the principal is paid in full before the expiration of ten years, the rate of interest to be paid is 5 per cent. The principal can be paid at any time—all at once or in partial payments, at the pleasure of the purchaser, subject to the before mentioned provisions as to the rate of interest. The state issues certificates of purchase to the purchaser of state lands, which are assignable and should be recorded in the county together with all assigments thereof.

"Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser."

County Depositories.

Proposals will be received by the Board of Auditors of Red Lake County, Minnesota, until five o'clock p. m., June 17, 1905, stating the rate of interest which would be paid on monthly balances of county funds subject to check and payment at all times on demand, the rate of interest which would be paid on such funds or any part thereof when deposited for any certain length of time and the security which would be given therefor.

Campbell's VARNISH STAIN

Is different from any other so-called Varnish Stain on the market. It is made of a high grade Waterproof Varnish made especially for the purpose, and treated in such a manner as to produce with one application beautiful imitations of natural woods finished in Varnish. Campbell's Varnish Stain is transparent, thereby preserving the grain and beauty of the natural wood, and at the same time giving a splendid colored effect. It dries with a durable gloss, and the colors remain permanent. Campbell's Varnish Stain does not settle in the can. It does not contain any pigment whatever. The colored effects are the results of our own peculiar process perfected after years of labor and costly experiments. Many of our competitors claim they have stains—"just as good as Campbell's"—but they will not produce the effects or wear as well. For sale by

The Secret of Good Coffee

Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored

LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.

Use LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee.

Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use "a tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot." First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:

1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES ONLY. Add a little cold water and set aside five minutes to settle. Serve promptly.

2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.

3 DONT'S {Don't boil it too long. Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving. Don't use water that has been boiled before.

TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.

1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.

2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.

Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.)
(Lion-head on every package.)
(Save these Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

Arthur F. Zaiser and Miss Dora Eickhoff Were Married at Crookston Yesterday.

At the bride's parents home in Crookston yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the wedding of Mr. Arthur F. Zaiser of this city, to Miss Dora Eickhoff took place.

TELEPHONES EVERYWHERE.

Notable Increase in Number of Lines in Minnesota.

The demand for telephone girls in Minnesota is increasing, if the records of the secretary of state are an indication of the situation. These records show that scores of telephone companies have been incorporated since the beginning of the fiscal year ending Aug. 1, 1905.

"It seems that almost every township has a rural telephone company" said a state official. "I should say that more telephone companies have been incorporated during the present fisical year than any other one class of concerns. The capital stock varies from $10,000 to $50,000, and usually the number of incorporators is large.

Next to the telephone company come mercantile firms. The increase in the number of incorporations from this source in the last few years has been something remarkable. State officials say that five or ten years ago it was a rare occasion to receive an incorporation fee from a country merchant, but it seems that nearly all the larger firms are coming under the incorporation laws. One of the advantages of incorporation is that the liability of the incorporators is limited to twice the amount of their stock in the company, whereas in an ordinary co-partnership each member of the firm is liable to the full extent of the debts.

There has been an equally notable increase in the number of manufacturing companies that have been incorporated. Under the law, firms that engage in no other business than manufacturing do not have to pay the regular incorporation fee, which is $50 for the first $50,000, and $5 for each additional $10,000. Firms have been incorporated to manufacture all sorts of devices in railroad supplies, automobile engines, plumbing, hardware supplies, brass novelties and so forth.

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER

Operatic Cantata Given by the Choral Club Monday Evening a Big Success.

The Red Lake Falls Choral Club presented their operatic cantata Monday evening to a fair sized audience. The performance was first class from beginning to end and deserved a much larger attendance. The Club has met with many difficulties during the time of preparation and a large number of changes in the cast of characters was necessary before the cantata was ready for the public. Notwithstanding the many changes the Club and the director, Prof. Onstad, have reason to fell proud of their production.

Miss Iza Tibbets, Miss Florence Dautremont, Prof. A. Onstad, L. P. Berthon and J. Drew Marshall took the principal characters and they all done themselves proud. The different solos, duetts, trios and quartetts by these people were all rendered in a pleasing manner.

The chorus was especially strong and sang with a vim that was entertaining.

Everything considered the cantata was a huge success and reflects great credit upon the choral union and its management.

HUNTING DOGS.

New Game Law Very Stringent in Regard to Their Use.

The new game law of Minnesota has a number of stringent provisions in it which it is believed will prevent the wholesale slaughter of chickens and other game. Hunters must not kill more than fifteen chickens a day, and must not at any time have over forty-five chickens in their possession. The duck limit per day is fixed at fifty, and fishermen must not catch more than twenty-five per day, unless bullheads or worthless varieties. Fishermen must not use more than one hook on a line. Hunting out of season is to be strictly looked after and dogs must not be trained or allowed to run at large in chicken fields before the season opens. The section relating to this follows:

No person shall hunt, pursue, catch, take or kill any of the animals in this chapter mentioned with any dog or dogs. Any dog used or attempted to be used in violation of the provision of this section is hereby declared to be and is a public nuisance, and it shall be lawful for any person to kill any dog or dogs so being used or attempted to be used. The use or running of either pointer or setter dogs in the field or upon lands frequented by or in which the game birds may be found during the month of August or at any time except during the open season for killing game birds, and keeping and maintaining any dog at or about any hunting or lumber camp used by hunters situated in any locality frequented by deer, moose or caribou, is hereby prohibited and made unlawful.

Lost Barn and Cows.

Plummer Pioneer: During the heavy electric storm last Saturday morning lightning struck the barn of John Hedlund, a farmer living about five miles northwest from here. The structure caught fire and was totally destroyed. Mr. Hedlund, after the lightning, went to the barn and succeeded in getting all of his horses removed to safety, but six cows were burned with the building.

The barn was one of the finest in this part of the country and the loss will be a severe one to Mr. Hedluud who carried only a small amount of insurance on the property.

The Dandelion Pest.

The dandelion pest, some authorities contend, is doing more harm in numerous localities than the Russian thistle. The Milwaukee Sentinel says that thousand of acres of good meadow land in that state would be worth fully twice as much for hay if it wasent for the dandelion.

The Sentinel Advocates legislation in this respect. It wants the dandelion declared a nuisance, and steps taken to rid us of this pest. No weed is so indefatigable, so insistant upon living and propagating. Leave a bit of its roots in the ground, it forthwith produces a plant. Dig it out when in blossom and its dying energies are spent in completing the transformation of the flower into a feathery seed, to be caught up by the gentlest breeze and carried to new fields.

The is good sound sense in the arguments of the Sentinel on this question. The dandelion is in reality a pest, and it would be wise to take steps to stamp it out. Each one can do something toward wiping it out, and no doubt in time there will be proper legislation along the lines suggested by the Sentinel.

A True Story.

"Shon my son," said a German father to his 10-year-old son the other day (whom he had heard swearing), Shon, mine son, come here, and I vill dell you a liddle stories Now, mine son, shall it be a drue stories or a make-b'leeves?"

"Oh, a true story," answered John.

"Verry well, den. There vas vonce a goot, nice shentleman, schoost like me, andt von day he heard his son shvearin.' So he dook a sthrap out of his pocket, shoost as I am toing now, and then he dook the liddle boy by de collar dis vay and volloped him shoost so, and then he bull his ears dis vay, and smack his face dat vay, and then dell him to go to bed at vonce, mitoud any supper, shoost like you vil do dis eavenings."

THE PROSPECTS ARE FINE

Wet June Means a Bumper Crop, Say Old-Time Experts of the Valley.

Grain men and crop experts of the Red River Valley are enthusiastic over the condition of the '05 crop of grain now in the fields. "A wet June means a bumper crop, always," said W. L. Beaton, superintendent of the Duluth Elevator company recently. "Crops in the valley are twenty-five per cent better this year than they were the same time a year ago" said Tom Roberts, superintendent of the lumber department of the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator company who returned to Crookston lately from a trip through the North Dakota and Minnesota valley. "Without any serious trouble there shoud be a bumper."

The feeling of delight at the present favorable crop outlook is not confined alone to crop experts and elevator men, but is shared by the actual farmers of the valley and scarcely one of the many well to do from near this city ever comes to town without a smile over the prospect for a heavy harvest and a successful return for his year's work.

Co-operative Insurance.

The township mutual fire insurance companies of Minnesota have made a record that is creditable to the intelligence of the farmers of the state, and have been a source of vast saving to their members besides. These companies insure farm property only, and it is done on the purely mutual plan, the element of private gain finds no place in them, For instance, the state insurance commissioner's report for 1903 shows that during that year the companies added over 14½ million dollars to their business or risks at a total expense of not over $400. The companies are now carrying insurance agregating over $176,000,000, and at a cost to be insured that is only one year in 22 reaches is high as 20 cents on the $100, and has been as low as 8 cents. The preliminary report of the present commissioneer, Hon. T. D. O'Brien, for 1904, shows that the fire losses that year cost the insured only 12 cents on the hundred dollars, on an average, and expense of doing the business was only five cents for each hundred dollars. The rate of the straight fire companies, organized for profit, charged an average rate of $1.38 on the hundred dollars.

Many other comparisons could be made that would show the enormous saving to the farmers of the state by applying the principle of pure co-operation to the business of insurance, and that would indicate clearly how farmers might be still further advantaged by largely extending the principle of pure co-operation.

Birds Cannot Smell.

It has always been known that if the sense of smell was present at all in birds, its development is but slight. Recent experiments tend to show that they cannot smell at all. This is exceedingly interesting, for it has always been supposed that persons who cannot smell, also lack, to a large degree, the sense of taste. The fact that the two senses are so closely allied explains another reason for the pleasure experienced in drinking golden grain belt beer. It looks good, smells good, tastes good and is good. Isn't it worth trying in your home? Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

NEW DRAINAGE MOVEMENT

Object is to Secure Larger Appropriations for Work in Northern Portion of the State.

The Minnesota Drainage League was formed at a meeting held at Bemidji Saturday and an executive committee consisting of H. G. Hays of Bemidji, A. G. Bernard of Cass Lake, Representative Cole of Walker, Senator Stephens of Crookston, And A. Tene of Northome, Representative Murray of Wadena and Representative Eckman of Roseau was appointed to draft a constitution by-laws and to extend invitations to the boards of commissioners of all counties in the state to send five delegates to a meeting of the league at Crookston on the first Tuesday in August, when permanent organization will be effected.

The object of the league will be to urge upon southern representatives and senators in the state legislature the need of drainage in the northern portion of the state; to protest against certain regulations regarding dams maintained on the upper Mississippi river, which are said to have resulted in the overflowing of lands above the points where the dams are located and the drying up of lands situated below, and to attempt to secure legislation appropriating larger sums of money for drainage work than have heretofore been voted by the legislature.

The state drainage board met at Bemidji this afternoon. About 300 representative men of Northern Minnesota were present, including senators and representatives from every district and delegations from business men's clubs in various towns and cities. The members of the board were met at the Great Northern depot by a committee of the Bemidji Business Men's club and escorted to their hotel. After dining they proceeded to the city hall, where Gov. Johnson called the meeting to order, outlining its purpose and calling for the opinions of those present.

Mr. Black of Roseau county spoke first and was followed by Representative Asherville Murray of Wadena, A. L. Gorcon of Shevlin, J. A. Quigg of Deer River, H. H. Remer of Grand Rapids, F. J. McPartin of International Falls, Representative Eckman of Roseau, Judge L. D. Pendergast of Bemidji, And. A. Tene of Northome, Representative Anderson of Clay county, Senator Stephens of Crookston, E. E. McDonald of Bemidji, Mr. Nelson of Marshall county, Senator Sundberg of Kitson county, A. M. Greeley of Ripple, Representative Cole of Walker, Representative Bennet of Foston, Representative Washburn of Minneapolis, Auditor Iverson, Secretary Hanson and Engineers Ralph and Abercrombie.

The speakers expressed themselves in favor of extensive drainage, and from the beginning the meeting was very enthusiastic. Many questions were asked of the board and many applications for new state ditches were filed.

Rev. Henry A. Harbuck

La Grippe, Indigestion, Liver Trouble, Catarrh, Etc., That Baffled the Most Skilled Physicians. Nutriola & Nature Wrought a Perfect Cure.

NUTRIOLA CO.
Gentlemen: You ask if the cure wrought by NUTRIOLA has been permanent. I am pleased to say that through God's blessing, I have enjoyed perfect health since your treatment. I suffered for years from Indigestion, Catarrh and an enlargement of the Liver. I had a severe attack of La Grippe, leaving me a constant sufferer with Insomnia, Headache and extremely nervous. NUTRIOLA made me perfectly well and I have remained so ever since.
Gratefully yours,
Rev. Henry A. Harbuck

For ages men have tried to cure disease and failed. Instead of helping Nature, they have helped Disease and Death with alcohol and medical poisons—the cemeteries fill fast.

Our Chemists commenced working 10 years ago to discover how to HELP Nature. At a cost of $50,000.00 in cash WE HAVE SUCCEEDED in learning how to make a Chemical-Medical Preparation that SUPPLIES NATURE WITH POWER to drive every MICROBE, every DISEASE GERM, out of the system. We call it because it is the very ESSENCE OF LIFE. It feeds, strengthens, and makes the body "NEW ALL OVER."

To prevent disease or regain health, Nature must perform four things perfectly, Digest, Assimilate, Eliminate, Construct. Only Perfectly Digested and Assimilated food supplies life. NUTRIOLA digests food naturally and perfectly. Perfect Assimilation follows perfect Digestion.

NUTRIOLA makes Red Corpuscles—rich in building material.

Nature's Only Germ Killers.

NUTRIOLA makes Leucocytes—White Corpuscles—strong and vigorous and they quickly destroy every "germ" and "microbe." They are the only germ destroyers Nature uses in the human body—that's a scientific fact.

NUTRIOLA makes the system absorb great draughts of Oxygen through the re-vitalized lungs and the millions of pores. Oxygen is the fuel of life.

The organs of Excretion eliminate the dead and diseased cells and tissues and Nature builds new cells in their place.

NUTRIOLA makes new blood and from the blood Nature makes new brain, nerve, lung, liver, heart, kidney, bone and muscle cells. It's the same natural law that makes plants grow when supplied with chemical nutrition, applied for the first time to the human body in treating disease. The vigor of youth, the power of maturity, the strength of perfect life, courses through your system and you KNOW that Nutriola & Nature has made you "new all over."

Whatever your disease may be

and we will cure you, or it won't cost you a cent.

Nature's Power Destroys Disease

NUTRIOLA costs you 8 cents a day. Our Staff of Skilled Physicians can make a correct diagnosis of your case, however far you may be away. They have a method and means of doing this that never fail. They tell you just what to do in even the worst cases. Their services are FREE.

$500,000.00 Capital Stock and 4,000 responsible stockholders back our guarantee. Ask our Bankers if we are reliable. Get NUTRIOLA from your druggist or send directly to us. 25 days' treatment $2.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Government Dam.

Minneapolis.—The government lock dam at Meeker island, known officially as Lock Dam No. 2, is completed. The dam proper was completed a few days ago, and the final test was made when all the gates were closed to see if any defects could be discovered. Everything was found to be in good working order.

Some miner work is yet to be completed. Part of the old coffer dam used used in the construction of the works will have to be removed. Some repairs will have to be made to the lower end of the lock where part of the floor timbers were torn out by the water. A quantity of loose rock will have to be placed on the up-river side of the dam to protect it from the action of the water.

Lock and Dam No. 2 will be of no benefit to navigation between St. Paul and Minneapolis until Lock and Dam No 1 at Minnehaha is completed, which will require two more years of work.

Horses at the Fair.

Hamline—One of the departments of the state fair this fall which will be better than ever will be the exhibit of horses and mules. The horses will be in charge of G. W. Patterson of Worthington, who comes on the board this year as the representative of Southwestern Minnesota, and incidentally as an enthusiastic breeder of fine horses.

Liberal premiums were awarded in every department. The premiums in class 1 for trotting strains, standard bred and registered from $5 to $30.

Similar premiums are offered for coach horses grouped as American and French coach and hackneys, and for various classes of draft horses.

Butter Contest.

New Sweden.—John Grandy of this place won first prize in the May butter scoring contest, the results of which were announced recently by E. K. Slater, dairy and food commissioner. Mr. Grandy's butter scored 98 and was awarded a $5 gold piece.

Alfred Anderson of Litchfield captured the second prize, $3, with a score of 97½. H. J. Rosenau of Meriden, won second prize in the April contest, took third prize, $2.

There were 190 entries as compared with 193 in the April contest. The average was 93 as compared with 94 in the April contest.

Must Not Drill.

St. Paul.—Gov. John A. Johnson may make an official investigation of the movement, in so far as it relates to Minnesota, among Chinamen, who, it is said, are being drilled and armed for service in the Chinese army under the direction of Kang Yu Wei, former Chinese minister of war.

Complaints that Chinamen are being drilled in violation of law were filed with the governor by a resident of St. Paul, whose name is withheld. The complainant says that Chinamen are being drilled in the large cities in the United States by the former minister, and the natural inference from the complaint is that the movement is backed by the Chinese emperor.

Drain the Lakes.

St. Cloud.—If a proposition now on foot is carried through to completion, two of Stearns county's popular lakes and summer resorts, Lakes Anna and Keppers, near Avon, will be growing hay a year hence. A petition was presented to the board of county commissioners by B. E. Davis and others asking for the construction of a deep water ditch to carry the water from these two lakes, which cover nearly a thousand acres, four miles distant to Watab river. It is the intention of the land owners to make meadow land of the lake bottoms. A hearing will be held on the petition in a few days.

Many Calls.

Minneapolis—The superintendent of the state free employment bureau, which has recently been established, is wondering why domestic service is so unpopular with the young women of Minnesota.

The bureau is flooded with applications from house holders for domestic servants. Nearly 50 per cent of the total applications have been for this class of help, and so far few if any girls have appeared to accept the positions.

Winona—The ministers and former members of Central Methodist church here attending the golden jubilee were guests of Matthew G. Norton on an excursion on the Mississippi river on the steamer Frontenac.

Mankato—Since the recent burglaries have come to light, General J. H. Baker has reported one. His home was entered in the daytime and a watch and chain and a heavy band ring belonging to his wife were stolen from the latter's bedroom.

Minneapolis.—The weekly report of the Northern Pacific shows that the crops are in excellent shape.

Beef Tea.

This story was told by an old physician who had practiced for nearly fifty years in a small country town. One day he was summoned to a farmhouse, where he found a woman in a high fever and evidently exceedingly ill. He said to her husband, who was the only other person in the house:

"Your wife is very sick and must have nothing to eat except milk and beef tea, but I want you to give her a cup of one or the other every two hours." When he came the next morning and asked about his patient her husband said:

"That beef tea don't agree with her, doctor; it certainly don't. She began to feel bad as soon as she took it."

"That's odd," said the doctor. "You didn't give her any little bits of the meat in it, did you?"

"No, sir; I strained it first on account of the grounds."

"Grounds!" roared the doctor. "What did you make that beef tea out of?"

"Corn beef and the best green tea. I boiled 'em together all yesterday afternoon to get the strength out. But it don't agree with her, doctor; it certainly don't."

Your Watch Is a Compass.

"Most men who own a good watch," said a jeweler, "think they know all about it. They have the number fixed in their memory in case it is stolen. They could probably pick it out from fifty other watches with their eyes shut. But how many men know that their watch is a compass and will tell north from south as accurately as it will tell the time of day? Stanley, the explorer, did not know it until he had groped his way through the dark continent and met a Belgian sailor on the coast. Every watch is a compass. If you point the hour hand to the sun, the south is exactly halfway between the hour and the figure XII on the dial. Suppose, for instance, it is 4 o'clock. Point the hand indicating 4 to the sun and II on the watch is exactly south. If it is 8 o'clock, point the hand indicating 8 to the sun and the figure X on the dial is due south. No man need get lost if he carries a watch."

Only Art.

The studio "tea" had been a great success. The one small and very youthful member of the company had walked softly about, looking at the pictures. Just before the party broke up the artist discovered him surveying a picture of a lion with awe and interest.

"Don't be afraid, little chap," said the artist genially, patting his small guest on the head. "He won't hurt you."

"Oh, I'm not afraid at all," came the response in a clear treble that caused every one to listen. "He doesn't look a bit as if he were alive, you know."

GOLL ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

MILWAUKEE BANK CASHIER IS GIVEN LIBERTY UNDER $20,000 BONDS.

CASE WILL PROBABLY BE TRIED IN OCTOBER

Defaulter Bigelow on Verge of General Physical Breakdown, Declares Physician—Banker Reaches Prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Milwaukee, June 13.—Henry F. Goll, former assistant cashier of the First national bank, Monday pleaded not guilty to an indictment containing 13 counts. United States District Judge Quarles fixed bail at $20,000.

Goll's attorney waived the reading of the indictment and entered a plea of not guilty. The United States district attorney informed the court that the indictment charged Goll with personally misapplying funds of the First National bank on three different occasions, the amounts in each instance being large.

Aside from the three counts charging Goll with personally using funds of the bank, ten counts charge him with making false entries in aiding and abetting Frank G. Bigelow in his defalcation. The counts contained in the Bigelow indictments are practically repeated in Goll's case with the exception that Goll in each instance is accused with aiding and abetting the former bank president by making false entries.

Goll's attorney pleaded for a continuation of the old bail, which was $10,000. Judge Quarles said the crime charged against the former assistant cashier was a most serious one and he believed the court could be justly criticised in allowing the bond to stand at $10,000. He therefore increased the amount to $20,000. The amount of bail was furnished and Goll was liberated. The case will probably not come up for trial until the October term.

Bigelow Near Breakdown.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., June 13.—Frank G. Bigelow, the former Milwaukee banker, who was brought here Sunday night to begin his ten years' sentence in the federal prison, is in the hospital. His nervous condition is such that Dr. Thomas, under whose care he is, fears a general physical breakdown. After Bigelow had been photographed early Monday, his condition was found to be such that it was decided not to put him through the other preliminaries until later. Bigelow utters no word of complaint. After a fairly good rest he ate sparingly of the meager breakfast furnished all prisoners. Later he was dressed in, his hair being cut and a prison suit given him. He was then photographed and measured by the Bertillon system.

Reaches Prison.

Bigelow reached here at 7:40 Sunday night. John Speciale, a counterfeiter under a five-year sentence, was brought along as a fellow prisoner with Bigelow, and they were in charge of Andrew Johnson and Charles Kelley, deputy marshals.

Bigelow bore up fairly well during the trip, except at Moline, Ill., where he broke down and wept. Bigelow gave his name as Frank G. Bigelow, age 58. He was searched, and some plain jewelry and a small sum of money taken from him. He was told to keep his citizen's clothing until morning. He asked no questions, and was assigned to a regular isolated cell, with Speciale, to spend the night.

There are five national bank prisoners in the penitentiary, and four of these are clerks and one answers the telephone in the chief clerk's office. Bigelow's prison number is 4717. If his health is not good, Bigelow may after a few weeks be assigned to Capt. Carter's old position of prison hospital clerk. At first he will be thrown in contact with negroes, Indians and all kinds of prisoners. Bigelow, by good behavior, will win freedom in six years and four months.

Battle with Rustlers.

Blackfoot, Idaho, June 13.—A bloody battle has taken place near the edge of Jackson's Hole, Wyo. A number of cattle rustlers rounded up about 90 head of fine steers and started toward the most favorable railroad point, the intention being to gather more cattle en route. The ranchers to whom the cattle belonged organized a posse and pursued the outlaws, and there was a running fight for 60 miles. Six persons were killed, four outlaws and two ranchers. Several horses were killed during the fight, five being shot down in one spot. The ranchers, it is reported, succeeded in recovering the cattle which the outlaws were attempting to drive away.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Palmetto, La., June 13.—Quite a sensational shooting occurred near here Sunday in which three men were killed and one mortally wounded. The cause of the trouble is supposed to have been long-standing ill feeling between the parties concerned and Constable Soileau.

Slept on the Track.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., June 13.—Alex Alexander and Arthur Bingham, both of Chicago, went to sleep on the tracks near Marion and were run down by a Milwaukee work train early Monday morning. Alexander was instantly killed and Bingham died a few hours later at St. Luke's hospital.

CZAR SENDS REPLY TO THE PRESIDENT

ANSWER TO ROOSEVELT'S NOTE IS TRANSMITTED THROUGH AMBASSADOR MEYER.

COUNT CASSINI CALLS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

No Hitch in Peace Negotiations—Witte May Be Russian Envoy—Delicacy of Situation Forced Executive to Alter Plans.

St. Petersburg, June 13.—Russia's official reply is now on its way to Washington. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff transmitted it to Ambassador Meyer, and later the ambassador had an interview with the foreign minister at the foreign office.

The warring countries both having formally agreed to try to conclude peace, the next step, it is explained here, will be the first direct exchange in which Japan is expected to take the initiative by indicating, doubtless through an intermediary at Washington, her views as to the time and place of the meeting. Russia will offer no objections to any reasonable suggestion in this respect, being prepared to at once issue instructions to her preliminary plenipotentiary, whose personality for the moment depends upon the place Japan names.

Given Russian Consent.

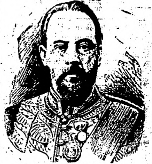
Washington, June 13.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, had a half hour's conference with the president Monday. At its conclusion Count Cassini returned at once to his embassy, dclining to discuss in any way the object of his visit. That the conference related to the reply of the Russian government to the proposition made by President Roosevelt last Friday is known; but whether Count Cassini presented to the president formally the response of Russia could not be ascertained. It can be said, however, that the reply of the Russian government already had been received by the president before his interview with Count Cassini. Later it became known officially that Ambassador Cassini called to express the Russian government's consent to the president's proposition and to state that Russia would appoint plenipotentiaries to meet the plenipotentiaries of Japan to discuss the question of peace. The place of meeting at present is being discussed.

No Hitch in Negotiations.

Assurance is given here by the highest officials that there is no hitch in the peace negotiations and that reports to that effect are entirely without foundation. A long cablegram was received from Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, late Saturday night which was not deciphered at that time. It was generally supposed to have been the Russian reply. The contents of this cablegram have not yet been made public, but it is believed that Mr. Myer in his dispatch indicated the responsive form which he expected Russia's answer would take when formally communicated.

Witte May Be Envoy.

St. Petersburg, June 13.—M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, is leaving St. Petersburg for abroad in two weeks. This very significant announcement is coupled with the statement that he is going "on public business." His visit was instantly associated with the peace negotiations, and it is possible that Emperor Nicholas has decided if a reasonable basis for negotiations is offered by Japan to make use of the services of the ablest and strongest personality in the empire.



M. WITTE.

All the attempts to create an impression that there is the slightest hitch in the preliminary negotiations are absolutely without the shadow of foundation. Foreign Minister Lamsdorff has formally notified several of the continental powers that a meeting of plenipotentiaries to see whether it is possible to agree to terms of peace is assured. Now that Russia has received formal notification that Japan has sent an official and favorable reply to President Roosevelt, the Russian official reply will be forwarded and it is stated positively that the reply will fully respond to the president's message. There does not seem to be the slightest warrant for the gratuitous idea that some correspondents are putting out that Russia is only desirous of ascertaining the Japanese conditions and at the same time gain a better position for her army in Manchuria.

Await Japan's Move.

St Petersburg, June 13.—Russia is waiting for Japan to fix the time and place when and where the Japanese terms will be placed in the hands of Russia's representative. The foreign office expects that the delay will be brief. The Russian representative will not be a plenipotentiary with full power to negotiate. His duty will practically be confined to the reception and transmission to his government of the Japanese terms for decision as to whether they afford a basis for actual peace negotiations. He will be clothed with power to effect an agreement for the suspension of hostilities, which suspense will probably be for a very limited period, during which Russia must decide the momentous question of peace or a prolongation of the war. During this temporary armistice both countries probably will be free to continue the movement of troops and munitions of war within prescribed limits, although nothing definite on this point will be known until the meeting takes place. If Russia finds that the terms for a basis on which negotiations can proceed, regular plenipotentiaries will be appointed, the number being decided by the belligerents themselves and then it is not impossible that the negotiations might be transferred to Manchuria, as President Roosevelt is believed to have suggested.

President Changes Plans.

Washington, June 13.—The delicacy of the situation in relation to affairs in the far east has made necessary a change in the president's plans for going to Oyster Bay. It is his desire to conclude in Washington the preliminary plans for a meeting of representatives of Russia and Japan, because he is in closer touch with the situation here than he could be at Oyster Bay. Originally it was his intention to leave Washington on the night of the 20th instant, and after attending the commencement exercises of Clark university at Worcester, Mass., and of Williams college at Williamstown, to go directly to Oyster Bay. Instead of going to Oyster Bay from Williamstown, the president will return to Washington, remaining here for nearly a week before going to Massachusetts again to attend the Harvard commencement on the 27th and 28th instant. He expects now to leave Boston late on the night of the 28th and arrive at Oyster Bay on the morning of the 29th instant.

Japan's Terms.

Paris, June 13.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of Eclair says the following are the terms Japan will offer and those which Russia is resigned to accept:

Japan demands an indemnity of $650,000,000. The essential restitution of the whole of Manchuria to China under a Japanese administrative protectorate. A protectorate over Korea, with a Japanese viceroy and military occupation of ports to be completely under Japanese administration. Cession of Port Arthur. Cession of the entire Transmanchurian railway. Opening of the Transsiberian railway to international commerce. Demolition of the fortifications at Vladivostok. Cession of Sakhalin. Handing over to Japan of all Russian warships interned in neutral ports since the war began. Formal pledge that Russia will not maintain a fleet in the far east for the next twenty-five years. Occupation of Vladivostok and the maritime provinces of the Amur river as a guarantee until the last installment of the indemnity shall be paid.

A RECORD-BREAKING RUN.

Pennsylvania Flyer Makes Trip Between New York and Chicago in 17 Hours, 57 Minutes.

Chicago, June 13.—On its intial run from New York, the Pennsylvania railroad's 18-hour "Flyer," the fastest long-distance train in the world, arrived in this city at 8:52 o'clock Monday morning, three minutes ahead of schedule time. In order to accomplish this feat, extraordinary achievements in the way of fast running were necessary. After leaving Pittsburg, the tender of the big Atlantic type engine, which had been attached at that city for the run to Crestline, O., developed a hot box about 20 miles east of Mansfield, O. The engineer stopped his train and 15 minutes were lost in futile efforts to cool the troublesome axle. Finally a freight engine was attached and the train limped into Crestline. Here the regular engine was in waiting, and when the "Flyer" left the latter place it was 26 minutes late. The run to Fort Wayne, 131 miles away, was made in 114½ minutes, an average of 68 6-10 miles an hour. When the train pulled out of Fort Wayne for the last lap of the long journey, it was only nine and one-half minutes late, 16½ minutes of the lost time having been made up. Miles were frequently reeled off in from 44 to 50 seconds, and an average speed of a mile a minute was easily maintained over long stretches of track.

Already the Pennsylvania railroad officials are discussing the possibility of reducing the running time between Chicago and New York to 16 hours, and it is not improbable that such a schedule may be attempted in the near future.

Two Miners Killed by Snowslide.

Silverton, Col., June 13.—Wesley Hannon and John Smith, two well-known miners, have been found dead at the mouth of the tunnel of the Cashier mine a mile above Eureka. It is believed the men were caught in a snowslide which occurred two weeks ago. oBth men were advanced in age and single.

Will Visit New Orleans.

New Orleans, June 13.—A letter from Secretary Loeb to the Progressive Union fixes October 24 and 25 as the days upon which President Roosevelt will visit New Orleans. Arrangements are already under way to make the president's reception a brilliant affair.

IT seems that Thief River has got something that will hold it for a few years.

THE war can't continue much longer in any event. There is little left for the Japs to fight.

GOVERNOR HERRICK's place in history is secure. He has been mentioned as head of the Equitable.

SENATOR HORTON has announced his intention of going after the congressional nomination in the St. Paul district. The Horton bill will not be used as a campaign document.

THE Equitable muddle is said to be cleaned up by the introduction of a discredited secretary of the navy as president and general manager. Old-line life insurance companies are not just now in high favor.

REPORT has it that half a dozen members of the graduating class of the St. Cloud high school indulged in a disgraceful drunk the night after the commencement exercises, says the Duluth News-Tribune. If any of the six have a spark of manhood in them that "commencement" will be a sad memory to them all through life.

THE editor of the Fairmont Sentinel expresses himself as follows: "Most of the rural telephone lines connecting with the Fairmont exchange charge a fine of $1 for using profane or abusive language over their lines. Just as soon as we can afford it we are going to call up the three year delinquent who sent his paper back marked 'refused' last week and tell him exactly what we think of him."

THE Kansas City Journal says that while 50 per cent of our population are farmers only two per cent of the crimes are committed by them. Another good reason why boys should not be too anxious to leave the farm, but if the cities continue to increase the rate of recklessness and dissipation there will have to be a heavy exodus from the farm to keep pace with the vacancies in the shop, the store and the factory caused by the degeneration of the twentieth century.

SPEAKER CANNON is a great lover of green corn. He boards at the Arlington and one day took one of his Illinois farmer constituents to dinner with him. Cannon made his dinner on green corn, eating seven ears. The farmer asked him how much he paid for board at the Arlington, and Cannon replied "Six dollars a day." "Well," said the farmer constituent, "Joe don't you think it would be cheaper for you to board at a livery stable."

THE superintendent of the state free employment bureau, which has recently been established, is wondering why domestic service is so unpopular with the young women of Minnesota, says the Fairmont Sentinel. The bureau is flooded with applications from householders for domestic servants. Nearly fifty per cent of the total applications have been for this class of help, and so far few if any girls have appeared to accept the positions. The officials of the bureau say that the wages offered domestic servants are better than the wages received by many clerks, stenographers and office girls.

THERE is something peculiar about the following proclamation, issued by John L. Townley, mayor of Fergus Falls: "During the past few days some of the children have brought me robins, song sparrows and other birds that have been killed by malicious boys with air guns and slings. This practice is now going to stop and stop very suddenly, and I hereby give warning that the next boy who is found shooting at birds within the city limits will not be fined, but will be given a term in the county jail. The birds and squirrels in Fergus Falls have been slaughtered for years by malicious boys and the practice has gone on entirely too long. This is a fair warning, and parents will do well to see that their boys put away their guns and sling shots.

THE editors of southwestern Minnesota were delightfully entertained by the enterprising citizens of Jackson last Friday on the occasion of their annual meeting. The banquet in the evening was a most elaborate spread and would have been creditable to the best caterers of St. Paul or Minneapolis. And the toasts were not lacking in oratory or originality. One of them, and in many respects the best, was responded to by a woman, Miss Aurele Huntington of the Windom Reporter. The meeting was most successful from both a business and social standpoint, and the editors present will hope for another occasion to visit Jackson. The writer acknowledges special obligation to Hon. T. J. Knox for his generous hospitality.

Save Big Money

Minnesota farmers will save approximately $300,000 annually in the purchase of binding twine when the new machinery recently installed in in the twine plant at the state prison is run to its full capacity, which will probably be next year, says the Pioneer Press.

The saving this year will approximate $275,000. The state board of control plans to manufacture approximately 11.000,000 pounds, and the prices fixed by the state are about 2½ cents lower than the prices to consumers fixed by dealers in binding twine.

At the close of the present year the amount which Minnesota farmers will have saved through the state twine plant will be nearly $1.5000000, and the profit to the state will be considerably in excess of $500,000. Since the plant was establisded in 1891 more than 60,000,000 pounds of twine have been manufactured.

The state has recently installed new machinery, which will materially increase the output of the plant. The board of control expects to manufacture from 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 next year. The new machinery is in operation, but the plant will not be run to its full capacity this year.

One reason why the state is able to save Minnesota farmers so large an amount this year is because the board of control purchased the raw material early, before the prices went up. In addition to this, the state being a large purchaser can get the the best bargains, and being a large manufacturer, can reduce expenses to the minimum.

Does It Really Pay?

Many local merchants go upon the assumption that there is no money in the country during the summer months and consequently do not advertise. They are satisfled to receive the little that comes their way having to make good after the crops are harvested. The catalogue houses, however, are never caught napping. While the retail merchant is resting on his oars the city dealers are busier than ever, flooding the country with their advertising matter and preparing in advance for fall orders. And they secure in these summer months considerable that should have gone to the home merchant, and would have gone there had the latter been as diligent as the catalogue dealer. Does it pay the mail order houses? One Chicago concern last year did a business of thirty million dollars and it did it on advertising alone. If the home merchant would follow the same course he would have a good part, if not the whole, of his trade. When freight and express charges have been added to the cost of an article purchased at a distance the local merchant can ninety-nine times out of a hundred undersell the outsider on the same quality of goods. He also has the advantage of being on the ground and knowing the wants of the people; of having a personal acquaintance with them; and further he has access to the advertising space of the home papers which is denied these large houses. These great concerns reach the local customers through advertising and the merchant must employ the same tactics if he proposes to hold the trade. The buyer also owes a duty to the local merchant. He should remember that the prosperity of any community depends upon the success of the home concerns; that it is better to keep a dollar in circulation at home than to send it away to help build up great corporations that the interests of the buyers and home dealers are closely allied and the home merchant has a greater interest in supplying him with reliable goods than the mail order house, whose chief interest in life is to grow at the expense of thousands of smaller concerns. In building up a community and your home town nothing counts like a little reciprocity in business.—Alexandria Post-News.

SSS THE BEST TONIC

When the system gets debilitated and in a run-down condition it needs a tonic and there has never been one discovered that is the equal of S. S. S. It is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, because it contains no strong minerals to derange the stomach and digestion, and affect the liver and bowels. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their purifying and healing qualities, and possesses just the properties that are needed to restore to the body strong robust health. When the blood becomes impure and clogged with waste matters and poisons the body does not receive sufficient nourishment and suffers from debility, weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion and many other disagreeable symptoms of a disordered blood circulation, and if it is not corrected some form of malignant fever or other dangerous disorder will follow. S. S. S. builds up the broken down constitution, clears the blood of all poisons and impurities and makes it strong and healthy. The nerves are restored to a calm restful state, refreshing sleep is had again, the appetite returns and the whole system is toned up by this great remedy. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic and acts promptly in this run-down depleted condition of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice furnished by our physicians, without charge.

I have used your S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent tonic to build up the general health and give tone and strength to the system. I have used other things highly recommended, but S. S. S. did me more good than everything else combined. As to its tonic properties it gives a splendid appetite, refreshing sleep, and the system undergoes a general building up under its invigorating influence.

COMMISSIONERS' PROCEEDINGS.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., June 5, 1905.

Pursuant to the call of the County Auditor dated May 16, 1905, the Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake County, Minnesota met in special session at the Court House in the City of Red Lake Falls at 1 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of considering a petition for the removal of the county seat to the City of Thief River Falls in said county.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Johnson.

Present, Commissioners Johnson, Sutor, Demann, Shaw and Falardeau.

The Board proceeded to examine and consider the petition for the removal of the County Seat.

At 6 p. m., on motion duly carried a recess was taken until June 6.

June 6, 1905, the Board reconvened at 9 o'clock a. m. with all members present.

The examination of the petition for the removal of the County Seat was continued.

After hearing the arguments of F. A. Grady, Chas. E. Boughton and Ira C. Richardson and the testimony of witnesses introduced in the matter, the following resolution was offered by Commissioner Demann who moved its adoption which was duly seconded by Commissioner Falardeau:

Whereas, F. A. Grady and Chas. E. Boughton, two legal voters of the County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, have duly appeared before this Board and objected to the consideration by this Board for a change of the County Seat of said County to the City of Thief River Falls which petition is now on file in the office of the County Auditor of said County, or to any action thereon by this Board on the ground that this Board has no jurisdiction to consider and act on the same; and the Board having duly heard the evidence of A. P. Toupin, John A. Duffy and Theo. Garceau, witnesses produced and sworn in behalf of said objectors, and other evidence together with the files and records in the office of the County Auditor relating to said petition and the proceedings thereon, and having duly considered the same;

Now, Therefore Be It Resolved, that we do find as facts and do hereby certify, that no notice of the intention to circulate the thirty-two petitions for said chanfie of county seat, which were presented for filing to said county Auditor was ever made, given, posted or published in said County prior to the circulation of said petitions;

That said thirty-two petitions were circulated by sixty-four persons, only eight of whom ever signed or made, or gave any notice whatever of intention to circulate any such petition, and that the only notice given by said eight persons was notice of intention to circulate only one petition and that such notice was not posted at three of the most public places at the county seat of said Red Lake County prior to the circulation of said petition or any of them;

That the time set by the County Auditor for this special meeting of this Board to consider said petitions was more than twenty days after said petitions and affidavits thereon were presented to him for filing.

That this Board has no jurisdiction to act upon, consider, or detertime said petitions, and hereby rejects the same and the whole therof.

On the call of Ayes and Noes on the foregoing resolution the vote stood as follows;

Aye, Commissioners Sutor, Demann and Falardeau.

No, Commissioners Johnson and Shaw.

The Chairman declared the resolution adopted and the said petition rejected,

On motion carried unanimously the Board adjourned sine die.

Chairman Board County Commissioners.

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buessing 701 West Third St., Davenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could not more than give me temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and if I had taken it at the start I would have been saved years of suffering." RIVER IS EIGHT MILES IN WIDTH

MISSISSIPPI FLOODS LOWLANDS BETWEEN HANNIBAL, MO., AND KEOKUK, IA.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIVE STOCK IS REPORTED

One Man Drowned and Several Others Are Missing—Property Loss Estimated at Several Millions—Des Moines Reaches High-Water Mark.

Hannibal, Mo., June 13.—The flooded Mississippi river has spread over all the unprotected lowlands and is from five to eight miles wide between here and Keokuk, Ia. Near Alexandria, Mo., a farmer named Riley Smallwood was drowned, and seven other persons are reported missing. Great numbers of bodies of all kinds of live stock are floating past Hannibal and from Alexandria, Canton, Memphis, West Quincy and Keokuk reports have been received of the general loss of live stock. The flood came so suddenly that the farmers in the lowlands had no time to do more than save their families, and live stock was left to perish.

Work of Rescue.

An army of men is at work in the lower portion of Hannibal, endeavoring to save property. The railroad yards and factory district are inundated. All available boats are making trips up and down the river rescuing persons who escaped to points above the water line. Many of the small levees have broken, but the Sny levee, which extends along the east side of the river for 75 miles, still holds, although gangs of men have been constantly employed repairing fissures. The property loss already suffered, it is estimated, will run into several millions.

Damage Enormous.

Keokuk, Ia., June 13.—Damage estimated at $3,000,000 is the result of an unprecedented rise of eight feet in the Mississippi river in less than 12 hours. Hundreds of families were driven from their homes, and bridges were swept away, railroad tracks were washed out, trains tied up, and thousands of acres of crops were destroyed.

After reaching the 18-foot mark the Mississippi river here is now falling. The Des Moines river is also falling, after reaching the highest mark ever known here, breaking the levees in three places and flooding the town of Alexandria, Mo. Other levees on the Missouri and Illinois shores are now out of danger. The river is ten miles wide, extending from Warsaw, Ill., to the bluffs of Missouri. Hundreds of acres of growing crops are inundated.

Probable Victim of Tramps.

Waterloo, Ia., June 13.—W. J. Schrock, a prominent farmer living near Waterloo, returning home Sunday found the charred body of his wife in the ruins of the coal shed. The trunk had been wholly consumed by the fire, only the head and portions of the lower limbs remaining. A coroner's jury was unable to solve the mystery, but the theory is generally entertained that the woman was the victim of tramps, who took this means to conceal their action.

Water Main Bursts.

New York, June 13.—A break in the 48-inch high pressure water main in Park avenue, near Forty-second street, Sunday, resulted in the flooding of the block just below the Grand Central station, the street car tunnel and the subway, the stoppage of traffic in the subway for many hours, serious damage to the underground road and great danger to many passengers. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

Marquette, Mich., June 13.—John Crushia, born at Ottawa in 1779, is dead.

LABOR LEADERS IN SCANDAL

GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

Alleged Orgies of Chiefs in Which Thousands of Dollars Were Spent.

Chicago, June 13.—Members of the June grand jury, which convened Monday, were prepared by State's Attorney Healy and Assistant State's Attorney Fake to listen to a sensational expose concerning the actions of several labor leaders involved in the teamsters' strike. They are alleged to have made a well-known house in "the Red Light district" a rendezvous where orgies are alleged to have been held semi-weekly since last January. It is reported that the investigators working under the direction of Mr. Fake and Inspector Lavin have gathered evidence of blackmailing plots against business houses, evidence of efforts to curb competition and of alleged damaging admissions made by the labor leaders to their women friends.

The names of the men said to be involved are: John C. Driscoll, former secretary Team Owners' association; Cornelius P. Shea, president Teamsters' union; Hugh McGee, Truck Drivers' union; James B. Barry, Railway Express Drivers' union; Albert Young, Coal Teamsters' union; Thomas Hughes, Lime and Cement Drivers' union; Edward Mullen, Shaving and Box Drivers' union; Peter Rietz, Parcel Delivery union.

Information disclosing the locality of the alleged rendezvous, the names of the women and the men who made it their secret headquarters where wine and money "flowed like water," was given to Mr. Fake Saturday night.

It is said that several of the women will testify that thousands of dollars were spent in the resorts by Shea, Driscoll, Albert Young and Hugh McGee, who are said to have been the "hosts" on these occasions.

DRAW WAS OPEN.

Automobile Plunges Into Chicago River—Three Persons Drowned—Two Rescued.

Chicago, June 13.—Three automobilists were drowned and two missed death by the narrowest margin at the Rush street bridge Saturday night when a large touring car swerved on the brink of the open draw and then plunged into the river. The accident was a tragic sequel for a South Side wedding. After a day spent in post-nuptial merrymaking, with a luncheon at the Auditorium Annex and a dinner at the Bismarck Garden, William H. Hoops Jr. was driving four of his companions home, when he failed to see the danger signal ahead. He passed several slowly moving vehicles on the embankment, and then was made aware of his peril by cries of warning from spectators on the docks, on steamer decks and on the bridge. With death a foot ahead the driver tried to turn his machine, but too late.

Those drowned are W. A. Hartley, Jerome G. Kurtzman and his wife. Those rescued were W. H. Hoops and Mrs. Jeremiah Runyon, of New York. The two persons who were rescued owe their lives to prompt action on the part of dredge hands and sailors.

Glass Factory Burned.

Kokomo, Ind., June 13.—The Jenkins glass factory, which is the local plant of the National Flint Glass company, was destroyed by fire early Monday, with a loss of $125,000. The plant will be rebuilt at once. It was believed one or more lives had been lost, but the missing have been accounted for. No one was hurt.

Big Sum for Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., June 13.—The heirs of Mrs. Mary J. Winthrop's estate have finally come to an agreement by which Princeton theological seminary will receive $1,750,000. This more than doubles the present endowment of $1,525,387, exclusive of buildings and real estate to the amount of $528,150.
